Freddie Smith Dance Studio Holds Recital

An appreciative audience last night sat through the first dance recital of the Freddie Smith Dancing School, in the Collegiate auditorium Thursday night.

Presented by young Freddie Smith, who at 14 is one of the youngest dance instructors in the province, the show featured over 40 different entertainment turns by the school's pupils and guest artists.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation of a modern ballet, "Viola," devised and performed by Miss Smith. Her three-year-old sister also won a big hand for her song-and-dance routine, "The Old Grey Mare."

Master of ceremonies for the evening was Earl Vandervoort, who with pianist Annabel Hardwick, drummer Alvin Smith and Douglas Hyde on maracas, linked the acts together.

Other well received turns were the appearance of guest artists Ron Archer and Gerry Doyle, in harmony duets and Fred Stone, violinist.

The show also presented the school's pupils in both solo and team performances.

The program was as follows:

"Can Can" — Frances Edgar, Sharon Archer, Joanne Twining, Marilyn Watson and Kathleen Brook. Singing: Gerry Doyle, Ron Archer, solo and duet. Anne Mowers.

"Pretty Baby" — Little 3-year-old Valerie Smith.

"Sweet Sue" — Sandra Clark.

Two Motorcyclists Severely Hurt In Collision

TRENTON (Special) — The worst series of week-end accidents in Trenton in the years sent a number of people to hospitals and caused thousands of dollars property damage. Members of the Brighton Provincial police detachment found most of their time taken up with investigating and making out reports from Saturday to Monday morning.

Cyclist Herbert Webster Hart, 18, of R.R. 2, Carrying Place, and Marie Hyatt, 16, of 70 Water St., Trenton, riding on the pillion seat, landed in the hospital Saturday night when their machine became involved in a collision with a car driven by Orloff Little in front of the Andrew Little farm on Highway No. 2, two miles west of here. Both suffered painful injuries. The young man received a fractured pelvis, multiple lacerations and shock; the girl, lacerations of the right leg, right forearm and shock. The hospital reported today that both showed improvement.

Police had not completed a report on an accident Cpl. L. G. Lyle described as a bad smash-up north of Colborne, which sent eight people to hospitals in Cobourg, Port Hope and Toronto on Saturday night.

Police reported extensive damage resulted from an accident involving a transport from Toronto and a car driven by Hilton Pasmanick, of Belleville, on the highway west of here Saturday night.

Occupants Escape When Passenger Train Hits Car

TRENTON (Special) — The Brighton Provincial Police officer, who investigated, wonders how two-young men from Trenton and Cobourg walked away unhurt from a car that was wrecked by a train here yesterday. Police reported that the 1937 model car was now a complete write-off, while the occupants, George Mayhee, 18, of Cosscon, the driver, and Richard Wentzell, 16, of Front Street, Trenton, his passenger, suffered no injuries, none one of them bruises.

The locomotive hauling passenger train, No. 109, at the Prince Edward Street crossing, caught the car and hurled it off to the side of the rightaway. The first people, who ran to the heap of wreckage, were amazed to find the two occupants still sitting in the front seat, unscathed, none the worse for their experience.

Two Brighton Residents Hurt

TRENTON (Special) — Two young people from Brighton suffered injuries and needed hospital treatment here yesterday when a car in which they were riding went out of control on North Front Street and cut off both a hydro pole and a hydrant.

Patricia Flindall, 19, received a cut lip, abrasions to the right hand and both knees and shock, while Frank Beatty, 21, suffered from lacerations to the head. The driver, David Hunter, 22, of R.R. 5, Cobourg, escaped without injury.

The car which police reported failed to make the turn at O'Malley's service station, left the road, shearing off the pole first and then continued further and knocked off the hydrant.

Police estimated the damage to the car at $500 and that it would cost $150 to replace the pole and hydrant.

The Twentieth Century...

Some fifty years ago a famous Canadian remarked that "the twentieth century belongs to Canada". He was probably a few years early with his prediction, but he was also possibly more prophetic than he realized.

The vigorous growth that has taken place in this country since the turn of the century is not past particularly in the past decade it confirms the wisdom of this prophecy. The solid nature of this growth forms a foundation for further development which is sure to come in the years ahead.

Those who have backed their faith in the future of Canada by the intelligent investing of their savings in sound Canadian companies have been well rewarded over the years. Canada is still a growing country, and as we proceed into the second half of the century, investors at home and abroad are regarding our prospects with increased optimism. While opportunities of sharing in this growth are limited only by the resources and desires of the individual, participation should be selective, and governed by discretion and the counsel of experienced investment advisers.

Whether you are a seeker of capital or an investor, we believe the investment experience we have gained in over sixty years can be of value to you, so that you too, can share in the growth opportunities of our expanding economy.

TWO-JOB WORKERS

The St. John's, Nfld., Telegram and the Peterborough Examiner, gazing into the future, foresee the day when many Canadians will hold two jobs.

"If industry can, with mechanical progress, reach the stage of operating four days a week, using half the workers they have at present, and produce at capacity with mechanical operation going only four days a week, we could expect about one-third of the labor force to hold down two jobs," says the Telegram.

The Examiner says that the consequences of the five-day week in the Peterborough district justify the Telegram's prediction. Many men and women from the Canadian General Electric plant in Peterborough are working on Saturdays or on both Saturdays and Sundays, in stores and at gasoline stations, at sugar farms and lumbering, operating or building tourist lodges and camps. They do not take second jobs because of financial necessity. One reason is that they want dollars more than they want leisure, but they will take a second job at half the rate of pay on their regular job.

"The deepest reason why men will seek additional employment," says the Examiner, "seems to be that leisure (idleness, many would call it) is basically unattractive to them; they are more comfortable when they are working and working for pay."

Now that statement, if accepted as true, will cause readers deep concern or will provide them with much encouragement.

There are people who regard work as the reason for man's existence and who, in recent years, have displayed an apparent mental disturbance on the part of modern man to discharge his proper functions in the world. To such as these, the fact that many men and women are seeking two jobs will serve to restore their faith in human nature.

There are other people who regard work as an evil, albeit a necessary one, and who are constantly striving, by legislation, to shorten their working hours in order that they may lengthen their loafing hours. But others in this group desire to reduce the time allotted to work in order that they may increase the time devoted to other pursuits, which they regard as more important. It has been said that in any civilization an active interest in the arts has been drawn from the energies of the wealthy and the leisure class. In our present civilization this class has been dwindling rapidly in numbers. Most wealthy people have little leisure and few leisured ones have much wealth. The creation of a small new leisured class which, if not wealthy, was still enjoying a good living brought visions of a widespread interest in the arts. The fact that so many of the leisured class are so bored with their leisure that they seek additional jobs is extremely discouraging to the adherent of this theory.

The Peterborough Examiner remarks that it seems strange to "initiate campaign vigorously, even bring about strikes, in order to get their members a 40-hour week, and are now trying to reduce the work-week still further, yet immediately begin to seek the extra free time they rid themselves of it by taking extra jobs."

Some may read into this sentence an inference that this trend ought to be checked, or reversed. But mature consideration may suggest that such a view is not defensible. If it is possible to produce a sufficient quantity of goods in 40 hours' work a week for a man to earn a living for himself and his family by working for this limited time, then he should not be forced to work longer. He should be free, if he desires to do so, to devote the remainder of his working hours to painting, carpentering, writing, or the study of philosophy. If he prefers to loaf, it will do no great harm. If he is neither lazy nor interested in intellectual pursuits, he can get another job, or helping out during the busy week-end period, at work providing a welcome change from the routine tasks of the factory.

The Examiner foresees the possibility that it may become economically undesirable for people to hold two jobs and this may result in "legislation imposing stiff fines and prison terms for people who work for pay on more than their time."

It is to be devoutly hoped that no such situation ever arises. But it is difficult to understand how it could be avoided by a longer normal week-end, less is it to understand why machinery and specialization are making factory work so monotonous that a man will produce no more in six days than in four. There is some truth in this argument but many manufacturers have found that production is as high in five days as it was in five and a half. But if this is so, then it is doubly desirable that those who prefer work to leisure be given the opportunity of alternating their monotonous jobs with other jobs providing them variety and, in many cases, the opportunity to take pride in their work, an opportunity which in many instances has been steadily reducing as it requires of its attendant less and less skill.

JUST FOLKS

DOCTORS' LANGUAGE

When doctors start discussing their professional affairs
They use a brand of lingo I've never learned.
It's no simple explanation they provide in conversation
Of the pain in which I'm vitally concerned.
They sit, their heads all nodding, while my body they are prodding
In a manner that is definitely alarming.
But the terms that they are using
Are confusing and amusing
They are phrases that I wasn't taught in school.

I understand the language of an angry fellow man,
But with doctors I am wholly out of luck.
And whate'er my fault may be,
always clear to me
Is the meaning of the driver of a truck.

From beginning to the end,
lectures long I comprehend;
By a sermon I am very often stirred,
But when I have had to face doctors studying my case
I have never understood a single word.

The simplest words are clearest,
I was taught.
There's an art in using proper
English speech.
But, what doctors have to say in their consultations baffle me.
My teachers didn't even try to teach.
Should an aide a druggist need,
their prescriptions I could read,
Though their penmanship
seems nothing but a screwl.
But when being probed and thumped, I am absolutely stumped,
Their language I don't understand at all.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

25 YEARS AGO

MAY 16, 1930

Mr. George B. VanBlaricom of Toronto, a former resident of Belleville is spending a few day in town.

Postmaster J. V. C. Truslach spent yesterday in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Baldwin, Everett Street, have returned home from California where they spent the winter.

Miss Rhea Bush and Miss Myrtle Field, nurses in-training at the Belleville, General Hospital left today for Montreal where they will enter upon their associate course at the Montreal Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Quintin Boyd of the city left for Peterborough on Monday to attend the installation ceremonies of the O. E. S. of Ontario, and Mr. Boyd as member of the Grand Executive of the Order.

MAY 16, 1925

The members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club celebrated their second anniversary at the New Queen's Hotel last night and it was indeed a most enjoyable party. Kiwanian Tom Power presided at a grand feast of good things to eat and there was delightful music under the guiding hand of Harold Holton; vocal solos were rendered by Kiwanians Geo. Haffner, Hugh Middlemiss, Jack Fahey and Sgt. Harold Barrett. The genial president, Will Lattimer, presided and helped greatly to make everyone happy.

Patrick Kirk of Prince Edward County recently shot a magnificent snow owl. The bird measured six feet and ten inches from tip to tip of wings.

The Rev. Dr. S. Clarke, rector of Christ Church, was presented with a new Ford car last evening by the members of the Young People's Association in connection with the parish. The presentation committee was composed of Miss Hollie, G. B. Smith and R. A. Backus.

40 YEARS AGO

MAY 18, 1915

Mrs. Arnold Ross and niece, Miss Lauretta Hall, of Brockville, are visiting Miss Nathan Birch.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Tickell, Bridge Street, have gone to take up residence on South Charles Street.

The Hon. Harry Corby has returned home after spending several months at Hot Springs.

The Misses Mills, Forin St., have left to visit friends in Berwyn Ill.

Mr. Ken Ross will leave shortly to assume his duties as assistant on the steamer Chippewa.

Mr. D. M. Waters, druggist, returned home last evening after a trip to Toronto and Buffalo, N. Y.

50 YEARS AGO

MAY 16, 1905

Mr. J. B. Flint, police magistrate, went to Stirling this morning on legal business.

Mr. John Campbell is home from New York City on a short visit.

Mr. R. A. Downey of Oswego, is in town on business.

It will be a good thing when the rails of the late electric street railway are removed from the roadbed on Front and Station streets; they are a menace to all drivers and bicyclists.

In an election in Sidney township yesterday Mr. Clem Ketcheson was elected reeve over Mr. A. E. Sullivan by a majority of 43 votes. Mr. A. S. White and Mr. F. J. Kedge were elected councillors.

It looks like old times to see so much building going on in Belleville this season.

Why should the Board of Education want to spend money for a high school playground. There is no vacant property near the high school which is suitable and if the boys go a distance away they can't get any amount of vacant lots upon which to play.

Cannot Gain Private Trial

(Saginaw, Mich., News)

So spacious are the constitutional rights and freedoms guaranteed to the American people that even a defendant who asks to be tried before a court "hidden from the public view" cannot waive his right to a public trial.

This decision was handed down by an appellate court in Cleveland after a common pleas judge had barred spectators and newsmen from the written request of three defendants who had signed waivers of their right to public trial. He essarily lurid testimony moved the trio to duck from public view.

The appellate court ruled that a defendant has no right, constitutionally or otherwise, to a private trial — that is, one "hidden from the public view," in reaching the decision, Judge Lee E. Skeel observed that "crime and corruption grow and thrive in darkness and secrecy; justice thrives in the open light of day."

Both moral right and disciplinary protections against people's backsliding in the dark are a great strength of the American Constitution. In this case, brought by Cleveland's three newspapers, both court and citizen were awakened to their obligations in defence of "freedom and justice before the law".

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ON THE LEVEL

House moving is quite an undertaking. There are firms which do nothing else. They move even huge buildings. Within the building being moved are all sorts of instruments which record every second whether or not the building is getting off level. The building must be kept absolutely level during the whole time of its being moved.

As the instruments inside the house being moved inform the contractor as to whether it is proper to run the safe side or the dangerous, so there are physical, emotional and mental devices in the lives of every one of us which perform a like service. Of course! The great implication is—always there is a complicated mechanism stay on the level.

which enables us to stand upright and balance ourselves as we walk. More significant, however, are the inner factors which keep our minds poised and our characters dead on the level.

Experience and self — restraint teach us to bridle our tempers and not to go to extremes in anything. The conscience keeps judging a little bell every time we turn off the highway of rectitude. Family life, fidelity, backgrounds, steadiness to be well thought of—all these influences like delicate instruments go clicking along at a great rate as we move along the line of life.

Ball Comes Into Parlor

(New York Times)

The ball season is in full sweep now, and it is all too obvious that home life has become a jumbled mass of wreckage. This is the fault of television. Home life managed to survive baseball when it was played in only a few parks, and those situated at a distance. It even managed to survive under exalted baseball leaders, such as the afternoon bridge sex, those descriptions of double plays seemed so poetic in an alien language to which there was no dictionary. Under television, however, all this has changed. Instead of being two subway changes away, baseball now is played in the home, usually right in front of the most comfortable chair there. Furthermore, with the picture used as illustration, almost anyone with a little practice can grasp the principles of a double play, and even a child will lack historical perspective. They still do not know whether Ever, Evers and Chance were, although they have been told often enough.

Perhaps it was unwise, a few years ago, to get a television set in the first place. Certainly it was unwise to turn on the game one afternoon, thus opening to strangers the family's guarded door to a secret room. It had been guarded indeed. Those casual remarks overheard in Front and Station streets; they are a menace to all drivers and bicyclists.

In an election in Sidney township yesterday Mr. Clem Ketcheson was elected reeve over Mr. A. E. Sullivan by a majority of 43 votes. Mr. A. S. White and Mr. F. J. Kedge were elected councillors.

It looks like old times to see so much building going on in Belleville this season.

Why should the Board of Education want to spend money for a high school playground. There is no vacant property near the high school which is suitable and if the boys go a distance away they can't get any amount of vacant lots upon which to play.

Whether others concerned with home life understand baseball even now is beside the point. They certainly are sitting there before the television set, trying. Oddly, there is a curious lack of discrimination. On those introductory trips to the Polo Grounds and baseball generation always preferred the wrong team, but this could be due to some basic part of the normal relationship between father and son. Everyone concerned with home life has become conscious of baseball, everyone prefers all the wrong teams. It is bad enough to try to follow a baseball game through the chatter and talk that represents broken home life, without hearing the substance of the talk. When it is realized those people actually are rooting for teams from such weird places as Milwaukee and Kansas City, the whole thing becomes impossible.

A few years back there could be definite rules about television. For bid, for example, there were cartoons and items with much violence. But now, I know from the medical profession, there were full-blooded Western. Ladies were taught how to manipulate the dials, and even the fine arts there was baseball, but by-passing it. But now baseball's time is everywhere. Every time Father knocks the dinner hour off schedule, a conflict in games plunges him into the middle of war. Who wants to see the Dodgers when the Giants are playing a home game? Who? The rest of the family, voting in an undecided, hung jury. Who capitulate as though it were professional baseball. Who, indeed, for some stranger from a place called Milwaukee? Everybody. Except the proud to spell Milwaukee, but there they are, yelling. Preferably regardless. But the authoritative account of who Tinker, Evers and Chance were.

Longfellow Was Mixed Up

(Philadelphia Bulletin)

One thing wrong with children and their parents, according to Dr. John G. Young, of Lima, Ohio, is the tendency of the typical American home "to go to pot about 5 p.m." This week he told a convention of fellow doctors in New York that "long-term psychological problems" may originate in the difficult hours between school and supper.

Possibly he means that at 5 p.m. mother is tired after the day's housework, or that dinner is a bridge; the children are tired of play or television, and father will soon be coming home tired, hungry and bad-tempered. So love flies out the window, discipline goes down the drain, and the whole family goes slightly off its rocker.

The poet Longfellow had children, too, but modern observants are sometimes tempted to doubt it. They wonder how a man could find the verse of a lullaby time as "a pause in the day's occupation" that is known as the children's hour."

But Longfellow is considered an old-fashioned poet, and was probably an old-fashioned father of old-fashioned ideas. Perhaps a ago he did not dream that the hours "between the dark and the daylight" would today be filled with when children are at their wildest and parents at their worst.

Midwife Role Evolved

(Sydney Post-Record)

Mrs. Sarah McDonnell, 87 years old, was equal to the emergency. When a boarder in her home, Mrs. Mary Ann Barbara Prentice, began to have labor pains, Mrs. McDonnell helped her aid. First she called the police, then she helped deliver the baby.

When the police arrived they found she had done the job well. The new-born baby boy had been safely delivered. The mother was in good condition.

But the strain was too much for Mrs. McDonnell. She suffered a heart attack. Half an hour later, she died.

Few could be more victorious exit from this world than did Mrs. McDonnell. She delivered her life with kindness ably performed. She happened in Morristown, New Jersey.

Army Needled

(Edmonton Journal)

Mayor Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa, seeking equipment for polio vaccination, complains that the Army is sitting on dozens of thousands of hypodermic needles." If so, it can be expected to rise suddenly any time now.

Where Deer Are Plentiful

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

Many a North American province or state would be delighted to have big-game resources so plentiful that the deer could be hunted in one relatively small area as has been the case this spring in the Camp Utopia district.

The deer, apparently, find above deer abundance is taken for granted, the 200 seem almost a negligible number. Last autumn the record assemblage of 600 deer provided plenty of cover among rubbling tender shrubs on the blueberry barrens within a half-mile radius. The following novelty ever, had such a buck-and-doe grazing party been witnessed, the entire landscape appeared to be freckled with animal life.

It's reassuring to hear the game warden's opinion that the decrease from last autumn's mean there is any reduction in the regional deer population.

Dairy Cows Good for Land

(Stratford Beacon-Herald)

The dairy cow—first step in the chain that produces top grade Canadian butter—has a friend in her. Not only does she act as foster-mother for a good section of the human race, and turn out the ingredients for a good nourishing butter, but she is an active conservationist.

Dairy herds grazing contentedly on pasture around this province during the summer months also do a lot to maintain the fertility of the land, whereas crops depleting of the same soil to supply life to soil fertility.

By feeding crops to cattle, and selling either milk or cream, the farmer is doing a double forward reaching a happy balance. If he returns manure to his fields, his losses of soil fertility are slight.

Another factor worthy of consideration is the fact that much land is suitable only for pasture. It will produce pasture, which in turn will support cattle and produce milk, but it will produce little or no human consumers, but would be of little value for other crops.

How to Do It

A particularly fascinating part of the Russian newspaper, we imagine, is the do-it-yourself section, with its articles on "How to Train Your Brother-in-Law to the Salt Mines" and "Don't Envy the Secret Policeman, Be One."

The Tail Can't Wag The Dog

In 1843 Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes published his paper on "The Contagiousness of Puerperal Fever"—childbed fever or septicemia, a blood poisoning which killed so many young mothers—and was roundly denounced for his temerity by the recognized medical authorities of the day. Holmes was 34 years old and a blooming poet, at that.

Three years later, another young upstart by the name of Semmelweiss, Dr. Ignaz P. Semmelweiss, 29-year-old Hungarian, struck with the frightful mortality in one of the maternity wards of the General Hospital in Vienna ordered that no student should examine a patient in the ward until he had washed his hands in chlorin water. The big shots of the profession were furious. They opposed Semmelweiss and his radical teaching with all their might. It may seem strange to some of us that such a disputed leaders of the medical profession could be so terribly wrong. But not to me. I know the medical profession.

I know, too, that it is virtually impossible for the tail to wag the dog. I've been wagging away at "germ theory" and "germ" knuckleheads have been able to read, much less to believe. But you to keep well, and I doubt if the dog has ever barked at you. If so, I intend to keep on wagging, because it's great fun, and I sincerely believe it does some good, proved.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE SOWER

One of the famous drawings of the world is that one the French artist Millet did called "The Sower." It isn't so much the picture in itself, but the meaning behind it. The sower of seeds, what an important figure in the world!

The mere seed in itself is a miracle. One plants the seed of corn which is God's chemical laboratory, and there springs up in the light it gives to the world its grains, berries, vegetables, and fruits. Some seeds are sown in soil ready and plant the seed. Then there are seeds sown by the wayside.

As the seeds are planted the sower must be very proud and he plants with a confidence he never knew. You can imagine that he is full of faith, knowing that the planting is but the first process in anticipating the harvest.

Each one of us is a sower of seeds. Fathers and mothers, and teachers in the schools, are sowers of seeds, planting valuable ideas in the minds of youth. Every good thought is a seed that may bring forth a harvest greater than we can ever imagine. A simple kindness may find its way around the world.

The sower of good seeds is a true patriot. He helps to make the United States, a simply dressed man—and one may be a traveled bare-footed—went from state to state, planting seeds of liberty. It is so well that he became known as "Johnny Appleseed." His real name was John Chapman. He was an adequately measure the influence of such a man, or appraise the inspiration others gained from him?

Every day of our lives we are planting seeds—we are sowers somewhere. Some of these seeds find their way into the human heart. It's there that they multiply of themselves! And there are seeds that are planted in the fertile minds of youth that later burst forth as a crop of bible or some kind of achievements. How wonderful to be a sower!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Some friends took me out to dinner to one of those night spots, as they are called. A very fashionable place, as I could tell by the dark as the inside of a cow. It is the sort of place where you can get a $1.50 meal for $5.00 and have blues singers sometimes, or else dyspeptic-looking young men beating on drums and other musical instruments whilst bowling like Mohawks.

When you give your hat to the hat-check girl you are ushered right into the gloom by a head waiter who finds you a soft, discreet table and after you have got used to the gloom, you perceive that for a fact there are people really eating.

Except for the racket being made by the entertainers, a sort of weird, murky silence dominates the cavern. As you glance apprehensively about, you observe that if anybody looks at you, it is out of the corner of their eye.

I was handed a large, arty menu.

I put my spectacles on and held it as near a light as I could find. Then I read the list of meals and prices first. I always read a menu from right to left.

The first words were scanning the menu, I continued to gaze at the menu in darkness. I waiter appeared from some dark recess, and handed me a tray. He paused, and I quickly dimly make out that his tray held four desserts; some lovely ice cream also, I think. He paused and appeared to be searching for something at the table. It was a table lately occupied by departed customers. There were some dishes and cups. The waiter, not even glancing about, so sure was he of the sheltering gloom, picked up a teaspoon off a dish. He swished it about in a half-empty glass of water that contained half left. He dried it deftly on his napkin and placed it on one of the saucers of the desserts.

"What'll you have?" said my night-spot friend.

"Two boiled eggs," said I.

Norris Whitney Chosen PC P.E-Lennox Riding Candidate

PICTON — Norris Whitney, who represented Prince Edward-Lennox in the last Ontario Legislature, was nominated as Progressive Conservative candidate at a convention here Saturday afternoon. He defeated Jack Welsh, also of Picton, who was one of 13 nominated.

Of a possible 278 delegates, six representing each poll, there were 270 present, along with a number who had been named as alternatives.

Those nominated were J. K. Welsh, N. Whitney, Warden Murney Parks, John Fox, Kenneth Carson, Phil Dodds, Woodrow Blakely, Walter Fraser, Jay Hepburn, James deC. Hepburn, L. B. Cainan, Barney Hepburn, Calvin Hughes, all of Prince Edward, Douglas Aikenbrack, Clarence Milligan, Napanee.

Following announcement of the choice of the convention, Mr. Welsh pledged his support to Mr. Whitney, asking for a united party.

Liberals of the riding, who failed to secure a candidate at a nomination meeting held three weeks ago, have not as yet announced any opposition to Mr. Whitney.

LISTED ACCOMPLISHMENTS

In asking for renomination, Mr. Whitney listed some of the many things, which he has been able to accomplish as member. He referred to development roads in Ernestown, South Fredericksburg and Adolphustown, Athol and referred to developmnt roads in South Marysburgh, Hillier township; to assistance given in securing a Legion hall for Napanee, a new ferry and docks at Glenora-Adolphustown crossing, efforts to improve railway crossing facilities at Napanee.

He revealed that action is to be taken on the highway through Hillier and Amelisburgh. Referring to a bridge to connect the county to the east, Mr. Whitney declared "I am in favor of a bridge, any bridge, where it can be secured. It is not for me to say where it should be located, but you the people. I will lend every support to any delegation, which may present proposals. I have never refused to lend my assistance to any delegation which has come with requests."

Mr. Whitney stated that in the last year the Ontario Liberal government was in power, $71,371 was expended on roads in this riding; in 1953, his first year as member, it was $981,857; in 1954-55, $838,000.

A GOOD FRIEND

Mr. Welsh, in his appeal for the nomination, referred to his opponent as a good friend; he has been active in political life for 25 years. He favored more development roads in the riding. "I will support a bridge, regardless of location," he said. "It is your job to tell the member where the bridge should go. I want to see unity in this riding, and I will support the choice of the convention as whole-heartedly as I did in the previous campaign," he concluded.

George Tustin, M.P. for the riding, expressed the thought that the party has an outstanding leader, a fine platform and a fine candidate, and warned of overconfidence.

Hilding association president Calvin Hughes said: "There is no doubt that the Pearson government will be returned, and Prince Edward Lennox should send a supporter. Party strength is at a peak, let's keep it there," he urged.

In accepting the nomination, Mr. Whitney paid tribute to Mr. Welsh as one who had done much for the party and in municipal affairs. Mentioning leadership given by the Frost government, he mentioned the quick action to provide free polio vaccine for all Ontario children". He felt the Federal government should shoulder the responsibility for unemployment. "The province is restricted in the help it can give in many matters," he said.

Mr. Whitney referred to the Marmora iron ore development, recalling that it was the Provincial Department of Mines which had made the discovery. It is this sort of enterprise which has made for progress in Ontario, he felt.

REFERS TO HIGHWAYS

Referring to the highways investigation, Mr. Whitney said there had been a thorough probe. "No business," he said, "can guarantee that every employee is honest, and this held true for the highways department. He criticized Liberal Leader Oliver on statements made on the hustings, and statements which in the House has been forced to admit were wrong. Mr. Whitney explained that payments for over-runs were usually quite in order, changes in contracts were necessary when specifications differed. In the last Liberal government, of which Mr. Oliver had been a member, there was a high percentage of over-runs, he claimed.

Mr. Doucette had done nothing dishonest himself, Mr. Whitney stressed, and had resigned, he felt, in the interest of the party.

"I will continue to do all I can to represent the interests of this riding and will, as in the past, support any requests which may be presented," said Mr. Whitney.

Delegates' credentials were handled by secretary Thomas Walker, and assistant Earl Morrison. Scrutineers for the balloting were Barney Hepburn, Woodrow Blakely, Phil Dodds, Doug Aikenbrack, who were assisted by the president and secretaries in the count.

Russia Accepts West's Proposal Top Leaders Meet

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

VIENNA (AP)—The Big Four foreign ministers started home today to begin preparations for the meeting this summer of their government chiefs.

Jittery Western Europe hoped the two major accomplishments of the ministers' weekend reunion in Vienna—agreement on the "summit" conference and signing of the Austrian independence treaty—had brought the West and the Communist world two steps closer to a lasting peace.

Ranking Western officials hinted Stockholm might be chosen as a compromise location for the meeting. July or August appeared to be the likeliest times.

NEUTRALITY IN PRICE

Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov accepted the West's invitation to Bulganin late Saturday night. In a 15-minute speech Sunday at the signing of the Austrian treaty, he indicated the Russians in the coming high-level meetings will demand as their price for German reunification the same neutrality they exacted of Austria—a pledge not to join any foreign alliances and not to allow foreign military bases.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who last week brought West Germany into the North Atlantic alliance, has already said his government could not accept such neutrality.

In his speech at Vienna's Belvedere Palace, Molotov expressed "conviction that other states also will follow the pattern" of Austrian neutrality. He referred directly to Germany later, asserting "the danger of a reborn German aggressive militarism has revived, and it is forcing the peaceful countries of Europe to take new measures toward insuring their security."

THREE SPEAK BRIEFLY

The other foreign ministers—U.S. State Secretary Dulles, Britain's Harold Macmillan and France's Antoine Pinay—confined their much shorter speeches entirely to Austria.

Dulles was the first of the four to leave Vienna, taking off Sunday night by plane for Washington. Macmillan and Pinay scheduled take-offs for their capitals early today. Molotov was to leave Tuesday for Moscow.

While Western Europe hoped Russia's willingness to sign the Austrian treaty and to participate in the top-level conference indicated a real change of heart, few Allied statesmen here believed the Soviets have changed their long-term aims.

These officials consider the Soviet agreement on both issues flows from Russia's desire to seek at least a limited reconciliation in international affairs, what the French call a detente. The theory is that internal economic difficulties, especially in agriculture, are mounting, and the Soviet program of aid to Communist China also is straining the Red motherland.

Moscow also seems to be as anxious as any other nation to avoid an atomic war.

WIND BEAT HIM

VICTORIA (CP)—Bert Thomas of Tacoma announced Sunday he is postponing until August his attempt to conquer the chilly Strait of Juan de Fuca.

The burly swimmer was forced to postpone the swim for the fifth straight time Saturday night when a rising wind prevented the attempt. Tides will not be favorable again until August.

"I'll do it" he said. "I'll do it yet."

The club was graciously adorned with fragrant lilacs and flowering crab apple in tall standards.

Weddings

BARLOW—GREEN

Baskets of spring flowers graced the altar of St. Paul's United church, Bellville, on Saturday, May 7, for the pretty wedding of Joan Myrtle Green, Reg.N., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Green, Stirling, and Robert Montgomery Barlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Barlow, Bellville. Rev. A. Packman officiated in the double ring ceremony and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Robert Hulin.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a powder blue lace sheath dress with matching accessories, and carried a white Bible with yellow orchid.

Attending the bride was Mrs. Grant Stapley, wearing a navy suit, with white navy accessories. Her nosegay was pink roses, mums and hyacinths.

The groomsman was Mr. Lawrence Hopwood of Bellevville.

Following the ceremony a turkey dinner was served the wedding party at the "Sterling" Hotel.

The young couple will reside in Belleville.

HICKEY — GRAHAM

The marriage of Grace Frances, daughter of Mrs. Graham, of Belleville, and the late Robert James Earl Graham, to John Timothy Hickey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Isaac Hickey, of Kingston, took place on Saturday, May 14th, at 2.30 p.m. in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, with the Reverend Father Welch of Kingston, officiating. Standards of white snapdragons, gladioli and Oregon fern adorned the chancel.

The wedding music was rendered by Miss Dorothy Grant.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Ralph Leonard Graham, wore a gown of French Chantilly lace and ivory point sete, featuring a basque bodice with neckline seeded with pearl beads, and a bouffant skirt fashioned in sweeping cathedral length. A cap of Chantilly lace in scalloped effect. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place with a small satin crown outlined in crystal beads, and she carried a bouquet of lily-of-the-valley, hyacinth bells and yellow Sweetheart roses.

The bridal attendants were, her sister, Miss Barbara Leonard Graham, as maid-of-honor, attired in milky pink shading into Dubonnet pink at the back of the bouffant skirt; and Mrs. Ralph L. Graham, bridesmaid, wearing a similar gown of ice blue shading into periwinkle blue. They were bradded circlets of bridesmaid roses, tying their gowns, and carried semi-cascades of yellow Shasta daisy mums.

Mr. David Nicol Hickey, of London, acted as his brother's groomsman, and the ushers were: Mr. Donald Aitken, Stanwood, and Mr. Gordon Aikens, Stanwood, assisted the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for the guests at the home of the bride's parents, at Stanwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott will reside on Mill Street, Stirling.

COCKS—EVANS

White snapdragons and white lillies formed the floral setting in the Cathedral Church of St. George, Kingston, Saturday afternoon, when Miss Catharine Ann Evans, daughter of Rt. Rev. Kenneth Evans and Mrs. Evans, of Kingston, became the bride of Lt. Harris Trist Cocks, RCN, of Royal Military College, Kingston, son of Rev. and Mrs. H. F. C. Cocks of Sle. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec.

The ceremony was performed by the bride's father, Rt. Rev. K. C. Evans; the groom's father, Rev. H. F. C. Cocks, and Very Rev. B. Browne. The wedding music was played by Mr. George Mayhee, and the full cathedral choir was in attendance.

The bride was beautiful in a princess model gown of ivory satin trimmed with heirloom lace, and falling into a long train. The full length veil extended from a coronet of lace motifs studded with pearls and brilliants. Her bouquet was a shower of white lilies of the valley and roses.

Miss Mary Gwynneth - Evans was her sister's maid of honor. Miss Barbara Davidson of Montreal, Miss Anne Cadman of Toronto and Miss Judy Mowat of Montreal, were the bridesmaids. Misses Susan and Barbara Mowat of Montreal, were flower girls. The senior attendants were balmured gown with wide revers, halter neck, and matching jacket. Mr. Browning the guests upstairs was Mr. D. I. MacKinnon, Belleville.

Mrs. C. A. Murray, convener of the draw tickets, and Mrs. J. L. Acton, were busy throughout the afternoon selling tickets on the beautiful bedroom suite, stood beside them on an easel. $385 was the sum netted for the Scholarship Fund.

Presiding over the delicious array of home-baking were Mrs. J. H. Bateman and Mrs. J. R. McArthur, conveners, with their assistants, Mrs. T. S. Bradfield, Mrs. T. G. Hookings, Mrs. A. F. Holmes, Miss P. Hamms, Mrs. H. F. Gyde and Mrs. A. C. Locke.

Mrs. T. J. McQuaid and Mrs. W. Van Steenburgh were the conveners of the busy servery, assisted by Mrs. Wm. Kinsella, Miss H. McLaren, Miss M. McMahon, Mrs. W. J. Musgrove, Miss L. Lee, Mrs. W. C. Pryor, Miss G. Ransay, Mrs. J. O'Riordan, Miss B. Silvester, and Miss Lil Moins West.

Conveners of replenishing the plates were, Mrs. L. R. Fisher and Mrs. W. W. Hurst and their assistants, Mrs. J. Dunn, Mrs. H. Lambert, Mrs. D. MacDonald, Mrs. W. J. Robinson and Mrs. H. Wilson.

TWIN TEA TABLES

Attractive blue and white floral pieces with blue taper adorned the twin tables serving the tea. Those who presided over the afternoon were Mrs. R. Barrett, Mrs. H. Burnham, Miss P. Farley, Mrs. Fleweling, Mrs. A. Gillis, Mrs. A. Z. May, Miss G. Martineau, Dr. I. Smith-Sears, Miss E. Pasmore and Mrs. H. Rupert and Mrs. W. Simmons.

The treasurer for the afternoon was Mrs. J. Kuntze and the coordinator was Mrs. J. E. Pugh.

Grey cards go to all those ladies for their co-operative effort in the production of this pleasing Spring Affair.

A full financial report will be given at the regular meeting this week at the home of Mrs. W. H. Young, 315 Dundas Street East, when Mrs. W. H. Gilleland of Colborne, will be the guest speaker.

Albert College Choir Presents Fine Numbers

The Evangelic club of Holloway St. United church and Archie McDay in the church school room, with president, Maitland Duff in the chair.

After the call to worship, Ethel Scriven read a meditation on "Mother's Day". Carl Wannamaker read the Scripture, followed by a story by Vera Wannamaker.

A solo by Ethel Scriven was much appreciated, and Archie McMillan led in prayer.

Jim Scriven introduced the leader of the Albert College choir, Mr. Joseph McKay, who proceeded to conduct his choir, singing through the following numbers—"The Albert College Hymn", "Somebody's Sitting In My Chair", "Welcome to Our Fair" by Taylor and Martin; "The Winter Song" by Bullard — this was the most extremely well by the male chorus;—"Father, Keep us Safely Thro' the Night"; "Still, Still With Thee", by Clay Speakes; "Now Let Heaven and Earth Adore Thee", by Johann Sebastien Bach.

Jim Scriven thanked Mr. McKay and the choir, on behalf of the club, for their splendid singing.

Refreshments were served by the ladies of Baldwin ward.

The "Tatler" was read and the "Friendship Circle" and Mizpah benediction closed the meeting.

Messrs. Michael G. Hickey, of Toronto, brother of the bride groom, John D. O'Flynn, of Belleville, R. Ryan, of Toronto, and R. Ryan, of Toronto.

Mrs. Ken Graham, the bride's mother, wore a full-length gown of periwinkle blue chiffon with matching lace bolero jacket, trimmed with bugle beads and paillettes. Her shoulder length veil of tulle was merged into soft cape sleeves, she wore a matching hat and corsage of Talisman Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Hickey, the bridegroom's mother, was attired in a two-piece Pierre Balmain gown of pure silk in a feathery print-of-dusty rose and white, accessorized in shades of Demure Sweetheart roses.

Following the reception, which was held at "Montrose", Trent Road, Mr. and Mrs. Hickey left for New York, the bridegroom's bride travelling in an original ensemble of sandstone imported worsted wool in tailored design, the jacket with the gauntlet ruffle pleats. She wore a matching hat, and coat fitted in coachman style with accessories of British Tan. Her corsage was a brown Cymbidium orchid. Mr. and Mrs. Hickey will reside in Belleville upon their return.

SCOTT—DICKINSON

RAWDON.—A very pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized at Springbrook United-church parsonage, on Wednesday evening, May 11, with the Rev. H. Beer officiating, when Eva Ethel Eleanor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dickinson, of Stanwood, became the bride of Douglas Reid Scott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murney Scott, Stirling, with the immediate families in attendance.

The bride wore a gown of fitted lace in ballerina length, fingertip veil of tulle illusion and a corsage of red roses.

Miss Barbara McMillan, Campbellford, was bridesmaid, wearing aqua blue lace of ballerina length with corsage of baby pink rose corsage.

Mr. Gordon Aikens, Stanwood, assisted the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for the guests at the home of the bride's parents, at Stanwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott will reside on Mill Street, Stirling.

It is also an expression of our faith. As and a member it is our responsibility to attract members by our personality and attractive program".

Mrs. B. Burley thanked the speaker.

Refreshments were served by the ladies of Baldwin ward.

Manly Macdonald Paintings Shown at U.W.C. Spring Tea

On Saturday afternoon, a record attendance at the University Women's Club Spring Fair in the Kiwanis Centre, showed the popularity of this yearly event. Mrs. F. T. Selbert, vice-president of the club, greeted the guests downstairs and the admission clerks were Miss K. Daly, convener, Miss M. Fines, Mrs. J. Kuntze, and Miss E. Panter.

On the main floor was the "Art Gallery", where, amid thousands of spring blooms, were arranged the intimitable oil-paintings of Mr. Manly Macdonald, R.C.A. Visitors had the privilege of discussing with Mr. and Mrs. Macdonald, the honored guests of the Fair, the fine points of the glorious array of pictures. How wonderful it is that each year Mr. Macdonald always surprises these fine collections for the Spring Fair.

GREAT VERSATILITY

This year the gallery contained 15 large paintings 18 by 24, and three smaller ones 9 by 12, all heretofore, this collection revealed Mr. Macdonald's great versatility with no two pictures the same. The subtle colorings, the variations in the shades of colors used, with primary color in one, secondary color in another, and a third, show the breadth of this artist's scope, and well merit Mr. Macdonald's position as one of Canada's best colorists.

A painting, again on first glance, may appear dull; on further study is seen to contain harmonies of the most delicate tints and shadow, gradations of color which are blended with pleasing chords of music, full of beauty and serenity. As a virtuoso may be seen at the piano, an amateur pianist, so may Mr. Macdonald's work be contrasted with the offerings of an amateur painter. The viewer stands before his work in awe, and is held in a rigid there in the scene portrayed.

AUTHENTIC PORTRAITURE

With the increasing industrialization of this area, Mr. Macdonald's paintings may in time provide an authentic picture of rural Ontario. The oils of tumbled waters in tempestuous moods, the quiet village nestling in the hills with the jewelled autumn leaves glowing in the sun, the grey views that may not always be here.

Mr. Macdonald's work of the Quinte, with houses and trees in the foreground; the blue lake, and the darker blue land beyond, was a scene of peace and faithfulness, of content and satisfying to live with year by year. This quality is to be found in many of his pictures, they grow on one with daily living.

A number of winter scenes enrolled in the play of light and shadow on the snow, while for those who like imaginary colors there were two brilliant autumn oils, showing also the clever color gradations in the painting of blue water near by.

Mrs. R. W. Smith, 191 Bleecker Avenue, was the fortunate winner of the painting donated by Mr. Macdonald in aid of the UWC Scholarship Fund. The ticket was drawn by the president, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon.

On the large platform near the tea-room, gay with spring blooms, soft music and animated conversation. Here the guests viewed numerous fashions, modelled by UWC members, delighted the guests at the tea-tables. The exclusive dresses, the millinery, the jewellery and the shoes were supplied by local firms.

FASHION SHOW

Mrs. J. Haig modelled a smart navy blue two-piece afternoon dress with white trim, a large navy white straw hat with assortment of necklace, bracelet, earrings and squeeze bag in pearls and brilliants, and navy pumps.

Mrs. D. T. Bell showed two costumes during the afternoon. The first was a charming cocktail gown of red stiffened chiffon with wide neck outlined in white with small black and white straw hat with white veiling, summer jewellery; and black patent high heeled shoes. Later she appeared for golfing in navy pedal pushers, blue and white jersey sweater and navy and white cardigan.

Mrs. J. E. Nelles displayed an eye-catching red, blue and white burlap sheath dress, silk jacket with scoop neckline, small white straw hat and lovely mother of pearl summer jewellery.

A red corsage of roses highlighted the costume of Mrs. B. Collins in a white coin-dotted navy, pure silk afternoon dress, with the new white plastic jewellery and red pumps.

Cub Pack Charter Presented By St. Joseph's PTA

A meeting of St. Joseph's Parent-Teacher Association was held in the auditorium of St. Joseph's School on the evening of May 12. Mr. W. Meagher presided. The Cub Pack, St. Joseph's Pack, which is sponsored by the P.T.A. unit, was presented to Mr. Meagher and the members by Mr. P. Mercier. The charter was then placed in the keeping of Mrs. E. Cassidy, chairman of the sponsoring committee. Mr. Cassidy spoke on the great achievement of Cub and Scout work and asked all P.T.A. members to co-operate more fully, especially by joining the sponsoring committee.

Mrs. Zeiger was chosen to head the nominating committee, which will prepare a slate of officers for the next term. Other members of this committee are: Mr. S. McKenna, Mr. P. Aust, Mrs. W. Meagher and Mrs. M. Gallagher.

A report on the Ontario Education Association Convention in Toronto on April 11 and 12 was given by Mrs. Stanley. Mrs. Stanley was the delegate from St. Joseph's P.T.A. unit. The report included the following: Parents of P.T.A. units from all parts of Ontario. A suggested project for this unit was the conducting of a public speaking course and contest for children. Mr. P. Mercier volunteered to donate a trophy to the winner of such an event.

Mrs. Stanley also gave highlights from the address of Mort Rev. Wm. J. Smith, D.D., Bishop of Peterborough. The speaker stressed co-operation between the home and school, for the greater welfare of the pupils. He said: "Parents must be contacted and helped if the child is to receive all the necessary benefits of a christian education. The failure of one or the teachers is not to be eye also defeats the purpose of school."

Tickets for the ice cream social to be held in the school on June 15 were distributed. Those selling tickets may procure them from any member of the executive or the committee consisting of Mrs. Lazier, Mrs. Fred Symons and Mrs. Robert Slavin.

The attendance prize was won by the class of Rev. Sr. Mary Helen Rita.

A beautiful film, "Introduction to Gaspe" was shown. This travelogue of one of Canada's most

St. Andrew's Explorers' Enjoy Hike

Games, including a bean race, won by Irish MacLean; a bottle race, won by Rita Moss; a running race for juniors, by Ardell Sunderland; senior running race, by Dale Langsbeer, and a three-legged race by Iris MacLean and Mary Robertson.

The drawing contest was won by Beth Robertson.

The games were in charge of Mrs. L. Langsbeer, counsellor, assisted by Sharon McDonald, CGIT.

Bountiful refreshments concluded a fine afternoon.

Secret Service' Talk Heard At Christ Church PG

The regular meeting of the Christ church Parish Guild was held last Tuesday, in the parish hall. Mrs. A. Z. Wonnacott, president, presided.

Following the reports of various committees, the guest speaker for the afternoon, Mr. Brant Humphreys was introduced by the president and gave a most interesting address on the "Secret Service", founded on this city.

Mrs. F. Hicken on behalf of the Guild, thanked the speaker and wished him God's blessing in his work in the Belleville district.

Mrs. R. Kellaway extended an invitation to the Guild to hold their June meeting at her new home in Somerset.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting, the committee consisting of Mrs. Jas. Lazier, Mrs. Fred Symons and Mrs. Robert Slavin.

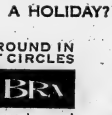
Rev. O. Getty Gives Missionary Talk

The Rev. Orville Getty, Canadian Baptist missionary to Nanasapatnam field in India, who is in Canada on furlough, spoke to members of the Victoria Avenue Baptist church, Wednesday. He spoke on good authority, having served the mission cause in India for 18 years.

Mr. Getty mentioned the 16 new recruits on the Indian field, and told of some of the hardships they were facing in making both physical and spiritual adjustments.

He also spoke of a three-fold challenge facing the missionary enterprise today—the challenge of the hill folk; of the caste people, and of the thousands leaving Indian universities this year.

CAN. PAC. THE GOSPEL



There has not been as much contact with the people of the hill villages as with those on the plains, but they are calling for people to come to bring them the gospel and we eager to receive the gospel even though they know it costs to follow Christ in India.

The caste people are turning to Christ and the need for more missionaries to minister to them is great. The caste people are bringing strength and character into the Baptist churches of India.

Many of the thousands leaving Indian universities find no jobs under the national government and are easy prey to other influences if not reached by the missionary.

Mr. Getty called on more consecrated effort and prayer on the home front and challenged young people to give their lives to serve Christ abroad.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

THE GROOM'S PARENTS TO GIVE REHEARSAL PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son is to be married in a few months, and my husband and I have asked the bride-to-be and her mother if we may give a buffet supper after the wedding rehearsal. There will be the wedding attendants, the bride's parents, and my husband and me. Should we also give another party for the couple before the wedding, say a tea or other late-afternoon party on a Saturday or Sunday? Or what would you think of our giving a tea or At Home for them after they have returned from their 3-weeks wedding trip? — D.R.O.

It's a charming plan, I think, for the prospective groom's mother and father to give the post-rehearsal party. It's a delightful and generous gesture on their part, and it's also a great social help to the bride's family in these busy, busy hours before the wedding. There is no "must" about your giving a tea for the couple before the wedding, but of course it too is a most thoughtful gesture. However, I think even more delightful is a tea or "At Home" you and your husband might give, after the couple return from their wedding trip.

FORM OF NAME TO BE WRITTEN BY SHOP ATTENDANT

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have just gotten a very responsible position in quite a large shop that is a combination of a florist shop and a gift shop. The shop is very well known, and we do a big business in telephoned orders for sending flowers and gifts for engagement announcements, wedding and wedding anniversary presents, and many for Bon Voyage.

In my previous position the customers practically always came to the gift shop, enclosed their own cards, usually special greeting cards, with the gifts they chose. But now, when so many of the orders are telephoned, and the telephoners ask me to sign the cards, I never know quite what to do. Although I expect them to say, for example, "Mary and John Lane," most often they say "Mr. and Mrs. John Lane." Is this really correct? — Jane Y.

Yes. If they themselves were signing the card, they would sign "Mary and John Lane," the informal name because it is a signature. But when you write, the names it is not a signature . . . therefore the formal form of name is correct.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A YOUNG BACHELOR NEEDS A NEW PHILOSOPHY

"I have just read your column about a girl who said she didn't want to marry because she had seen much trouble brought about by marriage," writes a young man who describes himself as "a bachelor of 28."

He goes on to say that he sometimes wonders why he is a bachelor, but that, after having read the girl's letter, he now thinks his reasons for remaining unmarried are "much the same as hers, "adding:

"It is not that I have seen much marital trouble in my own family, but because I know so many marriages have gone astray, I therefore feel I don't want to get hurt, either. So I hardly ever go any place, but stay home practically every night.

"The type of girl you wrote about appeals to me, for I believe she has enough sense to want to make a go of marriage. Perhaps this is the type of girl that I should have. What do you think about it?"

What I think about it is that this young man had better get wise to himself, and right away. I don't believe for a minute that the reason he is a bachelor who stays home every night instead of going out for good times with nice friends, is because he is afraid of marriage. What I think is that, without doubt, he is a shy, retiring sort of fellow who would like to make friends and have good times, but is so timid and self-conscious that he doesn't know how to go about it. Is my guess correct? I hope he will let me know.

My advice to him is that he get busy at once and look around his town to see what sort of interesting activities go on in his community. He should look especially for one that offers a chance for him to help someone else, as for instance, working with some boys' club or other organization like the Boy Scouts. This will not only provide him with a brand-new interest, but he will feel that he is doing something worthwhile, and there is no better way for anyone to lose his self-consciousness than to focus his attention on others instead of on himself. And if he will turn the word "self-conscious" around, he will find that it means to be conscious of self, which is the very thing he needs to get away from.

After he's well into the swing of helping with some one of the boys' groups, he should look around again and find some organization with both men and women members that he can join just to have fun. By that time, he'll will probably already have heard, through the acquaintances he has made through his work with the boys, of one or more adult groups.

Perhaps his church has a club in which young men and women in his age group get together for enjoyable social meetings. If he doesn't go to church, he should start going, and see if he doesn't find himself reaping not only social benefits, but morale-building ones as well, which will help him become more of an outgoing person.

Is there any veterans' hospital nearby, where he might go to do volunteer work? Here, again, he would have a chance to feel himself of real use in the world, and he would also make new friends among other volunteers he finds there.

I would like very much to hear from this young bachelor again, and have him tell me—I hope—that he has started on the program I have suggested. For if he would really adopt it, and carry it through consistently, I will guarantee he'll be a far happier young man than he is now, and that, before long, he won't have to keep dreaming up reasons why is is not married because he'll be too busy making dates with the young women he's met.

And one more thing that should help build up his self-confidence: He should never forget that young bachelors are always eagerly welcomed into any group. For there are usually many more young unmarried women in a community than young unmarried men. So he should keep in mind the fact that people will be genuinely glad to see him if he comes among them with a friendly attitude, and the first thing he knows he'll have a completely new outlook on life—and maybe a nice wife, too!

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

SPRINGTIME IS PERMANENT TIME

Only the old-timers can really appreciate the blessings of the permanent wave. In the so-called "good old days" curling the hair was a tiresome detail of the day's grooming activities.

Women wrestled with smoking irons, burnt their hair and their fingers. And then, with just a bit of moisture in the air, or a sudden shower, the tresses went limp.

Along came the marcel, a professional treatment. That also was affected by the weather. It was an improvement on the home wave, however, because it produced the pattern of naturally curly hair.

The first permanents were nothing to yodel about. Locks were frizzy and a girl's head usually looked like a floor mop. But along came the wave 'fat, and before it took a big step forward.

Now we have several methods, all satisfactory, of transforming any girl into a "curly girl." If you are due for your spring appointment, you have your choice of the old-fashioned machine method, the "waveless" method, long bobs, the machineless and the cold wave, which gives a curl closer to the scalp than the other treatments.

A beautiful, successful wave and one that endures is the result of the operator's experience, technique and conscience. Strands must be even, winding just right, timing perfect according to the kind of hair that is being treated.

Should it happen that your wave goes limp in short order, it may be your own lack of knowledge as to its care. The slightest deposit of soap left after a shampoo will make the shafts lose their curl.

Brushing will not weaken a good permanent; in fact, it will make the waves more fluid and natural looking.

The home permanent is a joy to the girl who has to keep a weather eye on her beauty budget.

GRACIOUS.. LADIES!

Writers, Scientists to Pay Homage to Jules Verne May 25

By JACK GEE

PARIS (Reuters) — Writers and scientists from all over the world are to gather in Paris May 25 to pay homage to Jules Verne, the father of modern science-fiction, who died 50 years ago.

They will come from every one of the 52 countries into whose languages Verne's 104 books have been translated. They will commemorate one of the most famous explorers—who hardly ever left his armchair.

Scarcely a forecast by the bearded novelist has failed to materialize since he died in 1905 at 77.

The United States Navy last year named its first atomic submarine after the underwater craft Nautilus which figured in his book "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea."

Airliners now circle the globe in less than a week, far surpassing the exploit of Verne's British explorer, Phileas Fogg, in "Round the World in 80 days."

DISASTROUS JOURNEY

An American travel agency is already accepting bookings for the first return trip from the earth to the moon, predicted by Jules Verne in "Round the Moon."

In 1839, as a lad of 11, Verne smuggled himself aboard a schooner bound from the Breton port of Mantes for the Indies. Verne's quest was a coral necklace for his sweetheart.

But his father was waiting for him at the ship's first port of call, a few miles along the Atlantic coast. There, Jules' first venture into the unknown ended with a good whipping.

"I shall only travel in my dreams in future," he declared ruefully. And before he set foot abroad, he was to travel around the earth thousands of times in his imagination in the comfort of his study.

Unlike most writers of science-fiction, Verne based his predictions on careful calculations, which he constantly checked with French scholars. The writings of one of his helpers, mathematician Joseph Bertrand, who discovered the differential calculus, today line the bookshelves of the U. S. submarine Nautilus.

Few modern writers have achieved during their lifetime the world fame of Jules Verne. When his play "Michael Strogoff," set in Czarist Russia, ran for 400 performances at a Paris theatre, chefs adopted such names as "Clara Bensgna" and "Steak Tartare," which Verne invented for dishes served to his characters. Now these are everyday words in the international vocabulary of cooking.

INSPIRED FRANCE

Frenchmen are proud of Verne, not only as a writer but as the man whose spirit of adventure inspired many of his fellow countrymen to leave their native land to help build France's colonial empire. Marshal Louis Lyautey, who set up the French protectorate in Morocco, once was taken to ask by a civil servant who said of his plan for colonizing the territory: "But, my dear marshal, that's pure Jules Verne."

Lyautey retorted: "Of course it is. But for years past all men who have contributed to world progress have done things that are pure Jules Verne."

Little Benny's Note Book

Two hefty looking twins moved in down in the next block, but none of us fellows haven't met them yet on account of not knowing anybody to interduce us, and I was talking to Glasses Magee in frunt of his house, and he said, Hay look, there they are on their frunt steps.

Who's that sitting with them I said, and Glasses said, I cant see ways, they look too stuck up, I that far, it cant be anybody we know, because we dont know anybody knows them.

I dont want to know them, anysaid, and Glasses said, That's the way I feel. Let's take a walk right past them without even looking at them, he said.

Sure, O, lets act as if we thought they were invisible dust, I said.

And we went down in the next block and walked past their house looking proud, and who was sitting there with them but Dopey Shorty Judge, and when we got past I said, Good night, how the heck did that guy meet them?

That's what I wonder, Glasses said. Anyway, if wont be any same if we talk to Dopey, so let's go back again, he said.

Which we started to do, and the 2 twins got up and went in the house before we got there, and I said to Shorty, Hay, who interduced you to them?

Nobody, Shorty said. I just sat down and talked to them, and they talked back. I dont even know their names. I dont even know which one is which. I'm going to stay here in case they come out again, and which he said.

Which he kept on doing, and wenzo on dopey, kept on going back to our own block. Glasses saying, Heck, he's Which maybe he aint.

THIS YEAR "HOTCAKES ARE SELLING LIKE BUICKS"

Buick sales are a pretty bold headline . . . even for Buick. But let's face it—Buick sales are sweeping the field. And sweeping sales demand sweeping statements.

Naturally, there are important reasons for Buick's unprecedented sales advance.

One hits you the moment you see a Buick. And that is its headturning beauty. It's positively revolutionary.

And don't stop there. Consider the walloping performance of a 188-hp or 236-hp V8 engine—the whip-quick go and gas savings of Variable Pitch Dynaflow* Automatic Transmission—the silky loveliness of the Million Dollar Ride.

But the BIG push behind Buick's popularity is its range of prices. If you wish, you can actually buy a Buick for less than some models of the so-called low price cars! And this low-to-luxury price scale is carrying the Buick into the top ranks of the nation's sales leaders.

Want to see more? Hear more? Then head straight for your Buick dealer's showroom. Place your order for the car that's becoming the hit of the year, by far.

*Dynaflow Drive is standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Name Champions At National Wrestle Tourney

REGINA (CP)Three— Montreal wrestler won two national titles a year ago, moved to heavier bracket and won championships again at the Canadian amateur wrestling finals here Saturday night.

Bob Hornblower, 1954 middleweight titlist, won the 1955 light heavyweight crown with Paul Vachon of Montreal runner-up.

Henry Hudson, welterweight gold medalist last year, won a tough final with runner-up Ted Javelin of Winnipeg to become middleweight king.

Ruby Lelbovitch, who won lightweight laurels four years running, stepped up a notch and became welterweight king by pinning Montreal's flashy Earl Carrol in just 36 seconds. Carrol was runner-up.

SUDBURY WINNER

Antti Pilipula, a scrappy Sudbury youth, took the flyweight title held last year by David Clutchy of Timmins. He ended the tournament with the same points against record as Calgary's Harold Evans, but won the gold medal because of a victory over the Calgarian.

West and East shared the gold medals four and four, as western grapplers went on to take the remaining titles.

Regina's Denison brothers caught the fancy of the home-town spectators as they wrestled their way to two championships.

Danny Denison took the lightweight title by pinning Michael Fourier of the Royal Canadian Navy in Cornwall, Ont.

PINNED CALGARIAN

Young brother Butch pinned Rummy Seredick of Calgary just 47 seconds before the end of their bout to take the featherweight title, held last year by Armand Bernard of Montreal. Winnipeg's Fred Pospisch became runner-up.

Bantamweight gold medal went to Edmonton's Larry Shelton, who pinned Moose Jaw's Fred Bennett, the runner-up. The title was held last year by Adrian Pelletier of Verdun, Que.

Vern Platt of Winnipeg became king of the heavyweights as he decisioned Claude Clavet of Montreal. Clavet, in a crowd-pleasing bout with John Goldak of Edmonton, took the silver medal for runner-up.

Five Reach Quarter Finals

LONDON (CP)—India, France, Sweden, Chile and Belgium reached the quarter-finals of the European zone Davis Cup tennis competition during the weekend.

Robert Hallet defeated Alejo Russell 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, 6-2 in the final singles in Paris Sunday to give France a 3-2 victory over Argentina.

France will play in the quarter-finals against Sweden which won all five matches with Switzerland. Lennart Bergelin defeated Martin Froesch 3-6, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0 and Ulf Schmidt beat Paul Blondel 6-2, 6-3, 6-4 for the Swedish sweep at Montreux, Switzerland Sunday.

Junior Equals World's Record For 100 Yards

EVANSTON Ill. (AP) — Jim Golliday Northwestern junior ran the 100-yard dash in 9.3 seconds Saturday in the Big Ten relays to equal the world record and turn in the fastest time ever recorded in the conference.

Golliday whose best previous clocking was 9.3 in a triangular meet at Northwestern last week flashed the distance with a slight tailwind of 3.22 miles an hour. It matched the accepted world marks set by Mal Patton of Southern California in 1948 and by Hector Hogan of Australia a few years ago.

Northwestern track coach Russell Walter said he would submit Golliday's mark for world recognition. The maximum wind velocity for a world record acceptance is 4.0 miles per hour.

Golliday's effort cannot be accepted as a Big Ten record because it was not set in a championship meet. However 11 betters the 9.4 by Jesse Owens that has stood for the conference standard for 20 years.

Golliday 20-year-old Negro was the Big Ten and national collegiate 100-yard champion in 1952. A leg injury that year prevented him from trying out for the Olympics.

WINS BOWLING TITLE

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario champion Ray Bala of Windsor won the Canadian ten-pin singles bowling championship here Saturday night. In the final five games Bala rolled a total score of 974 to finish with an even 3000 in the 15-game tournament. Earlier in the day Bala had a five-string total of 992.

Elgins, Red Sox Oshawa Win In Intercounty

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Intercounty Baseball League swung into full action during the weekend with all six teams in action—Oshawa making their re-entry into the group with a win at home.

Although they used five pitchers, Oshawa came up with an 11-8 win over the London Majors in the motor city, while Brantford Red Sox shook the Terriers at Galt, 18-2.

St. Thomas Elgins took their home opener against Kitchener Panthers, with an 8-4 victory—aided by six Kitchener errors.

Must Pay Fines Or Else---

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Charlottetown Islanders were given until Sept. 1 to pay fines owed the Atlantic Coast Senior Hockey League when the league met here Sunday.

The ACSHL will recommend the suspension of the Charlottetown Forum and club director Forrest E. Clow from organized hockey until the claim has been satisfied, league officials said after the meeting.

A Charlottetown appeal on behalf of the hockey club and players Danny O'Connor and Bob Gray, against fines assessed by the league following a near-riot in the Moncton Stadium March 5, was turned down.

Charlottetown was fined $150, O'Connor $125 and Gray $25. The fines were guaranteed by the Islanders club, and the league wants them paid.

Imperial Oil's new research findings mean extra mileage for Canadian drivers

Whether your car is new or old...improved Esso gasolines and new Marvelube motor oil used together—

1. Give you more mileage.
2. Improve your car's getaway.
3. Cut down engine deposits that rob your car of power.

Here's proof from Imperial Oil's research laboratories

Engine deposits handicap your car's performance. Improved Esso and Esso Extra are specially formulated to burn cleaner in your engine, leaving less deposit. Here is one of the many stages of research on these improved gasolines at Imperial Oil's laboratories.

New Marvelube has special qualities that keep engine deposits to a minimum. Three years of laboratory tests prove that when this new motor oil is used with improved Esso or Esso Extra Gasolines there is an even greater reduction in engine deposits.

In addition to the laboratory tests, almost three years of road tests prove conclusively that when the "matched pair" of Marvelube and Esso Gasolines is used the reduction in engine deposits is so great the result is fast getaway, more mileage.

Drive in today—prove to yourself the better performance you can get.

White Sox Close In On Indians With Wins Over Senators; Brooks Split

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

IT COULD BE!

A lot of the experts south of the border, other than the British contingent, are of the opinion Rocky Marciano will concentrate his attack on Don Cockell's well-upholstered midriff tonight when ces meet in one or more of his flicks thunderbolts in the jaw—and wrap up another successful defence of his heavyweight crown.

And one of the Marciano express punches could easily end the fray since Rocky is listed as one of the top ten deadliest sleep-producers in the history of modern boxing.

Here is how they rate Rocky Marciano vs. Jersey Joe Walcott, Sept. 23, 1953; Jack Dempsey vs. Fred Fulton, July 27, 1918; Joe Louis vs. Paulino Uzcudun, Dec. 13, 1935; Jack Johnson vs. Stanley Ketchel, Oct. 16, 1909; Stanley Ketchel vs. Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, March 29, 1909; Joe Walcott vs. Joe Choynski, Feb. 25, 1900; Bob Fitzsimmons vs. Jim Corbett, March 17, 1897; Joe Gans vs. Frank Erne, May 21, 1902; Jack Sharkey vs. Tommy Loughran, Sept. 26, 1930; Max Baer vs. Ernie Schaaf, Aug. 21, 1932.

It was the right to Jersey Joe's chin in the 13th round that won the title for Marciano. Ray Miller, former referee, wrote in a magazine article: "His supernatural nerves are unconquered. But Walcott still felt the effect in their second fight." The re-match did not last a round. Walcott was down and out while squatting on the floor.

Uzcudun could take plenty of punishment but he couldn't take the one Louis nailed him with. It was a right cross so powerful that it split the matchdropper's cheek and a tooth protruded. It came in the first round.

Uzcudun could take plenty of punishment but he couldn't take the one Louis nailed him with. It was a right cross so powerful that it split the matchdropper's cheek and a tooth protruded. It came in the first round.

The Johnson-Ketchel fight ended abruptly after an alleged double-cross on the part of Willis Britt, Ketchel's manager.

The story goes that Johnson was supposed to let Ketchel go the limit. But Britt told his man to go for the knockout in the 12th round. Ketchel floored Johnson and the surprised negro got up in a fury and landed an uppercut that nearly tore Ketchel's head off. Two of Ketchel's teeth were found in Johnson's glove after the fight.

In his fight with Philadelphia Jack O'Brien, Ketchel met one of the cleverest boxers in the business. O'Brien was far ahead in points at the end of the eighth round. Ketchel threw a desperation left that connected and O'Brien went down, his head in the resin bag. He did not "come to" for 20 minutes.

The original Joe Walcott was one of the greatest fighters of all-time. He gave away 50 pounds to Joe Choynski, knocked him down three times in the first round and flattened him in the seventh.

Bob Fitzsimmons, the knock-kneed blacksmith from New Zealand, was a physical freak. All his weight was from the waist up. Corbett, a master boxer, outpointed Fitz until the 14th round when Ruby Robert landed a left to the ribs followed by a left to the heart that perforated Gentleman Jim. This was the famed solar plexus punch.

Joe Gans, raised the best lightweight of all times, flattened Frank Erne, an imposing challenger, after a minute and forty seconds of the first round. He nailed him with a terrific right as Erne was coming in. Only eight punches were thrown.

Tommy Loughran, a classic boxer, looked an easy winner over Jack Sharkey. Then Sharkey feinted a left to the body and followed it with a crushing right to the head. Loughran did not come to until he was in his dressing room.

Then came the Maxie Baer-Ernie Schaaf fight. The best was almost over when Baer swung an overhand right that landed flush on Schaaf's chin. He suffered a hemorrhage of the brain and should have retired. But he fought Primo Carnera in New York six months later. It looked like a fake when Schaaf went down from a light left jab, but he failed to rally and died from a blow he received six months earlier.

So, better give your ears to the radio sharp at 11 o'clock tonight. That "blockbuster" may come sooner than you think. And don't be any later than the sixth or seventh rounds—or you may miss the fireworks. The fight is not being televised locally.

Donovan Hurls Third Shutout As Birds Squeeze Lemon 4-1; Spooner Loses; 'Newk' Wins 5

By The Associated Press

Every day in every way Detroit's Harvey Kuenn is proving he not only is the American League's outstanding shortstop but also one of the best young hitters in baseball.

The $55,000 bonus beauty, a batgirl at double the price, was the Tigers' big hitter Sunday as the fourth placers divided a doubleheader with Boston to stay within 4½ games of the league-leading Cleveland Indians. Kuenn rapped seven hits in the twin bill, getting three in the first game, won by Boston 10-4, and four in the second, won by Detroit 9-4. He scored three times, drove in two and boosted his batting mark to a runaway .421.

WITHIN ONE GAME

Chicago's White Sox moved to within one game of the Indians with a 3-0 and 5-4 doubleheader victory over Washington. Bobby Shantz dished a six-hitter at Kansas City downed New York 4-3 in the first game, won by Turley struck out 12 as the Yankees won the second 8-4. Mike Garcia buried a seven-hit job at Boston as the Cleveland a split after Jim Wilson surprised the Red Sox by shutting the Orioles to a 4-1 victory over Bob Lemon.

There was little change in the National League picture as six teams split three doubleheaders. In the lone single game, St. Louis defeated Pittsburgh 2-1. Cincinnati routed Brooklyn 9-3, and Brooklyn 11-4 after the Dodgers had won the opener 7-2. Milwaukee split with Philadelphia 2-1 and 5-3. Chicago and San Francisco broke even in a 3-0 and 8-4 triumph after the Chicago Cubs had captured the opener 5-3. Philadelphia stopped a 13-game losing streak as Robin Roberts whipped Milwaukee 4-3. Only before the Braves had come from behind to nip the Phillies 6-5 in the opener.

BEST PITCHING

So far, this is easily the best season for Kuenn, who hasn't endured a slump since Dick Donovan in their drive to overtake the Indians. The 24-year-old righthander pitched his third shutout and his fourth victory with a three-hitter against Washington's Chuck Stobbs. Kuenn, who had an 18-8 record at Atlanta after failures with Milwaukee and Detroit, has allowed only one run in his last 31 innings. Reserve catcher Ned Garver doubled off loser Bob Porterfield broke up the shutout in the ninth. Yoodlow's streak was beaten Sandy Consuegra his third victory in relief.

Chicago outfield star Minnie Minoso twisted his right foot and had to leave the game. X-rays were to be taken today to determine the extent of the injury.

BEATS LEMON

A crowd of 34,100, third largest in Baltimore history, saw Wilson, the six-foot-five, 200-pound Negro, limit hits in seven innings before they finally scored. Gene Woodling's first homer of the season and three singles produced the winning runs against Lemon in the second inning. Garcia allowed seven hits, struck out six and didn't walk a man in the second game.

The diminutive Shantz, making a scene comeback, pitched his third victory of the season and his second over the Yankees. The 5-4½ lefty, staked to a 4-0 first inning lead featured by Bill Wilson's three-run homer, blanked the Yanks on two hits until the sixth. Irv Noren's inside-the-park homer with the bases full helped Turley win his sixth game against one defeat in the nightcap.

The Phillies missed equalling Chalk Dodger's losing streak by one when Roberts limited the Braves to seven hits to halt a 13-game losing streak. A six-run third inning assured Robin of his fourth triumph, almost half of Philadelphia's nine victories.

Eddie Mathews slammed two homers—good for four runs but it was Del Crandall's single that provided the Braves' winning run in the eighth inning of the opener.

The largest crowd of the day, 42,351, saw the doubleheader in Milwaukee. In all, a total of 237,462 watched the seven doubleheaders and one single game.

Karl Spooner, who pitched shutouts in his only two starts last season, was routed in the third inning in his first 1955 start. Ted Kluszewski drove in five runs with three singles and his eighth home run of the season for the Reds. Duke Snider rapped his 11th homer as Brooklyn's Don Newcombe gained his fifth victory without a defeat with a seven-hitter in the first game.

Don Mueller's pinch hit single in the Giants' six-run winning rally in the nightcap enabled him to equal the New York club record of 13 consecutive hitting games set by Freddy Lindstrom in 1930.

Wininger Wins Hot Springs Golf Tourney

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Bo Wininger of Oklahoma City Sunday shot a near-perfect round of golf for the fourth straight day for a 68, four under par, to win the $15,000 Hot Springs open by five strokes. He shot 67-67-68-68 for 270.

Cary Middlecoff of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., shot 68 and tied for second money with Doug Ford, also of Kiamesha Lake at 275. Marty Furgol of Lemont, Ill., another 68 shooter, had a 277.

Wininger was 18 strokes under par for the 72 holes over the 6,971-yard, par 72 course at Hot Springs Country Club. Wininger reached every green except three in regulation figures, and on two of those three he was only a foot or so long.

Jerry Kesselring of Toronto, nine strokes behind the leader when play began Sunday, was not among the top 20 low scorers.

Johnny Palmer of Charlotte, N.C., finished behind Wininger at the start of the final round, went over par for the first time and had to settle for sixth place at 279.

Paul Harney of Worcester, Mass., a young pro not yet eligible for prize money, made a hole-in-one on the 180-yard 11th hole. He had a 67 after three-straight 72s for a total of 286.

Perez, Shirai Sign for Bout

TOKYO (AP)—World flyweight champion Pascual Perez of Argentina and Yoshio Shirai of Japan today signed a contract for their 15-round title fight here May 30.

The signing was only a formality. Perez arrived and the date was agreed upon last week, after weeks of dispute.

Perez lifted the flyweight crown from Shirai last November.

Rocky Marciano 8-1 Favorite Over Britain's Don Cockell

By—BOB MYERS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Undefeated Rocky Marciano puts his treasured world heavyweight title on the line for the fifth time tonight and practically no one thinks that challenger Don Cockell of England will take it away from the blockbuster from Brockton, Mass.

The 26-year-old champion has never been beaten in his 47 fights, dating back to his ring debut in 1947. Most of the betting people are laying 8-1 that Rocky will run his record to 48 tonight.

Few, indeed, give the pudgy, 26-year-old hog farmer from Horam much of a chance. But the full 15 rounds. Marciano's blasting fists they believe, will make the British Empire titleholder No. 42 on the Rock's kayo record.

NO TELEVISION

The scrap is set to go on at 11 p.m. EDT in Kezar Stadium here. The fight will be broadcast on radio by NBC but there will be no home television. It will be televised one-closed circuit for screening in 83 theatres in 58 cities.

The weatherman promised clear skies and a crisp 50-degree temperature.

Promoters Jimmy Murray and Leo Flinsaa, in conjunction with the International Boxing Club, remained hopeful that 60,000 fans will pay $400,000 for seats scaled from $40 to $5.

Marciano weighed 189 pounds when he wound up training—with a total of 600 rounds—two days ago. Cockell, after 268 rounds of boxing, was down to 207.

ROCK IMPRESSES

Marciano, who won the championship with a 13-round knockout over Jersey Joe Walcott Sept. 23, 1952, in Philadelphia, has looked great in his workouts.

The key question about the durable Rock, however, is his nose. Sliced badly on the right heel in the second Ezzard Charles fight last Sept. 17 in New York, the nose was given a plastic reconstruction job.

The champion and his manager, Al Weill, believe the nose will stand up under Cockell's punches. But no one really knows for certain because actually the nose has not been given a real belt. A special protective mask protected it during training.

The champion cuts rather easily, too, but nothing thus far has stopped Rocky. Only once, in the title match with Walcott, has he ever been floored in formal combat.

Round-belly Don has fought 72 times. He has won 56, 36 by knockout, and has been stopped five times.

REMEMBER WHEN
By The Canadian Press
World heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano knocked out Jersey Joe Walcott in the first round at Chicago two years ago tomorrow night. Marciano had taken 13 rounds to knock out the Negro veteran when Rocky won the title in September, 1952, but this time he ended Walcott's comeback with stunning speed.

Albert Wins, Records Broken In Quinte COSSA Track Meet

Showing power in senior boys' and senior girls' entries, Albert College raced to a clean-cut victory over a field of ten schools here Saturday to win the COSSA Bay of Quinte District annual track and field meet. Albert scored an over-all point age of 77 1/2.

C. GILBERT

Belleville Collegiate Institute, winners of the meet for the past two years finished second with 58 1/2 points. Brighton High School with a brilliant performance for a school of its size came third with forty-record points with Napanee CI in fourth spot with 36 pts.

In order followed Quinte Secondary School in its first year of entry, 33 points; Trenton HS, 25; CCI, 14; Picton CI, 8; North Hastings, 7 and Deseronto CI, 4.

Fifteen new records were established with Albert and BCI claiming four each, Trenton three; Napanee two and Brighton and OSD one each.

Albert College set new marks in the boys' mile and senior mile relay and in the senior girls' 50 and 75 yard dashes. BCI broke records in the intermediate boys' 440 and the 880 relay, the running broad jump and the senior girls' standing long broad jump. Trenton High School set new records for the intermediate boys' 100 and 220 dashes and the junior boys' discus throw. Napanee claimed new marks in the junior boys' 440 and the junior girls' standing broad jump. Brighton topped the mark in the senior girls' 220 relay while OSD set a new record in the junior girls' 220 relay.

WON ALL-ROUND TITLE

Albert won the all-round boys' championship with a mark of 53 1/2 points with BCI capturing the all-round girls' title with 23 points. Albert won the senior boys' title with 43 1/2; BCI the intermediate with 20 points and Quinte 8½ the junior crown with 18 points. Albert also won the senior girls' title with BCI taking intermediate honors.

Senior boys' champion is Gavin Donaldson of Albert. Intermediate championship honors were divided by B. Ray, BCI and D. Cottrell, Trenton. H. Scott, Trenton is taking the junior crown.

Cyntallus Gilbert of Bermuda, running under Albert colors captured the senior girls' championship with Peggy Workman, BCI taking intermediate honors. Rose Hodgins, Napanee CI is the new junior champion.

While as the establishment of 28 meet records would indicate, there were plenty of brilliant individual and collective performances perhaps the upset of the meet was the defeat of the BCI sprint star Barry Workman, beaten in both the 100 and 220 dashes by Don Cottrell of Trenton. Cottrell broke the record for the 100 in the fast time of 10 4/10 seconds and tied the mark of 25 seconds in the 220.

A feature of the meet was the mile race which was taken by Albert's Bob Rupert, 1954 dominion champion in a new record time of 4.46.8/10. The former mark was 4.54.2/10s. Dave Scott, also of Albert, last year's COSSA champion, Bill Gault, BCI distance star and Gary Minaker of Picton were entered.

Rupert took the lead and was never headed with Scott hanging in second for the first 880. He dropped back to 4th spot and Minaker came fast to outlast Gault for second place.

The BCI relay team winners in Hamilton recently set a new record in their specialty the 880 relay covering the distance in 1.39 8/10 seconds as against the old mark set by Albert in 1951 of 1.43 8/10 seconds. The Albert College senior mile relay team also established a new mark of 3.48 seconds as against the former record of 3.56 5/10.

BRILLIANT PERFORMANCE

In a sensational performance 18 year-old Custallus Gilbert of Albert, streaked to brilliant victories in the 50 and 75-yard senior girls' dashes. She set two new records winning the 50 in 6 2/10 seconds and the 75 in 8 7/10 seconds. It was stated her record for the 75 is equal to anything established in Canada over the past years. She also won the running high jump at four feet, two inches and could have done better if forced.

Winners, seconds and thirds of the Quinte District are entitled to enter the COSSA championships being held in Peterborough Saturday, May 21. It is expected a large number will enter.

Crests for the winners and ribbons for the first, second and third in all events will be mailed to the various schools as soon as they arrive.

The meet was one of the best in years. It attracted some 200 entries from 280 competitors. Another feature was the outstanding showing of the Quinte Secondary School and Trenton High School in their first year of competition. Quinte won the junior boys' championship in "its first time out".

N. A. "Pete" Beach, COSSA secretary, paid tribute to the various officials whose help was invaluable in making the meet such a success. Those included: Picton, Messrs. Meddings and Garowitz; BCI, H. M. Townsend and Mr. Ewald; Quinte, Messrs. Hayman and Ronald; Napanee, Mr. Stukey; Brighton, Mr. Thompson; Bancroft, Mr. Swirson; Albert, Mr. Irwin and Mr. J. MacKenzie, and Messrs. C. Beaton, D. Boylan, G. Franklin and J. Wahabadi.

Leafs, Royals Tied for Top In International

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A mathematical quirk today dropped Toronto Maple Leafs into a first-place tie in percentages with Montreal Royals in the International League chase.

Leafs were in first place by one percentage point after Saturday's action. They split a doubleheader with Royals Sunday and must have been surprised to find that they owned identical .577 averages. The oddity came about because Royals have won two more and lost one more than Leafs.

Toronto won Sunday's opener 7-5, coming from behind twice with Connie Johnson struggling all the way for the victory. Archie Wilson and Loren Babe hit home runs off loser Ken Lehman for the winners.

WON NO. 2

Royals came back to win the nightcap 4-3 for their first triumph in the four-game series. Pete Wojey yielded eight hits but lasted to win No. 2 against no losses.

In other action, Cuban Sugar Kings won a doubleheader from Syracuse Chiefs 2-3 and 6-4; Rochester Red Wings swept a pair from Buffalo Bisons 5-4 and 12-6; and Richmond and Columbus split a twin bill Jets taking the first 4-3 and the Virginians the second 1-0.

Sugar Kings now have won six straight over the tailenders, although they had to struggle 11 innings in the opener.

The red hot Red Wings have won 14 of their last 17 games, while their twin triumph over Buffalo extended Bisons' losing skein to six. Rochester provided the winning margin in the opener, while in the nightcap, Wings piled up a 16-run lead before Bisons could score.

Batting—Harvey Kuenn, Tigers: Rapped seven hits as Detroit divided a doubleheader with Boston. Kuenn collected two singles and a double in the Red Sox' first game 10-4 victory and added three singles and a two-bagger in the Tigers' 9-3 second game triumph.

Pitching—Dick Donovan, White Sox: The 27-year-old righthander pitched a three-hit 3-0 victory over Washington for his fourth triumph of the season and his third shutout. Chicago also won the second game 5-4.

Golf Open Won By Dutch Harrison

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Dutch Harrison of St. Louis, Mo., hung on with a final par 70 to win the White Sulphur Springs golf open Sunday.

Ed (Porky) Oliver of Lemont, Ill., needed only a par on the 140-yard 18th hole to equal Harrison's final total of 280 but he failed to sink the long putt needed for his par.

It was a bitter ending for Oliver whose 64 was the best final score, but he had to be satisfied with tying three others at 270 for second place instead of Harrison for the first prize of $2,000.

Mike Souchak of Durham, N.C., Jack Burke Jr., of Kiamesha Lake and Fred Thomson of Melbourne, Australia, were also runners-up.

Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, Tex., pulled himself up to the third best final score of 271 with a 66 finale. Sam Snead, host pro, slumped to a tie with four others at 272.

FREDERICTON (CP)—Canadian football officials huddled here during the weekend by Maritime coaches and officials under guidance of the Gill University coach Larry Sullivan.

The undertaking, termed a great success, was jointly sponsored by McGill and the host University of New Brunswick.

Sullivan adapted his course to the requests of the nearly 40 men on hand. Officials of New Brunswick Canadian Rugby Football Union teams were present as well as delegates from most major colleges in New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

Rogers' Continued Good Health Important to a Lot of People

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Roy Rogers had a sore throat the other day. The doctor was summoned to the set and a lot of worried-looking people walked around for the verdict.

Virus or any disability is alarming within the commercial empire of this 43-year-old cowboy king. When a filmed television show is in production, time is literally money.

A few minutes later Rogers, looking healthy but unhappy in his pancake makeup, came out to report that the doctor said he could keep working. Dale, his wife, still looked worried but buckled on her gun and went to work rehearsing with Pat Brady, the comic-relief.

Everybody relaxed. The show would go on.

MANY DEPEND ON ROY

Rogers' continued good health is important to a lot of people. His TV programs are only a slice of the melon. Operating through fees, related corporate structures, he draws income from motion pictures, radio, rodeos, personal appearance tours, book, comic-book and magazine publishing, the recording industry, the toy industry, music publishing and recordings.

Each year, for example, he and Dale have given the use of their names and characterizations to 300 manufactured items ranging from bedspreads to miniature musical instruments, netting them, collective, a three-per-cent royalty on profits. From all sources, educated guesses place the annual Rogers income in the neighborhood of $2,000,000.

Polls have shown that their TV audience is 85-per-cent adult, but they aim directly at children, even in the broad, obvious comedy sequences. They asked them whether they are disturbed by complaints against the violence, shooting and fighting in the features and shorts.

CAREFUL ABOUT VIOLENCE

"First of all," said Dale, "this is entertainment. We can't force children to watch us. If we don't, we will turn us on only if they're interested.

"Roy is careful to use violence only when it is forced on him. Also, we are careful to make our villains very repulsive. Too often the villains are more attractive to children than the hero. We make sure that doesn't happen with our shows."

Aside from all the money that keeps rolling in, Roy could pass for the average father. He, Dale and five of their seven children from previous marriages and adoptions live in a white stucco ranch house at Encino, 30 miles from Hollywood in the San Fernando valley.

All the children are born-happy and ride a lot around the 300-acre place. Not Roy, any more. He got enough in his youth. Two of the few quotes he got off camel at the end of the day's shooting:

"I must have climbed on and off that old Trigger 700 times today," he muttered.

HAS PRIVATE TRAINER

Trigger, bought for $2,500-in-1938, lives with his private trainer in Hollywood. Bullet, Roy's six-year-old German shepherd dog, also has his own trainer and Hollywood home. Both animals must be kept in training, and Roy hasn't got the time to do it.

Although he doesn't smoke or drink, he's not quite the simple opposite of the western range. He wears custom-tailored riding pants and rides around in a sleek new foreign sports car.

Roy and Dale have huge western wardrobes which include spangly stuff. But on TV they stick rigidly to two riding uniforms, of which they have many duplicates. By this means it is possible to put riding scenes when a program runs short with colloquial from old films.

That's why, sometimes, you get the feeling that you've seen Roy take the same north fork in the on the outlaw's back at the same spot in the road, and roll with him down the same bank. Maybe you have.

SANTEE MISSED AGAIN

FRESNO Calif. (AP)—Wes Santee missed again Saturday in his bid for a 4-minute mile in the feature event of the annual west coast relays. He ran the distance in 4 minutes 6½ seconds.

The time was Santee's second best of this outdoor season's making behind his 4:00.8 at the Texas relays a month ago.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

No guarantee of strength goes with your first simple response to a takeout double. When no intervening bid relieves you of the force to bid something, whatever you may be with weakness.

At such a time your first choice (by rule) is any four cards or more in an unbid major suit. These may be of any size. Lacking such, your second choice is your longest unbid minor suit.

A letter tells me what happened in this deal:

♠ 10 9 7 3
♥ J
♦ K 3
♣ 10 8 6 5 3 2

WEST
♠ A K 8
♥ 6 4 2
♦ A 10 6 4
♣ Q J 7

EAST
♠ J 5
♥ 10 8 7 3
♦ J 9 8 7 5

SOUTH
♠ Q 6 4 2
♥ A K 9 5
♦ Q 9
♣ A K 4

This is the reported bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	Double	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 No-trump	All pass

West complains that his partner's response in diamonds gave an idea of strength in that suit. He counted on this strength to help make game in no-trump despite weak stoppers elsewhere.

If west gambles for a no-trump game he should be willing to take the consequences. It is not fair to place that bid on the strength of responses from east. Because east followed rule.

East lacked four or more cards in spades; the only unbid major suit. His only choice was his longest unbid minor. This he showed, promising nothing other than that it was his longest.

The force of the takeout double did not permit east to pass. He is unable to select other cards to hold what his partner would like. There was nothing else east could do about it.

He might have broken all the best traditions and passed. But this would have been hell in too many ways. Or he could have led with a bid in spades of which he has only two cards.

So, east did the right thing by rule. If west gambled and lost, it was probably not the first time. And it will not be the last.

Wins Honors At Swim Meet

OTTAWA (CP) — A 21-year-old Montreal girl, Elsa Lindell, captured top honors at the annual Canadian Amateur Synchronized Swimming championships Saturday for the second year running.

Miss Lindell, representing the Canadian Legion Swimming Club of Montreal, took home with her the Frances Gale Trophy, top award of the meet and symbolic of the Canadian championship.

To win she had to get the greatest total points in competition for the Seller Trophy, the Brennan Trophy and the Daily Trophy. Not only did she have the highest total but she won all three other trophies to boot. Her scores were 72.5 points including Mrs. Margaret Sharpe, president.

Top honors for team swimming went to the Montreal Swimming Club of Peterborough, Ont., coached by Mrs. Penny Fletcher.

The 29-year-old association received last year's slate of officers, including Mrs. Margaret Sharpe, Toronto, president.

Saints Edge Orfuns 6-3

The Belleville Orfuns, a new entry in the Belleville and District softball league, trekked to Kingston over the week-end and were beaten 6-3 in an exhibition game with the Kingston Penitentiary Saints.

Pitchers Bob Green of the local squad and Tom Blake for the Pensine hooked up in a pitchers duel, each allowing only two hits but both allowing a couple of runs on walks and wild pitches.

The winners went in front 3-0 in the initial frame, Green walking in bases full before a Saint batter looped a double to clean the sacks. They held the lead but the game was in doubt until the final out.

Don Locke and Doug Hull were the only Belleville players to hit safely, each cracking a single, Locke's driving in a run. Bob Hunter pitched the last inning for Bill Spafford's crew.

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Fine possibilities, but there are evidences of contention too. Be reluctant to take chances or risk earnings on unfamiliar ventures. Don't join groups without investigating well.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Some misleading conditions to watch carefully. Don't be misguided by flowery aggressive salesmen. "Count your change," it were and keep eyes and ears open. realize the possibilities of hazards.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Give your imagination free rein. Play up ingenious ideas—reasonably of course. Don't object to suggestions therein may lay your rus gains direction.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — If prudent about business and finances, you can make appreciable headway now. Be sociable, don't hold little personal enmities.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — A moderate sort of day that can be good otherwise, depending on your approach and handling of situations. Give your talents a break. Go after business, problems in a systematic manner and you will achieve.

August 23 to September 22 — Be on the lookout for unexpected, the unusual. A change could be for the better. Maintain an optimistic, confident attitude.

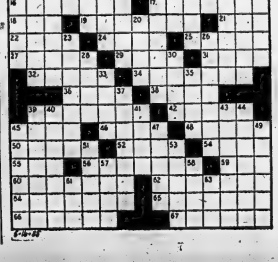
September 24 to October 23 — With discreet intelligent management your outlook can be favorable in both personal and business matters. Let no good opportunity get by. Stress essentials, worthwhile matters.

October 24 to November 22 — You may have to settle for a little less than you had anticipated. But don't be hasty and have to retrace your steps. Don't let minor irritations annoy you, Be patient throughout.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarian) Your best prospects are in the mental department. Your inner circle, home, immediate activities are also favored if you are at ease and maintain your sense of humor.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn)—There will be many avenues open to you but only one is right and best. Let your conscience and careful judgment govern your moves. Review facts first; don't rely on hearsay or chance.

January 22 to February 20 — (Aquarius)—Lay plans early. Day may present some problems, contention, perhaps hard opposition. Loyalty to your tasks and to true friends will bring happiness, assistance when least expected.



February 21 to March 20 — (Pisces)—Matters pertaining to money, income, work, business are hints now. Do only what you know is right, and aim to be well informed on all important matters

You born today are under Gemini and have a dual sort of nature, a vibrant personality. Cultivate the habit of reasoning things out before speaking; it helps prevent tactlessness. You can reach the heights in business, a profession, or in the artistic world when you earnestly, honestly strive. Read, seek more knowledge always. You are roundly capable, adaptable, grasp things readily; should achieve top goals. Just don't be hasty occasionally or skip over things too quickly. Birthdy of Victoria, Queen of England.

Passion for Modern Design One Reason for Mounting Toll

MONTREAL (CP) — James J. Cotter, secretary of the Automotive Safety Commission of Boston, believes that the passion for modern design in motor cars is one reason for the increasing traffic death toll.

Mr. Cotter spoke at a three-nation conference on the medical aspect of traffic accidents here.

Delegates agreed the chief cause of highway deaths is drivers themselves, but Mr. Cotter declared that modern automobile design is a contributing factor.

"If any other machine in the world had such a continuing record of killing and injuring its operators and others, would there not be, an overwhelming demand that it be made safe to operate!" he said.

Mr. Cotter declared the car driver sits in a "safe-like chaise lounge instead of more back-toward the rear" with his vision blocked by an enormous engine hood and mudguards.

"It is as senseless to place a driver behind the hood as it would be for the eyes of a horse to be back behind the shoulders," he said.

"The eyes of every surviving species from the beginning of time have been in front until that deadly blunderbuss, the automobile, hoodwinked people into blindly accepting a violation of natural law."

Mr. Cotter also declared that front-seat engines make cars unduly heavy in the forward portion of the machine, imparting a tendency to skid.

In contrast with this view, Prof. John O. Moore of Cornell Medical College's section for auto-crash research declared that the "safest driver would be worse" by putting engines in the rear. He received support from Prof. D. Ross Severy, who described experiments at the University of California.

Mr. Cotter also criticized wind-shields, stating "the name is a misnomer. What is called a windshield has become a skylight, tilted to the sky. Skylights let light in, but don't encourage looking out."

In another lecture, Prof. Paul Miles of the Washington University School of Medicine condemned green-tinted winds ields for night driving. He also criticized the wearing of pink-tinted glasses designed to minimize sunlight glare but often worn at night simply from force of habit.

Teaching on the difficulty of seeing over modern engine hoods, Prof. Miles suggested small-size periscopes be installed in cars for special situations, such as starting out from a parking place in congested traffic.

Textile Unions Plan to Discuss Unification

HAMILTON (CP) — Representatives of two of Canada's three major textile workers' groups will soon start discussions aimed at eventual unification.

On Saturday 150 delegates representing 20,000 members of the Textile Workers' Union of America (CIO-CCL) ordered their Canadian director, A. R. Mosher, to begin a gin preliminary unity talks with officials of the 5,000 - member United Textile Workers of America (AFL-TLC) as soon as possible.

The new talks could be made at the end of their three-day second biennial conference held here last week.

Resolutions were also passed by TWUA delegates unanimously endorsing the movement towards unity by the Canadian Congress of Labor and the Trades and Labor Congress in Canada and the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations in the United States.

Officials of the Full-Fashioned Hosiery locals within the TWUA today established a unity council numbers in the 11,000-member National Federation of Hosiery Workers which is affiliated with the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor.

They planned joint action against employers who are demanding substantial wage cuts throughout their section of the textile industry.

Unity of the Canadian workers' unions, and their action in co-operation with the Canadian Congress of Labor, would give employees in the textile industry a unified front on a national scale.

Mallard Hen Holding Up Job Has Her Brood

CHICAGO (AP)—A setting mallard hen, which refused to delay a $100,000,000 construction project, hatched her brood of nine ducklings Saturday.

As a result work on Chicago's new expressway system could continue Michigan is to get back on schedule today.

Three weeks ago two nesting ducks were found in the path of a cofer dam being built around the project. One hen was setting on nine eggs; the other on five. Workmen refused to disturb either.

Later, Philip Connell, president of the contracting company doing the work, agreed to change the plans so workmen could work on the other end of the dam.

As construction neared the duck-crested one-way lead Wednesday, workers grew impatient. They chased off the hen with the five eggs. The eggs were placed in a clay-lasting oven with the temperature approximating that of a mother mallard.

But the men decided to give a little more time to the hen with nine eggs.

A city engineer, Frank Delmonte, has assumed the role of "chief mother duck" for the five eggs in the oven. Every day he turns the eggs, presumably as the mallard hen would have done. He expects them to hatch about June 1.

Mrs. Deitemeyer Of Nebraska Is Mrs. America

ORMOND BEACH, Fla. (CP)—Mrs. Ramona Deitemeyer, blue-eyed Sunday school teacher from Nebraska, Saturday became Mrs. America of 1955.

The 35-year-old mother of five was chosen from among 40 candidates representing 40 states and the District of Columbia after four days of home-making competition. She is the first mother in the pageant's 17-year history there was no bathing suit contest.

Mrs. Shirley Wray, 37, of Rockford, Ill., whose parents emigrated to the United States from Dauphin, Man., 28 years ago, was still in the running after the original field was trimmed to 19. Mrs. Wray's grandparents still live in Stratford.

Mrs. Billie Dorris, 37, of Nashville, Tenn., was runner-up and Miss Mrs. America for 1955. Kathleen Girvan, 32, of Chino, Calif.

Mrs. Deitemeyer also teaches a second-grade Sunday school class in Lincoln, Neb., was $15,000 worth of prizes including a European tour for herself and husband Carl, who edits a Nebraska fur magazine.

Assiniboine River At Brandon Tops Flood Peaks

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—The Assiniboine river continued on the rampage in Brandon Saturday, cresting the weekend, topping the 1954 and 1950 flood peaks late Sunday.

Reports from upstream said Hails bridge, 18 miles west of Brandon, was the only north-south span still open west of the city. District residents were asked by government Sunday to work to keep this bridge open.

Another five bridges crossing the Assiniboine between Brandon and Virden now have been cut off by the river. Virden is 50 road miles west of Brandon.

Premier Creighton of Brandon and local civil defence director Ken Thompson said a warning to 50 residents inside the dikes here, telling them what to do in case of a dike breaks.

DIKE STILL HOLDS

The earthen wall, reinforced by huge boulders and chunks of concrete, and raised continually as the river became higher, Sunday night was holding back about seven feet of water in many places.

If it breaks under the tremendous pressure, water will cover about 300 acres of low-lying residential and market garden land in the city flats.

Mayor Creighton said arrangements have been completed to patrol the dike around the clock and, in the event of a break, warning will be given by long blast of a civil defence siren placed on a school in the south-east of the city.

He said all members of the 50 families have been warned to be ready to evacuate, in a moment's notice should the general alarm be sounded. Mr. Rowe said civil defence trucks and volunteers will be available to provide any assistance required as long as the trucks can operate over the roads.

Liberal Leader Opens Campaign In Northern Ont.

SUDBURY (CP)—Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Liberal leader, said Saturday his party is engaged in its greatest crusade for good government in Ontario since 1934 when the Liberals scored a sweeping victory.

He opened a week-long tour of northern Ontario in the June 9 Ontario election campaign with a speech at an afternoon nominating convention at nearby Garson, the Nickel Belt riding. At night he spoke on a Sudbury television program and Sunday left by train for Fort William.

At Garson, the 51-year-old leader, leading the provincial party into an election the second time in his 29-year career in the Ontario House, told 125 convention delegates the Liberal party "is in this fight to win the election because we can best interpret the needs of the people of Ontario."

He outlined his 10-point election platform and listed increased grants which he said a Liberal government would give for highways and education.

INDIGENT COSTS

He promised that a Liberal government would "take over the cost of maintaining indigent patients in hospitals" and would "abolish the Progressive Conservative government for what he called its refusal to implement a health insurance scheme.

"We were told the Ontario government favored health insurance," he said. "But we were also told it couldn't be implemented because there were not sufficient hospital beds."

"They have certainly had plenty of time in 12 years of government to build more."

He said Quebec pays $4,000 in grants per year for each hospital bed but that Ontario pays only $1,-000. "I suggest we should raise that to at least $2,000."

Mr. Oliver said the increased grants outlined in his platform would cost no more than an additional $35,000,000 and suggested the money would be available because "last year the Ontario government declared a surplus of $30,000,000."

NAMED CANDIDATE

Baxter Ricard, Sudbury radio station executive, was named Liberal candidate in Sudbury to fight the election. Progressive Conservative candidate in the riding is Real Belisle, a Chelmsford farmer.

Two other candidates contested the nomination—Henry C. Billavarous of Capreol and Mervin Somers of Cartier. Later Mr. Somers protested 125 nominating votes, stating that for the first provincial election in the new Nickel Belt constituency he was entitled to be a local resident rather than from Sudbury city or Sudbury county. He told the Sudbury Star he may run as an independent.

In an evening television address over station CKSO in Sudbury, Mr. Oliver again outlined his 25-point platform and delivered a sharp attack on the Ontario municipal board under the Frost government.

Mr. Oliver called a $30,000,000 surplus declared by the Frost government last year "unfair." He said municipalities are being driven to distraction meanwhile by municipal board rulings.

LAWYER CANDIDATE

He was introduced on the five-minute program by Gordon Ferguson, a Sudbury lawyer, who was nominated earlier as Liberal candidate for the Sudbury riding.

Mr. Collins, besides practising law, conducts a weekly television sports program over station CKSO.

Between his television appearances and the nomination meeting at Garson, Mr. Oliver attended a reception tendered at Sudbury's hotel by the Sudbury Liberal Association.

He left for Fort William for a nomination address there Wednesday. His itinerary includes stops at Kenora, Sault Ste. Marie and Barrie.

32 Persons Die Violently In Eastern Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The weekend toll o fviolent death in eastern Canada reached 32 early today.

A Canadian Press survey listed 20 deaths in traffic, 11 drownings and one fatality police blamed on a scuffle during a wine-drinking party.

Ontario reported 16 fatalities, Quebec eight, Nova Scotia six including tree men drowned in a single boating mishap near Bridgewater, and New Brunswick two.

A level-crossing smash near Sarnia killed Robert Mason, 21, and Donald Leckie, 19, both of the Sarnia district.

In another Ontario traffic mishap, Owen John Gravelle, 40, of Peterborough and Pembroke, died in a truck crash near Bancroft, 65 miles northeast of Peterborough.

An out-of-control automobile went off the highway near Masson, Que., killing Joseph S. Parent, 30, of Cyrville, Ont., and injuring two others.

CRASH KILLS THREE

The death toll in a truck crash near Chatham, rose to three with the death of Mrs. Madeline Rupert, 21, of Sandwich East. Windsor residents James M. Bosso and William J. Fox died Saturday.

In Toronto, James Frederick Nice, 59, was found kicked to death after a drinking party in a roominghouse, police reported.

A level-crossing accident near Kingston Saturday killed George Knapp, 22, of Portland, Ont., and Gordon C. George, 21, of Newboro, Ont.

There were eight drownings, five in Ontario.

Allan Harrison, 10, was drowned at Meaford, Ont.

Floyd Brandies, 27, of Amherstburg, Ont., was believed to have been drowned when his outboard motorboat was cut in two by an American cabin cruiser on the Detroit river. A 19-year-old seaman, Georges Hebert Dallaire of St. Simeon, Que., was drowned when his father's 115-foot boat struck a concrete buoy and sank within two minutes in the St. Lawrence river near Cardinal, Ont.

AUTOPSY ORDERED

Eight-year-old Richard George was drowned when he fell off a government dock at Scugog Island, Ont.

An autopsy has been ordered into the death of an unidentified man whose body was found wedged against a rock in the Humber river at Toronto.

256 Candidates Are Nominated For Ontario Vote

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario's political parties working feverishly to prepare for the province's June 9 election have placed 256 candidates in the field in the 98 constituencies. Official nomination day is Thursday May 26.

A Canadian Press survey today shows the Progressive Conservatives have selected 98 men named 81 candidates. They expect to complete their roster with 17 more nomination meetings scheduled this week. The Liberals have named 71 candidates, CCF 71 and the Communist Labor-Progressives 21. There are two others, a Liberal-Labor nominee who supports the Liberals and an independent Progressive Conservative.

For the last election, Nov. 22, 1951, there were 271 candidates for the 90 seats at stake then. Eight have been added since by redistribution. The record was 317 in 1945, also for 90 seats.

INCLUDE EIGHT WOMEN

Candidates nominated for the coming vote include eight women—two Liberal, one CCF and five Labor-Progressives.

IMPRESSIVE WORKOUTS

TORONTO (CP) — Horses entered in the $20,000-added Queen's Plate next month turned in impressive workouts during the weekend.

Minister Going Ahead With Training Plan

TORONTO (CP)—Education Minister Dunlop said Sunday night he is going ahead with an emergency training plan for secondary school teachers, without the committee to study the plan that had been suggested by the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation.

The move announced by the minister got the support of the Ontario School Trustees' Council, with whom he met during the weekend. The council passed a resolution backing the plan.

"The emergency training plan for secondary school teachers, which commences in a few weeks, must be judged by its results," the minister said. "As none of these results can be evaluated until the new school term has commenced in September, it would seem that no practical purpose can be served by the appointment of a committee at this time."

Dr. Dunlop said a similar plan produced excellent results in 1944 and 1945. He said he would be glad to receive suggestions for improvement of the plan at any time.

PLAN WORKING WELL

He noted that the emergency plan for elementary school teachers was working well and that no evidence to the contrary has been submitted by members of the Ontario Teachers' Federation who opposed the plan.

"No schools are closed for a lack of a teacher," he said, "if there were any likelihood of schools being closed, there would be a tremendous outcry from trustees, parents and ratepayers."

The OSSTF criticized the emergency plan for training secondary school teachers and asked for a meeting with the minister to discuss formation of a committee to study the idea.

The trustees' council, after the weekend meeting, announced that its members desired to commend the department of education for the emergency plan to recruit elementary school teachers and said about 1,000 schools were open which would otherwise have been closed.

WOULD APPROVE PLAN

The resolution, released by chairman Harold W. Wagner of Waterloo, said the council would approve a plan for increasing the number of secondary teachers by similar methods.

The resolution urged that the position of fully qualified teachers in relation to those not qualified academically be recognized and that a return to existing requirements of academic standing for all teachers be made as soon as possible.

Increased supervision for teachers brought in under the plan was suggested, including an increase in the number of inspectors, particularly in rural areas where such teachers were not likely to be working with more experienced teachers.

Twin Boys Taken From Near Home Of Foster Parents

Father Faces 3 Charges In Connection With Abduction

U.S. Airline Purchases 60 British Planes

WISLEY, England (Reuters)—U.S. Ambassador Winthrop W. Aldrich today termed the sale of 6 British Vickers Viscount turboprop airliners to Capital Airlines of the United States, "a tribute to the Yankee appreciation of a good deal."

Aldrich was speaking at the handing-over ceremony of the first of the fleet which will be completely delivered by June, 1957.

The contract for $67,000,000 is the largest dollar order placed with a British company since the war.

Trans-Canada Air Lines introduced the Viscounts to North America earlier this year.

TORONTO (CP)—The father of twin boys abducted Monday from a carriage outside the home of their foster parents today will appear in court to face three charges in connection with the abduction.

Herman Mast, 24, a new Canadian who had not seen his sons since they were born, was arrested, along with his wife, Trudy, six hours after the two babies were taken from the carriage outside the home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Hepton.

The children were returned to Mr. and Mrs. Hepton Monday night, 12 hours after they were abducted.

Mast is charged with abduction, assault and trespass. He was lodged in Brampton jail during the night. Mrs. Mast was held for a few hours but no charges were laid against her.

Police said the twins were put up for adoption almost as soon as they were born. The Heptons agreed to adopt them and the twins were taken directly to their home from the hospital.

WANT FIRST HAND

Mast and his wife began a court action last Thursday at Osgoode Hall to gain custody of the twins, Roland and Richard.

Mrs. Hepton said Monday she and her husband paid all the hospital bills in connection with the birth and have legal custody until—June, pending formal adoption.

"It was not until a lawyer visited us recently that we knew their real parents wanted them back," she said.

Dozens of Men Back Riding Rods Says CCF Member

OTTAWA (CP) — Hazen Argue Monday described to the Commons something he said he hasn't seen for 15 years—men riding the rods.

The CCF member for Assiniboia, speaking in a debate on the South Saskatchewan river dam project, said he was assigned last week to send to see a main-line CPR freight heading east from Sudbury "with dozens of men back riding the rods."

"I have not seen that myself for some 15 years," he said, referring to the pre-war depression years when it was not unusual to see hoboes move riding boxcars from place to place in search of work.

George Dulles Voice Optimism About Parley

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Walter George (Dem., Ga.) said Monday Russian leaders appear ready to discuss relaxation of world tensions at a top-level conference without raising annoying "collateral" issues.

George at comment in an interview was similar to a cautious note of optimism sounded last week by Premier Dulles, who reports tonight on talks in Europe with free world and Soviet officials.

With President Eisenhower introducing Dulles, the three-city TV broadcast report which will be carried live 7 p. m. EDT over ABC, CBS, Dumont and NBC television networks.

Arriving Monday from what he termed an "eventful week" in Europe, Dulles told reporters a press-conference meeting among Eisenhower and the prime ministers of Russia, Britain and France was arranged "under conditions which will, I believe, hold some promise of constructive accomplishment."

Railway Bridge In B.C. Blasted By Doukhobors

NELSON, B. C. (CP)—Terrorist blowing of a railway bridge was reported here Monday as a royal commission into the Doukhobor problem resumed here.

RCMP said the blast occurred Saturday night on the Canadian Northern Railway bridge at Parke, B. C., 20 miles west of here. The explosion was blamed by police on Sons of Freedom Doukhobor terrorists.

Public hearings into the tangled Doukhobor land situation opened under judge Arthur Lord.

Neil Drewry, author of a report on 18,000 acres of Doukhobor land was the only witness during the first day, Mr. Drewry, a provincial assessor, was a lands department employee in 1951 when he began the report on possible future use of the land, which includes 16 settlements in all.

The land, originally held by Doukhobors, was taken over by the province when the sect members were able to keep up their payments and foreclosure threatened.

ASK TOBACCO REDUCTION

ALLISTON (CP) — The Ontario flue-cured tobacco marketing board has requested Ontario tobacco growers to reduce their acreage average this year by 30 per cent. Growers in this area 45 miles north of Toronto, say they face a slimmer season than last year. The request was made due to a 1954 surplus held by the tobacco companies.

Like Episodes in a Movie Serial Are Feats Which Win Three Medals

LONDON (Reuters)—Three men, who met ize sudden challenge of danger in heroic fashion, have been awarded the George Medal.

Their exploits—with a blazing oil truck, a train thundering down on a woman trapped between the tracks, and a knife-wielding escaped convict—read like episodes in the London Gazette.

RAF pilot Leslie Leslie Pamphling was working beneath a 2,000-gallon oil truck when it exploded into flames.

Although badly burned, Pamphling beat out the flames on his clothing, jumped into the truck cab and drove it away from five others full of jet aviation fuel. Then he unhooked the cab and escaped as the fuel tank burned itself out safely on waste land.

The medal, established in 1940 by King George VI for acts of gallantry, also went to 18-year-old Anthony Rivers, a railroad worker.

Rivers spotted Mrs. Amy Howard, 50, trapped in the track before an oncoming train. The youth tried to pull her free, but failed. He tried to cut her shoe away with his pocket knife.

Then as the engine reached him, Rivers flung the woman's shoulders as far away from the track as possible. Her right leg was severed below the knee, but she lived. Rivers suffered a fractured pelvis, an injured knee and multiple bruises.

The other winner was Paskall Wardner, who captured an escaped convict armed with a knife, after a rooftop chase. Paskall, with only a stick to defend himself, was stabbed five times.

CHOU RENEWS BID FOR U.S.-CHINA FORMOSA TALKS

10-Nation Conference Suggested by Soviet

By JIM BECKER

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of Red China has renewed his offer to negotiate with the United States on the Formosa issue, preferably through a 10-nation conference as suggested three months ago by the Soviet Union.

Chou, who first made his offer April 23 at the Asian-African conference in Bandung, said Red China would be willing, however, to consider alternate proposals for a conference on Formosa.

He charged that the United States was delaying the talks by word and evasive answers.

President Eisenhower said on April 28 the United States would be glad to talk with the Chinese Communists on a Formosa cease-fire. Britain asked Chou a week ago to pinpoint where and when he proposed that the United States.

TEXT BROADCAST

Chou renewed his offer in a report today to Red China's national congress. Peking radio broadcast the text of his report today, Chou said:

"To ease the tension in the Taiwan area, the Government of Peking has expressed its willingness to sit down and enter into negotiations with the United States government."

Chou insisted that Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government on Formosa must be excluded.

SAYS U.S. WARLIKE

The premier also:

Accused the United States of "intensifying its active preparation for new wars" and mentioned the May 19 talks between Chinese Red MIG jets and U.S. Sabrejet aircraft northwestern Korea.

Renewed his demand for a seat in the United Nations and charged that the U.S. had "manipulated" UN resolutions.

Charged that last unspecific "certain persons" sought to confuse the Bandung conference stand against colonialism.

Washington officials said they see nothing new in Chou's latest offer. They said the U.S. was seeking to learn Communist China's intentions through volunteer mediators such as Britain, the Scandinavian countries and India and Pakistan.

The 10-nation talks proposal received a cool reception in Britain and the United States.

Goes on Trial On Murder Charge

SUDBURY (CP)—The chairman of a Sudbury school board said Monday he entertained Steve Klapoushchuk apparently the night before the boy's school teacher was killed.

Gordon Tamura testified at the Supreme Court murder trial of Robert Bruce Ducharme, 22, of Hamilton that Klapoushchuk had been his guest until about 12:30 a.m.

Ducharme is charged with the shooting of the 21-year-old school teacher at Nelson Hill, 20 miles northwest of here. Klapoushchuk's body, which was found under a woodpile near the community's combined school and teacher's residence, is believed to have been killed in the early hours of Dec. 4.

Plane Forced Down, Nine Aboard Safe

WINNIPEG (CP)—A Winnipeg-based RCAF Dakota with nine persons aboard force landed about 120 miles north of Churchill, Man., early today on a 500-mile flight from Coral Harbor, on Southampton Island, to Churchill, 600 miles north of here.

RCAF officials here said although the exact location of the downed plane was not known, they have reached a radio message from the craft that "all aboard were well."

They said a "good radio contact" was being made with the Dakota, and five planes already were out over the area. Three Winnipeg-based Dakota, one carrying para-

New Move Afoot to Oust Dempsey as PC Candidate

ARNPRIOR, Ont. (CP)—A move was afoot today to oust the controversial figure of legislature member James S. Dempsey as Progressive Conservative candidate for Ontario general election.

Controversy has raged about Mr. Dempsey's head since he admitted, before the Ontario legislature, Nov. Ont., last Saturday.

Mayor Robert Simpson of Arnprior, however, is not satisfied. He announced a telegram to Premier Frost signifying that the riding's Progressive Conservative Association be disowned by the premier, that he be authorized to set up an "official" organization and call a new nominating convention.

The mayor's wire was delivered Monday by Premier Frost at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., where he is campaigning. The premier declined to make any immediate comment on the new development.

Mayor Simpson was defeated at the original nominating convention a month ago when Mr. Dempsey was chosen. Last Saturday at the new convention, forced when Premier Frost withdrew support for Mr. Dempsey following the comments of Mr. Dempsey, Mayor Simpson withdrew after a backroom conference with the riding executive. So did another prospective candidate, J. J. Foran of Eganville.

Mr. Dempsey got the nomination again after declaring he was "no crook."

He was accused of violating the Provincial Elections Act in that by not reporting $6,800 in contribution to his provincial elections mtcr."

Bishop Warns Dictatorship Could Follow Voters' Apathy

LONDON (Reuters)—British voters were given a solemn warning that their listless attitude toward the general election may do could pave the way to dictatorship in this birth place of parliamentary democracy.

The warning came from a leading Anglican churchman, Bishop Gerald Ellison of Chester, as the ruling Conservative party prepared to win a big majority in Thursday's election in a major television program tonight.

Ellison pointed out that both the Conservatives and the Labor party are alarmed at public apathy over the prospect for a new House of Commons.

"This is dangerous because when the majority are apathetic, the vigorous minority will often step in and win the day," he said.

He added that minorities which use democratic methods to climb to power then proceed "to impose a dictatorship and deprive the people of their rights."

France Requests U.S. Withdraw Some Officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — France has asked the United States to recall some American officials from Indochina officials they believe are acting improperly. But it has made no promises to recall anyone just because the French complain.

The request, also made to the rescue personnel, also have left to join in the search to spot the downed plane.

HOUSE BACKS UP DECISION NOT TO PROCEED WITH DAM

Votes 82-58 Against Non-Confidence Motion

OTTAWA (CP) — Commons vote has backed up the government's decision not to proceed now with a giant irrigation and power project on the South Saskatchewan river.

The House voted 82 to 58 Monday night against a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence in the government arising from an immediate start on the development of Outlook, Sask., 90 miles southwest of Regina.

In a day-long debate preceding the vote opposition members hammered at government policy, charging Liberals have made a "complete about-face" on the project.

Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) referred to support given the plan by Agriculture Minister Gardiner and said that Prime Minister St. Laurent is the "only real booster" to a go-ahead on construction now.

SAYS FAVORS IT

Mr. Gardiner said he has always favored the project and still does but would not vote for a motion of non-confidence.

The motion, proposed by John Diefenbaker, (PC—Prince Albert), was technically one of non-confidence because it was an amendment to a government supply motion.

Liberals voted solidly against the amendment, which was defeated only by all three opposition groups and three independent members present.

Opposition Leader Drew and other members urged Mr. St. Laurent to permit a "free vote" on the proposal—one which would not mean defeat of the government if the motion were endorsed.

"I sincerely believe this project should proceed, then he has no vote to cast against the motion," Mr. Drew said.

The debate was a renewal of an attack launched a year ago by the present, discussed for nearly a decade, to dam the South Saskatchewan to produce power and irrigate "some 500,000 acres in the Palliser Triangle of southwestern Saskatchewan, drought-ridden in the 1930s. The cost has been estimated at between $140,000,000 and $250,000,000, the basis of the lower cost estimate, the Liberal federal government has offered to pay some $78,000,000, or about 50 per cent, as the federal share.

A royal commission in 1952 recommended against the project as impractical.

Following discussions last month with Saskatchewan Premier Douglas Mr. St. Laurent said the federal government is not yet prepared to proceed with the plan as one in the national interest.

"NARROW" VIEW

Mr. Argue said the prime minister's statement is "the most amazing and narrow view anyone can imagine." It was a narrow view of what is the national interest.

All Commons members would support it if Mr. St. Laurent announced his support now.

"But one man—only one—stands in the way of the whole idea of Progress, and for ages to come, as more and more one man is going to stand in the way of other great developments that the people of this country want.

"That one man is the international health insurance, full employment —all these things, and only one man need be convinced.

"The great Uncle Louis has been TEMPTED BY GOLD"

Mr. Diefenbaker said the project is needed in the light of falling farm incomes, unemployment, and the need for more equi economic growth across the country.

Churchill Hopes Soviet 'New Look' May Mean Peace

New Men Masters in Kremlin' Sir Winston Tells Voters

WOODFORD, England (AP) — Former prime minister Churchill cys a new look in the Soviet leadership "may be most beneficial to the overwhelming masses of people all over the world who wish to dwell in peace with one another."

Speaking Monday night at a Conservative election rally in this London suburban district, the 80-year-old statesman expressed great satisfaction with the East - West agreement reached in Vienna last week—and hailed a top-level Big Four conference.

He said a united and strong Western Big Three can go to the meeting "seeking the peace of the world, the welfare of all mankind, and that period of relaxed tension, disarmament and all-around prosperity which is within our reach and may soon be within our grasp."

Pointing out that there have been great changes in the Soviet leadership in the last two years, Churchill said:

"We have a new scene. New men are masters in the Kremlin. We have to maintain—certain that there is not another 'new look' on the part of the Soviet Union—that forces behind them which may still be most beneficial to the overwhelming mass of the people and which will be most beneficial to the overwhelming mass of the people all over the world who wish to dwell in peace with one another."

Churchill did not indicate what men and forces he had in mind. But there is a specialization in the West that Marshal Georgi Zhukov, the Soviet defense minister, is wielding a strong hand for peace in Russia.

The former prime minister has represented the Woodford area in Parliament since 1924. His spirited analysis of the world situation was his first big speech in the campaign to induce voters to continue his party in power in the May 26 general election.

Congratulating his successor, Prime Minister Eden, on the successful negotiations for the Big Four meeting, Churchill said he hoped it would be "a real get-together, a friend." President Eisenhower, had expressed his willingness to attend.

He traced his own efforts during the 1930s to get several powers up a similar conference, referring specifically to Marshal Stalin and, at 11, 1952, after Stalin's death. At that time, he said he could get no further than answer to agree.

"We had to make the best of the bad job and entertain (talks by lower officials) and many lengthy, but valuable and fruitful discussions took place, but without, however, securing many major results. But the ice had been broken and the top died of shock following internal hemorrhage.

Child Burned To Death, Played With Matches

MAIDSTONE, Ont. (CP) — A four-year-old girl was burned to death Monday while playing with matches with a companion in an old shed on a neighbor's farm. Her companion escaped without injury.

Police said Joan Crozier was playing with Delores Butler, 5, on the Butler farm when a small fire they had lit spread to a pile of straw.

Delores ran to get some water to extinguish the fire, while Joan fled to the door of the shed. By the time Delores returned, the flames had enveloped the walls of the shed, trapping Joan inside.

Police said the girls got some matches from the farm home, and lit the fire while they were playing "house."

HOLD FOSTER MOTHER

DETROIT (CP) — Police said Monday they were holding a foster mother on a charge in connection with the death of Robert Starks, 6. The boy collapsed and died shortly after he had been spanked by a wooden "paddle." Police said Mrs. Ethel Starks Jessup, 31, was ordered held after a preliminary autopsy report said the boy died of shock following internal hemorrhage.

$7,104 in Damages

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Annie Ault, 78, of Prescott, Monday was awarded $7,104 damages by Mr. Justice J. Barlow in her suit against Canada Steamship Lines Ltd. for injuries received when she was struck by Walasek's car two years ago. Mrs. Ault claimed that it was settled law, "that a pedestrian crossing a highway on a street is entitled to cross in safety."

INFANT DIES

TEMPLEMAN (CP) — Richard Chisson, one, was burned to death early today when fire razed the home of his parents at McLaren's Bay, near this Ottawa River town. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chisson escaped with their other son, Terry, 2.

'Piebald' Attlee Answers Churchill, Calls Him 'Funny Little Chameleon'

LONDON (Reuters) — Labor party leader Clement Attlee today likened Sir Winston Churchill to a "funny little animal" as Britain's slugfish election campaign suddenly sparked to life.

Churchill started the slanging match in a speech Monday night describing Attlee as a "piebald" faced with greater problems from his own leftwing than from the ruling Conservative party.

Speaking at the Scottish town of Port Seton today, the 72-year-old socialist leader came back at the former. Conservative prime minister in a vote-catching move for the May 26 general election.

"Sir Winston has been abusing me, though I don't mind being called a piebald—which is supposed to have two colors," Attlee said.

"But it comes rather oddly from him. He has always been a bit of a chameleon—that funny little animal. You set it down on a blue tablecloth and it becomes blue. Set it down on a red one and it becomes red."

Attlee recalled Churchill was first a Conservative, then a Liberal for 18 years, then an Independent, and finally a Conservative again.

The Attlee-Churchill tilt provided some of the first excitement of the dull campaign.

Twin Boys Taken From Near Home Of Foster Parents

Father Faces 3 Charges In Connection With Abduction

TORONTO (CP)—The father of twin boys abducted Monday from a carriage outside the home of their foster parents today will appear in court to face three charges in connection with the abduction.

Herman Mast, 34, a new Canadian who had not seen his sons since they were born, was arrested, along with his wife, Trudy, six hours after the two babies were taken from the carriage outside the home of Mr. and Mrs. Attilio Hepton.

The children were returned to Mr. and Mrs. Hepton Monday night, 12 hours after they were abducted.

Mast is charged with abduction, assault and trespass. He was lodged in Brampton jail during the night. Mrs. Mast was held for a few hours but no charges were laid against her.

Police said the twins were put up for adoption almost as soon as they were born. The parents agreed to adopt them and the children were taken directly to their home from the hospital.

WANT THEM BACK

Mast and his wife began a court action last Thursday at Osgoode Hall to gain custody of the twins, Roland and Richard.

Mrs Hepton said Monday she and her husband paid all the hospital bills in connection with their birth and have legal custody pending formal adoption.

"It was natural a lawyer visited us recently that we knew their real parents wanted them back," she said.

Dozens of Men Back Riding Rods Says CCF Member

OTTAWA (CP) —Hazen Argue Monday described to the Commons something he said he hasn't seen for 15 years—men riding the rods.

The CCF member for Assiniboia, speaking in a debate on the South Saskatchewan river dam project, said he was surprised last week-end to see a main-line CPR freight heading east from Sudbury "with dozens of men back riding the rods."

"I have not seen that myself for some 15 years," he said, referring to the great depression years when it was not unusual to see hobless men riding boxcars from place to place in search of work.

Railway Bridge In B.C. Blasted By Doukhobors

NELSON, B. C. (CP)—Terrorist blasting of the Kettle Valley railway reported here Monday as a royal commission into the Doukhobor land situation opened.

RCMP said the blast occurred Saturday night on the Grand Forks-Penticton Railway bridge at Parke, B. C., 10 miles west of here. The explosion was blamed by police on Sons of Freedom Doukhobor terrorists.

Public hearings into the tangled Doukhobor land situation opened under judicial auspices today.

Neil Drewry, author of a report on 18,000 acres of Doukhobor land was the only witness during the first day. Mr. Drewry, a provincial assessor, was a Dominion land employee in 1951 when he began the report on possible future use of the land, which includes 36 settlements in all.

George, Dulles Voice Optimism About Parley

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Walter George (Dem., Ga.) said today Russian leaders appear ready to discuss relaxation of world tensions at a top-level conference without raising annoying "collateral" issues.

George's comment in an interview was similar to a cautious note of optimism sounded by Secretary Dulles, who reports tonight on talks in Europe with free world and Soviet diplomats.

With President Eisenhower introducing him, Dulles will use a TV broadcast report which will be carried live (7 p. m. EDT) by the ABC, CBS, Dumont and NBC television networks.

Arriving Monday from what he termed an "eventful week" in Europe, Dulles told reporters a prospective meeting among Eisenhower and the prime ministers of Russia, Britain and France was arranged "under conditions which will, I believe, hold some promise of constructive accomplishment."

CHOU RENEWS BID FOR U.S.-CHINA FORMOSA TALKS

10-Nation Conference Suggested by Soviet

By JIM BECKER

TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai of Red China has renewed his offer to negotiate with the United States on the Formosa issue, preferably through a 10-nation conference as suggested three months ago by the Soviet Union.

Chou, who first made his offer April 23 at the Asian-African conference in Bandung, said Red China would be willing, however, to consider alternate proposals for a conference on Formosa.

He said he hoped the United States was delaying the talks by stages and evasive maneuvers.

President Eisenhower said on April 27 the United States would be glad to talk with the Chinese Communists on a Formosa ceasefire. Britain asked Chou a week ago to pinpoint where and when he would meet with the United States.

LIGHT BROADCAST

Chou renewed his offer in a report Friday to Red China's national congress. Peiping radio broadcast the text of his report today. Chou said:

"To ease the tension in the Taiwan (Formosa) area, the Chinese government is willing to sit down and enter into negotiations with the United States government."

Chou insisted that Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist government on Formosa must be excluded.

SAYS WARLIKE

The premier also:

Accused the United States of "intensifying its active preparation for new wars" and mentioned the May 10 battle between Chinese Red MiG jets and U.S. Sabrejets off northwestern Korea.

Renewed his demand for a seat in the United Nations and charged that the U.S. had "manipulated" UN resolutions.

Charged that unspecific "certain persons" sought to confuse the Bandung conference stand with "peaceful coexistence."

Washington officials said they saw nothing new in Chou's latest offer. They said the U.S. was seeking to learn Communist China's intentions through volunteer medical missions such as Britain, the Scandinavian countries, India and Pakistan.

The 10-nation talks proposal received a mixed reception in Britain and the United States.

Goes on Trial On Murder Charge

SUDBURY (CP)—The chairman of the Dalton Mills school board and Mrs. Mona Millar, a resident of Klapoushak apparently the night Mrs. Millar's young school teacher was killed.

Makato Tamura testified at the supreme court murder trial of Robert Bruce Ducharme, 22, of Hamilton that Klapoushak had been his guest until about 12:30 a.m. Dec. 4.

Ducharme is charged with the shooting of the 21-year-old school teacher at Mrs. Millar's home 25 miles northwest of here. Klapoushak's frozen body was found under a snowbank near Mrs. Millar's combined school and teacher's quarters. He is believed to have been killed in the early hours of Dec. 4.

Then as the engine reached him, Rivers held the woman's shoulders to the rail as the train ran as close possible. Her right leg was severed below the knee, but she lived.

Rivers suffered a fractured pelvis, an injured knee and multiple bruises.

The other winner was Paskali S. O. Banda, a Tanganyika prison warder, who captured an escaped convict armed with a knife, after the motion picture, Fastest, with only a stick to defend himself, was stabbed five times.

New Move Afoot to Oust Dempsey as PC Candidate

ARNPRIOR, Ont. (CP)—A move was afoot today to oust the controversial figure of legislature member James S. Dempsey as Progressive Conservative candidate for Ontario general election.

Controversy has raged about Mr. Dempsey's head since he admitted failure to report campaign funds received by him in 1951. But he got the unanimous nod from a second nominating convention at Renfrew, Ont., last Saturday.

Mayor Robert Simpson of Arnprior, however, is not satisfied. He announced a telegram to Premier Frost demanding that the riding's Progressive Conservative Association be disowned by the premier, that he be authorized to set up an "official" organization and call a new nominating convention.

The mayor's wire was delivered Sunday to Premier Frost at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., where he is campaigning. The premier declined to make any immediate comment on the new development.

Mayor Simpson was defeated at the original nominating convention a month ago when Mr. Dempsey was chosen. Last Saturday at the new convention, forced when Premier Frost withdrew support for Mr. Dempsey following the campaign fund disclosures, Mayor Simpson withdrew his name from the room conference with the riding executive. So did another of the respective candidate, J. J. Foran of Eganville, Ont.

Mr. Dempsey got the nomination again after declaring he was "no quitter."

He was accused of violating the Provincial Elections Act in 1951 by not reporting $6,800 in contributon to his provincial elections campaign kitty by John Drohan, Barry's Bay lumberman who died two years later.

Mr. Dempsey said it was an oversight that he had failed to report the money but added that it was spent on legitimate campaign expenses.

Premier Frost, in withdrawing support from Mr. Dempsey following these disclosures, said the assumption would remain in effect until the allegations had been cleared up.

Party officials in Renfrew maintained last week that if Mr. Dempsey was re-nominated he would be considered vindicated and reinstated in the party's roster.

But Mayor Simpson said Monday the party executive's conduct on Saturday's convention showed it "independent" of provincial authority. He said he and Mr. Foran were put in the position that they could not compete, being told that Mr. Dempsey already was nominated once and had not resigned in writing.

Asked whether the 10 days between now and May 28—Nomination day in provincial election—is a news association, with a new executive and convene a nominating convention, Mr. Simpson said "that's plenty of time."

Meanwhile, Renfrew South Association president James Baskin, who left Renfrew Monday to confer with party officials in Toronto, commented that Mayor Simpson's wire to Premier Frost sounded "like the action of a poor loser." Mayor Simpson, however, maintained: "Their actions speak for themselves—they have selected a candidate not endorsed by the premier."

Bishop Warns Dictatorship Could Follow Voters' Apathy

LONDON (Reuters)—British voters were solemnly warned today that their listless attitude toward the general election May 26 could serve the way to dictatorship in this birth place of parliamentary democracy.

The warning came from a leading Anglican clergyman, Bishop Michael Ramsey of Durham, at the ruling Conservative party prepared to awaken the slumbering electorate in a major television program tonight.

"This is dangerous because when the majority are apathetic, the vigorous minority will often step in and win the day," he said.

"And it is small minorities which are democratic methods to climb to power then proceed "to impose a dictatorship and deprive the people of their rights."

HOUSE BACKS UP DECISION NOT TO PROCEED WITH DAM

Votes 82-58 Against Non-Confidence Motion

OTTAWA (CP) —A Common: vote has backed up the government's decision not to proceed now with a giant irrigation and power project on the South Saskatchewan river.

The House voted 82 to 58 Monday night against a Progressive Conservative motion of non-confidence in the government urging an immediate start on the development of Outlook, Sask., 90 miles southwest of Saskatoon.

In a day-long debate preceding the vote opposition members hammered at the government's policy, charging Liberals have made a political football of the project.

Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) referred to support given the plan by Agriculture Minister Gardiner and said that Prime Minister St. Laurent is the "only real barrier" to a go-ahead on construction now.

SAYS FAVORS IT

Mr. Gardiner said he has always favored the project as a whole but does not would not vote for a motion of non-confidence.

The motion, proposed by John Diefenbaker, (PC—Prince Albert), was defeated by the Liberal majority. Its wording was as an amendment to a government supply motion.

Liberals voted solidly against the Conservative motion. It was supported by all three opposition groups and three independent members present.

Opposition Leader Drew and Conservatives had indicated they want to permit a "free vote" on the proposal — one which would not affect defeat of the government if the motion were endorsed.

If any member believes this project should be changed, he has no right to vote against this motion," Mr. Drew said.

The debate was a renewal of an old political argument over the project, discussed for nearly a decade, to dam the South Saskatchewan to produce power and irrigate some 500,000 acres in the Palliser triangle in southwestern Saskatchewan, drought-ridden in the 1930s.

Cost of the project is estimated between $140,000,000 and $250,000,000. On the basis of the lower cost estimate, the federal government has offered to pay some $78,500,000 — about $62,000,000 as the federal share.

A royal commission in 1952 recommended against the project as impractical.

Informal discussions last month with Saskatchewan Premier Douglas, Mr. St. Laurent said the federal government would be prepared to proceed with the plan as one in the national interest.

"NARROW" VIEW

Mr. Argue said the prime minister's statement is "the most amazing narrow view I have ever imagine." It was a narrow view of what is in the national interest.

Alvin Hamilton (PC—Qu'Appelle) support ti if Mr. St. Laurent announced he'd run.

"But one man—only one—stands in the way. And I am afraid that, on the question of the liver I have one man is going to stand in the way," Mr. Argue declared. "And the people of this country want.

"We could name them—national health insurance, old age pensions —all these things, and only one man cannot be convicted.

"The great Uncle Louis has become the chief barrier to progress in this country since the liner I have just mentioned."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the project is needed in the light of failing farm incomes, unemployment and the need for more equal economic growth across the country.

'Pieball' Attlee Answers Churchill, Calls Him 'Funny Little Chameleon'

LONDON (Reuters) — Labor party leader Clement Attlee today called Winston Churchill a "funny little animal" as Britain's sluggish election campaign suddenly sparked to life.

Churchill started the slanging match in a speech Monday night describing Attlee as a "pieball" faced with greater problems from his own leftwing than from the ruling Conservative party.

Speaking at the Scottish town of Port Seton today, "the 73-year-old socialist hurled names back at the wartime prime minister in a letter in a vote-catching move for the May 26 general election.

"Sir Winston has been abusing me, though I don't mind being called a pieball—which is supposed to have two colors," Attlee said.

"But it comes rather oddly from him. He has always been a bit of a chameleon—that funny little animal. You see it down on a blue tablecloth and it becomes blue. Set it down on a red one and it becomes red."

Attlee recalled Churchill was first a Conservative, then a Liberal for 18 years, then an Independent, and finally a Conservative again.

The Labor leader's letter provided some of the first excitement of the dull campaign.

Churchill Hopes Soviet 'New Look' May Mean Peace

New Men Masters in Kremlin Sir Winston Tells Voters

WOODFORD, England (AP) — Former prime minister Churchill says a new look in the Soviet leadership "may be most beneficial to the overwhelming masses of people all over the world who wish to dwell in peace with one another."

Speaking Monday night at a Conservative election rally in East London suburban Woodford, the 80-year-old statesman expressed great satisfaction with the East - West agreement reached in Vienna last week-end to hold a top-level Big Four conference.

He said a united and strong Western Big Three can go to the meeting "seeking the peace of the world, the welfare of all mankind, and that period of relaxed tension, disarmament and all-around prosperity which is within our reach and may soon be within our grasp."

Pointing out that there have been great changes in the Soviet leadership in the last two years, Churchill said:

"We have a new scene. New men are masters in the Kremlin. It is by no means certain that there is not another 'new look' on other faces with more powerful forces behind them which may also be most beneficial to the overwhelming masses of people all over the world who wish to dwell in peace with one another."

Churchill did not indicate what men and forces he had in mind. But he said there was agreement in the West that Marshal Georgi Zhukov, the new Soviet defense minister, is wielding a strong hand for peace in Russia.

The former prime minister has represented the Woodford area in Parliament since 1924. His spirited analysis of the world situation was his first big speech in the campaign to induce voters to continue his party in power in the May 26 general election.

Congratulating his successor, Prime Minister Eden, on the successful conclusion of the Vienna meeting, Churchill said he was glad that his "great American friend," President Eisenhower, had expressed his willingness to attend.

He traced his own efforts during the last year to bring about such a summit conference, referring specifically to his proposal on May 11, 1953, after Stalin's death. At that time, he said he could not persuade Eisenhower to agree.

"We had to make the best of the situation (Churchill refers to his lower officials) and many lengthy, but valuable and fruitful discussions have taken place which have, however, securing many major results in the fundamental relations of the great powers concerned."

$7,104 in Damages

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Annie Ault, 78, of Prescott, Monday was awarded $7,104 damages by Mr. Justice J. Barlow in her suit against John Walasek, also of Prescott, for injuries received when she was struck by Walasek's car two years ago. Mr. Justice Barlow said it was settled law, "that a pedestrian having started to cross the road is entitled to cross in safety."

INFANT DIES

TEMPLETON, Que. (CP)—Richard Chiasson, one, was burned to death early today when fire razed the home of his parents at McLaren's Bay, near this Ottawa river town. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chiasson escaped with their other son, Terry, 3.

Time We Retired Molotov Told Foreign Ministers

VIENNA (Reuters) — A fresh hint that Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov may soon retire came at the four-power meeting here last weekend, diplomatic quarters revealed today.

They said the head of Russian told the three Western foreign ministers during an informal chat over coffee:

"Gentlemen, we are all getting old. Don't you think it's about time we gave way to a younger generation?"

French Foreign Minister Antoine Pinay, 63, replied with a smile he thought that way when he was younger but he has changed his mind.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles is 65 and British Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan is 61.

There were several reports earlier in the week that Molotov would retire, perhaps under pressure.

Child Burned To Death, Played With Matches

MAIDSTONE, Ont. (CP) — A four-year-old girl was trapped to death Monday while playing with matches with a companion in an old shed on a neighbor's farm. Her companion escaped without injury.

Police said Joan Crozier was playing with Delores Butler, 5, on the Butler farm when a small fire they had lit spread to a pile of straw.

Delores ran to get some water to extinguish the fire, while Joan went into the old farmhouse. By the time Delores returned, the flames had enveloped the walls of the shed, trapping Joan inside.

Police said the girls got some matches from the Butler home.

Coroner Dr. Hugh Boutet began investigation in the death of Robert Szabo, 8. The boy collapsed and died Sunday after he had been spanked by a wooden "paddle," Police said Szabo, of Port Colborne, Ont., was ordered held after a preliminary Autopsy report said the boy died of shock following internal hemorrhage.

COLUMNIST RECOUNTS LIFE IN NEWSPAPER

Guest speaker to Belleville Rotary in the Hotel Quinte yesterday was Wesley Hicks, Toronto newspaper columnist.

Mr. Hicks recounted to the club his reminiscences of well known public figures he had met in the course of his career as a journalist.

He was introduced by Don MacKinnon and thanked by Court Miller.

Next assembly of Rotary will be May 30, it was announced. There will be no meeting on Victoria Day.

Chairman for yesterday's meeting was president Fred Aldred. The after-dinner song-spiel was led by Egerton Boyce and Ernie Gurnett.

NEWSPAPER STAFF MAKES PRESENTATION

On Saturday, the staff of the Ontario Intelligencer met in the editorial rooms to honor one of their valued members, Miss Elizabeth Sonne, with a tangible expression of their respect and good wishes. Miss Sonne, due to ill health, is leaving for an extended period.

Mr. Dick Payne and Mrs. Marjorie Fowler made the presentation, and voiced the regret of all to lose one whose cheery good humor made her the life of any party, and whose pleasant personality would be missed by those with whom she worked so efficiently.

Elizabeth briefly, but gratefously, expressed her appreciation for the kindness shown her, and trusted to be back with the "old gang" soon.

The members of the various departments of the Ontario Intelligencer wish Miss Elizabeth a speedy return to her desk.

'Bill' Fraser New President Kinsmen Club

Mr. C. W. "Bill" Fraser, manager of the York Trading Company here, is the new president of the Kinsmen Club of Belleville for the year 1955-56. He succeeds Don MacKinnon who headed the local service club for the past year and will take over his office in September.

A member of the Kinsmen Club for the past five years he has served on most of the important committees and has been on the club executive for the past four years. He is a native of Toronto, has been with York Trading for the past 18 years and has lived in Belleville since his discharge from the service in 1946.

The new Kinsmen executive was also elected at last night's club meeting. Besides the new president the executive includes Cecil Brown, Bruce Bridge, Kenneth Campbell, Don Boyce, Dave Brooks, Murray Hunter and Howie Walsh.

The executive will meet later to decide the various offices and committee chairmen.

ECA Registration Plan Discussed By Contractors

Nearly sixty electrical contractors from the east central province met in Belleville Monday for discussions on their trade.

The meeting was held by members of the provincial executive of the Electrical Contractors Association of Ontario met with zone presidents from Oshawa, Belleville, Kingston and Peterborough for talks about the ECA registration plan.

Under registration, each electrical contractor-member of ECA is qualified by the examination board composed of representatives of Hydro and the division and the contractors.

When the examination has been completed, ECA issues a registration certificate and bonds the contractor for $1,000. This registration plan was recently recognized by the Ontario government, who have amended the Ontario Municipal Act to allow municipalities to accept registration certificates by local licensing and/or examination.

MEMBERS PRESENT

Members of the provincial executive in the Belleville area included: Roland DeMers, president, Windsor; Cecil W. Dent, first vice-president, Toronto; Fred Coleman Ellis, second vice-president, London, and Ernest Harris, Sarnia.

Also included: Colonel Ezra Harris of Kingston, honorary president of the ECA of Ontario; Major R. C. Clifton, provincial inspection superintendent of Ontario Hydro and Tom McCoy, HEPC regional inspector, Belleville.

Belleville contractors present: Willis Brenton, Paul Hibbard, Jack Canning, Reuben Harris, Sam Smith, Erik Finkle, William Oliphant and Ben Hall. Messrs. Brenton and Harris are registered members of ECA of Ontario.

G. A. Whitman, City Welfare Officer, Liberal Candidate For Hastings West Riding

George A. Whitman, Welfare Officer for the City of Belleville for the past eight years, was nominated by the West Hastings Liberal Association at a meeting in Wallbridge Township Hall last night to contest the riding in the coming provincial election.

Mr. Whitman received the nomination by acclamation when sitting member Dewdney Withrow, he was nominated by Roderick Cameron of Belleville, Roy Brown, of Trenton, seconded the nomination.

The 35-year-old ex-naval flier, in accepting the nomination, told the audience of about 125 persons that "If I thought, deep in my heart, that I could not win I would not let my name stand before this convention."

Mr. Whitman received an ovation when he rose to formally accept the nomination.

Others nominated were: Mrs. Herbert Wallace, Kenneth C. McRoss, Ben Bleecker, Robert Tennant, Miss Ardith Irvine McCaughey, of Trenton.

Speakers at the meeting were W. T. Jeffers of Port Perry, Liberal candidate in Ontario riding; and Dr. Dorise Nielsen M.P. for Kingston; Dr. D. C. McVicker, Liberal candidate in East Hastings.

BORN IN STATES

Mr. Whitman was born in Fenelon Falls, Ontario, but joined the fleet air arm of the Royal Canadian Navy and served overseas with the 1st Canadian Corvette. On discharge in November, 1945, he joined Canadian Vickers.

He was employed by the Stewart-Warner-Alemite Corp., Belleville, for a time, and a half before taking the post of Welfare Officer in 1947.

Mr. Whitman is on the Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society; is Secretary of the Board of Directors of the Ongwanada TB sanitarium in Kingston, is an executive member of the Belleville Unit of the Red Cross and is Belleville's co-ordinator of Civil Defence.

CANDIDATE AWARDED

He married Dorothy Evans of Belleville in 1947.

This is the first time Mr. Whitman has sought public office.

"I am rather used to facing long odds," said Mr. Whitman. "It was a common thing in my air force days."

"In eight years as welfare officer I have learned something of municipal government. I humbly accept this nomination and promise that I will devote my efforts to unseat the present member and win West Hastings for the Liberal party.

"Present government is making much ado about nothing as it tosts its own horn to praise itself for doing the simple duty. We have a chance to win not only here but throughout the province.

"When a government is ready to go nothing can stop it but it is up to the people to push it out."

Belleville Aldermen Mrs. Herbert McCabe, nominated by Berner Collins, Q.C., and seconded by Ben Bleecker, withdrew before the vote. Mrs. McCabe is active in local government when elected last year, and I feel I should do my duty in those who supported me."

CALLS FOR UNITY

Mrs. McCabe expressed the hope that in the future she might be able to accept a nomination."

E. G. M. Hinchley nominated by Harold Little and seconded by Mrs. J. J. Bagnall of Trenton, withdrew "for personal reasons."

He called on party workers to unite "because we have a fight on our hands."

"I hope to be able to come back here in four years and carry the banner which I must refuse today."

Ben Bleecker, ex-reeve of Sidney township, was nominated by Herbert McCabe, and seconded by Art Duncan of Batawa. He withdrew for personal reasons.

Robert Tennant, nominated by Dr. Boyd Upper and seconded by Angus Duffy, withdrew for business and personal reasons.

Angus Duffy, party candidate in the last provincial election, was nominated by Dick Flagler, of Belleville, and seconded by Sam Nicholson of Frankford. He withdrew because of pressure of business and his exercise.

Irvine McGaughey, of Trenton, president of the West Hastings Liberal Association, was nominated by E. R. Follwell, of Belleville, and seconded by Mrs. Wilson of Trenton. He withdrew in favor of Mr. Whitman in order to assist him in organizing his campaign.

19 District Students Graduate From Queen's

Nineteen students from Belleville and district are among those graduated from the Faculties of Arts and Applied Science of Queen's University this spring.

Those receiving honor degrees of Bachelor of Arts were J. R. Hazell, chemistry, Demoresville, and J. M. Savanage, chemistry, Bancroft.

Graduates receiving B.Sc. degrees were Barbara G. Arnott, W. C. Burgoyne, J. M. Cousins, J. L. Dean, H. R. Frink, R. S. Gibson, Elinor M. McCormick and Catherine A. Robertson, all of Belleville; Marlene J. Brant, Shannonville; A. L. Chapman, Deseronto; Joyce E. Fleming, Madoc; Marilyn K. Head, Picton; and Donald D. Thorpe, Colborne.

Those receiving Bachelor of Science degrees from the Faculty of Applied Science were H. E. Davis, electrical engineering, Belleville; G. J. Fleming, chemical engineer, Belleville; P. B. Nicholson, chemical engineer, Marmora; and D. M. Rose, mining engineering, Belleville; G. Vice, electrical engineering, Campbellford.

Police Blotter

City and provincial police had another quiet night Monday with little more than routine matters coming to their attention.

Provincial police reported no serious accidents while city police had but one motor mishap with Constable Ellis.

Cars driven by Robt. L. Orr, 8 Redlands Avenue and Herbert C. Johnson of Allendale, collided at the corner of Coleman and West Moira. Orr was making a turn onto Moira with Johnson northbound on Coleman. Damage to the Johnson auto amounted to about $200 and to the other car about $150.

ler debt, which Hydro has guaranteed.

"That is the record on which the government of Ontario has asked the people to vote. We wonder if I say June 9th marks one of the most important dates in the political history of Ontario!"

William Henderson, M.P. for Algoma East, was the second speaker. Liberals cannot be elected in Kingston.

"People who feel that they should do something for their millionaire friends must suffer under Liberal auspices," he said.

"The provincial government has collected $20 million more a head per cent in 1951 to 28 per cent this year. The Ontario pick up two per cent of the uncommitted vote they can win."

"The provincial trust scandal has the people confused. The Dempster Report of corruption agreement over timber rights at Fort cannot see the trees for the fess. Mr. Frost has made disclosures about Dempsey's failure to report campaign funds and now the Ontario Securities Act is under fire. Dr. McCann (Minister of National Resources) and Mr. Frost are people of Ontario down at their provincial treasurer.

"Mr. Frost endorses as official candidate in Renfrew South, one who has been charged in a like sort of thing that has gone on there."

In discussing the highways scandal Mr. Henderson said, "It all started with $18,000 and ended at $18,000,000."

FIVE ENDED IN COURT

"Frost said there was nothing wrong and five persons ended up pleading guilty in court. The Conservatives have had no Royal Commissions investigate Art Roman or Leslie Frost. Every time they had nothing else to do they investigated Windsor. And later all these men were appointed Art Reaume to Queen's Park. But there was Royal Commission to investigate the highways scandal.

"There never has been a more expensive pencil than the one which Frost used to draw over where there were no rock cuts in rock.

"In the highways scandal Frost had his own umpires do the job."

"The trust government is bad from beginning to end. If they have to vote Liberal this time because they believe the Conservative government has been doing things without thought for the people."

Frank S. Follwell, M.P. for Hastings South, promised to support Dr. Nielsen and Mr. George Whitman in their campaign to win Hastings East and West.

TORONTO (CP)—Police Monday identified the body of a man taking from the Humber river Sunday as William Flavia of Toronto, reported missing from his home for some weeks.

Baseball League Has Four Definite Entries

Four teams announced their definite entry in the Belleville and District baseball League last night with another expected to-day. Those affiliated with the league at present are the Belleville Juniors, Picton, Wellington and Marmora while Deseronto will more than likely enter.

Paul Haggis, local businessman, announced last night his sponsorship a Belleville junior club in this league and enter it in the O. A. A. playdowns in August. The team will hold its first practice tonight at the fair grounds at 6:00 p.m.

Six teams had previously announced their intention of entering the league but Dick Bridgeman informed the executive last night that Trenton would not have a team because of a lack of players.

Last night's gathering saw most of the business for the season cleared away as the meeting thrashed out all minor differences.

Lou Cunningham was named to the vice-president's office, succeeding Garry Alexander who resigned because of business pressures.

Among one of the most important acts was the setting up the number of senior players allowed on a team. It was decided to permit each team to use 18 players but it was also decided that a maximum fee of $5 would be set for the umpires and that all teams must submit a list of O.B.A. umpires to the league for approval.

A discussion took place on postponed games and it was agreed that the home team must notify the league secretary by the day of the game, if the field is not in playing condition. In the past no notice has been given and the entering of a protest but during the season the league club protesting a game must do so in writing within 24 hours after the game and the protest fee must be paid.

Secretary Lloyd "Red" Doran will draw up the schedule this week. The schedule will open the first week of June with each team playing two games per week, one at home and one away. The schedule must be completed by the end of July with playoffs over by time for teams entering O.B.A. playdowns to be over by the end of July.

League playoffs will find the four top teams battling home and and third place meeting in one half of the semi-finals and second and fourth in the other half with the winners to meet for the league title. It was decided that all evening league games would be started at 8:30 p.m. with 10 minutes grace allowed. The long trips from Marmora to Deseronto and Picton will probably cause some late starts," it was stated by the Rose of Marmora. "But we will do our best to arrive on time."

DEATHS

CRANDLES, William Norman. — At the Belleville General Hospital on Saturday, May 14th, William Norman Crandles, beloved husband of and Mrs. William Chandler, R. R. Belleville.

The funeral was held from the Girvin Funeral Home, Wark Street on Monday, May 16th.

Interment in Belleville cemetery.

IN MEMORIAM

PASCOE. — In loving memory of our dear sister, Elizabeth Pascoe, who died on May 17th, 1949.

Memory sweet and bright shadows fall,
Back to days of happiness, days remembered,
And to those days before us,
Days of hope, days of peace,
Days of joy, days of love.
Yet there is one thing more,
Of those days of memory,
Days of sorrow, days of tears,
Days of silence, days of pain,
Days of loneliness, days of heartache,
—Always remembered, Sister, Marjorie and family.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to thank the pupils and mothers of Rose Hall School for flowers presented to me on the occasion of my recital.
—Freddie Smith.

Police Court

Although a total of 38 cases were up for hearing on the morning Magistrate's Court docket, the court session was of short duration as all but 12 of the alleged cases were pleas of guilty with fines imposed out of court.

The court list was made up of speeding charges, charges laid for failing to obey stop signs and for illegal parking. A few drunks have also put in appearances and were speedily dealt with by Magistrate T. Y. Wills.

TORONTO STOCKS

Volume at 1 p. m. was 2,686,000, a little less than Monday's 2,890,000 shares.

Almost all issues were lower but losses were mostly fractional. Algoma continued to gain among a few advancing issues, jumping 1¼ on 950 shares.

Liquors was the only component of the industrial list to show consistent strength. Other sections were mixed to lower with papers hardest hit. St. Lawrence Corp. dropped 82.

Hudson's Bay dropped ¾ to lead most base metal issues down. United Keno climbed 10 to $6.75.

Among speculative issues, companies with columbium prospects led almost all stocks down. Beauge fell six to $2.55, a 1955 low on 15,000 shares. Inspiration, Can-Met, Consolidated-Delsilon, Consolidated Howey, Fairey and Fairmaque had losses ranging to 20 cents. Pronto was among a few gaining issues climbing 15 to $7.55.

Bailey Selburn A had the biggest drop in a weak western oils group falling ¼ to $10.

Senior golds were lower but juniors managed small scattered gains.

Narcotics Body Plans Hearings At Toronto

OTTAWA (CP)—The Senate narcotics committee will travel to Toronto by special railway car to hear "quite an array of witnesses" Friday, Senator Tom Reid, chairman, said today.

The committee, which has already visited Vancouver, will also go to Montreal May 27 for a hearing.

Renfrew Riding Leader Trying To Mend Breach

TORONTO (CP)—James Baskin, president of the Renfrew South Progressive Conservative association, was in Toronto today.

The Telegram said the purpose of his visit is to try "to patch up the breach between his association's candidate, James Dempsey, and the provincial party officials."

The paper added:

"He hopes to avert a split in the Progressive Conservative ranks and the danger of having two Progressive Conservative candidates in the riding election."

Mr. Dempsey regained the Progressive Conservative nomination after relinquishing it at the party's request because he did not properly report a 1951 campaign contribution of between $5,000 and $6,000. However, the party has not disarmed the support it withdrew from him when he gave up the previous nomination.

Credit Union Robbed of $6,000 By Armed Thug

MONTREAL (CP)—Police said an armed bandit escaped with $6,000 today after holding up a St. Catharine street east caisse populaire (credit union).

He fled in a car which had been parked nearby.

Police said the bandit scooped up bills and change from a cash drawer after tying up two employees.

Roosevelt's Engineer, John McDonald, Dies

SUDBURY (CP) — John McDonald, engineer of the CPR train which carried the late president Roosevelt north for his Hamiltonian island fishing holiday in 1942, died Sunday.

He was born in Strachburg and served with the CPR in Sault Ste. Marie, North Bay and MacTier before moving here in 1925. He retired in 1948 after 46 years' service.

ACADIAN ANNIVERSARY

SEPT ILES, Que. (CP)—Observations of the 200th anniversary of the expulsion of the Acadians from the Maritime provinces will be held here and in other St. Lawrence north shore communities July 14. Dances, parades, religious ceremonies and other events are planned.

Seeding Complete In Most Regions Of Province

TORONTO (CP) — Farm work has progressed rapidly under sunny skies in most parts of Ontario during the last few days and in some regions seeding is completed, the Ontario agriculture department said today in its weekly farm report.

Most of the counties of western and southern Ontario report seeding 70 to 100 per cent completed. Cattle are out to pasture in all areas and clover and grass are doing well.

In central Ontario growing conditions are reported as "very good" generally. Asparagus is being cut and canned; spring seeding is near completion; fall wheat, tomatoes, corn and early peas are doing well.

In the east, frost has had some effect, setting back clover in some regions. Hay seeding is well under way, and an earlier spring than usual is reported.

Northern Ontario reports 50 per cent seeding in most districts while cattle are pasturing. Early potatoes have been started in many areas.

Soviet Economic Planning Will Be Reorganized

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Premier Nikolai Bulganin announced a topLevel reorganization of his economic planners Monday during a speech criticizing the shortcomings of Soviet heavy industry.

Two commissions will be set up, one to deal with present planning and the other concentrating on the future.

Speaking at an all-union conference of industrial workers and specialists, he complained that many workers lacked a sense of responsibility to the state and a proper perspective in technical policy.

The metallurgical and chemical industries are lagging behind the rest of the world in some aspects of production, Bulganin said, according to Tass, the official Russian news agency.

There are shortcomings in oil, coal, timber, and other industries, he said. Many undertakings systematically fail to fulfil their tasks.

German Pipeline Firm Seeking Jobs in Alberta

CALGARY (CP)—German pipeline designing and construction firms are trying to break into the Canadian oil and gas industry, representatives of two of Germany's biggest companies in the field said Monday night in an interview.

Dr. Walter Speidel, a director of Thyssen Gas and Water Works, and Dr. Ed Boehmer, a director of United Pipeline Construction Company, German engineers, are in Canada investigating possibilities for German capital investment designing and construction of pipeline installation in the Alberta gas and oil industry.

Thousand Yelling Cypriot Students Protest Trial

PAPHOS, Cyprus (Reuters) — A thousand wildly-screaming Greek Cypriot students poured out of church here today and crashed through police barbed-wire barricades to protest the trial of 64 young Cypriots for anti - British demonstrations.

The students, shouting for union of this strategic island with Greece and demanding "liberate the prisoners," ignored appeals of black-robed Greek Orthodox priests and heaved aside three rows of barbed wire 10 yards from the court house.

Previously they had attended a special service in a nearby church for the "liberation" of the 64 Cypriots on trial.

The students' demonstration quickly broke up and they scattered into nearby streets as truckloads of police armed with rifles, nightsticks and tear gas swept into the square.

Indian Woman, 95, Tells Court How She Beat Off Man

SARNIA (CP)—Mrs. Ada Smith, 85-year-old great-grandmother today described how she fought off an attack by a strange man in a Walpole Island home April 30.

She was testifying as a crown witness at the preliminary hearing of Joseph Martin, 42, a Georgian bay Indian who last week elected trial by magistrate only on a charge of indecent assault.

Speaking through an interpreter the witened but spry old woman said the man grabbed her as she sat on the edge of her bed waiting for her stove to heat up. She said he grabbed her under the arms and carried her to another bed where he began clawing at her clothing.

Mrs. Smith said she grabbed hold of her attacker with one hand and beat him over the head with the other.

FRIENDS HELP

The woman said her grandaughter Alberta Jones and a friend, Mrs. Jessie Greenbert came to her aid and the man ran off.

Mrs. Smith failed to identify Martin, sitting in the prisoner's box nearby, as the man who attacked her.

Martin, who comes from Cape Grocer on the Bruce peninsula, was represented by J. W. Burgess of Wallaceburg, who entered a plea pleading before magistrate J. C. Dunlap.

Plane Rams Funnel

PORTSMOUTH, England (Reuters)—A naval plane coming in for a landing on the British aircraft carrier Eagle crashed into the carrier's funnel today. The pilot was seriously injured.

An admiralty spokesman said the plane had been given a warning "wave-off" by a grenade, but it stalled and rammed the funnel.

Eye Punctured While Wrestling With Her Brother

PICTON, Ont. (CP) — Laurie Whattam, 16, lost the sight of her right eye Monday in a friendly tussle with her 11-year-old brother at the family's farm in Bethel, four miles north of here. Relatives said her eye was punctured while she wrestled with the brother for possession of a broom.

A PROFESSOR'S VIEWPOINT

In a recent letter to the Ottawa Citizen, Prof. A. R. M. Lower of Queen's University came to the defence of Hon. J. W. Pickersgill, Federal minister of citizenship and immigration. Mr. Pickersgill, says Queen's professor of Canadian history, was right when he said that other things being equal, the best citizens are native born. Recent arrivals, says the professor, have a weak sense of Canadianism.

"By 'recent arrival'," he adds, "I mean anything up to three generations."

Here in this district there are more third-generation Canadians than in most parts of English-speaking Canada. These citizens, many of whom can trace their family history back to the days of the United Empire Loyalists, will be interested in Prof. Lower's reasons for regarding them as superior to "recent arrivals."

"What can be said with truth is that it takes a long while for people to accommodate themselves to a new environment," he writes. "One man cannot do it, and probably his son cannot do it entirely, but among homogeneous society, such as they have in England, only arises out of generations of common experience."

This is an intensely interesting point of view which invites comment. Unfortunately the ordinary technique of the editorial page is not adequate for the task, for it is impossible to couch this comment in terms of the editorial "we."

By its very nature, such comment must be personal.

If we may break the usual restraints, the writer, an immigrant, would like to quarrel with Prof. Lower's line of argument.

That there is a great distinction between the type of society which they have in England and the type of society that exists in Canada is not seriously true. But that homogeneity is desirable is not so obvious. The very lack of a strong homogeneous society, such as they have in England, is one of the major attractions which Canada offers to many immigrants, including this writer. To appreciate it, the writer suggests, is to display a sense of Canadianism, since the heterogenous nature of Canada's society is one of the distinguishing features of the country.

Prof. Lower, of course, has a quick and devastating reply available to this line of argument.

"You see what I mean," he can reply, pointing to this immigrant.

But he had better not endeavor to pick out the immigrant in a crowd. A "Zummerset" dialect, defying translation by phonetic two-by-fours, can result in a truly Canadian accent being acquired at an amazingly rapid pace.

FUSS AND FEATHERS IN ALBERTA

The fuss and feathers out in Alberta, where Premier E. C. Manning has decided to call an election because of charges by Liberal leader J. Harper Prowse, may puzzle most Easterners.

The underlying point appears to be that it is illegal for a member of the legislative assembly to deposit money in, or borrow money from, provincial treasury branches, which actually fulfill many of the functions of banks.

The Province of Ontario also operates a banking system, known as the Province of Ontario Savings Branch. Belleville has no branch of this service, but in centres where it does exist it competes with small savings. The interest rate is higher than that paid by the chartered banks and banking hours are longer. Today privately-owned banks compete generally on interest rates and hours of service, but in small centres this type of service was not always available and where it was the advantages were frequently small when the province entered the banking business. There is no question of safety about banking one's spare dollars with the Province of Ontario.

Nor it seems absurd to suggest that, because a man chooses to deposit his savings in such a branch, he should be disqualified from sitting in the Legislative Assembly.

If we follow this line of reasoning the issue of this issue will depend on whether the member of the Legislature was depositing money in, or borrowing money from, the provincial treasury branches. If he was making deposits, then Premier Manning would appear to be correct in terming Mr. Prowse's protest a "ridiculous" legal technicality. But if, on the other hand, the M.L.A. is a borrower, then Mr. Prowse may have a sound argument.

It should be noted, however, that whether Mr. Prowse's argument is sound or not does not alter the fact that, from now on, it is legal for a M.L.A. in Alberta to borrow money through a provincial treasury branch. A new act enacted this year grants him that right.

What the people of Alberta think about the matter may be decided at the polls. But that is doubtful. Social Credit seems so firmly entrenched in power in Alberta that it will take more than an issue of this nature to dislodge it. Premier Manning undoubtedly knows that, or he would not have been in such a hurry to call an election on this issue.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

May 17, 1925

Mr. Eric W. Cross, who was born in Meador Village in 1904 and since graduation in law has resided in Simcoe where he holds the office of Magistrate for Norfolk County, has been appointed by the Hepburn government to the position of chairman of the Ontario Municipal Board. His father was the late William Cross, barrister, of Madoc.

The local branch of the Canadian Concert Association recently elected the following officers for this year: honorary president, Mrs. R. W. Ponton, K.C., Mr. J. O. Herity, Mrs. Hinsl, president, Mr. F. C. MacLaurin, vice-president, Mrs. G. H. Stobie, Mrs. R. H. Hubbard, Mrs. R. J. Green, Prof. V. F. Hunt, Mr. Ross Hunter; publicity chairman, Mrs. Wm. Gordon; headquarters secretaries, Mrs. R. Hardcorn and Miss Louise Walbridge.

Mrs. M. E. Branscombe attended the dinner recently tendered to Lord and Lady Baden-Powell in Toronto and also attended the annual meeting of the Canadian Council of Girl Guides.

Mrs. W. N. Ponton, divisional commissioner, the Girl Guides, Mrs. Leo B. Riggs district commissioner, Mrs. R. W. Ackerman, deputy commissioner, and Mrs. G. E. Deroche, motored to Toronto to attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Council of Girl Guides.

30 YEARS AGO

May 17, 1925

It really rained for the summer this morning; it was indeed a pleasant change from the weather we have been getting.

Mr. Arthur F. Northrup of the Bank of Montreal, is home on a short visit from Montreal.

Mr. Arthur Lloyd of Erie, Pa., an old Belleville boy, is visiting friends here.

The steamer Ella Ross brought numerous passengers to the city this morning from bay ports.

The schooner Isabel Wolf and the steam barge Rob Roy are in the harbor with cargoes of coal.

A brick block in Marmora, owned by Mr. J. W. Reed, M.P.P., was destroyed by fire last evening. The block was occupied by the Pearce garage store; the Marmora printing office; Charles MacWilliams, merchant tailor; William Sanderson, barrister-at-law, and John Shannon, dwelling.

40 YEARS AGO

May 17, 1915

Fire broke out this morning in Johnstone's dancing academy on the upper floor of the Metropolitan Block, corner of Campbell and Front Streets and considerable damage resulted before the flames were extinguished.

Lieut. Col. Philip H. Hambly of this city has received a telegram from his daughter, Miss Mary H. Hambly, nurse, announcing her safe arrival in England.

Forin Street is to be paved this summer.

The city council has made a grant of $400. to the regimental funds of the 39th Battalion C. E. F. to be used for the need and comforts of the rank and file. The resolution in this matter was made by Ald. A. C. McFee and seconded by Ald. Fred Wallbridge.

Mr. D. Mackenzie Waters is spending a few days at Presqu'Isle.

The 39th. Regiment which is stationed here is divided into two lots; 500 at the barracks on Pinnacle Street, south of Dundas Street, and 500 on Zwick's Island.

The officers of the 39th. Battalion now have their horses and they present a fine appearance on parade.

Two bull terrier dogs belonging to Dr. Ackerill have been killed recently by motor cars.

50 YEARS AGO

May 17, 1905

A barn and granary on Foster Avenue, owned by Mr. Albert E. Hutt, was destroyed by fire this morning.

Mr. Howard Woof and daughter, Mrs. H. Heaney, of Syracuse, N.Y., have arrived here by motor car to visit relatives.

Mr. Alex. Ross, superintendent of government fish hatcheries, is in town today.

Mr. William Wood, county road foreman, is making a great improvement on the county highway between Belleville village and Maynooth. Some bad curves on this road have been removed.

The Victorian Order of Nurses in this city was a generous one to the sum of $230. was collected.

Mr. R. B. Ketcheson went to Lindsay today on business.

Do-Si-Do At Singapore

(Los Angeles Times)

One of the mysteries of the east is how the American square dance found its way into the famous Raffles hotel in Singapore.

It is no small shock to stop in for a quiet drink at the venerable hostelry only to find the air filled with fiddling and stomping. The first impression is that the Texas navy just landed, but closer inspection reveals not only a complete absence of Texans but of any species of genus Americanus.

Calling the steps of the microphone is a bearded Sikh dressed in blue jeans, checked shirt, red bandana and a peach colored turban.

His voice has a singsong quality not heard on the farm down Ballyhoo, but he is nonetheless skillful in guiding the dancers through the most intricate manoeuvres.

On the dance floor is as crazy a mix-up group as ever jitterbugged a corn. Indians, Chinese, Malayans, Siamese, Englishish, Dutch and what have you all dancing with a spirit that would raise the rafters back in the United States.

The attractive Chinese gentleman in the double breasted pinstripe suit dances next to the young Dutchman in Bermuda shorts.

When the Sikh calls the last of his endless figures the microphone over to a slender young Britisher who puts muscle into a Virginia reel.

As the women fairly from partner to partner, the spectator is treated to a unique fashion parade: American country style calling for gingham and calico. Shantung dress with high neck and split skirt. Sarongs over bare midriff. European evening dress. Thai silk Egyptian cotton; in short, just about everything except a Russian bobushka.

Gulls Useful And Beautiful

(Owen Sound Sun-Times)

Each morning, shortly after the break of dawn, and each evening in the waning hours of light, the sea gulls rise in flocks and wheel forth over the city at this time of year, their white wings and white dots high up in the sky. Many times they would pass by unnoticed but for some sound, such as the cries which make one think of the lonely seagull on a wind swept shore. The early morning hours see them making their way inland to their feeding grounds and the still quiet of the evening they return to their nesting habitat, presumably the open water of the lakes and bays. In the meantime they have the harbor with cargoes of coal.

Mr. Arthur F. Northrup of the Bank of Montreal, is home on a short visit from Montreal.

Mr. Arthur Lloyd of Erie, Pa., an old Belleville boy, is visiting friends here.

The steamer Ella Ross brought numerous passengers to the city from bay ports.

The schooner Isabel Wolf and the steam barge Rob Roy are in the harbor with cargoes of coal.

A brick block in Marmora, owned by Mr. J. W. Reed, M.P.P., was destroyed by fire last evening. The block was occupied by the Pearce garage store; the Marmora printing office; Charles MacWilliams, merchant tailor; William Sanderson, barrister-at-law, and John Shannon, dwelling.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

PROFITABLE TO NO ONE

The great flimflicks throughout the country have unsuspected considerable difficulty because of cheaters. More than a hundred electrical operators are now used to insure safe collection. Cars are counted by a steel treadle, and the variety of vehicle passed through the tollgate is automatically registered. A remote printing device in the supervisor's office records both fare and classification.

But the latest device is an alarm bell which, if you try to go through a tollgate without paying, alerts the attendants while a camera snaps your license plate.

The way of the transgressor is hard.

We spend each year about twenty billions in the United States to insure the crime situation. This is a very conservative estimate; it may go as high as thirty billions. The amount we spend to suppress crime would buy all the real estate in the United States and pay all the expenses of churches and schools. If, in the most wholesome community in the country, police surveillance were to be discontinued for 24 hours, its life and property would be in jeopardy.

We pay dearly for our evil—as individuals and as that vast collection of individuals known as a nation. Crime doesn't pay—and it costs a whale of a lot of money to keep it under control.

This Editor Was Discreet

(New York Herald Tribune)

The new issue of Debrett's Peerage, which lists the British nobility, has the following anecdote in its preface:

"One peer's mother, who was apparently not on good terms with her daughter-in-law, wanted it made perfectly clear in Debrett that her son's wife was the daughter of a domestic servant and a common seaman."

Debrett's Peerage declined the request. It carries the name of the new peeress and the names of her parents without comment. The editor won't tell which peeress she is.

Low Opinion Of Editors

(Ottawa Journal)

Far be it from us to seem to be taking on the troubles of our provincial brethren, but our curiosity is aroused by something we encounter on the front page of the Almonte Gazette.

It seems that Almonte, like Ottawa and most other communities, has a bylaw that makes it illegal to let dogs run loose on the streets and in Almonte (as in Ottawa) enforcement of this regulation causes extreme annoyance to some owners of canines.

Lately exasperated owners have been reduced to the extremity of paying fines for allowing their pets more liberty than the law allows, and one of them, a lady, is quoted by the Gazette as telling the town fathers that they have no gentleman and almost never chased automobiles. Moreover, said the lady, the dog is every bit as much a gentleman as the editor of the Gazette. Which last observation of the lady we have quoted the dog is a gentleman and the editor isn't.

We shall await with some eagerness further developments in the affair.

New Lake Born On Pruyns

(Regina Leader-Post)

The people of Moosomin are quite excited these days. They have reason to be. For nine miles south of the town they have a lake nine miles long which wasn't there before. Plans are blossoming for a summer resort along a 1,500-foot natural sandy beach that has already surveyed and are being offered for sale. Soon the sound of hammering will be heard on the shores of the valley as work starts on building the summer cottages.

All this didn't happen by chance. It had its beginning years ago when the people of the area began agitation to have the Pipestone valley dammed to form a reservoir. The conserve water for an assured supply of this essential for the gradually increasing demand economy of the area. Pipestone river sufficed in the early years but during dry periods, it virtually dried up leaving livestock farmers in a tight fix. In 1953 the dam was completed and started work on a $400,000 earth dam. It was completed last year. 1,700 feet-long across a narrow part of the valley with an average height of 30 feet. Final ceremonies with generous precipitation which has resulted in water backing up in the reservoir in three days. Otherwise with the normal flow of the river it would take much longer to fill.

Lakes don't mean much to folks who live beside them as much as them. But it is a thrill on these prairies to have engineering skill harness the water for a purpose to be fishing, boating and other recreation. The lake is only about 15 miles' drive away—all this where in dry years there was little or no water in the valley.

This is but a taste of what will be in store for the even drier Saskatchewan areas when completion of the South Saskatchewan dam provides a lake 140 miles long in the heart of the province.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THAT GREATER LOVE

A reader recently sent an AP clipping which told of two missing men who were motoring around the western mountains. Two other men stopped to let their dog out and heard the frantic barking of another little black dog far down in a canyon of the Feather River. Upon investigation the two discovered two man dead beside their wrecked car. The little dog was barking frantically, with his front feet up on the body of one of them. It was evidently trying to awaken him and protect him. The dog's devotion to his master's hand, who likewise endeavored to awaken him, brought tears to the eyes of the two men who found it.

I came across the notice of a dog's grave in old Greece, and this is what it said: "Greyfriars lies on this path, if haply thou dost pass by, remember me. Lest I pray thee, though it is a dog's grave. Tears fell for me, and the man who has lamented above me is master's hand, who likewise endeavored to awaken him. Such love I have known had their dogs and loved them to the very end. Such love, what genuineness, and what understanding, though there are no dog' words to express it—just the faithful eyes of a dog and bad bark! But that is quite enough. Our friend, the dog, looks upon danger but he cannot run long as he can be of service to the one who loves him most and gives him food and a home. Never abuse a dog.

Monty' Deals With Coughers

(Hamilton Spectator)

Those who speak frequently in public—particularly politicians or the religion — will sympathize with Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery who is reported to have distributed 10,000 cough drops to NATO officers to see that he could "speak per war" exercises. There is nothing more embarrassing for a public speaker than to have to talk over a barrage of coughs—unless it be the sight of members of his audience alsinking out of a back door.

A speaker has a difficult situation because he feels that if he pauses he will push the information per se person conspicuous and so lose some of the sympathy that his audience has for him in the difficult situation. Field Marshal Montgomery's solution was to hand out "coughers". Shortly after he assumed command of the Eighth Army in the last war he noticed one of his first talks to his officers by the announcement that he would first allow them an interval in which to get their coughing done and then be expected to sit silence while he spoke. Apparently, he got it without cough drops.

It is not reported whether cough drops are now an army issue for NATO officers, or whether the distinguished soldier purchases silence at his own cost. However it may be, after having issued with a Montgomery cough drop the doubtful honor any officer would have the temerity to refuse the field marshal during his address.

A public speaker usually develops an unconscious habit of pleasing persistent coughers in his audience by unconsciously timing his furious outbreaks by glancing at his notes or indulging in some minor stage business that has been schemed beard again.

There are many varieties of coughs; the natural, the deprecatory, and the suggestive are the most common. Among them is the dowager and Son how, at the christening of old Jonathan's grand son, the ancient verger coughed like a grampus in the echoing church in the pause which occurred when the time came for the proud father to distribute the cigars.

In the coughing season many ministers — and those sections of congregations with afflicted throats the trials of interruption without end. Even the late Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery's stringent means of protection.

Personal Health Service

By DR. WM. BRADY

A Million or Anyway A Thousand

Whether the ear drops I suggest had anything to do with the young man's recovery is doubtful. In the first place, the drops I suggest are for chronic running ear—that is, only when the trouble has been present months or years. Most likely the ear trouble in this instance responded to the doctor's treatment—or perhaps the trouble was self-limited and recovery occurred naturally as though there had been no treatment at all.

Be that as it may, I'm grateful to the Montreal correspondent for her report and I pray God will bless her, too. Not one in a thousand who write to me merely report that my suggestions proved helpful or didn't prove helpful. Not one in a hundred who says God bless you fails to add a rider asking for further advice. This is the purpose of the Personal Health Service, of course. But I mention the Montreal exception here to show why I am grateful.

I'd be glad to hear from you. Write me to any Aunt Tilly or to the village store-keeper up at our summer resort. Anybody. As Wells would say, I'm all ears. I'll try to answer you. If businessmen realised how much they lose, in good opinion, in prestige, and in plain cash, by the formal, stilted, factual letters that a writing world ruled by the thousands every day in the business offices, they would be aghast. Confidentially, I know I owe a great deal of the success I have had as a writer to the fact that for 17 years I served by beginning the working day with letters. I produced good letters and limbered up the process of writing.

A business executive I was interviewing the other morning was complaining about his secretary. She was walked in, and I was impressed with ease, good nature and lively spirit with which he dictated his day's letters to his stenographer. I told him about H.G. Wells's comment, and he was delighted.

"I've been doing that very thing," he said the tycoon. For twenty years. And for the exact same reason. Every morning, I start my day by dictating two or three personal letters to put me and the stenographer in a good mood. THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

During the first war I had the pleasure of meeting briefly the great novelist H. G. Wells and he mentioned that it was his habit to warm up to his work each day by dictating a couple of personal letters just to loosen up his mind, limber up his lazy and his wits. His theory was that a writing man warmed up by the hour, each day, as much by his letters and the facts of his life as by his literary work. So I took care with his personal letters. And I found that they certainly helped me by beginning the working day with letters. I produced good letters and limbered up the process of writing.

Ambassador's Wife Says Home In Italy Most Attractive

By PEGGY THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Sergio Fenoaltea, wife of the newly appointed Italian ambassador, has visited many attractive places.

But few, she says, are more attractive than her home in Italy, a 400-year-old villa in Florence.

The villa, on a hill surrounded by formal gardens and cypress trees, has been in her family for some time, Mrs. Fenoaltea said. Her parents also lived there.

However, Mrs. Fenoaltea has many good words for other places she visited before coming to Canada—colorful Peiping, where she frequently stayed while her husband was stationed in Nanking as Italian ambassador to China until 1948, and Paris.

MOSTLY IN PARIS

Mr. Fenoaltea was at NATO headquarters in Paris for the last few years. His wife divided her time between Rome and the French capital, "the greater part of it in Paris, I must admit," she says, "for Paris is really something for a woman."

However, it wasn't the frills and finery of Paris which attracted Mrs. Fenoaltea. She is a devotee of the theatre and art.

She recalls that while growing up in her native Milan, one of her greatest pleasures was attending "almost every performance" at the famous La Scala opera house.

A vivacious woman, who wears her dark brown hair arranged in a classical, upswept style, Mrs. Fenoaltea's favorite spare-time activity is crocheting. She learned it from her grandmother when she was a young girl and now she makes up her own designs for delicate, lacy doilies to decorate her home.

One reason why she acquired such a basically useful hobby was her "old - fashioned upbringing," Mrs. Fenoaltea says.

"You know—when girls were expected to stay at home and work," she explains with a smile.

Accused's Statements Should Not Be Read

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia magistrates were advised Monday by an official of the attorney-general's department not to allow statements of accused persons to be read into court records at preliminary hearings.

H. Alan MacLean, deputy attorney-general, said the move would prevent newspapers publishing the statements before regular trial.

He told the magistrates at their annual convention that statements or admissions in preliminary hearings should be entered as exhibits. The suggestion was made to protect the accused, Mr. MacLean said.

Newspapers had a perfect right to publish statements when entered into court records and were probably performing a "just and right" service in doing so, he said.

Public Medical Forums Urged As Doctors Meet

SUDBURY (CP)—Public forums on various aspects of medicine were recommended to members of the Ontario Medical Association at their annual meeting Monday night.

Public relations committee chairman D. L. T. Lang of Kitchener said public response to forums held in Toronto on topics ranging from polio to eye diseases was "remarkable."

Dr. Hugh Fletcher, reporting for the education committee, recommended that a program be developed to conduct post graduate courses utilizing the facilities of hospitals in smaller centres such as Sudbury, Windsor and Kitchener.

Dr. Fletcher said that such facilities existed extensively throughout the province but were not being used.

TO HELP STUDENTS

Delegates also adopted a proposal for the implementation of a program of financial assistance for needy medical students of average ability.

Dr. L. J. Shepley of Chatham, said many organizations, including their own, set aside funds for top students, but little provision was made for students of adequate standing whose economic needs were great enough to require aid.

Dr. C. F. Strong of Vancouver, chairman of the Canadian Medical Association and a foremost exponent of physiotherapy, told members that the gradual elimination of polio would pave the way for the increased use of rehabilitative techniques and equipment for the relief of other physical disabilities.

THIRD PHASE

Dr. Strong said rehabilitation is no longer regarded as a part of social science but ranks as a third important phase of medicine, along with preventive and curative medicine.

Dr. M. O. Klotz, a pathologist at the Ottawa Civic Hospital, was elected president of the association. He succeeds Dr. R. M. Mitchell of Sudbury. President-elect for 1956 is Dr. J. J. C. Dawson of Peterborough.

Dr. H. T. Ewart, superintendent of Mountain Sanatorium in Hamilton, was elected president of the association council, succeeding Dr. M. C. Harvey of Kitchener.

Councillors include: Dr. L. J. Shepley, Chatham; Dr. J. C. McDermoti, Stratford; Dr. W. A. Wilford, Wiarton; Dr. Lorne Whitaker, Scarborough; Dr. R. S. Dugan, St. David; Dr. J. C. C. Dawson, Peterborough; Dr. C. M. Johnston, Port Arthur. University representative is Dr. H. G. Kelly of Kingston.

Death Ray May Help to Rid Great Lakes of Lamprey Eel

OTTAWA (CP)—An international battle to rid the Great Lakes of the parasitic sea eel—marine lamprey—may eventually be won with the help of a death ray that kills by sound.

An ultrasonic sound-wave projector developed by government engineers was described Monday to the Commons fisheries committee as it approved and returned to the Commons for third reading a bill implementing a Canada-United States convention to set up an international Great Lakes fishery commission.

Dr. W. M. Sprules of the fisheries department said it is expected it will be possible to set the sound ray so that it will kill only lamprey.

"Such a device would be mounted on a bank or in the water and its beam would cut across the lamprey's path. We think we could either delay the lamprey in it until they die or else actually kill them with it."

STILL ONLY DESIGN

So far, however, the device still is in the design stage.

The fisheries commission, starting in Lake Superior, would concentrate on ridding the Great Lakes of the lamprey, which since their 1936 invasion have infested all the lakes but Superior. They have appeared there, too, but are still controlled.

Some pickled specimens in bottles were passed around the committee room. The adult reaches 18 inches' length, and grows 12 inches during the last two years of its seven-year life span.

Only in its last 18 months does the lamprey go out into the lakes from the streamlet backwaters in which it spends up to four years, feeding passively.

BECOMES VAMPIRE

Then it becomes a "voracious vampire," said Dr. Sprules. It fastens upon lake trout and some other varieties of fish, and through its sucking mouth feeds upon their blood and flesh. Usually the lamprey remains fastened upon one fish until it dies—members were shown pictures of fish with seven and eight eels feeding from them—and then it makes for some other "host."

In Lake Huron alone, Dr. Sprules said, trout fishing has decreased to zero from a 3,320,000-pound-a-year business in 1934.

Lake Huron and Lake Michigan between them have lost so far $3,000,000 in trout business to the lamprey, he said.

VULNERABLE RUN

Scientists have discovered that the eel makes for a certain type of stream water to spawn and then die. It is on the run to the spawning areas that lamprey are vulnerable, by mechanical weirs they can be trapped, electrical weirs can electrocute them, and specific heavy-gravity poisons have been developed to kill the young.

About 120 of Lake Superior's 360 stream tributaries on the Canadian side are spawning grounds, Dr. Sprules said, and there are 50 in Lake Huron.

Lake Superior is being tackled first, since there the problem is conservation, as well as eel destruction. Control measures will be extended down the lakes progressively.

Telling Truth About Teachers Seen as Useless

KINGSTON (CP)—J. A. Fraleigh of Forest High School board said Monday night that if school inspectors gave true reports on teachers, school boards would be unable to replace them and would only grow dissatisfied with their staff.

Mr. Fraleigh made his remarks when trustees at the 56th convention of the Associated High School Boards of Ontario criticized inspectors' reports for not giving accurate reports on poor teachers.

Dr. T. F. Wiese, of Belle River replied that a frank report must be made early in a teacher's career because it is practically impossible to get rid of them when they have been with a board for 10 years or so.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hanna attended the Taylor-Cook wedding at St. Mark's Anglican Church, Tweed, on Saturday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Alexander, 31k Church street, will be celebrating her 91st birthday on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Horton of Carberry, Manitoba, are visiting at the home of the former's brother, Mr. Fred Horton and other relatives in the locality.

Albert College Teachers Honor Brides-to-Be

The resident teachers of the Albert College Manor held a delightful tea in honor of Miss Sharpe and Miss Lois Harpell, brides-to-be. Mrs. Jessie Gillis, the hostess, was assisted by Miss Loretta McDougall and Mrs. Annie Mackinnon.

The guests were welcomed at the door by the Misses Joan Margaret Sharpe and Judith Ann Rose. Receiving with the honor guests were Mrs. Gillis and Miss Florence Down.

On behalf of the hostess, corsages were presented to Miss Sharpe and Miss Harpell, by two students, Miss Judith Easterly MacCuaig and Cynthia Richards. After the presentation, the guests were invited to the tea table by Mrs. Murray Irwin, and Mrs. Eugene Ross.

CHARMING TEA TABLE

The table was charming with its lace cloth and floral centrepiece of appropriate spring flowers, with a silver service gracing each end and presided over by Mrs. Andrew Reynolds and Mrs. Thomas McMullen, Mrs. Taylor Franklin and Mrs. Evelyn Mollon.

A representative number of the students attended presenting a pretty picture in their spring colors. Several of the young ladies capably and graciously assisted the hostess in serving the guests. Those assisting were the Misses Donna Sexsmith, Germaine Tuckey, Dianna Hudgins, Carolyn Franklin and Sylvia Kemmey. The students replenishing were, the Misses Beth Carter, Lorraine Stewart, Patricia Robson, Diane Cory, Arlene Schryer and Phillipa Moulder.

Pleasant conversation was enjoyed by everyone and wishes of future happiness were extended to the happy brides-to-be.

Duties Are Hard To Describe But Never Dull

OTTAWA (CP) — Mrs. Adelaide Sinclair, executive assistant to the deputy health minister, is the only woman executive assistant in the government.

The wartime commandant of the women's Royal Canadian Naval Service has been executive assistant to the deputy minister since 1946. She says her duties are hard to describe—but they're never dull.

Her work ranges from coping with office crises to supplying information to members of parliament preparing speeches.

Mrs. Sinclair has also served with the United Nations in various capacities. During 1947 she has devoted four weeks a year to UNICEF—the United Nations Children's Fund. In 1950 she was government delegate to the UN General Assembly.

PLANS PROGRAMS

She now helps with the planning of programs for holders of United Nations scholarships for study in Canada.

Mrs. Sinclair, who was widowed in 1938, spent the early years of the war doing various kinds of voluntary work in her native Toronto, including six months as a research economist with the wartime prices board. This job involved checking on how price controls were working in the United States and other countries.

Before her marriage, Mrs. Sinclair taught economics and political science at the University of Toronto.

She became engaged in the WRCNS in 1942, when it was organized. After two months as a probationary sub-lieutenant, she was chosen Canadian commandant and skipped off for a four-month training course with the British Women's Naval Service. She headed the WRCNS until it disbanded in 1946.

Women's Activities

FRONT ROAD WA

The May meeting of the Front Road United church WA. was held at the home of Mrs. T. Whittle with a good attendance.

Mrs. Brown, the president, welcomed all with a few timely remarks after the singing of a suitable hymn to honor "Mother's Day".

Mrs. John Botting conducted the devotional. Mrs. Clinton Brown read the Scripture. Mrs. Roy Clarke read from the Reader. A reading was given by Mrs. Glen Bradshaw on "Mother's Day". Mrs. Clifford Reid and Mrs. Geddes Bradshaw also gave reading pertaining to "Mother's Day."

Mrs. Botting held a contest on "Weeds", with Mrs. Clifford Reid the winner.

The study period was conducted and the March and April meetings were reviewed by the secretary.

The next meeting is to be held in the church. The business to be Mrs. John Botting and Mrs. Mitchell.

A social time was spent when the hostess and her committee served refreshments.

ST. ANDREW'S WMS.

The Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's church was held in the church parlor with 30 members present.

The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. Weir, followed with the reports of secretary, and treasurer.

An interesting overseas letter was read, from a missionary in India.

The summer rally is to be held in Bethel Hill, June 7 and plans to attend will be discussed at the next meeting which will be held in May.

Two members were appointed to the Christian Education Committee, Mrs. King Allen Manlin and Mrs. Brisbin.

ALLOCATION RAISED

The allocation has been raised this year and the suggestion of giving each new name was given to help reach the quota.

The worship service was conducted by the Mission Band group. The Scripture lesson was read by Miss Margaret Ann, followed with prayer by Mrs. Reed. Mrs. Boyce rendered a musical selection.

Mrs. Parsons gave an interesting talk on the life of Madame Pandit, of India. She spoke of her wonderful leadership and the example she has given the people.

Mrs. Thomson closed the meeting with prayer, after which refreshments were served by the ladies in charge.

UNITED CHURCH W.A.

SHANNONVILLE—The monthly meeting of the W.A. of Shannonville United Church was held at the home of Mrs. Orval Stratton on Thursday with 24 ladies present, including four guests. The president, Mrs. K. Vivian, welcomed all. Mrs. Claude Clarke, study leader, took charge of the theme for the month was, "Mission Conference". Mrs. Charles Wood read the Scripture lesson from Acts 2, and John 15.

Mrs. Raymond Clarke read the "Lesson Thoughts", from the devotional leaflet and Mrs. Elmer Vivian gave a reading on "Mother's Day," by H. B. Anderson. Mrs. C. Clarke read a poem entitled, "Mother's Kisses".

THANKS EXPRESSED

Mrs. K. Vivian thanked the group leader and took charge of the business. Mrs. D. Robertson, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting and a letter of thanks for a basket of fruit from Mrs. Sam Barber of Belleville. Mrs. Gammon thanked the WA for the plant and birthday card she had received. Mrs. Doxtater sent her thanks by Mrs. Scott for the card she had received at the time of her sister's death and to all those who had sent cards or sympathy. Mrs. C. Clarke also expressed thanks for the card sent to her when she was sick, and to all those who had remembered her in this way. Mrs. William McFarlane also expressed her thanks for the box of chocolates and Mrs. Earle Vivian thanked the WA for the card received during her illness.

Mrs. Raymond Clarke and Mrs. Malcolm Little were appointed delegates to the WA convention to be held at Madoc, on May 31st.

Mrs. Sam Elliott read a clipping from the Belleville paper for 60 years ago, when Mr. and Mrs. Grills were presented with gifts from their neighbors before they moved to Belleville.

Mrs. Elmer Vivian, who was present, and who is 90 years old, made the presentation. This piece of history was loved interest as is one of Mr. and Mrs. Grills' daughters, Mrs. Arthur Houston, was present.

A quilt top was donated by Mrs. Earle Vivian's sister, Mrs. W. D. Cole, and was much appreciated. Some aprons were displayed and sold.

Mrs. Ross Shetler came after the social and favored us with a lovely selection on the record player by Don Messer and his Islanders Orchestra and Singers, Edward Island.

One of her 11-year-old schools, Lyle Clarke, gave his speech on this subject. He is competing in the public speaking contest to be held at Melrose on the evening of June 1st. He had his part well memorized.

Mrs. C. Clarke gave a humorous reading, "Mother's Day Farmer."

Mrs. Clarke wished to thank Mrs. Shetler and all her group for their help with the meetings in the absence of Mrs. Edward Ireland.

Following the close of the meeting, the hostess and her assistants served refreshments, and enjoyed a social time.

Discarded clothing to be donated must be brought to the church by Tuesday June 1st.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Damon Hinchey on June 8, which is one day ahead of the regular meeting.

5TH THURLOW WMS

The May meeting of the 5th Line Thurlow WMS was held at the home of the president Mrs. Gerald Hodgkinson, who opened the meeting.

Some articles were brought in to the sale.

Mrs. Wilfred Clare had charge of the worship service as found in the Missionary Monthly, using the theme "To live and to give" and the hymn "When Mothers of Salem", was sung. The Scripture lesson was read by Miss Mc Livingston, followed with the meditation, given by the leader.

The program was in charge of Mrs. Charles Huffman. Mrs. A. McCullough gave a reading and Mrs. H. Halnes read "That Wonderful Mother of Mine". "Stand Up For Mothers", was sung and Mrs. E. Ross contributed a reading "Influence". "I Love to Tell of Mothers" was sung and Mrs. James Huffman gave a version of the "Twenty-third Psalm".

The fourth chapter of the study book was given by Mrs. E. P. Yorke and the fifth chapter was synopsized by Mrs. William Hodgson. Mrs. Clarence Martin gave an appropriate reading entitled, "The Songs My Mother Sang".

Mrs. Clare closed the meeting. Mrs. Livingston and helpers served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

Albert College W.G. Hears Talk on 'National Hospital Day'

The regular meeting of the Albert College Women's Guild was held in the Manor, on Thursday with the president, Mrs. W. E. Pinkie, presiding.

Mrs. Pinkie addressed the meeting, briefly on the subject of the "National Hospital Day," and said tribute to Florence Nightingale, who re-organized the old haphazard system of nursing and laid the foundation for the present system of nursing.

Charles Dickens in his novel, "Martin Chuzzlewit, depicted one of the old time nurses in his character study of 'Salrey Gamp'

Raymond Taylor, accompanied by Mr. John Withers, played two violin solos, which were much enjoyed.

Mrs. Taylor Franklin was in charge of the devotional period. She chose a reading from St. Matthew 11: "And Jesus went about all Galilee, . . . healing all manner of sickness and all manner of disease among the people."

WCA FORMED

Mrs. Pinkie is a member of the speakers' panel of the Belleville Hospital. She read from the records of the Women's Christian Association. This association was formed by Mrs. J. R. Jacques, whose husband was at one time, principal of Albert College. The purpose of the association was to bring help to the poor of the city, to build a hospital and to establish a home for the aged. Sir John Bell drew up the constitution for the association and Mrs. Grills was registered in Toronto in 1879.

The first home for the aged was on the site of the Corbin Block Works. Later it was moved to West Moira Street and from there to Dundas Street.

In 1884 the hospital was built. Mrs. Jacques had died and after her death, Mrs. Nathan Jones became president of the WCA. She turned the first sod of the new building. This hospital was the first to be owned and operated by women.

Mrs. W. C. Mikel became president of the association in 1918 and held that office until 1923.

In 1948 Mrs. J. Imlah was president.

HOSPITAL GROWTH

At that time, the hospital had grown from eight beds in 1885 to 200 beds. It was felt by the Association that it had become too large a project for the work of a minister and they gave it to the City of Belleville, which now owns and operates it.

The Belleville hospital represents the achievement of the noble band of women who built, owned and operated it from 1885 until 1948. They had a vision, and devoted their time and energy to making that vision a splendid reality.

Council of Women Welcomed To Saskatchewan by Minister

By PAULINE KENNEDY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SASKATOON (CP) — Woodrow Lloyd, Saskatchewan education minister, told members of the National Council of Women of Canada Monday night that "our government never underestimates the power of women."

His comment, welcoming 100 delegates of the council to their five-day annual meeting, was backed by Mrs. M. P. Toombs of Saskatoon, reporting on activities of the provincial council.

Mrs. Toombs said council members served during the year on the radio-visual aids, curriculum, planning, the health institute, the physical fitness committee and the education week committee.

Council national president Mrs. A. Turner Bone of Montreal said in her annual report that Canadian women are alarmed over nuclear tests. She said a council resolution will ask the government to inform the public at what public experimental explosions might pose a threat to health.

Mrs. Bone's report covered a wide field showing the varied interests of the 200,000 women represented by national council. She touched on welfare work, mental health work, immigration problems and problems of narcotics addiction.

Reporting on the activities of provincial councils, Mrs. Roy Vail of Moncton said the educational fields are most important to the Nova Scotia council this year. Teachers' salaries had been increased to attract more young people into the profession.

Mrs. H. A. Ricker of Hamilton said that the employment situation in Ontario was added by a well-sponsored educational campaign. Women were being encouraged to buy Canadian products in an effort to produce a larger home market for Canadian made goods.

Juvenile delinquency has been the main study of Manitoba provincial council, Mrs. O. W. Struthers of Winnipeg reported. Inspection tours were made of women's jails and juvenile detention homes.

Grace Church W.A. Holds 'Good Luck Tea'

With soft strains of suitable music in the background, a fine and successful "Good Luck Tea and Sale" was held by Group 1 of Grace United church Women's Association, Trenton in the church parlors last Friday afternoon.

Beautiful bouquets of spring flowers decorated the rooms. The color scheme for the occasion was silver and pastel green. In keeping with the date and the name of the tea, silver horseshoes, wishbones, ladders, small pots of clover and pastel green "Good Luck" and "Best Wishes" signs were used as decorations.

Greeting and receiving the guests at the door were: the leader of the group, Miss L. M. Johnson, and the hostess, Mrs. L. A. Wilson.

Mrs. W. S. Bishop performed the duties of treasurer for the afternoon.

Presiding tea at the lovely tea table from 3 to 4 were, Mrs. B. Bowen and Mrs. H. Robertson and from 4 to 5 Mrs. C. Johnston and Mrs. D. Bennett.

At the dainty tea tables, Mesdames Winter, English, Boese, Hall, Delorme and Taylor presided, while Mesdames Carr, Clapp, Mueller, Knox and Leeman took the "Good Luck and Take" table set over the duties in the kitchen.

Managed Mrs. D. Vancliff, who did a good business.

In charge of the sewing table, Group 1 had many lovely pieces of sewing; knitting and crocheting, and also a few novelties were seen. Mrs. B. Robertson and Mrs. Coulter, serving in a competent and kindly manner.

A thriving business was done at the "Good Luck" candy store, keeper, Mrs. L. Riddell, who was in charge of the "Country Store." Managed Mrs. Candy "Sale" laden with all kinds of good things to eat, was well patronized. It was presided over by Mesdames Clarke, Ackerman and Jones.

Much credit, deep appreciation and many sincere thanks are due to each and everyone, who in any way assisted in making this "Good Luck Tea and Sale", such an outstanding success.

WINS FREE MANICURE

LONDON (AP) — Princess Margaret, noted for her personal appearance, smiled with pleasure when she won a free manicure at a charity ball Saturday night. "Just what I need," she exclaimed when the prize was announced. Billy Wallace, her escort, won a plate of hors d'oeuvres and remarked: "Just what I don't need."

100 Women Will Be Fighting For British Commons Seals

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Almost 100 women will desert their offices, schoolrooms, laboratories to fight for seats in the House of Commons.

So far, 91 women have entered the lists as candidates in the May 26 election. The Labor party has placed 42 in the field, the Conservatives 33 and the Liberals 14. Mrs. Jenny Davies will try to oust Liberal Sir Rhys Hopkin Morris in Carmarthenshire for the Welsh (Nationalist) party while farther south Mrs. Anne Powell is carrying the Communist banner in the coalmining area of Rhondda East. Nominations close Tuesday.

Britain's trendy feminists are hopeful that this year they will top their representation of 24 in the 1945-50 parliament, largest number in the 34 years since Nancy Lady Astor became Britain's first woman MP.

SEEK RE-ELECTION

In the 1951 election, 74 women fought for seats in the male-dominated House and 17 won. At dissolution May 6, there were 24 MPs in the slate, seven Conservatives and 13 Socialists. All but one, Conservative Mrs. Mervyl Pike of housewife who won the Northern Ireland seat of Down North as an Ulster Unionist in a 1953 by-election—will seek re-election.

At least 10 women who have come within sight of cabinet rank are sweeping into battle. Auburn-haired Pat Hornaby-Smith, 40, for four years parliamentary secretary to the Civil Service and in local government, seeks to increase her thin majority of 980 in Chislehurst, Kent. Florence Horsbrugh, Conservative education minister from 1951 to 1954, will contest Moss Side, Manchester, where her majority on the last election was a comfortable 10,878.

Dr. Edith Summerskill, 54, Socialist minister of national insurance 1950-51 and present Labor party chairman, tackles Warrington in Lancaster after losing Fulham West through boundary changes under redistribution. Warrington is regarded as a safe Labor seat.

Most important certainty to enter the House for the first time is Labor's Shirley Catlin, 34, a former Conservative Area Marsh, 24-year-old musician who fights a 12,000 majority in Hitchin, Hertfordshire; and Liberal Barbara Durrell, 24-year-old research chemist who contests Bath.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHMAN

IN WHOSE NAME THE WEDDING INVITATIONS?

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Until last December my younger sister and I had had an apartment together for quite a few years. Then I was married and my sister went to live with our aunt (our mother's sister) and uncle. Our parents are dead. Now my sister is to be married, and she and I are wondering whether my husband and I should sponsor the wedding invitation, or whether they should be sent in the names of our aunt and uncle. My sister is paying most of her wedding expenses (a small, simple wedding), and I am contributing as much as I can, daily M.

Under these circumstances it would be correct for you and your husband to sponsor the wedding invitations. I judge that this is what your sister prefers, and since apparently your aunt and uncle are not paying the bulk of the wedding, the invitations need not be sent in their names, and I am sure they will understand.

WHEN BRIDE CARRIES A BIBLE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

When the bride carries a Bible with an orchid in it, how does she do about throwing a bouquet to her attendants?

The bride may, if she wishes, throw the orchid to her bridesmaids, or she may plan to have a flowered marker in the Bible and throw the marker . . . either would have the same significance as a bridal bouquet would have.

USEFUL GIFT FOR GOLDEN WEDDING COUPLE

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

1. One of your columns about two years ago contained 10 Suggestions for Golden Wedding Plans. I saved it, and it is most helpful for the guests I am now making for the Golden Wedding of my mother and father. One phase not covered, Mrs. Beechman, was the "problem" of gifts. That is, what to do about the deluge of useless gifts the many gifts sugar bowls and cream pitchers, the "Golden Memories" books, the clocks, and so on, and so on. Do I sound mercenary? My mother and father are people of very moderate means. And what they really need is a comfortable chair. All the guests will be people of moderate means. They want to bring a gift. Don't you think it would be sensible for me to suggest in the invitation "Rather than bring a gift, perhaps you might like to contribute $2.00 toward a comfortable chair we would like to get for mother and father. I know this would make them very happy, give them something they will really enjoy." Would you at all approve of this?

2. How could this suggestion be done? I had planned to have the invitations printed in gold letterling. Should I insert another card with the above "suggestion" handwritten? Or must I write the whole invitation and message?

3. Of course some gifts will be brought. When the guest hands a gift to my mother, is it lacking in courtesy for her to lay it on a nearby table, continuing to greet the guests who are standing in line to speak to her, or must she keep all waiting while she immediately opens the gift and thanks the donor? — B.

1. I completely and most happily agree with you about taking sensible and practical steps that will avoid the "deluge of useless gifts" which so often arrive and which maddeningly "clutter." Moreover, when this problem is met straightforwardly and graciously, and with a simple, easy, non-expensive suggestion, it is not only a comfort to the couple, but also it is a great help to the guests, who almost always are desperately trying to think of something for golden-anniversary-couple would welcome and enjoy. That comfortable chair will be just the right idea, I'm sure . . . from every point of view! And I'm sure it will sing the best wishes of everyone.

2. I'm most enthusiastic about your having the invitations printed in gold lettering. Should I insert another card with the above "suggestion" handwritten? Or must I write the whole invitation and message?

No, I should not. I should send the invitations printed in gold lettering, exactly as you have planned, and I should not add any "suggestion" whatever. Your mother and father will be delighted to receive the invitations, and they will be delighted to receive the gifts that arrive. Your mother will be delighted to receive the guests who come to the golden wedding. Your mother and father will be delighted to receive the letters and cards that arrive. Your mother and father will be delighted to receive the telephone calls that arrive. Your mother and father will be delighted to receive the telegrams that arrive. Your mother and father will be delighted to receive the flowers that arrive. Your mother and father will be delighted to receive the gifts that arrive. Your mother and father

Franchot Tone Will Narrate Dance-Drama

Lillian Jarvis, Toronto ballerina, has been selected to play the dancer in the Stratford Festival's "A Soldier's Tale" this summer. A member of Canada's National Ballet Company, she has been with the group since its formation in 1951 and danced leading roles in its last season's tour of Canadian and American cities.

Playing the role of the soldier in the dance-drama is Douglas Bain, a prominent member of the Stratford Festival Company for its three seasons. Franchot Tone, American actor will be narrating the drama, with Marcel Marceau, famous French mime, playing the devil. The drama is being staged by Douglas Campbell, with Alexander Schneider, violinist, featured with the orchestra which will be conducted by Paul Scherman of Toronto.

"A Soldier's Tale" will be performed in the Festival Concert Hall four times during Stratford's inaugural music season, July 9th to August 6th. The four-week music-dance program also features the Stratford House Orchestra conducted by Boyd Neel, and such guest artists as Elisabeth Schwarzkopf, Isaac Stern, Lois Marshall, Glenn Gould, and Alexander Schneider.

Box office officials in Stratford report that ticket demand to date is running ahead of last year's.

The cemetery board held a business meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Lazier. A social time was enjoyed, after discussions were completed.

Arbor Day was held on Friday the 6th, at Melrose school. Unpleasant weather prevented a trip to the woods. A pot - luck dinner was enjoyed, following clean-up operations.

Miss Margaret Dawson is spending a few days with her niece, Mrs. Rutter, of Carmel.

Mrs. Arnold Reilly entertained the Presto Music Club on Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Grant McEaren spent Sunday with friends at Madoc.

Stravinsky's music-dance-drama tops that of any other concert of the music season and full houses in the 1,000 capacity Concert Hall are expected for the forty - five minute potpourri. The second half of the program will feature Paris artist Marcel Marceau presenting a selection of the mimo-drama for which he is famous in both Europe and North America.

Politicians Blaming TV For Lack of Interest in Election

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters) — Worried politicians were blaming television today for an unprecedented lack of interest in Britain's general election campaign.

With just 10 days of campaigning to go, the public seems interested in everything except the May 26 poll. The public is much more excited about tonight's world heavyweight title fight between Don Cockell and Rocky Marciano.

The San Francisco fight took over many front-page headlines during the weekend from the Conservative-Labor election fight.

Politicians, striving desperately to stir up some hot issues cast television in the role of principal villain. TV sets have had a mushroom growth in Britain since the election in 1951, and set owners obviously are finding it more pleasant and comfortable to stay in their parlors than venture out to drafty auditoriums for political rallies.

BBC DOESN'T HELP

What really hurts the campaign is the fact the British Broadcasting Corporation, with its single-channel television monopoly, avoids mention of the election in any of its regular programs for fear of showing favoritism. The same rule applies to radio broadcasts. A small amount of program time is rationed out to each of the parties on an equal basis, but programs devised by the politicians so far have proved far less exciting than the popular panel games.

Except for Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden, Labor party leader Clement Attlee and left-wing baiter Aneurin Bevan, candidates often have found themselves speaking to near-empty halls.

Eden's Conservatives, though they feel certain of returning to power, are as concerned as Labor over the apathy. The Laborites especially think they need a large turnout to ensure a majority in the new 630-seat House of Commons.

Politicians do not put all the blame on the video tube. They say the absence of burning issues and the fact most voters have already made up their minds are other big factors.

Things nevertheless are expected to liven up in the last full week of campaigning.

Public opinion polls give the Conservatives a popularity lead of 5½ per cent, an increase during the last week.

International C of C Meets In Tokyo, Welcomed by P. M.

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TOKYO (CP)—Businessmen of 46 countries Monday offered their alternative to communism for Asia's masses in the colorful opening ceremonies of the 15th congress of the International Chambers of Commerce here.

It was an alternative wherein the consumer was king as demonstrated in at least some of the Western countries where high buying power had been developed and a wide distribution of necessities and luxuries accompanied.

The prospect was held out that this could be extended to all peoples in a freer exchange of goods in a free world.

THEME SIGNIFICANT

Prime Minister Hatoyama, welcoming some 800 delegates and 400 accompanying wives to Japan, said it was highly significant that the theme of the congress was "Asian Problems — World Progress" because the solution of one was essential to the other.

Camille Gutt of Belgium, ICC president, also declared the two concepts indissoluble.

Asians, Gutt said, no longer accept the inevitability of want and suffering and are filled with a powerful feeling to accomplish in a few years what other parts of the world took centuries to achieve.

Gutt said most of the prerequisites for the establishment of a free and stable monetary order had been attained and "we are on the threshold of convertibility of currencies or, to say the least, in view of the threshold."

NORTH AMERICA EXAMPLE

In the afternoon sessions, Canadian and American speakers pointed to North American living standards as an example of what could be accomplished.

Reno Perrault of Montreal said: "I give you the two nations of North America, with nothing but freedom and opportunity to begin with, who have achieved the highest standard of material wellbeing the world has ever known and, more important, live at peace with each other. Let us renew our faith in ourselves, our way of life and in our freedom. We are pledged to set a higher standard of living for all people."

CREDIT'S PART IS LARGE

Paul Blenvenu of Montreal outlined the place credit plays in a prosperous economy.

"Canadians," Blenvenu said, "are credit - minded people and would be shocked if the privilege of using credit was taken from them. A business that extend credit would be rocked to their foundations. Distribution in the world market can, I think, benefit just as does a domestic market through extension of credit.

Longterm financing has been available in the United States through the export-import bank and Canadians are thinking seriously of their need in this respect, Blenvenu added.

No Mortgage Worries for New Homeowners

New Plan Will Ensure Mortgage is Paid Off!

Last summer, a young couple bought a home in a quiet suburban area for $15,000. They paid $5,000 down, with a 20 year mortgage for $10,000. As things stand, they should have no trouble paying it off.

The Accident is taking no chances. He has a Confederation Life Mortgage Insurance Plan, with a Total Disability Rider. For $8.31 a month Confederation will pay off his mortgage in case of death. If he becomes disabled, the policy remains in force at no cost to him.

Yes, for less than 1% of your initial mortgage, providing you are under 35, you can protect your family from foreclosure at the time of your death.

Features of the Confederation Life Plan

1. This Mortgage Insurance Plan may be purchased on a 15, 20 or 25 year basis.
2. The cost reduces in later years.
3. After the mortgage period you may continue the protection at reduced cost, or receive a cash payment.

The Greater the need for High Octane
The Greater the need for TCP

Today's engines deliver more power than ever before—and with greater economy, too!

They're high compression engines. They're built to squeeze more power out of every drop of the high octane gasolines they require.

But high octane alone will not keep these engines delivering their full power. They must be protected against the harmful effects of deposits that build up in combustion chambers.

The reason is this:

When your engine warms up, these deposits warm up, too—glow red hot. And these glowing particles act like hot coals—ignite the gasoline mixture ahead of time . . . before the pistons reach proper firing position. This is called pre-firing and means that power works against you instead of for you.

In addition, these same deposits have another power-wasting effect: They foul spark plugs, causing your engine to miss.

Engineers will tell you there's nothing more wasteful of power and gasoline than pre-firing and spark plug "miss."

But there is an answer—there's one high octane gasoline that gives you all the advantages of high octane without the power-crippling effects of these deposits—Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP*.

TCP, the Shell-developed additive, fireproofs the deposits so that they no longer cause pre-firing. No longer can they glow red hot and ignite the gasoline mixture. And TCP stops spark plug "miss," too. Your spark plugs do the job they are supposed to do.

Start getting the full power built into your engine. Get Shell Premium with TCP. It's the most powerful gasoline your car can use!

*Shell's trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

SHELL

Only Shell Premium Gasoline has both TCP and High Octane!

Liberal Leader Hits Frost Govt. on Teacher Shortage

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Progressive Conservative government of Ontario has been charged with handing out teaching permits by the shovelful to young persons not qualified to teach.

The charge was made at Fort William Monday night by Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver who said in a speech during his campaign tour for the June 9 Ontario general election that the "department of education has given out with gross inefficiency insofar as its teacher-training program is concerned."

The 51-year-old Opposition leader, in amplifying the education sections of the Liberal party's 21-point manifesto, said the government of Premier Frost gave teaching permits indiscriminately in an attempt to meet the teacher shortage.

Fifty percent of municipal tax bills go toward education costs, Oliver said. Unless the grant system was changed, this percentage would be up to 75 before too many years.

WOULD GET MORE

He said that if his party is elected June 9 municipalities will receive about $2,000,000 more in education grants each year.

"The government has sat still with its hands folded and allowed the teacher shortage to mount where it now is the greatest in the history of the province," Mr. Oliver said. He was speaking at a liberal rally in support of Ivan Rochlaschaffen, candidate for Fort William riding.

All three party leaders spoke Monday. Mr. Frost was heard over a recorded broadcast on the CBC's Ontario network and he attended a rally at Sault Ste. Marie. CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald also recorded a similar radio work broadcast Monday night.

At Sault Ste. Marie, the premier said the Liberals' election platform is made up of forgotten promises 25 to 30 years old.

It isn't a platform at all, he said. It was a raft put together in "a sea of political expediency."

The premier, seeking to lead his party to its fifth straight victory at the polls, spoke at a meeting in support of Harry Lyons, Progressive Conservative candidate for Sault Ste. Marie. Mr. Lyons has held the seat since 1951.

SPOKE OF JOBLESS

Mr. Frost spoke briefly on unemployment. He said problems of peace are greater than one level of government or section of people can handle. The approach should be one of close partnership between federal, provincial and municipal governments, labor and industry.

Speaking particularly of the Sault Ste. Marie area, the premier termed it a "favoured community." He said its possibilities are unsurpassed and predicted the city would be a great ocean port after completion of the St. Lawrence seaway.

Forecasting great power development in the Montreal river area, the premier said he had been told by the Great Lakes Power Company that it has a five year development plan which will cost $20,000,000.

He said the program was an indication of the faith of people who have invested their money and pledged their faith in the Sault area.

The premier reiterated to what he said was the only promise he made before the 1951 election, that the Progressive Conservative party would give "honest, good, clean government."

PROGRAM OF PROGRESS

In his radio speech, the premier called on the voters to re-elect a government with a mandate "to go ahead with our program of progress".

". . . I again promise that our government will work and cooperate with all governments of Canada and with all citizens for the betterment of our province and our country."

The administration had made advances in such fields as education, health, welfare, housing, road construction and development of natural resources, Mr. Frost said.

The program Ontario submitted to the federal-provincial conference is in itself a pattern for the future. It included study of new fiscal arrangements to replace those existing in less than two years, action on the whole problem of unemployment and unemployment, development of a workable plan on health or hospital insurance which could be introduced in stages, revision of present federal health grants, and "studies of constitutional matters, including farm marketing, designed to better the standard of living and increase the income of our people and, as well, strengthen our confederation."

COMPULSORY INSURANCE

Mr. MacDonald said a CCF government in Ontario would make automobile insurance compulsory and provide it at wholesale rates. He added:

"We must face the fact that a modern car on modern highways is a lethal weapon. Tragedy can strike at a moment's notice, and sometimes through no fault of yours, or anyone. So it becomes just plain common sense that everybody should be protected against the financial liability which can come."

He said that for the last 10 years residents of Saskatchewan have been getting automobile insurance at cost and "the CCF will provide the same insurance in Ontario."

"The CCF believes that the people of Ontario can provide all these things for themselves through their government," he said. "It does so we would simply be building co-operative societies of society based on the principles of human brotherhood.

"Only when we have built this kind of society . . . will we have any real hope for continued peace and prosperity."

Mr. MacDonald also said the period of prosperity which started during the Second World War years had ended. For 12 years the Progressive Conservative government had been carried along on a wave of prosperity not of its own making.

"PRODUCT OF WAR"

"That prosperity was a product of war and of post-war rehabilitation and defence spending," he said. "Never has any Ontario government had so much to work with as the Conservative government during these years. And yet we have no health or hospital insurance plan."

He said the CCF program will provide family security. He went on outline some of the highlights of the program.

If elected the CCF party pledged itself to only policies—such as a public housing program—to provide full employment; to provide legislation to give working people the power to look after their own interests; to set up a province-wide hospital plan and to build 40,000 low-rental homes in its first term of office.

It also felt old-age pensions and mother's allowances should be increased.

WILL PROBE HIGHWAYS

Mr. Oliver reiterated in Fort William that the Liberals, if elected would reinvestigate the highways department in the Lakehead city which last year was the scene of hearings into irregularities in highway construction contracts.

On the second leg of a week-long campaign tour of northern Ontario, Mr. Oliver said the present government is "afraid" of the truth in connection with the highways department hearings.

He also said the government is going too far "in taking credit for the St. Lawrence seaway development" and added:

"Ontario entered only because she wanted power and made an agreement with the federal government to receive a share of it. You'd think they were mother and father and brought it into being."

All three party heads speak today. Mr. Frost is at Little Current and Sudbury, Mr. Oliver travels to Kenora and Mr. MacDonald goes to Sault Ste. Marie.

Same Footman Served Duke Twice in Night

LONDON (AP)—At lunch, Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh were served as usual by a footman, one of the regular Buckingham palace staff.

That night the duke attended a private dinner party on the other side of London. He glanced at the waiter, then, obviously startled, took a second, long look. It was the same footman, the man from the palace.

That's the story told Sunday by Arthur Helliwell, columnist for the Sunday newspaper, The People. Helliwell reported that a number of the palace staff have been hiring out to caterers of fancy parties to pick up extra money after finishing their duties serving the royal family. A palace chamberlain is the hiring agent, he said.

Whether the palace intends to do anything about it Helliwell didn't say.

Gives Echo Rock On Lake Mazinaw To Dominion

BON ECHO, Ont. (CP)—A 10-square-mile tract of picturesque timberland, lying along the shore of Lake Mazinaw and commanded by the famed 400-foot-high Echo Rock, has been given in perpetuity to the people of Canada.

Merrill Denison, Canadian author and playwright, whose family has owned the land for more than half a century, presented it in trust to a committee of representatives of industrial, educational, agricultural, charitable, citizenship and labor organizations.

Mr. Denison, whose writings have included several works on the Canadian outdoors, proposed the land, situated on Highway 41, half way between Toronto and Ottawa, should become the site of a year-round education and recreational centre.

The Bon Echo committee plans to entrust the property to a non-profit foundation and to obtain funds for construction of a convention and adult school centre from labor, industry, charitable foundations and private individuals in Canada and the United States.

St. Andrew's Observes Mothers' Day

IVANHOE — A special Mother's Day service was held at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, on Sunday afternoon.

The order of service was prepared by the Board of Christian Education, and was conducted by the Rev. W. H. V. Walker.

The responsive Scripture reading was led by B. S. Supt., Mr. Barton Haggarty.

A story for little children was told by Mrs. John Maloney and Mrs. John Wallace spoke on the theme "God Speaks Through Christian Homes."

An appropriate message was given by the minister.

Special music included a solo, "My Mother's Prayer", Mrs. A. Hassell; "Listen to the Voice of Jesus", Jr. choir.

Lovely spring flowers were placed in the church in memory of mothers who once worshipped there.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Keebles, Wayne and Johnny spent the week-end with Mr. Richard Reid.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaw and Wayne were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Thrasher, Mt. Pleasant.

Mr. and Mrs. Clinton Benson and children, of Kingston, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Benson.

Marciano Still Heavyweight King; Defeats Cockell By TKO In Ninth

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"MUSSELS, ALIVE, ALIVE—HO"

There are a lot of red faces in "sports row" across the border today, especially around Gotham, the home of the experts, for the 'ay farmer from Ocean Grand, himself, whom they tabbed a "tub of lard," a "bum steer from John Bull" and other fancy names, came up with a terrific effort against the blockbusting Rocky Marciano from Brockton in last night's heavyweight battle.

There was nothing of the "Phainting Phil" or other Phinish types which the tight-little-island has sent over here from time to time with eyes on the heavyweight crown, about gallant Don Cockell. The pudgy one showed that his midriff expansion was strictly fat and that his ability to absorb the terrific blows of Marciano earned for him not only the plaudits of the ringside crew and spectators but the rest of the boxing world.

Rocky's reputation held no qualms for the plucky Britton. He sailed in with fists flying and at one time had the Rocky almost teetering on his heels with a solid smash to the jaw. How the bloke stood on his blinkin' feet in the eighth round when Rocky hit him with everything but the Marlines, the coast guard, Fort Benning and part of the navy, had everybody at ringside and radio side wondering what in tarnation was holding him up. Yet he rallied and came back fighting, albeit the dance was out of his legs and the sting out of his punches.

As the announcer said in some sort of tribute, Cockell was not knocked out "like an electric light." He sank slowly to the canvas from sheer weariness. He fought a brilliant fight but did not have what it takes to offset the ferocious attack and punching of the champion. He did win a moral victory, inasmuch as he set to nought the outspoken statements of some American sports writers that he was just a pushover for the champion and would not last three rounds.

And the finest tribute of all came from the champion himself. Said Rocky: "I never fought a braver man, nor have I thrown so many punches as I did at Cockell. He took everything I had—and he hurt me in the eighth with that sock to the jaw when I thought I had him."

It seems too bad that after such a brilliant attempt to wrest the heavyweight crown for Britain that Cockell and his handlers claim a "raw deal," unless of course such is the case. One report claimed that the referee's view was blocked by the champion and a cut opened on his forehead. Also that one or more low blows were struck by Rocky during the battle. The radio version claimed that he thought one of Rocky's body smashes was a trifle low—but was not of the opinion it was deliberate.

He reported, too, that the fighters were "head-to-head" in the furious slugging bee in the eighth, but whether Rocky butted Cockell, as charged, was not known. However it appears the referee was not of that opinion and probably nothing will be done about it.

However, one of two facts emerged from the battle. One is that Cockell can absorb much more punishment than he has been given credit for—and is a much better all-round boxer his previous record would indicate. And two is the remote possibility that the Rocky's famous "blockbusting" punches are losing some of their lethal power. We would be inclined to go along with the fact that Cockell is much better than a lot of so-called American boxing experts would have you believe.

But from our ringside seat at the family Philco (advt) and the radio description of the fight, it seemed that Cockell's punches did not carry much steam. He landed one beauty in the eighth and another that "hurt Rocky", but if you follow the aired version all those left hooks and rights, Cockell was throwing had little or no effect on the champion. The news despatch of the battle stated Rocky "was unmarked." And the famous "schnozzola" seems to have righted itself. No damage was done to it, apparently.

THEY'RE BACK SINGLY

Those beauded Runkys are back again this Friday, but the moguls have split the duo to see what they can do in the ring without the benefit of brotherly love and assistance. Ivan takes on Whipper Billy Watson in the main bout while Karl wrestles a newcomer, Ken Kenneth, in the opener. Midway will be those mighty mites, the midgets. Little Beaver is back teamed up with a new face Reg Littlebrook, while opposing them will be Ski Lo-Lo and Fuzzy Cupid. What fun!

BOWLING

The boys and gals of the alleys can continue their home and fireside arguments, if any, at the Bowl-O-Drome this week-end when the "Mr. and Mrs. Bowling" tournament is scheduled to be run off. The Mr. and Mrs. title contenders will battle for the title Friday and Saturday with the three top couples going to Deseronto for the regional finals on May 21st. See Bill Bateman about the entries. Rolling pins are barred.

Speaking of bowling the "Knife and Fork League" is drawing to a close with two main events scheduled for this week. Tonight the Men's Commercial "A" loop go to the food mat at the ANAF clubrooms while Thursday night "Sugar" Martin's ramblers of the Commercial loop attack the groceries at the Moose hall.

Charge Johnson's Crew, Matchmaker With Covering Fake Boxing Match

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania athletic commission's probe of state boxing was in recess today but the sparks still were flying from Monday's session in which the commission charged Harold Johnson, No. 1 light heavyweight contender, three of Johnson's handlers and matchmaker Pete Moran covered up a "fake" boxing match.

The commission alleged that Johnson, Moran, trainers Clarence "Sonny" Davidson and Joe Rowland, 44½ Jess Gross, a second, match." Commission member Al-knew that" Johnson wasn't well enough to fight Julio Medero Aug 6, but let the match go on without notifying the proper authorities.

At the start of Monday's afternoon session of the probe, state Deputy Attorney General Herbert S. Levin read the commission's "indictment" of Johnson and the other four principals.

This document charged that the fighter, Moran and the three handlers were guilty of covering up a "sham, fake or collusive boxing

Briton Drew Crowd Plaudits, Took Everything Rocky Threw In Valiant Bid for Bauble

By BOB MYERS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—It took a lot of chopping to cut down Don Cockell, the sturdy oak of England, but whack him down he did, mains the boss of the world's heavyweight fighters.

Fifty-four rounds and an assortment of blows after the start of the ninth round, the power-punching Marciano disposed of the gallant but battered challenger from Britain.

Referee Frankie Brown stopped the scheduled 15-rounder, awarding mauling Marciano a technical knockout in the Rock's fifth defence of his championship.

The end was sighted in the sixth, drew nearer when the game Britisher was sent through the ropes head first at the bell ending the eighth and the ultimate crash when Cockell was smashed to the canvas twice almost as soon as the ninth round began.

COUNT OF EIGHT

It took a count of eight for the hog farmer from Horgm in Sussex to lift himself from the canvas out of his trunks in this bloody ninth, and back down he went. He managed to get back to his feet for the end was even trying to punch back.

Then the referee called it quits.

Cockell weighing 205, 16 pounds more than Marciano's 189, was bleeding from his nose, September, when the ninth round, he had absorbed a severe beating. He had taken the best the American knockout king had to offer for eight rounds and come back for more, all the time trying to land his best punches.

In the eighth, for instance, one observer counted almost 25 yard punches landed by Marciano to the head and midsection. This oak was hard to topple, but when the bell, Rocky slush the Briton with a right and sent him lunging headfirst through the ropes into his own corner.

And just before the bell ending the sixth, a right to the jaw sent Cockell walking unsteadily to his handlers.

REFUSED TO GIVE UP

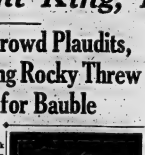
Don's manager, John Simpson, admitted later that the referee came over and asked'if the fight should go on, and that he himself suggested that Don not give up. Cockell refused, and made it plain he did not want his manager to stop the fight under any circumstances.

It came as a surprise later, particularly to the writers who had admired Cockell's fine stand, to hear him say he thought he got a "raw deal."

Rocky did land several blows on the borderline. And the two banged heads a time or two.

The head butting may have cut Cockell's forehead — a cut that wasn't bad but bled from the fourth round on—but there did not appear to have been any damage resulting from low blows or punches at the bell.

fred Klein said the commission had the evidence to back up the charge and would produce it at later sessions.



CARRIED FROM RING

Johnson collapsed after the second round of the nationally televised fight and was carried from the ring on a stretcher. Subsequent examination by physicians and a police investigation disclosed Johnson had been drugged. Gov. George M. Leader banned boxing in Pennsylvania for 30 days as a result of the fiasco and ordered the commission to investigate.

The commission also indicted Moran for allegedly owning a piece of Johnson, a violation of state regulations which forbid a matchmaker to have a financial interest in a boxer. Moran is matchmaker for Herman Taylor who promoted the Johnson-Medero fight.

Dr. Alfred Ayella and Wilbur Strickland testified at the session of the commission Monday that Johnson was drugged by a barbiturate. The physician also said it was their belief the drug could have been induced into Johnson's system through an orange.

The fighter claims he ate part of an orange in the dressing room before the fight. He said it tasted "bitter."

'Got Raw Deal' Says Cockell Said Rocky 'A Great Fighter'

By CHRIS EDMONDS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rocky Marciano fingered his supposedly tender nose in the Kezar Stadium dressing room Monday night after stopping England's Don Cockell in the ninth round of their heavyweight championship fight.

"He's got a lot of guts," Marciano told a crowd of reporters who besieged him.

"He took what he took everything I had and he kept standing up.

"He's an underrated fighter. I don't think I hit anyone else any more or often or harder, maybe Ez Charles the first time, but I don't think so."

Marciano was asked whether his nose had bothered him at all.

"No, he didn't hurt me at all on the nose," he said.

The nose, split by Charles in their last title fight, looked fine.

Marciano went on:

"I hurt him something awful in the eighth round but he kept standing right up. It was a right hand that did the business near the end, that got him groggy.

"I don't think I ever fought a braver guy, at least he's right up near the top. He took about as good punishment as Charles did.

"He hurt me in the sixth with a right to the jaw. It was in the same round that I thought I had his number."

Cockell's manager, Al Weill, echoed the fighter's praise of Cockell.

"He fought a great fighter tonight," Weill said.

White Sox Loom as Threat To Top-Running Tribe, Yanks; Cards Defeat Slumping Bucs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Al Lopez still tags the New York Yankees as the team his Clevelands have to whip over the long haul for another American League flag, but the guys who want to razzle for first place here and now are the Chicago White Sox.

The Sox pull into Yankee Stadium tonight for a two-game set that wraps up their first eastern tour of the season. It's nothing like that fabulous swing of 1951 when Chicago became the first team ever to sweep an eastern jaunt in the AL, but with four victories in five tries it's not bad.

That leaves the White Sox—a length behind Cleveland and 1½ ahead of the third-place Yankees with a three-game winning streak. The next robust streak going right now in the AL.

CARDS' STRING

In the National League, a three-game winning combination tops the loop. It belongs to the St. Louis Cardinals, who beat Pittsburgh 6-0 Monday night in the only major league game scheduled Monday.

In the National, Brooklyn's Dodgers, while losing three games in seven and getting knocked off an 11-game winning streak, still have a nine-game bulge. The New York Giants are second, three percentage points ahead of Milwaukee's Braves who have won four of seven at home.

St. Louis has the best mark against eastern teams, dropping just one game for a five-for-six record at home after a slumping road trip.

By taking their three-game series with the Pirates, the Cards managed to pull within a half game of the Chicago Cubs. Louis Arroyo ramped Monday night's victory, tching a six-hit shutout without sibling a man.

Bill Sarni was four-for-four in the Cards' 11-hit attack, which also included homers by Wally Moon and Bill Virdon. Ronnie Kline was the loser as the Bucs continued their anemic hitting. Curveballer Vernon Law stopped the plate just once in the last 36 innings.

Fight Facts And Figures

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gross receipts for Monday night's world heavyweight title fight between champion Rocky Marciano and England's Don Cockell totalled $196,720. A crowd of 18,200 saw the bout.

Other figures all estimated except radio.

Federal tax—$20,000
State tax—$9,000
Net receipts—$171,000
Marciano's share of gate—$64,980
Cockell's share of gate—$32,490
U.S. radio receipts—$35,000
British radio receipts—$2,800
Theatre television receipts—$125,000.
Marciano's share of radio-theatre TV—$62,144
Cockell's share of radio-theatre TV —$32,372
Marciano's total share—$130,124
Cockell's total share—$65,062.

Jets Becoming Strong Contenders In International

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Floe relief pitching is making the Columbus Jets strong contenders in the International League race.

Five clubs are battling for top honors and the Jets, who replaced the Ottawa Athletics this season, now are within 4½ games of first place. They whipped Havana, 4-2, Monday night, snapping the Sugar Kings' six-game winning streak.

In the only other game, Syracuse Chiefs edged a 2-game losing skein with a 5-4 victory over Richmond Virginians. The Montreal-Toronto game was rained out.

Montreal leads the circuit by one-half game over Toronto Maple Leafs, with Rochester Red Wings another game behind. Havana holds down fourth place three games behind.

JACOBS LIGHTS FIRE

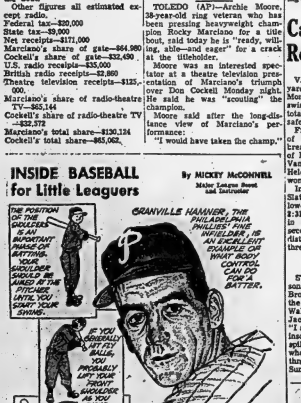
A three-run third-inning rally highlighted by Forrest Jacobs' Jacobs' two-run triple enabled Carl Boyer to pitch Columbus to victory of the season for the Jets. Spider Wilhelm completed the Jets' scoring with a homer in the fourth inning.

Boyer gave way to Dutch Romberger in the sixth after walking two. Johnny Lipon's single scored Bill Kluttz. Ken Trexler pitched out hit in five innings while Romberger allowed three hits in the final four. Willie Powell was the loser.

Syracuse tallied three unearned runs off Steve Richmond reliefer, and clutch relief hurling by Kent Peterson got Ed Kasko and the hitting of Clark ended the Syracuse losing streak. Clark playing his first game for the Chiefs since being optioned by the Philadelphia Phillies, drove in two runs and scored twice as he doubled and tripled.

'I Would Have Taken Rocky' Says Moore

TOLEDO (AP)—Archie Moore, 38-year-old ring veteran who has been pressing heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano for a title bout, said today he is "ready, willing, able—and eager" to get a crack at the titleholder.



Moore was an interested spectator at a theatre television presentation of Marciano's triumph over Don Cockell in London. He said he was "scouting" the champion.

Moore said after the long-distance view of Marciano's performance:

"I would have taken the champ."

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

Batters who hit for high averages know the importance of hitting line drives, and more and more good hitters are coming to realize that a level swing gets the best results. Even power hitters are discovering that they will get their share of home runs despite the fact that they are attempting to hit line drives. Ted Kluszewski, who ranks with the top sluggers in the game today, says that he aims to hit line drives and his home runs might be termed accidents.

One way to insure that you will hit your share of line drives is to be sure that your shoulders are level when you swing at the ball. Assume a batting stance that is comfortable with your front shoulder pointing toward the pitcher. Keep the shoulder in that position until you start your swing, and keep your head aimed in the same direction throughout the swing. In other words, your head should remain stationary as your body moves with your bat.

Keeping your head in place will help to keep your shoulders level and your body in balance.

Major Trades Not Panning Out, Except Turley

NEW YORK (AP)—Except for fireballer Bob Turley and a couple of lesser lights, players traded by one major league club to another since the end of last season are not faring too well, a check disclosed Monday.

Turley, of course, is pitching just about the best ball in the American League. The strong-armed righthander, one of the 18 players who figured in the gigantic winter deal between Baltimore and New York, has won six of seven for the Yankees.

Even more spectacular than his winning record has been his strikeout surge. In 62 innings, the speedster has fanned 68, easily tops in both circuits. He has permitted only 23 hits along the way for a spectacular below 2.00 earned run average.

THREE GONE

Three of the nine players shipped by the Yankees to Baltimore are gone. Of the others, only rookie Hal Smith has given manager Paul Richards cause to smile occasionally. The young catcher has nailed down the starting job with timely hitting (.313) and solid relieving.

Gene Woodling is batting only .219. Gus Triandos, the big first baseman, is doing a little better with .268.

Shortstop Willie Miranda, at .242 hasn't been fielding up to expectations and pitchers Harry Byrd and Jim Fridley have had only a few games between them.

Shortstop Billy Hunter, who came along with Turley and Don Larsen, has lived up to his defensive reputation but has a .160 batting average. Larsen has been shipped to Denver.

NIEMAN SHINES

Bob Nieman, the outfielder who came to Chicago White Sox along with Walt Dropo and southpaw Ted Gray in a three-ball and Ferris Fain, Jack Phillips and Leo Christanelli to Detroit, is batting .318 and ranks fourth in the league with 21 runs batted in.

Dropo is hitting .250 and Gray hasn't won a game but neither has Christanelli, and Fain has a .267 mark on top of a still badly swollen knee.

Cleveland Is still waiting for Ralph Kiner to break loose from a slump. The former National League home run king has hit four home runs for the Indians but he's driven in only 11 runs and has a .215 average.

Sam Jones, who the Indians shipped to Chicago Cubs along with a bundle of cash for Kiner, already has distinguished himself by pitching the majors' only no-hitter.

Canadian Swim Records Broken

VANCOUVER (CP) — The 220-yard distance took a beating here Monday night as two Canadian breaststroke records were broken by a total of five persons at a waterlogged track show.

First mark to fall was the time of 326.5 for the junior girls' breaststroke, held by Bev Syron of Hamilton. Margaret Peebles of Vancouver equalled it in 3:19.3 and Helen Stewart, her fellow-townswoman, made it in 3:24.4.

In the boys' free-style Bill Slater touched the wall first to lower Allan Dobbs' record of 2:31.6 to 2:25.5. Red Griffin burned in an identical time but placed second. Slater himself swam the distance in 3:31 to place third. All three are Vancouver boys.

JACKIE BACK

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jackie Robinson probably will return to the Brooklyn Dodgers lineup against the Cardinals tonight, Manager Walt Alston said Monday that Jackie would play if he was ready.

"I am ready and eager," said Robinson, who suffered two small spurs wounds on his right hand when he returned to action for three innings in the second game Sunday at Cincinnati.

British Writers Blast Marciano For Dirty Tactics, 'Street Fighting'

LONDON (Reuters)—Their worst fears realized, British fight fans were disappointed but proud today of their heavyweight hero Don Cockell.

By the hundreds of thousands they got up in the middle of the night to hear of Cockell's technical knockout before the sledgehammer blows of world champion Rocky Marciano.

They were prepared for it. They'd been bombarded for weeks by the pessimistic dispatches of British sportswriters from San Francisco.

And this morning, in a cheerless London drizzle, they read with illconcealed satisfaction that they had been the victims of unfair fighting. STREET FIGHTING

Wrote Bill Boyle in the London Evening News: "Marciano may not be the greatest heavyweight champion ever, but he is certainly the dirtiest."

The BBC's Eamon Andrews, writing in The Star, described Marciano's "street fighting." Sam Andrews: "Marciano butted unmercifully with his head. . . . He hit Cockell with his elbows, he hit low —he did everything but kick him."

Andrews said a British referee would have disqualified Marciano "within three rounds."

George Whiting, of the London Evening Standard, said Cockell took everything Marciano had, but was still "throwing back punches conjured from I know not where."

NOT SERIOUS

But Whiting also criticized Marciano's methods, and said the champion "rammed his head home more than once . . . and whatever colors you are wearing, or whatever man you support, you just cannot call that kind of thing 'boxing.'"

The Evening News' McGeeran said that in an English ring, Marciano would have been disqualified half a dozen times. "There's no use crying over spilt milk. We expected dirty fighting by Rocky, and we got it."

CLAIMS PITCHER IS DAD

CHICAGO (AP) — A Louisville, Ky., woman named Virgil Trucks, White Sox pitching star, as the father of her seven-year-old son in a suit filed in court Monday. The woman, Lillian Dobbs Priddy, asked the court to direct Trucks to pay her $24,500 for support of the boy. Michael Dale Priddy.

She set forth in the suit that Trucks, 38, acknowledged paternity of the boy and contributed to his support until October, 1953, when his marital interest with Miss Priddy said she and Trucks never married.

PRE-SEASON GAME

OTTAWA (CP) — Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four announced Monday they have completed arrangements for a pre-season football exhibition with Calgary Stampeders under the lights here August 26.

Win Second Round Matches

LONDON (AP)—Denmark, England and Italy won their second round matches Monday to complete the quarter-final bracket in the European zone Davis Cup tennis competition.

The big surprise was the close fight the heavily favored Danes made in tightly regarded South Africa, finally surviving 3-2. Denmark, with a veteran team, is favorite with defending titlist Sweden and Belgium in the wide-spread eliminations.

Italy won the doubles match to take the lead over Germany at Munich and make a formality of Tuesday's final two singles matches. England swept the final two singles at Vienna to eliminate Austria 4-1.

Eye-Cut Halts Schamerhorn Bout

TORONTO (CP)—A series of cuts—all above and near the left eye—resulted in four of the nine bouts on an amateur boxing card ending in draws Monday night.

Eddie Schamerhorn of Belleville was the first to have a cut halt a bout, Tommy Whalen of Brantford opened the cut in the first round and it began to bleed again in the second and third. The fight was stopped in the fourth round. The other bouts involved Toronto boxers.

DRIVER HURT

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Manuel Ayulo, 35, of Burbank, Calif., second-ranking race car driver in the United States last year, smashed into the southwest retaining wall of the Indianapolis motor speedway during a practice run Monday. Emergency aid for Memorial Day 500-mile races, suffered severe injuries including fractures of both arms and face. Physicians said a concussion of the head.

His car was demolished.

Mueller, Power Major Leagues Batting Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—Vic Power, who won the American Association batting championship in 1953, is showing Kansas City's baseball fans he can hit major league pitching.

A .255 flop with the Athletics in Philadelphia last season, Power currently is the American League's top batter with a sizzling .395 mark. He has collected 34 hits in 86 times at bat.

Power while a member of the Kansas City Blues, a Yankee farm club in the American Association, led the minor league in '53 with .349 in 151 games. He subsequently was traded to Philadelphia in an 11-player deal in December, 1953.

HOLDS LEAD

In the National League, Don Mueller of the New York Giants continues to hold a comfortable lead in the batting competition. He has hit safely in 24 straight games tying the all-time club mark set by Fred Lindstrom in 1930.

Mueller's .413 mark on 44 safeties in 106 trips is 61 points higher than the average compiled by Brooklyn's Roy Campanella and Bill Virdon of St. Louis, who are deadlocked for second place at .354.

Brian Cullen Secretly Wed Since Nov. 25

TORONTO (CP) — Brian Cullen, 30-year-old rookie centre of the Toronto Maple Leaf hockey team, and Carol Ann Lowery, 18, star figure skater of St. St. Catharines Winter Club, have been secretly married since last Nov. 25, it was announced today.

The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Lowery, said the wedding had taken place in St. Anne's church at Niagara Falls, but neither family had known of it until last week.

Cullen said that illness in the bride's family, and the fact both he and his wife were concentrating on careers had prompted the secrecy.

He also revealed that he had married "with full approval of the club."

NEWS TO SMYTHE

However, Conn Smythe, managing director of the team last November said "It's news to me." He made no further comment than to say that he had known nothing of the marriage.

At the time of the wedding, Cullen, leading scorer in junior OHA for St. Catharines TeePees in the 1953-54 season, was playing for the Pittsburgh Hornets, where he had been signed by Leafs prior to training. The marriage took place while he was on 10-day leave from the American Hockey League farm team.

In the past, the Maple Leaf club has opposed members of the team marrying during the hockey season.

Pitching—Luis Arroyo, St. Louis Cardinals, hurled a six-hit shutout for his third straight major league victory as the Cardinals defeated Pittsburgh Pirates 6-0.

Batting—Bill Sarni, St. Louis Cardinals, collected three singles, a double and drove in one run.

BELGIAN BEATEN

CARMARTHEN, Wales (AP)—Dr Dower, British Empire and European flyweight champion, scored a piston-like left into the face of Jean Eldy of Belgium Monday night to win a technical decision.

Dower weighed 118, Eldy 119.

Sam Snead's Golf School

1. Most golfers fear an explosion shot. I think that's because most golfers aren't forced to make such a shot often enough. Here's how to play this nerve-sawing shot. I like to use a sand iron but a No. 9 iron will do the job. Let's say you are in a sand trap 30 to 35 feet from the green. Position your feet firmly in the sand. Wiggle them around to get below surface sand. Use an open stance. Open the clubface slightly too, and swing a little outside (instead of inside-out as in most shots). Always take sand, don't need it to cushion your swing. How much and how far back on the ball you should hit depends upon how far you want the ball to go — the greater the distance the more ball you should hit but never nearer than a half inch on an explosion shot. Arms firm throughout the stroke. Very little pivot. But be sure to follow through. That does it.

OFFER BRUNO JOB

TORONTO (CP)—Al Bruno, pacesetting star of the 1952 Toronto Maple Leafs, has been offered a contract by the Big Four Football Union team. Bruno, former University of Kentucky end, dropped out of football last season as assistant coach of Hamilton Tiger-Cats are also reported to be after Bruno.

Madoc

MADOC — On Monday even-ing Madoc Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star celebrated its 75th birthday at a meeting of social interest. A dinner party at-tended the meeting preceded the meet-ing. Mr. and Mrs. F. Hayley, Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron being host and hostess. Special guests at the dinner and the meeting following were: Mrs. F. L. Mackereth, Worthy and Patron, O.E.S. of Ontario, Mrs. Mackereth, Past Grand Matron and a member of the In-ternational Temple Board.

CHARTER MEMBERS

Charter members of the Chap-ter were interviewed and given badges and were later presented with gifts by the Worthy Matron. An impressive candle lighting ceremony by the officers was led by Mrs. Barbara Kelley, who is the only Charter member left who is also a Past Matron.

Mrs. Elsie Franks sang "Memor-ies" and Mrs. Ida Broad, D.D.G.M. gave a few highlights of the Chapter's 29 years.

The beautiful birthday cake was cut by the Worthy Matron and Worthy Grand Patron.

Guests were present from neighboring Chapters and includ-ed: Mrs. Edna Dobbe, Grand Martha from Belleville; Mrs. Peg-gy Brown, Past District Deputy Grand Matron from Newboro; Mrs. Anderson, P.D.D.G.M. from Timmins and Mrs. Gladys Petch, P.D.D.G.M. from Bancroft.

Rossmore

ROSSMORE — The Rossmore Ladies' Aid met at the home of Mrs. Don Rupert, Tuesday after-noon. A social half hour was en-joyed and refreshments served by the hostess and convener.

Friends of Mrs. Ellen Anderson are sorry to know she is ill and a patient in the Belleville Hospital. All join in wishing her a speedy recovery to health.

The regular weekly euchre was held Wednesday night with four tables at play. A pleasant even-ing was enjoyed and prizes award-ed according to scores, Mrs. Em-ery and Mr. William Wannamaker high prizes, Mrs. Pollitt and Mr. Rose winning low prizes, Mr. J. Fraser winning low hand.

The afternoon euchre met at the home of Mrs. J. Emery, Thursday, two tables were at play. A pleas-ant afternoon was enjoyed and prizes awarded according to scores.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderwater spent Sunday with friends in Newburgh.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Pollitt visited his mother in Kingston, Sunday.

Ernest Borgaine Being Hailed As Star After One Little Picture

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A few years ago, Ernest Borgaine, a 10-year navy man who was trying his hand at acting, told his dramatic teacher he thought he would seek another line of work.

His teacher rapped him across the knuckles with a ruler.

"How dare you talk that way!" she exploded. "You, who could be another star like a Jimmy Cagney or Wallace Beery."

Ernie thought she was off her trolley. But she startled him so that he forgot his ideas of quit-ting.

It's a good thing he did. Other-wise Hollywood would have been deprived of its newest star.

PREDICTIONS WRONG

Ernie is a paunchy 37-year-old with a face that will give Tony Curtis and John Derek no cause for concern. But he is being hailed as a starring personality, all be-cause of a little picture called "Marty."

"They showed the picture to people for two months in New York before it opened," said Borg-nine. "Everybody said, 'It's a wonderful picture—too bad it won't make money.'

"When it opened, there were lines around the block. The 20-year run started at the Sutton Theatre was broken."

The crowning triumph came in Cannes last week when "Marty," filmed in 18 days at a cost of $60,-000, walked off with top honors against pictures costing millions.

It was incredible. Borgaine would get typed as a heavy after playing Fatso Judson, the fiend who beat Frank Sinatra to death in "From Here to Eternity." He followed that with a number of villainous roles, including one for producers Harold Hecht and Burt Lancaster in "Vera Cruz."

When we were on location in Mexico, I noticed they kept look-ing at me strangely," he said. "I couldn't figure out what was on their minds."

TOP OSCAR CONTENDER

He found out when Hecht called him into the Hecht-Lancaster office in Hollywood.

"We're interested in you for 'Marty,'" Hecht said.

"That's nice," Ernie answered. "I know the story and I'd be glad to play any of the minor roles."

"But we're thinking of you for the lead!"

The actor was stunned. "Let me ask one thing—do you have faith in me?"

"Sure—why?"

"Because if you do, I'll work my heart out for this role."

He lived up to his word. And when Academy award time rolls around next year, he'll be high among the prospects.

Dinah Shore Really Enjoys 15-Minute Television Show

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
(For Wayne Oliver)

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Out here in the canyon country, the people with the big cars and a yen can have vodka - on - the - rocks glasses with profiles, have one piece of ad-vice for visiting firemen:

Don't bother with the television crowd, they're dull. They never do anything but work all the time. Stick with the movie people. They work hard when they're working, but it's usually a long time be-tween pictures and a you can have fun."

"Ha," sniffed Dinah Shore scorn-fully when she heard these words. "I wouldn't change places with anyone in the movies for anything in the world. Look, I can get to work at 10 in the morning, re-hearse during the day, do my show and go home to my family and forget the whole thing. I've time for my family, time to be home, time for my friends—after all, I have plenty of time for the children."

AN EXCEPTION

Miss Shore is something of an exception but generally speak-ing. Plenty of TV people do work long, hard days every day and go home to worry over lines, parts and cos-tumes at night. Dinah does a pleas-ant 15-minute five television show two nights a week, Tuesdays and Thursdays, on NBC.

Mostly she sings songs, and she loves to sing, and wears pretty clothes, which she also enjoys. She doesn't have dialogue to learn or "I just say whatever seems right and best at the time"—and she doesn't have to play any role ex-cept Dinah Shore.

Dinah has been happily married for years to one young man, George Montgomery, who does ex-tremely well in a quiet sort of way making motion pictures which are also in a quiet sort of way—very good box office. George also runs a furniture plant on the side and his pieces are very much in de-mand.

They are happy together, and mutually devoted to their two chil-dren, Missy, who is 7 and one-year-old Jodie, their adopted son.

With summer coming on, Dinah will take her annual vacation from television, a whopping three months when she can devote her-self exclusively to further improv-ing her already formidable tennis backhand and taking off for a boil-day with George and the children.

BELL SEES AGREEMENT

DETROIT (AP)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League said Monday he envisions an agreement between Canadian and American football leagues "maybe by the end of this year."

Bell told reporters at a ticket promotion luncheon sponsored by Detroit Lions that "sooner or later there will be no problems" be-tween the two leagues. Canadian and American professional football teams long have been at odds over cross-border player raids.

"An agreement may be worked out by the end of the year or it may take a little more time," Bell said. He added that in most dis-putes between Canadian and Amer-ican teams both sides were willing to compromise.

"Canadian leagues don't need to raid National Football League teams to build up their strength," Bell said.

AT THE CAPITOL — Dinah Shore and Vera-Ellen share starring honors with Bing Crosby and Rosemary Clooney in Paramount's first Vista-Vision pro-duction, Irving Berlin's "White Christmas", which is showing today and Wednesday at Regular Prices.

AT THE CAPITOL — Bing Crosby and Rosemary Clooney share star billing with Danny Kaye and Vera-Ellen in Paramount's first Vista-Vision pro-duction, Irving Berlin's "White Christmas", which is now showing today on the Capitol Theatre today and Wednesday at Regular Prices.

AT THE BELLE — Blending drama, romance and exciting suspense, Twentieth Century-Fox's king-sized frontier film "White Feath-er," co-starring Robert Wagner, Debra Paget, Jeffrey Hunter and John Lund. "White Feather," in CinemaScope and Technic-color, is showing tonight for the last times at the Belle Theatre.

Horse Sense Bridge

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

You need a stout heart for some responses to a takeout double. As when your hand is an absolute bust in the suit you must bid. But you must know what to do with it.

When your partner doubles for takeout he's pre-empted to make a bid if there is no intervening bid. So, he's yourself hardened to this: Whatever else you think of doing, you must not pass.

The weaker your hand the more important it is for you to bid something. Why? Because your pass will let opponents make a double bid for a big score; bigger than your own bid would lose.

First choice of responses is any unbid suit with four or more cards in it. Lacking this, your choice is your longest unbid minor suit (with three or more cards, regardless of how weak they are.

But you may find yourself with no unbid suit containing four or more cards. Since you don't want to pass, bid the lowest ranking un-bid suit regardless of its length or strength.

In such a situation you may find it necessary to bid a single suit with only three cards in it, all worthless. Thus a sound doubler for takeout considers the lowest ranking unbid suit as a bust response.

The bidding starts off like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♦	Pass	1 ♠	Double
Pass

And you have the west hand shown here:

WEST
♠9 8 4
♦ J 7 6 4 3 2
♣10 8 4

Diamonds having been bid, you lack an unbid suit containing four or more cards. You dare not pass. So, your response should be a bid of two clubs. It is the cheapest way out of trouble.

Some day you may find your-self in exactly that position. Don't let it scare you out of a year's growth of bridge.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop came home and hung up his hat and coat in the hall the other day, saying, what's new on the Western front?

Oh William, dont ask, I've had one of those blue block days when I'd be perfectly satisfied if the erth opened and swallowed me or if I merely had up once and for all just under my feet, ma said, and pop said, This sounds serious, I'll make you a strong lemonade and tell you funny stories.

I went over ancestry to discribe how gassly I felt, ma said, Life didn't seem werth living, and even if it had, I'm not satisfied if the erth opened and swallowed me or if I merely had up once and for all just under my feet, ma said, and pop said, This sounds serious, I'll make you a strong lemonade and tell you funny stories.

Would you like me and Benny to blacken our faces and put on a minstrel show? he said.

Oh, it's all right now, William, ma said. I rushed down to the kit-chen, and low and behold by some miracle I hadn't even put the cake in the oven. Here it was, still sit-ting patiently on the kitchen table in all its unbaked glory. I've been singing like a lark ever since, ma said.

Being the happy end, and we had the cake for dizzert and it was one the best ones ma ever made.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, May 18, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Vigorously favorable rays especially accurate interest segment in our armed forces, government matters; also sponsor home, family affairs, occupational gain. Give this duly its due.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Splendid aspects from most major planets. So the rest is up to you—your application to tasks, attention to study the quality of your efforts. Be soundly acquisitive.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — This day should be beneficial to your special interests and talents. Writings, authorship, books, plays, etc., advertising, promoting good products should bring fine returns.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Nothing should stand in the way of your achievement this encouraging day but do not strain health. Plan, study, create, make improvements. Salespeople, businesses servicing the public honored.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — The Sun's rays are subdued while practically all other planets are stimulating, favorable. This constitutes a splendid setup for true accomplishment, granted there is no unwise optimism or strain.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Professions, scientific matters, mechanical trades, teaching, study, promoting good ideas, advanced work in medicine, chemistry, biology under fine aspects. A good day for good deeds

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Friendly influences now will become even better tomorrow. Whatever your required program, it can be productive, bring solid returns if managed conscientiously, efficiently.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Your Mars and other planets in stimulating aspect. Make the most of this promising day; don't procrastinate.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Difficult projects, extensive operations, building, planning, government matters equally sponsored along with artistic and scientific activities. Small businesses also favored.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — A stimulating day on the whole. Try out those new ideas you may have hesitated about, but which you know have value and through which you can advance. Insure future security.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Uranus' position doesn't advocate extensive changes in plans, or restlessness now but vibrations from other planets should generally encourage you to strive for new honors.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — A day for improvement, undertaking new projects, tasks, expanding business or work interests, advancing in study, research, all worthwhile endeavors in which you may be engaged.

YOU BORN TODAY have many golden qualities. Cultivate your patience, charity, and your willingness to aid others as you climb to success. You have an inborn love for religion, nature, children; are loyal, devoted to country and family. Failings? A tendency to hurry results, a fondness for luxurious living. These must be sensibly controlled. And don't worry!

Police Looking For Organizer Of Air Trip

TORONTO (CP) — Police are searching for the organizer of a proposed air trip to England whose disappearance, apparently without reserving accommodation for ticket-payers.

E. Richard Venner of Keswick, Ont., is wanted by police in connection with the disappearance of a less cheque to a man who asked for a refund of his deposit. Police also wish to question Venner about other funds given him to charter a plane for the trip.

Venner was organizer of the Wanderer's Club, a group of former residents of the United Kingdom who are arranging a two-week holiday flight to greet Britain by chartered plane. He did not turn up at a meeting on Saturday at which final arrangements for the tour were to be made.

Many of the members, employees of A. V. Roe, General Electric, Canadian Kodak and other firms, said they had already paid a total of approximately $10,000 for their tickets.

Mrs. Sestell Venner, wife of the missing Englishman, said Monday she also is looking for her husband, who did not come home last Wednesday.

Civilian Chiefs Of NATO Plan Montreal Visit

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The permanent civilian chiefs of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, making their first visit to a group in North America, go to Montreal this week for a brief glimpse of Canada's contribution to continental defence.

The NATO council, made up of ambassadors from the 15 member countries of the North Atlantic defence alliance, opened its four Monday at its huge United States naval headquarters outside the site of SACLANT, operational planning group that is based on the western Atlantic.

After a stay in Washington Wednesday, the NATO chiefs will fly to Montreal for a visit to Canada's air defence command. They are entrusted with the task of guarding the continent's northern approaches.

1,400 Workers Are on Strike At Fort William

FORT WILLIAM (CP) — The Canadian Car and Foundry Company plant here was closed Monday by a wage strike of 1,400 workers. The employees, members of Local 1075 of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL), struck to enforce demands for a new wage and working agreement. Last week 90 per cent of the members voted to quit work but the strike deadline set then was extended five days because of renewed negotiations.

The company manufactures a wide range of products, including railroad, railway cars and equipment, streetcars, buses and mine cars.

Crazed Farmer Dies of Wounds

GROSBECK, Tex. (AP)—N. J. Tynes, a crazed farmer who killed a sheriff, wounded a youth and fired on a third man in a gun battle Sunday, died Monday night of wounds suffered in his siege and capture.

The sheriff, J. Harry Dunlap, 47, was killed when he stopped Tynes' car in an attempt to reason with Tynes, 46, a bachelor farmer who had been in the committed again to a state mental hospital.

Tynes shot the youth, Johnny Bentley, Saturday night as Bentley plowed a field near Tynes' home with a tractor.

Assiniboine River Is Rising Steadily

BRANDON (CP)—Patrolling at dikes along the Assiniboine River was stepped up today as the river's water level crept to its highest peak in more than 30 years.

Officials here reported that the water was rising steadily with a flood crest further up the river expected to hit the city this week-end.

At Warren's Corner, about 35 miles west of Winnipeg, the river overflowed over the top of the restraining dike onto low farmlands. Crews worked to build up the dike with sandbags to prevent a major break.

Copies Bleriot's Plane to Repeat Channel Flight

CALGARY (CP) — A Calgary-built copy of a famous aircraft that Louis Bleriot flew across the channel in 1909 will commemorate the 45th anniversary of the cross channel flip of the District of France.

Piloting the craft will be Jean de la Bruyere, 27, formerly of Paris and now an Edmonton building contractor. De la Bruyere is a grandson of the late Louis Blenot, head of the Bleriot Aeroplane Company, one of Canada's leading aircraft manufacturers.

He will pilot an exact copy of the original Bleriot monoplane. The copy was built at the Provincial Institute of Technology and Art in Calgary.

Change Route Of New Road In Northumberland

WARKWORTH (CP)—Highways Minister Frost announced today that Highway 401 will follow the shoreline of Lake Iroquois, a pool-sicial island, on the Northumberland county.

Mr. Allan said the new route would avoid expensive crossing and other costs.

The original routing would have brought the highway north of Colborne, across the marshes and the other railway lines, then along the shore of Lake Ontario to a point west of Trenton where it would again turn north, crossing No. 2 highway and the railway lines again.

Mr. Allan was speaking at a meeting which originated when Minister Goodfellow as Progressive Conservative candidate for the riding of Northumberland in the June 9 Ontario general election.

Vickers Viscount Lands on Belly

WINNIPEG (CP)—Landing gear which retracted suddenly during a practice landing sent a Trans-Canada Air Lines Viscount crashing to a stop on its fuselage here Monday.

The 40-passenger British-built airliner dropped to the runway at Stevenson field just as it was completing a practice run. Its fuselage was dented and scraped and the turbo-jet engines buckled before it scraped to a stop.

The three pilots aboard—pilots D. F. Moir of Calgary, and A. T. Paton and H. Hall of Winnipeg—were not injured. TCA officials gave no estimate of damage.

Little Benny's Notebook

Ma was putting yellow flowers in the blue vase, putting them in daintly so each flower took better, and I said, G, ma, you ought to work in a flower store.

I already have morgwork than I can conveniently do, said Ma, you just the same, ma said, and I said, You're welcome, ma.

Just the same, I hope you appreciate my labors enough not to touch this arrangement, ma said, and I said, Indeed, ma, I would touch the flowers but not the arrangement.

Then you'll just barely take the consequences, ma said. I want you to keep your hands the proper distance from these flowers, is that cristal clear? she said and I said, Yes mam. But jimminies, ma, I said I could touch them in the light I bet it wouldn't change the jimminies, ma.

Now you're mad, ma said, in every sense of the word, and that's a millinery crime, ma said, and I said, Well how about it I just touch the pedal of one flower with one finger?

If you even breethe on one of them petels you'll be the sorry you began this useless discussion, and that's the last word I expect to say or hear on the subject, ma said.

And she took 2 flowers out and put them back as gingerly as fragile pieces and went out of the room, and I held my hands over the vase and wiggled my fingers without actually touching the flowers as if I was 2 hummingbirds or butterflies over them, and I thought, Oh well, anyways, she didn't say anything about not touching the vase.

And I gave it one quick touch and felt relieved.

MORE POLIO CASES

HOUSTON (AP) — Two youngsters previously innoculated with Salk vaccine were among four polio cases reported here Monday. Both the Salk cases are non-paralytic. Seven other cases have been reported from among children here who received the vaccine. Two were paralytic. Two were not.

Final Payment Made by Board House Is Told

OTTAWA (CP)—The price of wheat to prairie farmers has fallen to a post-war low and opposition members have indicated they blame the Liberals for the reason why in the Commons today.

Trade Minister Howe announced in the House Monday that the 1953-54 prairie wheat pool has been closed with an average final payment of 6.384 cents a bushel—a total of $25,411,407—that will go to producers before the end of May. Final payments in previous years since the Second World War have averaged about 20 cents a bushel.

The final payment from the Canadian wheat board—which acts as sole selling agency for farmers, taking delivery of their wheat and giving them initial and interim payments—brings the total price to farmers for their 1953-54 crop to $1.56 a bushel in store, 1 northern at the Lakehead and Vancouver.

LOWEST IN 7 YEARS

It was the lowest price in nine years and compared with $1.52 in 1953-54.

Mr. Howe said the United States' wheat giveaway programs are aiding into Canada's export markets, but he blamed the low payment on a decline in world wheat prices and on heavy storage costs.

Iroquois Lock Being Held Up By Soft Ground

IROQUOIS (CP)—Start of construction on the Iroquois lock and canal—the $6,470,000 link in the St. Lawrence seaway—is being delayed by soft ground at the project site.

Engineers of the company involved, Iroquois Constructors Ltd., now work on the problem. At the end of this month, They say, the project is not on construction schedule although the date is slated to be finished November, 1957.

Heavy machinery to be used in the excavation of 4,400,000 cubic yards of earth is unable to move in the heavy mud at the site. Roads in the area are also said to be in poor condition because of spring rains.

Saskatchewan Asks Ottawa For Flood Help

OTTAWA (CP) — Saskatchewan has asked the federal government for an unspecified amount in federal aid to meet flood damage in that province.

In addition the province wants a special conference of the east coast of the coast of a $4,463,000 flood control program set up in Saskatchewan bearing the other 25 per cent.

The proposals were put before the government Monday by three Saskatchewan ministers who sought to have the province declared a "disaster area" for emergency relief following April-May storm-caused floods that left more than 4,500,000 acres under water and seriously affected 25 municipalities.

Fluoridation Of Drinking Water Urged by Doctor

TORONTO (CP) — A Health League of Canada official Monday criticized anti-fluoridationists and urged doctors to actively enter into the campaign for fluoridation of drinking water.

Dr. Gordon Bates, general director of the league, said "... A few fanatical souls are attacking with evangelistic fervor a profession with enormous proven possibilities for the preservation of health and the conservation of life."

To illustrate his point of anti-fluoridationists, Dr. Bates said a man "with a single tooth in his head" appeared before Toronto's metropolitan council to strongly argue against fluoridation of water.

Dr. Bates told the Canadian Dental Association will soon retaliance to fluoridation is "just as ridiculous as the anti-vaccination plot of the last century or the anti-campaign against chlorination of water less than a decade ago in Vancouver."

Turning to those dentists and doctors who support the suppression of fluoridation, he said that these fair opponents will soon be ashamed for taking that stand.

He said those who object to fluoridation but do not speak for it publicly show the indifference of professional men who "appear to lead but too apathetic to show any signs of public spirit" involving work.

Prosperity Through Trade Parley's Theme

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TOKYO (CP) — Prosperity through world trade and increased homme here today as a central theme of the congress of the International Chamber of Commerce.

Warren Lee Pierson of New York, chairman of Transworld Airlines, said in a special appeal to his Asian colleagues that plans "of all regions, stands to lose most from restrictions on world trade."

Man Is Hanged After Appeal To P. M. Fails

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert Alexander Hoodley, 21, who came of age in the shadow of the gallows, was hanged here today for murder despite a last-day appeal on his behalf in the House of Commons.

Hoodley was hanged for the pistol-slaying of John Tonick, 39, stepfather of his girl friend, Pat Wallace. A call for commutation of the death sentence was voiced in the House less than 12 hours before he was executed.

The Nov. 13 slaying caused little furore at the time. It came while police were investigating two other killings which remain unsolved.

It was the third slaying in Vancouver in two months and Hoodley, just out of Oakalla prison farm where he died this morning, was arrested and charged within 24 hours of Tonick's death.

Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver East) made a plea for Hoodley's life in what Ottawa observers said was probably the first time such an appeal had been made in the Commons.

"Prime Minister St. Laurent, in disallowing it, said Mr. Winch had been misinformed on the facts that Hoodley had committed a "cold-blooded" murder.

Tonick, a longshoreman, was shot down when he answered a knock at the front door of his home. His 12-year-old son and two smaller children were home at the time. Pat and her mother were absent.

Tonick staggered into the living room as the first shots hit him. Another struck him in the head and he died.

Mr. Winch asked the sentence be reduced to life imprisonment and termed Hoodley, a "neurotic, aggressive, hair-triggered" youth who had "shot a man because his fiancee was raped by her stepfather."

Mr. St. Laurent said he could not find Mr. Winch "he is misinformed."

Bill Would Bar Minister From Firm Directorate

OTTAWA (CP) —A bill which would prevent a federal cabinet minister being a director of a company was introduced in the Commons Monday by Stanley Knowles, CCF member for Winnipeg North Centre.

It is an outgrowth of Ontario's Dempsey political case, in which James Dempsey, Progressive Conservative member of the legislature for Renfrew South, lost the endorsation of Premier Frost for failing to report a contribution of $6,800 to campaign funds for his 1951 election campaign.

Revenue Minister McCann has been reported as the person who tipped Mr. Frost about the unreported funds. Dr. McCann, federal member for Renfrew South, is a director of Guaranty Trust Co. which handled the estate of the late John Drohan, lumberman consultant who gave Mr. Dempsey the unreported funds.

In presenting his bill, an amendment to the Senate and House of Commons Act, Mr. Knowles said its purpose is "to make it uniform that no person shall be at one and the same time a federal cabinet minister and a director of a company incorporated under any act of Parliament."

Mr. Knowles, the government agreed Monday to produce correspondence between any of its departments and Guaranty Trust Co., as requested by Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North). But Prime Minister St. Laurent conditioned this with the stipulation that the correspondence contains nothing classified as privileged.

Dr. McCann agreed to a motion by Davie Fulton (PC—Kamloops) for production of any authorization allowing information received through the Succession Duty Act to be given to anyone outside federal government service. The revenue minister's department deals with succession duties.

Won't Be Trapped Into Appeasement Eisenhower Says

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he just won't believe Russian words he think he will fall into any appeasement trap at international conferences.

He also said he feels some good might result, if, at the proposed Big Four conference of Eisenhower and the prime ministers of Britain, France and Russia, he could sit down and talk with Marshal Georgi Zhukov, the Soviet defence minister and a long - time friend.

Eisenhower's remarks to his press conference were a follow-up to Tuesday night's television broadcast in which Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles made clear that they were preparing for the Big Four session in the hope that it may prove a "new dawn" of peace is breaking.

Eisenhower was asked about the contention by some members of Congress that any top level conference with Russia or a Russian representative is likely to end in appeasement.

WON'T FALL INTO TRAP

Thumping his desk vigorously he said he just won't believe the American people think he will fall into any such trap.

Eisenhower said it is his idea, and also Dulles' idea, that a conference at the summit will merely point out the lines along which foreign ministers and other diplomats can work in the search for international agreements.

Eisenhower took note that an idea seems to be developing of a neutralized belt of countries in eastern Europe between Russia and the West. He does not slam the door on the possibility of such an arrangement.

Instead, he emphasized that under its new independence treaty, Austria will be a neutral state but not a military blank. Like Switzerland, Austria will be armed, Eisenhower said, and that is a far different neutrality from one which creates a military vacuum.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Sunny skies and rising temperatures will continue over most of the province today and Thursday. Colder air is again slipping down across James Bay, but is unlikely to affect more than the northeastern sections of the province by Thursday.

LONDON (Reuters) — An icy blast of "winter-in-May" howling out of the north raked south western Europe with snow and sleet and brought distress signals from at least five ships overnight and today.

Most of Britain shivered during the night at temperatures near freezing as snow flurries struck a countryside all in blossom after a warm April.

One ship was abandoned and its crew was taken off by lifeboat in the English channel.

Another lifeboat rescued the crew and passengers of a yacht which broke down at Southend, off the mouth of the Thames.

Other ships huddled along the coast, and many were still unable to proceed as high winds continued though the sun was shining again.

SNOW IN LONDON

Snowstorms which raged across Britain all day Tuesday reached London Tuesday night, and gale-force winds swept across the centre of the city. Little damage was reported however.

Elsewhere in Britain, the merry month of May blocked roads, stripped orchards of blossoms, blew down buildings, and forced motorists to abandon cars on snow bound roads.

Gales brought down power lines in Welsh mountain villages. A bus with 20 passengers was trapped for two hours by drifts in Wales, and at Woodhead, Cheshire, people from abandoned cars, including women and babies, filled a moorland inn.

The snow, the heaviest in memory for mid-May, stopped cricket everywhere.

TORONTO (CP)—Ross E. Robinson, 21, of Toronto was sentenced Tuesday to three months concurrent on each of nine charges of absconding with fellow employees' pay cheques totalling $685.

Police testified that last week nine were endorsed their cheques and gave them to Robinson to cash. Robinson did not come back with the cash.

GENERAL ELECTION IN ALBERTA SET FOR JUNE 29TH

Stamp of Doubt Put on Government

EDMONTON (CP) — Premier Manning says Alberta is voting in a general election June 29 because a smearing Opposition has put the stamp of doubt on 17 years of Social Credit legislation.

Mr. Manning announced the election date Tuesday at a press conference and then opened the Social Credit campaign with a provincewide radio talk in which he blasted the other parties for "gutter politics" and "character assassination."

The legislature was dissolved last Thursday by Lieut.-Gov. Johnston leader J. Harper Prowse suggested that most Social Credit members disqualified themselves by dealing with the provincial government's treasury branches.

CONTRACT PROBLEM

The Legislative Assembly Act says a member is ineligible to sit in the House if he holds a contract with the government. Mr. Prowse suggested that anyone who operates a savings account with the treasury branches is borrowing money from them has a contract with the government.

The treasury branches are financial institutions which are operated like banks and were implemented by the Social Credit government.

Mr. Manning said:

"The implication of the charge is not merely that members are disqualified technically to sit in the House at the present time, but that having had accounts with the treasury branches at the time of their election they were not eligible to be elected in the first place.

"This charge cuts into doubt the validity of all legislation passed in this province in the last 17 years."

ELECTION ISSUE

The premier appealed to the voters for an "emphatic repudiation" of what he described as the opposition's "destructive tactics."

Social Credit is now in power continuously since 1935, held 49 of the 61 seats in the legislature just dissolved and there were two vacancies caused by the resignations of two other Social Credit members.

June 15 will be Nomination Day.

Bread, Butter, Tea Prices Provide Small Sparks in Drowsy Election

By ALAN HARVEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Britain's lagging election campaign entered the last week today with a few lively native sparks still flying over the retail prices of bread, butter and tea.

Both Conservatives and Liberals entered the race, armed with rival sets of statistics. Their target was a television broadcast Monday night in which the Labor party showed pictures purported to prove that prices are high many foods are higher today under the Conservatives than they were under the Labor government of 1945-51.

The Conservative central office, the powerhouse of Tory publicity, claimed Labor's figures were distorted, to say the least. The Liberals claimed the Socialists were "blinding the public with science."

Philip Fothergill, a leading Liberal spokesman, also took issue with the claim of Dr. Edith Summerskill, one of the Labor broadcasters, that children now get less milk, fish, eggs and vegetables than they did under Labor.

If so, Fothergill said, it may be just that children prefer "chips, chocologues" instead of cheese, for instance. Fothergill did not say so, but statistics have been published that say that sweet-tooth Britain eats more candy than any other country.

Premier Frost 'Indulges' In Attack on Opponents

By The Canadian Press

Premier Frost of Ontario has indulged in what is called the luxury of attacking opponents.

The 59-year-old premier, who says he doesn't like to take too much time criticizing political adversaries, lashed out at Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver for his charge that the Progressive Conservative government is making puppets out of municipal councils.

In a speech at Little Current during his campaign tour of northern Ontario in preparation for the June 9 Ontario general election, Mr. Frost accused Mr. Oliver of making statements with "reckless disregard for accuracy."

The premier asked Mr. Oliver for a statement attributed to an address made last Saturday at Sudbury. Mr. Oliver was quoted as saying municipal councils are only puppets in Ontario.

Ordinarily, Premier Frost said, he was much too busy to attack his opponents. Even when the legislature was in session, he said he took only a couple of days out to "hit back at them."

The premier produced his strongest criticism thus far in the campaign Tuesday by saying:

"It seemed that the statement by Mr. Oliver came with poor grace from the leader of a party that made all kinds of promises and then disregarded those promises during the nine years it was power."

The premier said the Liberal government gave the community of Little Current $15,000 in grants 12 years ago.

"This year Little Current has received $90,000 from the provincial government. If that is treating municipalities as puppets I imagine you would want to continue as puppets."

Manitoulin Island communities this year will receive $608,000—10 times more than they did 12 years ago, the premier said. He said such allotments were under representations to make to the public.

Mr. Frost spoke in support of John Fullerton, Progressive Conservative candidate for Algoma-Manitoulin.

Later, in a speech at Sudbury the premier said Ontario has a bright prosperous if "other provinces are in the doldrums" and he is pleased that his government, if re-elected would co-operate with the "old and experienced and "people of good-will."

Meanwhile, Ontario CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald said at Sudbury that the present CCF administration would immediately introduce legislation for hospital insurance as a first step towards over-all health insurance in the province.

"If necessary a special session of the legislature will be called to get action without further delay," he told a CCF rally in support of Harvey Willoughby, candidate for Algoma West.

"The overwhelming majority of people are in favor of health insurance. Yet the whole issue has become bogged down in a slough of disillusionment because of the repeated betrayal of promises by both old parties.

"This great humanitarian piece of legislation must be rescued from Liberals and Conservatives who are adding another chapter of procrastination in this election campaign."

Mr. Frost had told the legislature last April that the government would not institute health insurance at the present time.

And the Liberal policy "is a mish-mash which adds up to a repudiation of a government-sponsored health insurance plan that was their main appeal in 1951," Mr. MacDonald added. "The CCF is the on'y party which has consistently come out for health insurance down through the years."

Mr. Oliver delivered an address at Kenora. He proposed that the University of Toronto's forestry school be moved to the head of Lake Superior as the nucleus of a university of northern Ontario. It was "more than ridiculous" to have students from the northwest section of Ontario travel 1,000 miles to attend the University of Toronto.

A Liberal government would bring the forestry school north and give the School of Inustrial Art at Fort William a university status. The institute now gives only the first two years of a university training in the humanities.

The proposed university would become the international centre for forestry, Mr. Oliver said. It would be "within a stone's throw" of the natural resources to which forestry students dedicated their lives.

Police Station Smelled Like A Distillery

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) Passing a gentleman's estate deliciously Tuesday at the Coral Gables police station. The place smelled like a distillery.

Inside, Sgt. P. F. Brooks said it was virtually raining moonshine liquor.

Brooks found a puddle on the white lightning beside his desk. More was falling from the ceiling.

Investigation disclosed that moonshine in a five-gallon can rusted in the attic had eaten through its metal container and was leaking through the plaster.

Police hurriedly removed the leaking can and 50 other gallons of evidence.

WHEAT MARKETING HOLDS ATTENTION OF PARLIAMENT

Socreds, CCF Make Many Suggestions

OTTAWA (CP) —The current main concerns of prairie farmers, wheat marketing and spring floods —have had their innings in the Commons.

Western members in CCF and Social Credit ranks offered suggestions Tuesday for boosting Canada's wheat sales and strengthening the lagging incomes of prairie producers.

CCF speakers called for federal support of farm product prices at full parity — matching industrial prices with the general price level of other goods.

Social Crediters proposed a double-price system for wheat—a parity price for domestic buyers and another for export sales based on world prices, but with the government supporting the return to farmers.

STERLING QUESTION

Both urged acceleration of sterling payments instead of dollars to increase sales volume abroad.

The sterling suggestion was rejected by Trade Minister Howe who said it is a fantastic idea which the British government would not accept.

The world money market simply doesn't work that way, he said. Britain restricted the use of sterling, resulting in selling goods to Britain. If it weren't for the restrictions, Canada would not object to selling wheat for sterling.

If Canada sold wheat or other goods for non-dollar currencies which she couldn't use freely, it would amount to making interest-free loans of indefinite duration.

The debate on wheat developed from Monday's announcement that producers will receive an average 8.384 cents a bushel as the Canadian Wheat board's final distribution of proceeds from sale of wheat from the 1953-54 crop year. This makes the final price just over $1.51 a bushel for No. 1 Northern at the Lakehead, the lowest since the Second World War.

SAY DISAPPOINTED

The main opposition spokesmen, Hazen Argue (CCF — Assiniboia), Victor Quelch (SC—Acadia) and Douglas Harkness (PC—Calgary North), all said the price is a disappointment to prairie producers.

Mr. Argue said Canada would have to fall in line with the U.S. surplus disposal policies for "soft currencies" such as sterling in order to maintain its share of world wheat markets.

Mr. Howe said the U.S. disposal program involves leaving the money received in the purchasing country for give-away development programs.

Referring to sales volumes, Mr. Howe said actual sales figures are not disclosed. But Canada's position is substantially better than a year ago when this country exported 255,000,000 bushels. This year would be a better year than last.

Premier Frost Diplomatic Battle Is Now In Open Reporters Told

Eisenhower Regime Hopes 'New Dawn' of Peace Coming

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Eisenhower administration is preparing for a top-level Big Four conference with Russia in a belief it may prove that a "new dawn" of peace is breaking over the world.

President Eisenhower and State Secretary Dulles made that clear Tuesday night in assessing—before television cameras—the meaning of recent shifts in Soviet policy, including the signing Sunday of an Austrian independence treaty. By that pact Russia is pledged to withdraw its troops from Austria.

Dulles predicted dramatic results from this pledge throughout eastern Europe. Communist satellite countries like Czechoslovakia and Hungary will also want freedom, he said, adding that the joy of the Austrians over their freedom "is contagious."

The possibility of a "new dawn" was the keynote Eisenhower, who at the same time cautioned that this country must remain strong and vigilant.

Dulles also said a vital fact in the world situation is that by the acceptance of West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization the Soviet Union has suffered its "greatest diplomatic defeat" since the Second World War. The explanation of Russia's changed behavior, he said, may lie in a Kremlin decision to stop trying to block such developments and resort to some of the rules and practices of a civilized world community.

But whatever the explanation from Russia's side, Dulles said, the Eisenhower policy is that a "policy of strength and firmness and the application of moral principles" is beginning to pay off for the West, if the West sticks to that policy, he said, "we can face the future with confidence."

He cautioned both against relaxation of armed strength and against the great danger, as he said he saw it, that there is too much from the prospective Big Four talks between Eisenhower and the prime ministers of Russia, Britain and France.

Eisenhower hope now, he said, might result in disillusionment, discount, and even a new philosophy later on.

Chairman Walter George (Dem.-Ga.), of the Senate foreign relations committee later said he thinks there is "considerable optimism" about the Big Four meeting.

"I don't well see how we will stay vigilant," Eisenhower said, "but we are not to extinguish the spirit of hope, we hope to be coming even if the sun rises very, very slowly."

Dulles himself sounded a similar hopeful note at the outset of his half-hour talk with the chief president, saying: "I think now one can say that what happened (with respect to Germany and Austria) really mark a turning point in the line of history."

While the broadcast was aimed primarily at the American people, it was carried to all parts of the world in many translations by the government's Voice of America radio network.

The broadcast originated from Eisenhower's office.

Two Boys Injured

TORONTO (CP) — Two 14-year-old boys, Harold Reynolds and Ronald Wilkes, were severely injured Tuesday when struck by a car while they were running for a street car.

Reynolds suffered scalp cuts and bruises. He was reported doing "poorly" in hospital today. Tribberg is in satisfactory condition.

Four U.S. Jets Make Record Flight From Tokyo to Australia Non-Stop

NEWCASTLE, Australia (AP)—Four U.S. Air Force jet fighters flew here today to complete a record nonstop Tokyo-to-Australia flight in 13 hours, two minutes.

The sleek single-engine fighters, each capable of carrying an atom bomb, refueled in the air three times during their 4,840-mile hop—over Guam, Manus island and Townsville, Australia.

The flight extended the nonstop record set in 1953 on a flight from Turner air force base, Ga., to North Africa.

The flight was led by Col. Herbert A. McClelland of Avon Park, Fla.

There were originally six planes, including two alternates in case of trouble, when the flight left Yokota, Japan, piloted by First Lieut. Willard R. Ladd of Georgetown, Ky., and Capt. Jack Broadhead developed fuel trouble about 100 miles out.

Ladd parachuted safely from his plane before it crashed near Nagoya, Japan.

A second Thunderjet dropped off after developing radio difficulties.

The flight, labelled "Operation Hop Scotch," was designed to test the defence links between Australia and U. S. bases in the Far East.

Quinte Players Ready for Season Summer Theatre

Three weeks from now the curtain will rise on Belleville's second season of summer theatre.

Presented again by the Quinte Players, the season like year will offer three plays, two of them now respected as masterpieces of their kind — the "Barretts of Wimpole Street" and "The Four Poster", one of the most lovably-told comedies to come from Broadway in the past decade.

All three plays will be premieres productions in the Quinte district, and will be presented at Tobe's County Gardens.

Director of the entire season is Elaine Jardine, who last year was responsible for the successful presentation of "Night Must Fall."

At present the players are in rehearsal for the curtain-raiser in the season, "Three's a Family," the rollicking comedy of a housefull of unexpected embarrassment with the stork. By Phoebe and Henry Ephron, the play is a slickly written piece, first presented to New York audiences during the war year. The Quinte Players' production will feature Betty Barrie, Helen Thomas, Ed Quinn and Vera Levine in leading roles.

CLASSIC THRILLER

In mid-July the curtain goes up on Patrick Hamilton's eerie "Angel Street," now a classic thriller to both theatre and moviegoers. It was presented on the screen with Ingrid Bergman and Charles Boyer, under the title "Gaslight."

Set in gaslit London, the play unfolds the story of an unscrupulous murderer who boldly returns to the scene of a fruitless crime in search of his spoils. Playing the relentless pursuer, Scotland Yardman, will be Syl Quinn while opposite him as Mrs. Manningham will be Vera Thompson. A fourth part will be Doris Chipps, Nicky Thomas and Harry Mulhall.

The season ends with the provocative Broadway comedy by Jan de Hartog — "The Four-poster". An ingenious piece of writing for the stage by only a cast of only two, a husband and a wife, and covering their story from their marriage, through the years to the time when they are parents to a grown family.

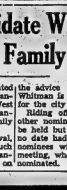
Playing in "The Four-poster", will be Ann Alexander, well known to theatre audiences in the Quinte district, and his wife, Willis Judge Alexander.

Cmdr. Benson Will Inspect Sea Cadet Corps

Commander G. Benson, commanding officer of the naval training station at Hamilton, will be the inspecting officer at the annual inspection of the Quinte Sea Cadet Corps in the front of the cadet headquarters on South Front street, Thursday evening. According to corps commander, Lt. Ross Watson, the inspection will get underway at 7:30.

Assisting Commander Benson at the inspection will be Capt. C. S. G. Coombs, area officer, and Lt. Com. J. S. Gardiner, both of HMCS "Cataraqui."

A full evening's program has been lined up for the annual inspection which will include a march past, and display of band work, physical training drill and PRNT work.



Later there will be a sail past on the waterfront with displays of dinghy and cutter pulling. There will also be a display of fireworks over the water.

Following the inspection there will be presentation of awards at the cadet headquarters and luncheon for cadets and their parents followed by a ship dance.

STORE DESTROYED

CHATHAM (CP) — An unexplained fire said to have caused $50,000 year-old general store at Eberts, six miles northeast of here. Loss was estimated at nearly $40,000.

Liberal Candidate Withdraws On Advice of Family Doctor

George A. Whitman, nominated Monday evening, as Liberal candidate for the riding of West Hastings, has withdrawn as candidate on the advice of his family doctor.

In announcing his withdrawal, Mr. Whitman said he very much regretted having to retire as candidate but he was doing so on the advice of his doctor. Mr. Whitman is welfare administrator for the city of Belleville.

Riding officials said that another nominating meeting would be held but not until more leeway to date had been set. Six other nominees withdrew at Monday's meeting, when Mr. Whitman was nominated.

Newsmen Talk About a Fish? And Thereby Hangs This Tale

"I understand," said Harry Mulhall, demon reporter and member of the Over-the-River Surgeon-and-Caviar Marching Society, "that you caught yourself a fish."

"You understand," quoth Gea H. Carver, sports editor and veteran of so many whaling expeditions that he has the physical replacements of ten gulping rods in the Jonah story, "correctly."

Mulhall whipped out his trusty pad and rusty pencil, cocked his head sideways like a parrot looking hungrily at he first worm and launched into a lengthy verbal tirade.

"Shoot," he said.

"It was like this," started ye sports ed. "Due to the unprecedented generosity of those gentlemen who have been elevated to the highest offices in that department of government which controls the life and death of the denizens of the primeval forest, the cold rushing waters of mountain torrents, the placid surfaces of forest-bordered lakes of the hinterland, the silver streams that ribbon the timbered terrains of the beautiful northland; who control the procreation and well-being of the piscatorial population that mean so much to the sports-minded homo sapiens, and who, in the greatness of their hearts and knowing the hunger of the fishing-minded homo sapiens who could be satiated only by the opportunity to open the season twenty-four hours ahead of schedule, so that those questers of the species stiz-odendron versicolum could utilize the week-end to the full, we decided to cast aside the odium of everyday worldlife and take advantage of this heaven-sent opportunity to rest from arduous toil."

Mulhall shook a shower of dandruff from a thick shock of Irish skullhuggery and said: "What did you say?"

Ye sports ed heaved his bulk forward in the chair.

"I went pickerel fishing," he grunted.

And to prove his point he produced on the only rod and line used by sportswriters (out of historical gods, I was allowed to conquer in those days) and held it in the vicinity of forty-one pounds. Then just after the scales broke, the sky darkened, a cloud appeared. It rained and under our very eyes that fish began to shrink.

"Even as we looked that fish shrunk to the proportions in which you see it. . . . It was a miracle. One of those Cyprocinidae species of the genus Piscinus—a superb sample."

"What did you say?"

"I CAUGHT A MINNOW!"

hair rose like the flagstaff on city hall.

"Listen, you uncouth descendant of a non-fishing line of fourth estate antecedents, what I have produced with my own proficiency (and we do not want the press to know anything about it, in case your print li—) may as well be truthful. I must say that it does not represent the territorial angle nor the unique experience I had in finny bounty this extraordinary specimen. True, I admit it would not be the pike-perch resistance of a gourmet's banquet, but it will forever remain (I intend to have it stuffed and mounted) as a symbol of my hook-and-line prowess which finalled one of the most gruelling fish classics ever recorded in piscatorial archives. In support of this way—

"We were trolling along (by Moonlight Bay, where suddenly a mammoth stizostedion vetreum reached out and took a bite of the boat and snatched our lunch basket. We were desperate." Four hours without food. . . . An hour later, with our abdominal regions caved in to (Concave) from lack of sustenance, the boat suddenly heaved to, starboard.

The lunch basket was gone. Inside was a note: "Please after this do not make another such strike. We cannell do you think we are—Cannibals?"

"Then my line tightened. The struggle was terrific. I fought back savagely, but I was losing. I felt myself slipping. Gad, if I had only lived right. Then blackness swept over me. . . . This was it. Then I came to and it lay in the bottom of the boat."

Mulhall grabbed another pencil he pulled for it. "What did you say?" he asked in a tremulous voice.

"I caught a fish."

Taking a fresh pad of paper, Mulhall looked up wearily, motioned his graphite and asked:

"Where is it?"

Ye sports editor clenched his fists. This was the insult supreme.

"It is now," he said, "on its way to the piscatorial Hall of Fame. For it had the unique experience of atomic shrinkage. When, by the face of the piscatorial gods, I was allowed to conquer this monster, it was about the vicinity of forty-one pounds. Then just after the scales broke, the sky darkened, a cloud appeared. It rained and under our very eyes that fish began to shrink.

"Even as we looked that fish shrunk to the proportions in which you see it. . . . It was a miracle. One of those Cyprocinidae species of the genus Piscinus—a superb sample."

Free Enterprise System Raised Living Standard

Canada's high standard of living is mainly the result of the free enterprise system, responsible for the development of our abundant resources and the provision of transportation facilities to utilize them, John Buchan, production vice-president of the Belleville Company, said today at night.

The system's ideas of providing good wages to increase purchasing power and increase productivity, and thus lower cost of improved manufacturing techniques, Mr. Buchan said, is very different thing from the old fashioned theories of socialism and capitalism," he told the final meeting of the year of the Quinte Personnel Club at the YMCA.

Judged by results, fi ls a system well worth preserving, but a great many people seem to feel that unsatisfactory results are unimportant, operates solely for the advantage of a chosen few, he said.

"So effective has the propaganda been that even intelligent people mention 'profits' in an apologetic voice," he said.

His address dealt with the cost of operating a business, the operating industry and to this end he gave members a detailed description of the costs of his business.

An industry normally is financed, by people by selling shares to people prepared to risk their savings as investments in the hope of a reasonable chance of profit before their invest.

Funds must also be available during the time lag between manufacture and sale and the collection of money on the goods sold.

TWO MAJOR COSTS

The two major cost-items in industry are materials and people.

In addition to employees retained for the actual work of manufacturing, packing and shipping, a staff is necessary to provide the service equipment and buildings; a large office staff, aggressive salesmen. Chemists, engineers, designers and other experts are required to develop new products and processes to keep pace with competition.

"The cost of employing these people is appreciably more than the wages they get in the pay envelope they take home," he said.

Additional costs include: workmen's compensation insurance; vacations with pay; group insurance contributions to hospitalization insurance, pension, accident and sickness plans.

"Obviously the cost of employing people is more of a major problem than it would appear to be if only wages and salaries are considered."

An industry also has to meet municipal and provincial taxes; cost of distribution; advertising; sales promotion and provide for depreciation.

From final profits the industry then must provide for the replacement or expansion of equipment and buildings; have funds to continue research and make provision for long term contingencies when the industry continues to operate.

The selling price of the product "is dependent on either competition in the market or what the public is willing or can afford to pay. The industry's profit is dependent entirely on the efficiency of the operations and the volume of sales of goods established," Mr. Buchan said.

PROFITS AND EMPLOYEES

"Not only is it the responsibility of management to do everything possible to see that a adequate return is earned on the investment in the company, it is also in the best interest of the employees as a whole. It not only ensures the security of their jobs and such benefits as may go with them, it is the road to greater prosperity for all of us."

Concluded Mr. Buchan: "These profits are the life blood of our economy. They are the incentive which makes the system work. A profit-making economy offers greater opportunities and more employment. It means greater security for what we have — our freedom to shape our own future."

Mr. Buchan was introduced by Seymour Ashley and thanked by H. G. Jones.

The meeting also was addressed by the Rev. William Robinson on behalf of the YMCA World Service.

"The World Service of the Y helps launch YMCA services across the world," he said.

In contributing to its funds one is "supporting something Christian which helps fight evil forces in the world."

JEAN SIMMONS SICK

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The illness of British actress Jean Simmons has caused production to stop on the movie "Guys and Dolls." A spokesman for producer Samuel Goldwyn said Tuesday she has bronchitis and added: "As she was supposed to appear in intimate love scenes with Marlon Brando we decided it would be better to shut down the show than risk having two sick stars."

Polio Inoculation Highlights April Health Program

Two inoculations of polio vaccine administered to 800 Grade 1 and 2 pupils in Belleville's public and separate schools highlighted the activity of the Belleville Health Department during April, according to figures released today by Dr. R. McCalla, medical officer of health.

Sixteen pupils received first inoculations in April, while plans were formulated for second inoculations for 800 pupils early in May.

Belleville's April school health records were initiated for 80 preschool children and preliminary screening of vision and hearing carried out. Health inspections carried out by nurses numbered 156, including 83 vision and 17 hearing screenings. Eleven children were referred for further examination. Minor first aid was administered to 31 and five children were excluded from school because of communicable conditions. There were 25 conferences with secondary school pupils.

Nurses paid 91 visits to infants under one year old and 58 visits for pre-natal or post-natal care.

Three health clinics were held at Kiwanis Centre with an attendance of 21.

An average of 16 expectant mothers attended four pre-natal classes held at the YMCA. The present course was to end by mid-May with another course to start in June.

Four immunization clinics were held at city hall with an average attendance of 47. Two cases of measles and two of chickenpox were reported during April. One tuberculosis patient was admitted to sanitorium.

Mixed Jitney To Open Season At Bowling Club

With the greens at the bowling club in excellent condition, the committee for Hon'rs, Bruce Miller and Bill Wright, have announced a mixed jitney will open the bowling season on the 24th day, Monday next. Only the lighter green will be used as the greens chairman, Garn Dobbs, wants a little more time to get the top one ready for the heavy season of play to come.

Three games will be played on the holiday, one in the morning starting at eleven o'clock and the other two in the afternoon. There will be suitable prizes offered for the winning trebles rinks and it is the wish of the committee that those intending to take part would notify either Bruce Miller or Bill Wright at their earliest convenience.

Only in Church 'To Do a Bit Of Praying'

Four men who broke into a church "to do a bit of praying" had city police officers first scratching their heads early this morning.

Shortly after midnight police were informed by a North Front Street resident that a rather suspicious noise had been heard outside the First Pentecostal Church. Police investigated and found four men in the church who said they had "broken into the church to do a bit of praying," and suggested that the minister be called.

Police called the minister who said he would attend to the matter. And as far as the police were concerned there the matter was dropped.

Seven Escape In Night Clothes As House Burns

KITCHENER (CP) — Three Polish children in a door and aroused seven sleeping persons early today just before fire reached their upstairs bedrooms in a house at Millbanks, 55 miles north of here.

Mr. and Mrs. John R. Lichty, their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kropf and their three children, Rosemarie, Peter and Lenora, escaped in their night clothes.

Andrew Bach Jr., John Cook and Floyd McMillan were at Bach's home in Millbank about 1 a. m., when they saw the fire.

"Mr. Kropf stopped us at the top of the stairs," said Bach later. "He thought we were trying to break into the house. I yelled at him, 'get out of here, your house is on fire.' The flames were following us up the steps.

"He ran back and roused the rest. I grabbed one of the kids and we all came down the steps together. It was quite a shock for them."

Copyright Laws Tend to Benefit Publishers Says Broadcasters

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters said today copyright laws intended 100 years ago to protect composers now tend to benefit publishers.

The association which claims to represent the majority of private broadcasters in Canada said the country's copyright legislation, basically unchanged since 1842, does not meet the present day requirements of users of music.

It said in a 13,000-word brief that this legislation "assists in building up monopolistic or semi-monopolistic organizations which may tend to exploit the general public without much direct benefit to composers, least of all to Canadian composers."

The association suggested that perhaps a new concept of copyright legislation could be devised which would encourage and reward composers without creating monopolies.

The association, with a membership of 125 radio stations and 17 television stations, made its views known in a brief presented to the royal commission on patents, copyrights, trade marks and industrial designs.

NOMINAL PROCEDURE

The CARTB described what it considers the normal procedure followed in the publication of musical works, adding that they are seldom published for their intrinsic worth.

In effect, a few large publishing houses decided what music will be heard. Their large-scale promotion machinery could make or break the success of a musical composition.

Virtually all composers were required to pay the cost of publication of their selection in return for a five-per-cent royalty and, sometimes, commissions were charged for public performing rights.

The broadcasters indicated their belief that the system resulted in monopolies held by the publishing firms, adding that if monopolies must result from copyright laws they should reward the composers and not the few, while allowing a "reasonable return" for publishers.

The CARTB recommended a complete overhaul of copyright laws on the ground that "the substance of copyright law reflects the conditions of an era which did not visualize the phonograph, let alone motion pictures, radio and television broadcasting. . . ."

Another recommendation is Canada's withdrawal from international copyright conventions which worked to the disadvantage of such countries as Canada which import most of their music.

The broadcasters urged that Canada reduce the term of copyright—the life-time of the author plus 50 years—to a term of 28 years with an option of renewal for another 28 years.

The broadcasters suggested that copyright fees are unjustified and might possibly be eliminated.

Extreme Caution Needed In Handling Fire

TORONTO (CP)—The "high and steadily increasing" fire danger rating in Ontario demands extreme caution in handling fire in forest areas, the Ontario lands and forests department said today.

Officials said at least two fires Tuesday were started by children playing with matches. Rear hunters were held responsible for a stubborn blaze being brought under control early today, which had razed 40 acres of a white pine stand over area near Sault Ste. Marie.

Thirteen forest fires were being extinguished today. There were three each in the Trenton and Swastika areas, two each in the White River, Port Arthur and Sault Ste. Marie districts, and one near Linsay, officials said.

Seven other fires were extinguished Tuesday night and early today.

Club Members, Wives Enjoy Picton Dinner

The Belleville Bridge Club concluded another successful season on Tuesday night when the members entertained their wives at a "Smorgasbord" dinner at the Royal Hotel, Picton. There were more than 60 in attendance and a most enjoyable evening was the result.

Hostess "Red" Townsend, president of the club, expressed the thanks of the members to the wives who provided delicious lunches during the season of play and hoped that in this small way they would be repaid. The thanks of the ladies were ably expressed by Mrs. Ernie Pugh.

Thanks were also extended to James Durant and Edward Lewis for making arrangements for the excellent dinner and entertainment. After the dinner a room was prepared in the lounge upstairs and many stayed to enjoy a game of bridge before departing for home.

Lobster, shrimps, turkey and ham were the principal meats while the trimmings were numerous and varied. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the motor trip to the county and the excellent dinner provided.

Calls on Govt. To Abolish Separate Schools

ORILLIA (CP)—Gordon Keyes of Toronto, grand master of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario, today called on the provincial government to abolish separate schools.

In an opening address to more than 600 delegates at the lodge's 96th annual meeting, Mr. Keyes asked the government to "break down the wall of separation" and encourage children of all citizens to learn together.

He said there is no place where citizenship is more closely cemented than within the public schools.

Mr. Keyes also called for "no surrender" in the defence of Orange principles.

He said the infiltration of bilingualism, the secrecy of the federal government's immigration "policy and the "stealthy" removal of British identification from government buildings "is an indication that there are those active in authority today who would dispossess us of our heritage—secured at great sacrifice and identified by the Union Jack."

The five-day convention is being held in conjunction with the 79th annual convention of the Grand Black Chapter of Ontario West. Harry Carr of Orillia was elected grand master of the chapter. He succeeds Arthur S. Brooks of St. Catharines.

A MOMENTOUS QUESTION

We do not know whether they have heard the good news out at Corbyville, but there is just a chance that governments may eventually reimburse citizens for expenditures made to acquire the products of that Belleville suburb.

We are indebted to the Fort William Times-Journal for the information on which this observation is based. The Times-Journal reports that a British doctor recommended that one of his patients take a small dose of whisky daily as a stimulant. But we had better let the Times-Journal tell the story:

"Nothing could pep you up so well,' the socialized medico had told the ailing subject of Her Majesty.

"Whereupon some charitable soul—or a humorist—has proclaimed that the same fortifying remedy must be enjoyed for other patients, their maladies qualify them for the same prescription. But not everybody can afford such a medicament, whence the necessity to have it reimbursed by the ministry of health.

The Times-Journal with service, the Times-Journal reports, is now carrying out a study to decide whether the ministry of health should, indeed, reimburse a patient for expenses incurred. The conclusion of the medical inquiry on the subject are being awaited by many Britons with a certain impatience," the Times-Journal says. It might be added that, since the Times-Journal has brought to the attention of Canadians this momentous question, interest will be kindled here, also. Should it be held that Britons are entitled to free whisky, support for socialized medicine would be certain to reach new heights in many lands where heretofore such proposals have been looked upon with disfavor.

ST. LAURENT SETS FINE EXAMPLE

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent has stated in the House of Commons that there is no rule of law or traditional practice which requires a newly-appointed minister of the Crown to sever all business connections.

Each minister has to decide for himself.

Canadians can congratulate themselves on the fact that their prime minister, when he faced this decision on becoming minister of justice in December of 1941, severed all connections with commercial and industrial firms.

Like Caesar's wife, a cabinet minister should, if possible, be above suspicion. There is no reason why, in law or a tradition requiring severance of all business connections would work a financial hardship, resulting in well qualified men declining cabinet posts. Surely, though, a minister of the Crown ought not to retain a business connection with a firm engaged in operations of a type which would be likely to require it to have frequent dealings with the very department with which he is associated. The introduction of Hon. Dr. James J. McCann, Minister of Revenue, to Dr. James J. McCann, director of the Guaranty Trust Co., would appear to have been inevitable from the first.

NEW LOOK IN THE KREMLIN

Sir Winston Churchill says that there is a "new look" about the men in the Kremlin.

Time to confirm his words there comes an anecdote from Vienna.

It appears that when the foreign ministers of four nations met in the Austrian capital for the week-end, Vyacheslav Molotov suggested to Dulles, Macmillan and Pinay that the four of them were getting old and should all retire.

The veteran both in years and point of service, Molotov does not seem to have had much luck in convincing his colleagues that such a course was necessary, or even wise. The United States Secretary, Harold Macmillan, in particular must have thought that the suggestion was untimely, since he is only 61 to Molotov's 65 years and has been in office for only a few weeks.

The important point, however, is that we have a commissar virtually predicting his own retirement. There are reports that if he does resign it will be under pressure. That, however, is not certain. What is certain, we are sure is not new in any country. But in Moscow, while Stalin was alive, a politician never learned that he was going to retire until he had. And, if Malenkov says, there is a "new look" in the Kremlin these days.

A WISE DECISION

The prediction that the joint Commons-Senate committee on capital punishment will recommend that another crime of execution be substituted for hanging will be received with general approbation.

Those who oppose capital punishment in any form will regret that the committee, according to reports, will recommend it be retained. But they will have no objection to substituting for hanging a more humane method of execution.

Among those who favor the retention of capital punishment there should likewise be no objection to the substitution of another form of execution. None of the legitimate arguments for the retention of capital punishment is based on the contention that the criminal should be made to suffer. Death itself is a sufficiently severe punishment without inflicting it in a cruel form.

WISE DECISION

One day at Bad Axe Michigan,
When crowds were passing by,
To see a final baseball game
Went Billy Phelps and I.
We bowed to the umpires, Mr. Hale
And we settled in the stand
And discovered for some reason
That no umpire was on hand.

The managers came pleading, since the hour was getting late,
For me to judge the bases and
Billy Phelps the plate.
Billy whispered, "Let us do it,"
"It's better not to umpire.
Those are friends of ours."
I said:

Uneventful were the innings 'til
the ninth and closing play,
When the citizen who umpired really gave the game away.
He allowed the winning single on what plainly was a foul,
And Billy beat him the umpire there'd have been a fearful howl.

Had we listened to their pleadings, no one now could count the cost
Or how many friends at Bad Axe and at Ubly we'd have lost.
"Thief and robber," they'd have called us, and with reason depending,
It is wiser not to umpire if you want to keep your friends.

The Pasteurization of Milk and Cream. The recommendation of the Board of Health in the city council that all milk and cream sold in this city be pasteurized, was a presentation along with a petition on the same lines from the Belleville Milk Producers' Association, was referred back in the committee for further consideration when they were presented before the city council at the regular meeting of the council on Monday night. Dr. G. S. Cronk, medical officer of health, along with members of the Board of Health, augmented by gas engineers and dairymen met the council in committee and discussed the matter. However, the council decided that further information was desired and the matter was sent back for that purpose. Ald. Thompson was the only member to express opposition to this move, stating that sufficient information had been given to deal with the question, but the majority of the council desired more time before acting. It was the desire of the Board of Health and the Milk Producers' Association to have the new regulations go into effect August first.

Soap Made His Skin Sing

(William T. Foh in Greensboro, NC, News)

"The soap that makes your skin sing." This advertisement of a soap from Belgium at $1 a cake caught our eye.

Though skeptical, we ordered a cake and in due time took a bath. Next morning at the office we detected a faint humming in our skin — something from "The Chocolate Soldier" — but drowned it out with the typewriter.

At lunch downtown our skin sang some in a soprano voice. We explained to acquaintances that our table had been wired for sound, which the manager denied. We felt embarrassing.

Late that afternoon we called on a friend seriously ill in the hospital. Our skin broke out with "I'll Be With You In Apple Blossom Time," "Rosary," "Mademoiselle From Armentieres." The Consensus was that some rhythm and blues plant-ed a walkie-talkie on us unawares. We walked home unconsciously humming arals from "Aida" and impertinent starca.

Home was a bedlam — the whole family having bathed with "the soap that sings" and had a "skin sing" of the "Anvil Chorus," "At Pranking," "When They Play Those Jolly Ball Blues" and the "Bridal Scene" from "Lucia."

Now we're going to buy a soap that leaves our skin quiet.

Hell Is a Cold Place

(By Estelle Gerland in "London Calling")

It was a quiet street in Dresden, quite deserted. I had been to the opera and was walking home. A car pulled up alongside me and a man leant out and asked the way to a street which I knew was nearby. I went closer to give directions. Suddenly I was seized from behind and flung into the car. Two minutes later I found myself being taken into M.V.D. headquarters, into a room where, behind a desk, a man got up, offered me a cigarette, and apologized for troubling me so late at night, but, he said, it was his duty to arrest me as I was known to him as a spy.

All through the night he questioned me. Finally I was taken off to a little cell to sleep. During the war I had been in the French Resistance, and many of the people I had worked with and admired were Communists. When the war ended and I had to build for myself a new life, I went back to Berlin, which had been my home, and I joined the Communist Party and went to work for the Soviets. I was employed by a short and intense experience, I began as an ardent, idealistic Communist, but after a few months I left the party, for even as soon as that time I found that the Communism had nothing to do with my ideals. I moved to West Berlin and started my present career as a newspaper. Often I crossed to the Russian Sector and wrote articles about political and economic conditions in East Germany. Always when I met my friends we first laughed at stories of kidnapping. Now it had happened to me.

I was not set free the next day, or the one after. My interrogation went on for ten months, almost every day for five or six hours. At the end of that time I was taken to the prison Governor. In his hand was a file, and from it he read my case and sentenced me to ten years' forced labor. I was then told that I would be transported to prisoners who are to be sent to the Soviet Union. I was in this prison time I met other prisoners, and I was happy to have some company. We were kept in a cell at the railway station, where a long goods train was standing. It was to be packed and travelled, and in March, the worst part of the Arctic winter, we arrived at Vorkuta in the north-east corner of Russia. We were ordered from the train and had to march our way against the biting north wind through snow often as high as four feet. We had on our thin clothes in which we had been arrested, summer shoes and light summer dresses. We struggled on for about an hour until we came to the place where we were to live.

Vorkuta is the centre of a network of 150 camps and has around half-a-million prisoners — but where did they live? All we could see were rows and rows of low wooden huts — smoke came from some of these. We stopped in front of a hut which bore the number 29. We could hear that their families had sent them or that they had bought in the camp canteen. Our guard opened the door and we entered. It was given a mattress filled with straw, a thin blanket and a pillow. Then I was given my Arctic clothes, two cotton-wool padded jackets, trousers, a pair of felt boots, a pair of gloves, and big felt boots, also a hat made in the same way.

We would get up at five in the morning, and always we tried to make up ourselves with lipstick and powder, but the guards said that girls did not like it when I was going to work only in trousers. Some of them gave up wearing skirts with coloured flowers to put on when they returned to the camp, but frowny, but soon I understood why they would insist on this. In such intense cold, herded together and shut off from normal life, it is so easy to become slovenly and careless.

On this first bitter morning, as on hundreds of other mornings, I left the hut and joined a brigade of twenty girls to go to work. This day I was very lucky enough to get a truck and so we had to walk two hours through the snow. It was not the same railway line clear, but winter lasts from September to May in the Soviet Union, and always it snowed again and our work was undone.

The winter days are very hard. The horror was the cold, but if there were days when it was only ten degrees of frost we did not have to go out. Sometimes it remained at 60 degrees below zero for many days, and then we had to go out and clear the snow. Then the supplies could be brought in, for in Vorkuta nothing grows — it is just tundra with moss and forests, no food, scarcely a living thing except us.

If ever the overseers tried to make us work beyond our strength our guards would defend us. They mostly showed that they had more sympathy for us than those who commanded them. Although it was not allowed, they very often helped us. They were not set to watch us as if they were our friends. Always they would ask me about life in the West, how people there live, what money did they earn, how did they think about the Soviet Union?

Often we worked together with the men, and it was then that we had our unofficial parties. The guards would bring vodka, and we would dance to the music of a banjo, or we would sing. And, as always when a number of women are together, they were talking in camp they had secretly, they were sure of their rations and their bread, but now they must go away from friends, away from everything they had known, and they will be a living old people of sixty-five or seventy.

The Vorkuta camps were only for political prisoners. First there were the intellectuals, the children of high-ranking officers who had been victims of Stalin's great purges; members of the anti-Nazi ground movement called "The True Germany," who were fighting for a government of workers and peasant councils, not for a state ruled by Hitler and his party even several parties. In the camp they were joined by those who had distributed hand-written leaflets and held discussion groups; in the working places they tried to gather as many people as possible around them to make work easier and if there was no overseer in sight even the guards joined in.

Then there were the convicts, their fellow-prisoners that even in the camp they were hated and feared by passive resistance. Here they had the example of another group of prisoners who were kept in a secret religious order. Their aim was to make a living community of workers and peasants on the principle of Christian Communism. They refused to have anything to do with the Government, and the camp and boundless hours of work left them to do anything against their convictions. They could not even be punished for anything which in the administration had to give way to pressure from the camp-workers for their fellow-prisoners.

The third very big group was made up of the Ukrainian Nationalists who had fought for years against the annexation of their homeland. Even when I left Vorkuta in 1953, Ukrainians were still being brought there.

On March 5, 1953, Stalin died. Everybody in the camp was joyful. Now there was renewed hope; perhaps in future years the heads of the followers would destroy each other, and I would be a camp leader with ideas. But it was the fall of Beria, the M.V.D. chief, which persuaded the Soviet Union that the time for action.

We planned a mass strike. This was so well prepared that the camp administration knew nothing of the action. They had not the commandants took no action — they waiting for orders from Moscow. It was a long time before these came with a commission to see to the strike, headed by General Rudenko. He and his officers had obviously been told to break the strike as quickly as was possible. They began negotiations with us, and our living conditions — better food, higher wages and a working day of eight hours. They agreed that the camp workers should be allowed to write home every four months instead of twice a-year — foreign prisoners were never allowed to write.

We had a long discussion openly with the strike, so Rudenko's next move was to send for the Soviet Ukrainian guards and bring in Mongols, most of whom did not know Russian. Now we hoped to get rid of the most active organizers, but the commandants, as one camp they tried to do this by force and the result was a spontaneous strike in which 20,000 workers were killed or badly wounded.

I myself left Vorkuta before the strike ended. One day I was told by the Camp Commandant that I was to prepare my luggage. After travelling for a month I was brought to a reception camp where I met other foreign prisoners like myself. In this camp we waited for four months until one day it was announced that everybody was to be released into their own country. When our train arrived at the first German town — Frankfurt-on-Oder — a guard announced that those who wished to go to East Germany should leave as in a dream when you are afraid to wake up. We were given a demarcation line, we signed a paper, the barrier was lifted, and we walked across Bridge and fell into the arms of West German Red Cross men. I ought to have felt happy, but I felt nothing. I just passed from one office to another. I had become unable to see necessary to become again a respectable citizen.

I remember those first weeks now as a strange mixture of happiness, restlessness, and nervousness. My only interest was to tell everybody about my experiences

One Good Turn Deserves Another

Young woman has been doing six forward rolls ("somersaults" as I called 'em for many years) first thing every morning for the past seven years, and she's not even stop till she turns up her toes (what dreadful language!).

She is 48 years old and her friends say she looks ten years younger—from the snapshot of the young woman and her husband, taken last year. I'd say Whee-e-wheeuh—if her husband were not so big. But age is not important, the young women continues, what counts is how she feels.

She knows one thing. When she gets through with her somersaults every morning she feels like a million. . . . "I see a lot of sickness in women my age. You can't tell them anything—they're so obsessed with the "change of life."

Three or four years ago the young woman followed a restricted diet—not for the reason so many nitwits do, but simply be-

TODAY'S TALK

TOOLS AND THINGS

Time and again I go into a hardware store just to "browse" around, as I do in a bookshop. It's not because I have any money minds have been at work, searching out for some tool to make work easier or to do it more efficiently.

There is a store in my town that carries hundreds of gadgets, and a big window displays them before those who pass on the street. There are always many faces looking in—is a window, mine among them, and I wonder if others are thinking some of the thoughts that I have as I look at the tools and try 'a'ring?

I have often visited a museum in Nova Scotia where h a v e been gathered many of the early tools used by pioneers, Acadians and Acadians. As I have looked upon these crude implements I have wondered what those people would think and do in a modern hardware store! There are things in a well-equipped hardware store of today that were not even dreamed about in my youth! And a few years from now these present stores will look out of d'ate.

For years I played the delightful game of Golf. I loved the exercise and the challenge to my skill (and temper) and kept trying to learn the correct way to play the game. The clubs are different, and greatly improved today, but gave me a laugh the winter the snow was so see the golfers riding from hole to hole in what looked like miniature jeeps! Maybe the next step will be to press a button on the club and the golfer will get his drive—a perfect landing on the green! I have often wished a carpenter shop in my Nova Scotia island retreat that gives me a world of joy the few weeks I spend there in the summer. I am always searching for some tool that would help me come in handy some day. When you live on an island you can't just walk around the corner to get what you want, so you have to keep a flock of tools on hand. Something beautiful to a useful tool!

When Fish Bite

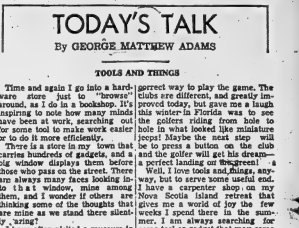
Fishermen have argued for years as to whether fish bite best when the moon is full. An heretical Canberra, however, holds that it really depends on whether the fish is full.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

We elderly gentlemen in our sixties have at least three distinct memories of the Coronation of Queen Victoria; we have seen the birth and revolutionary growth of the automobile; we must have borne witness to the rise of Labor from a vulgar herb associated with the most poverty-stricken immigrants, up to its present status as the main prop of the British cuisine, from 'the hamburger to bacon and eggs' inclusively; and when some newly arrived Italian or Middle European waiter was exhaling through his whiskers an extraordinary aroma that spread through the car like a whiff of garlic. All we loyal fried steak eaters and consumers of overdone roast beef recoiled and screwed up our noses in disdain and disgust. Little did we dream that within our lifetime, that odoriferous white cluster of bulbs would become as sacred to Canadian culinary art as the nutmeg was then. Now we would not get rid of the most active organizer of the nutmeg consumers if one camp they tried to do this by force and the result was a spontaneous strike in which 20,000 workers were killed or badly wounded.

There are, of course, still Canadians who recoil from garlic. But I am not one of them.Indeed, on the rare occasions I meet a garlic bud, just to be able to say whether it is a better or worse flavor than my own secret onion, which grows at this season alongside all good trout streams, and which I have used for years in two slices of thickly buttered fresh bread, minced as fine as I can converse to take two paces back, and eat.



Only one thing has gone a little wrong with the garlic bud. The food industry has invented a garlic salt, which, to my taste, is a fiendish substitute, but still a thing has a curious flavor of its own, and when used instead of fresh garlic often ruins the food it was intended to enliven. A French cook has told me that garlic is at its perfection when it is employed delicately and judiciously that y o u never actually detect it."

In making a salad, he chews garlic and then breathes on the inside of the salad bowl before mixing. His!

Chill Reception Given Member On Suggestion

OTTAWA (CP)—A Liberal Commons member got a chill reception from the Liberal-dominated steering group of the House's labor committee Tuesday when he suggested an audience for the Communist-led Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers' Union.

Informants said after the closed meeting that all the steering committee would do, for James A. Byrne (L—Kootenay East) was to agree tactfully and without a vote to consider any request for a hearing that the left-wing union might make.

The industrial relations committee, dealing with a government bill to overhaul the Unemployment Insurance Act, has decided to hear executives of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, the Canadian Congress of Labor and Quebec's Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor.

WAS KICKED OUT

The Mine-Mill Union was kicked out of the CCL a few years ago for Communist leadership.

Mr. Byrne, an anti-Communist who is a former president of Mine-Mill's big local at Kimberley, B.C., which deals with Consolidated Mining and Smelting Co., broached the idea of a hearing for Mine-Mill initially at a public meeting of the committee. It was quietly shelved then for the steering group.

Mr. Byrne, who has about 1,300 Mine-Mill members in his constituency, didn't press the point but suggested only that, if the union wanted to be heard, its request should be considered. It now has no voice through the national congresses.

Hydro Starts Pumping Job On St. Lawrence

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission is about to start a pumping job that will dry up about 2½ miles of the north channel of the St. Lawrence river, a commission official said Tuesday.

Dr. Otto Holden, the commission's chief engineer, told the Ontario and Canadian Dental Association that the pumping will start soon after completion of a 4,200-foot-long cofferdam. The last of the 60 cells of the cofferdam was completed last weekend and seven remaining cells are to be filled with gravel.

Dr. Holden said four pumps, each capable of 20,000 gallons a minute, will be used in the 24-hour-a-day operation that will dry up the site of the Robert H. Saunders-St. Lawrence generating station.

He said work on the cofferdam is seven weeks behind schedule. Malice, high water and labor problems had prevented finishing the cofferdam April 1. However, commission engineers said the delay would not hamper completion plans of the $600,000,000 power project shared jointly by the HEPC and the New York State Power Authority.

The other end of the area to be dried up was sealed off by a rock crib and earth fill cofferdam. This will be built up to the necessary level.

Quebec Youth Makes Escape From Police Car

MONTREAL (CP) — A 19-year-old youth, who dashed a Quebec family's efforts to rehabilitate him by going on a car-stealing spree, escaped Tuesday from a police wagon and commandeered a stolen car on an 80-mile flight from provincial police.

Paul-Emile Demers was captured more than an hour after he escaped from the wagon at Louiseville, Que. and stole a car. Police in Montreal East, alerted to his escape, chased the youth at speeds up to 90 miles an hour through the rush-hour traffic and cornered him in a blind street. He surrendered without opposition.

DEFECTIVE HANDLE

Police said he worked a defective door handle loose on the police wagon while being transferred from Quebec City jail to Montreal's St. Vincent de Paul federal penitentiary to serve a five-year sentence for car theft. His escape was noticed "within minutes" and police posts along the 80-mile Louiseville-Montreal highway were notified.

Demers was sentenced in Quebec May 3 after pleading guilty to stealing four cars, one at gun point from a taxi-driver. Only a few weeks before, a sympathetic Quebec couple with seven children adopted him when he faced a jail term for theft of a purse.

He ran away within two weeks, taking his adopted father's car, and was arrested a few days later when a stolen car in which he was riding cracked up.

Seek Guaranteed Indemnity For High Lake Level Damage

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Secretary Dulles was asked today to give "explicit guarantees", of indemnity to Lake Ontario shorelowners whose property may be damaged through regulation of lake levels.

The United States and Canada, in connection with the St. Lawrence river power project, are understood to be reaching an agreement to maintain lake levels between 244 and 28 feet above sea level.

The request for "explicit guarantees" went to Dulles from representatives Harold Ostertag and Kenneth Keating, New York republicans.

They asked that the pending agreement "include a firm declaration of the intention of the two governments to provide indemnities for those whose property may be damaged in consequence of such regulation."

They added that existing treaty guarantees of indemnity between the two countries would be "meaningless unless backed by specific action on the part of the two governments."

"A declaration of intent," Keating and Ostertag said, "would give needed assurance that our government expects to keep faith with its citizens, and live by the letter and spirit of the (1909) boundary waters treaty."

They further requested that consummation of the pending agreement on the lake level regulation be delayed until representatives of the interested shore property owners can study its details.

Research Board Testing Drugs For B and C Warfare

OTTAWA (CP)—Drugs as antidotes for bacteriological and chemical warfare are being tested by the defence research board.

A shipment of 100 monkeys from India, due to reach Canada late this month, will be sent to DRB's experimental station at Suffield, Alta., "for use in testing the effectiveness of drugs and other protective measures against bacteriological and chemical warfare" a board official said Tuesday.

The animals will not be used for tests related to atomic radiation, the official said. Such tests now are being conducted with dogs in the United States.

During and since the Second World War, Suffield has been experimenting with poison gasses and toxic germs and possible antidotes for them.

JUST IN CASE

Responsible authorities here have said they doubt any nation would fall back on bacteriological and chemical warfare but Suffield had to continue its experiments "just in case."

Many quick-death poison gasses and toxic germs are known, officials say, but it is doubtful they could be used effectively. There was always the danger they would backfire too easily.

Meanwhile, the armed forces are studying information gleaned from sterilization in the recent Nevada atomic test by the army's radiation detection unit.

An army spokesman said that plenty of soap and water and ordinary household appliances such as whisks, broom or vacuum cleaner will remove much of the contamination caused by radioactive fallout.

Commercial Loop Annual Banquet Huge Success

Climaxing one of the most successful seasons since its inception the Men's Commercial Bowling League held its annual banquet at the Army, Navy, Air Force Veterans' spacious Front St. auditorium last night.

Champions, collectively and individually, were presented with trophies and prizes following a delectable turkey dinner served by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the ANAF.

The handsome Labatt trophy, emblematic of the league championship, was presented by the company representative, Bert Bolton, to team captain Leo Labelle, as were splendid miniatures.

The team included, besides Captain Labelle, D. Wanamaker, H. Deline, D. Bourette, M. Hunter, V. Callahan, Mark Storms and V. Semark.

Winners of the "A" section playoffs, the ANAF, were presented with the Credit Bureau trophy by George H. Carver. They too received miniatures. On the team were: G. Reid, A. Stewart, B. Balyx, L. Donaldson, G. Locke, E. Scott, the captain; K. Calnan and M. Richards.

To the Brown's Bread team, winners of the "B" section playoffs went the Bob Blaind trophy, presented by its donor. Team members include: G. Young, O. Hales, G. Trumpour, H. Smith, L. Rupp, G. Jones and T. Weber.

Individual prizes were presented by president A. Bowers, C. H. Carver and Jack Devine. To D. Hedger went the bauble for the high triple of 947. He also won the high single prize with a 419, and to Leo Labelle went the high average prize for a neat 229.

Other special prizes were presented to A. Vendig, B. Cannon, H. Flat, Jim Lloyd, G. Seeley, G. Hamilton, G. Pukanski, W. Townson, P. Acron, A. Luck, Dave Batcheior, M. Tomaso, E. McQuaid, L. Pullman, R. Datoe, M. Holland, E. Forestell, B. Martin, G. Trumpour, G. Locke and Mark Storms.

Mel Richards was the unanimous choice of the meeting for its incoming president. He replaced Al Bowers. Leo Labelle was named secretary and Elmer Scott will look after the league's privy purse.

Special gifts, too, were presented to the press and radio through the medium of George H. Carver and Jack Devine. Thanks, again.

$60,000 Bond Issue for Hall Is Approved

TRENTON — (Special)—Legion president Earle Donaldson announced Monday night that the bond mortgage issue to raise $60,000 for the purpose of building a modern one-storey legion hall in Trenton had been approved by Ontario government authorities. The issue will be dated July 1, 1955.

The proposed new hall will be erected on legion property behind the recently completed library building south of the main thoroughfare on the west side of the river. The executive decided to commence the sale of bonds as soon as the certificates are printed. Building plans and specifications are nearing completion according to the architect.

At the meeting last night Lieut. Norman Cole of the local Salvation Army made a plea for support of the Red Shield Drive now in progress. The local legion branch donated $25.

Nine new members were inducted into the branch bringing the strength up to 344 paid up members. New memberships are due May 31.

BB MARKSMAN LOCATED

James E. Parker, manager of the local Bell Telephone office, was the victim of an unexpected accident yesterday. He parked his car in the company's lot behind the dial system building and on return found the window on the driver's side shattered. Police located the BB gun marksman responsible. According to the youth he was shooting at the car, when one of the shots hit the place it was not intended for.

Ontario Cancer Institute Will Soon Be Built

TORONTO (CP)—Contracts for a completion of a $5,000,000 seven-floor building to house the Ontario Cancer Institute were awarded Tuesday night.

The building which will stand on the corner of Sherbourne and Wellesley streets in midtown Toronto, will be joined to Wellesley Hospital at each floor level.

Plans made by the institute's board of directors call for an expenditure of more than $5,000,000 for buildings and furnishings, including a new power station to service both the Cancer Institute and the Wellesley Hospital.

Two cobalt bomb units and eight other high-voltage therapy units are to be installed. The 87-bed hospital will be one of the continent's best-equipped centres for the diagnosis and treatment of cancer, as well as cancer research.

CONCESSION MADE

TITUSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — Mrs. Nancy L. Sutton is being given a chance to earn her high school diploma, but the 17-year-old bride of a mouth still can't attend regular classes. Nancy, a senior, was barred from Titusville high school last month after her marriage was announced. Nancy's parents threatened court action and the board Tuesday announced a compromise decision—Nancy still couldn't attend classes but would be permitted to take final examinations privately.

No Official PC Candidate Will Oppose Dempsey

TORONTO, (CP) — No official Progressive Conservative candidate will oppose James Dempsey in Renfrew South in the June 9 Ontario general election, it was reported Tuesday night.

There has been no comment from the premier on Mr. Dempsey's renomination. The decision not to run an official candidate in the riding came after a day-long meeting here between James Skinkin, president of the Renfrew South Progressive Conservative Association, and officials of the parent provincial association.

Durham Liberals Unable to Find Candidate

ORONO, Ont. (CP) — A meeting was held Tuesday night to choose a Liberal candidate for Durham in the June 9 Ontario general election, but nobody would stand for nomination. Eleven persons turned down the nomination.

At first, five persons were nominated. They withdrew. Then six more were named. They also withdrew.

The seat was held in the last legislature by Reforms Minister Foote.

The local riding association was asked to name a candidate before nominations close May 26.

Departing Residents Given Farewell Party

Before they left for their new home in Stirling, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Harry and family were tendered a farewell party by a goodly number of friends, neighbors and relatives in the school auditorium, Foxboro.

Mr. Clifford Wilson as chairman, called on a number of the young people of the community who presented a pleasing program.

Mr. Wilson later called Mr. and Mrs. Harry and family to the platform. Mrs. W. Rombough read an address and Beatrice and Vernon were presented with a step-table, a table lamp and a flower holder; Alvin a toy; Joyce, a boudior lamp, and David, a fountain pen, on behalf of the community, by Lynn and Nancy Reynolds, Larry Scott, Mr. I. Moore, and Mr. James Reynolds.

A cup and saucer was presented to Mrs. Harry from the Foxboro Women's Institute of which organization Mrs. Harry was a valued member, by Mrs. Walter L. Johnston.

Vernon and Beatrice feelingly thanked everyone and invited all to visit them at Stirling.

Following the presentations, refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed with the Harrys.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Charles Milligan, of London, are shown following their recent marriage in Knox United Church, Fisher, Ontario. The bride is the former Miss Eleanor Mae Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. innes Featherson Rose, and the bridegroom, the son of Mrs. George Milligan, of Belleville, and the late Mr. Milligan. —(Photo by Ken Poste, Woodstock, Ont.)

Fancy Skater Will Celebrate 102nd Birthday

OTTAWA (CP)—One of Canada's popular figure-skaters of long ago, Sarah Victoria Whitcher celebrates her 102nd birthday on May 24.

Miss Whitcher, now living in the Elizabeth Residence for elderly women in Ottawa, was rated one of the country's best fancy skaters in her youth. There were no championship competitions then, but she was often invited to skate at Rideau Hall in the days of Earl and Lady Dufferin when Earl Dufferin was governor-general between 1872 and 1878.

She remembers the gay skating carnivals and the long-skirt costumes she and others worked on for months to wear at these gala occasions.

"That was years and years and years ago," she says now with a little sadness.

DANCING DAYS

She can't tell you much about her 17 years at Elizabeth Residence, one - time home of Sir Charles Tupper and later of Sir Richard Scott, father of the Canada Temperance Act. But memory of her younger years remains vividly clear.

"I used to come in this home to dance as a young girl," she says, adding with a twinkle in her eye: "This room used to be the billiard room in those days."

Miss Whitcher was a devout member of St. John's Anglican church. She can remember, as an active member of the Women's Missionary Society, packing many bales of clothing "for the Northwest," now the prairie provinces.

She keeps a radio at her bedside to listen to the Sunday morning church service broadcast from St. John's church.

But Miss Whitcher's heart still is in Sherbrooke, where she was born May 24, 1853, accounting for her name Victoria. It was there she grew up and worked in the head office of the old Quebec Central Railway. In those days, she says, "they called the railway the 'Push, Pull and Jerk,' and she dressed with pen and ink over railway forms the size of a newspaper.

Women's Hospital Aux. Hears Reports

It is always a delight for the members of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary to hear of the activities of the hospital and its nurses from the Director of Nursing, Miss M. Peart. She not only spoke of plans for the graduation ceremonies but brought the attention of the May meeting to the on-coming chest clinic which is to be held at the end of this month. Miss Peart stressed the importance of chest X-rays.

Excellent reports of the activities of the "coffee-snack" and opportunity shop were heard. Mrs. L. B. Fonger stated that donations to the latter would be welcome.

FINE COFFEE SNACK

The president, Mrs. J. Lennox Smith, praised the work of Mrs. A. Madden at the "Coffee-Snack" and made special mention of her kindness to customers and patients. The good relations thus created are invaluable.

Mrs. Smith read a letter from Mr. K. Box in which he asked her to convey his thanks and appreciation to the members of the auxiliary for their assistance on Hospital Day.

Mrs. J. E. Buchan spoke of the meetings of the National Council of Women's Hospital Auxiliaries held recently in Ottawa which she had attended with Mrs. J. H. Forrester. In her capacity as chairman of the publication committee, Mrs. Buchan was well qualified to report to the auxiliary.

Harriett Stevens, from the studio of CJBQ, was the guest speaker. Her subject: "The Importance of Radio", was of keen interest to her listeners who thoroughly enjoyed the privilege of seeing, as well as hearing, one of their favorite commentators. Radio is closely related to the community in the smaller places, Harriett Stevens said, "and it is gratifying, to know we can do public relations work. The station tries to keep in touch with what goes on in the community and desires to be of service."

The speaker, in her entertaining talk, made reference to a letter from Pakistan written by Miss Potts, former director of Nursing of the Belleville General Hospital, which had been read over the air.

Mrs. Smith thanked Harriett Stevens for her interesting talk and for the co-operation she gives the auxiliary at all times.

Youth for Christ Rally Draws Excellent Crowd

Some 700 people gathered to see Billy Graham's "Souls in Conflict", filmed against the background of the fabulous London crusade, held at the Collegiate Friday evening. It was shown under the auspices of the local Youth for Christ organization.

The film depicted three in the grip of life's greatest struggle, featuring Joan Wenmell, Eric Micklewood, Charles Leno with Cliff Barrows, George Beverly Shea, Colleen Townsend Evans, Dom Moomaw, Tedd Smith and the London Crusade choir.

Others who took part were as follows, Mr. William Stapley, master of ceremonies, who introduced the representative for the film, the Rev. George Throgmorton of Hardin, Illinois.

Assisting were, Mr. Douglas Trumble, song leader; Mrs. Bev. Foster at the piano, Mr. Ernie Belch and Mr. Kenneth Edwards, who led in prayer.

At the close of the film, an invitation was given to those who would like to accept Christ as their personal Saviour. Several responded to the invitation.

Yugoslav Women Carve Place In Life of Country

OTTAWA (CP) — Yugoslav women, says Estelle Leblanc, a former fisheries department home economist, have carved their place as a strong political and economic force in the life of the country. Many serve in Parliament.

But although they spend as much time in public life as they do at home and replace their husbands on the farm to let them work in factories, they still are very feminine, Miss Leblanc says.

She returned recently from Belgrade, where she organized a home economics school as a representative of the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

She said the purpose of the school, which will probably serve as a model for others in Yugoslavia, is to bring home economics in the country to a higher and broader level, linking it with other university faculties.

The over-all idea was to teach Yugoslav women the best way to improve their home life and get the country's products on to the dinner table.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

FIRST THE THANK-YOU . . . THEN THE THANK-YOU NOTE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Isn't it true that a thank-you note for a shower gift is sent only to someone who sent a gift but wasn't at the shower? I am sure I have read in your column that a verbal thank-you at the shower is sufficient. True? —S.C.

No, Ma'am . . . not true. I'd do my very best to persuade a bride-to-be to write a nice little thank-you note for every shower present she receives . . . then her relatives and friends would know that she has the charming grace of politeness and the charming art of appreciation! Naturally she expresses her thanks at the shower, but then they must be more or less hurried. Later at her leisure, she has time to think about the gift, about the giver's kindness . . . and her note can gracefully say her appreciation. And, believe me, such a thank-you note will be long remembered!

WEDDING OFFICIATING CLERGYMAN SITS AT RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. Is it proper to invite the officiating clergyman to sit at the bride's table?

2. After the recessional, is it proper for the bride's parents to be the first to leave their pew?—MM.

1. Customarily only the members of the wedding party are seated at the bride's table. When there is a parents' table, or when the bride's table and the parents' table are combined, the officiating clergyman sits at the left of the bride's mother. (At the bride's mother's right is seated the groom's father.)

2. Yes . . . this is the correct procedure. That is, immediately after the recessional the usher who is escort the bride's mother goes up the aisle to the first pew on the left side. The bride's father steps out of the pew—the bride's mother takes the proffered arm of the usher, and they proceed down the aisle . . . the bride's father follows a few feet behind them.

GRACELESS RECEPTION PROCEDURE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently I attended a wedding reception. When the guests began to arrive at the reception, I expected that the bride and groom would greet them, but instead they were sitting at a table with their attendants. The wedding took place in the groom's town, and therefore there were many guests whom the bride did not know. (Neither the bride's parents nor the groom's parents are living.) Don't you think it was the groom's duty to introduce the reception guests to his bride? —S.

I've never heard of such graceless and thoughtless procedure at a wedding reception. Was there no one to receive the guests . . . no one to represent the groom's family, a sister, say, or an aunt, . . no one to represent the bride's family? There should be a two or three officer to stand near the entrance of the room where the reception was to be held, or at the beginning of a receiving-line. The bride and groom and the bride's attendants should have been standing in a receiving-line: the bride at the right of the groom, her honor attendant at her right, then the bridesmaids. The groom should then, of course, have introduced to his bride those guests whom she didn't know, and the bride should have introduced her groom to the guests he didn't know.

Perhaps there might be some group headed by an older person who would be willing to get in touch with your mother and ask if you couldn't come into it.

See what you can find out, and what suggestions you might get from those to whom you talk, and then let me know. I'll try to help you find a way to get your parents' consent to your having a little more freedom.

COME DOWN OUT OF THE CLOUDS, MISS B.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been in love with a musician for two years and a half and am still in love with him, though he doesn't know it. He is 11 years older than I am, and everyone says he is too old for me.

My mother says that if I'll just be patient, I'll probably get him some day, she says that you always get the man you love at one time or another.

Do you think that some day I'll stand a chance of winning him for a lifetime, or that the 11 years' difference in our ages matters?

— Miss B.

Dear Miss B.:

I find it very hard to believe that you are serious in writing me this letter. Or are you a girl so young, either in age or in mind, that you can't tell the difference between facts and the wildest daydreaming?

So far as I can tell, you don't even know this musician, but are simply off in the clouds, building a romantic air castle and setting up housekeeping in it with the hero of your daydreams.

If you want me to answer your questions I will do it. But it's a foolish waste of time, and you're not going to like the answers anyhow. Here goes: I don't think you have any chance of winning this chap at any rate, and so the 11 years difference in your ages doesn't matter at all.

Come down out of the clouds, Miss B., and get your feet on the ground. Make friends with the boys around you, and you'll stand a far better chance of eventually winning one "for a lifetime."

TOO OLD FOR TOYS; TOO YOUNG FOR BOYS!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What can a girl do when her parents tell her that she is "too old to play with toys" and "too young to go with boys?" These are exactly the words they use.

I am 14, and think I am old enough to get out with a bunch of kids on days when there isn't school. — Pam D.

Dear Pam:

I certainly can't see any reason why your parents wouldn't allow you to go out with a "a bunch of kids," even though they might not want you to start dating boys yet.

Aren't there any clubs at school to which you can belong and where you can have good times with boys and girls of your age under the supervision of some teacher. Or isn't there some properly-supervised Youth Center in your city, or any other teen-age organizations that would be appropriate for you? I'm sure your parents can't expect you just to hang around the house with no good, wholesome fun with other young people.

Ask your friends, and some of the teachers in your school, what teen-age activities there are in town that would be right for you.

The Twenty-Six Inch Waistline

By Mary Moore

The waistline of a certain twenty-two-year-old bride measures twenty-six inches.

When I think of the lovely crinolines she can buy to wear under full-skirted frocks it puts me into my will and I do my exercises, and prepare my quarterly meals with much more determination and equanimity.

I will not settle for a bulky waistline for I want to wear a crinoline too.

It is really quite simple to establish the habit of not eating buttered toast or potatoes, and of eating a grapefruit for dessert, and of drinking a glass of tomato juice or munching on a stick of celery when you are so hungry you think "to heck with the dieting—I'll start tomorrow." Isn't it worth it to be free to swish around in a dainty crinoline just like the young girls?

For a slim waistline do waistline exercises regularly and use the following menus for your meal patterns:

BREAKFASTS

(For a slim waistline.)

(1) Six ounces orange juice—preferably fresh but canned or unsweetened canned are final too; 1 soft boiled or poached egg; 1 slice whole wheat toast (untuttered if you can be that strict or with 1 teaspoon butter; 1 or 2 cups clear coffee (or with 1 tablespoon homogenized milk).

(2) One-half grapefruit or 14 large fresh strawberries unsweetened; 1 egg scrambled in 1 teaspoon butter (or—new discovery—1 teaspoon mayonnaise) served on 1 slice unbuttered whole wheat toast; clear coffee or as in Breakfast No. 1.

(3) Six ounces grapefruit juice or fresh or unsweetened canned, or 1 whole orange (see note below re eating whole orange); 1-8 inch slices back bacon and lite 1-2 inch rim of fat; 1 slice whole wheat toast unbuttered; 1 cup clear coffee or tea.

Breakfast No. 1.

LUNCHES

(For a slim, waistline)

(Fill in your tummy while you eat this!)

(1) Six ounces hot clear consommé; grilled cheese sandwich on whole wheat (no butter); 1-1 inch thick wedge with 1-4 cup cottage cheese: 1 apple or 1 small ripe banana; 8 oz. skim milk.

(2) Eight ounces vegetable soup; 1 hard-cooked egg on 2 lettuce leaves with 1 sliced tomato, 1-4 cup cottage cheese; 1 slice unbuttered whole wheat toast or 2 rye wafers; 1—whole orange; 8 ounces skim milk.

(3) Sandwich: 4 oz. broiled hamburger on whole wheat with prepared mustard (instead of butter) and slice of tomato; slice of fresh pineapple or 12 strawberries; 8 oz. skim milk.

DINNERS:

(For a slim waistline)

(1) One 1 inch thick pork chop including fat, broiled; 4 oz. green beans; 1-2 cup cooked brown rice (divide 1 teaspoon butter between them); 3 4-inch celery stalks, 1 raw carrot; 1 ripe dessert pear or 6 oz. imported grapes; 1 cup clear coffee.

(2) Six-ounces clear consommé; 2 oz. broiled fish (try fresh haddock or pickerel sparingly brushed with mayonnaise and broiled) with lemon; 1-2 cup amount cooked spinach with 1 teaspoon butter; 4 oz. diced beets; cole-slaw with 1 teaspoon mayonnaise; sliced orange; clear coffee.

(3) Four oz. broiled liver (or steak) brushed with 1 teaspoon butter; six ounces cooked or raw shredded carrots; very small baked potato in jacket with 1 teaspoon butter; dessert fruit salad on lettuce; grapefruit and orange sections, 1-2 banana coated with mayonnaise and chopped nuts; coffee.

NOTE:

A complex carbohydrate known as protopectin is found in whole oranges but not in the juice. It lessens intestinal fermentation and assists intestinal absorption of all nutrients without leading to weight gain. Hint to reducers: eat 1 whole orange per day.

Sit up straight and pull in you know what.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

CHARM CAN BE ACQUIRED

No woman possessed of good health, a fair amount of intelligence and perseverance need remain colorless or uninteresting. A charming personality is more powerful than physical beauty if you are trying to land a job, enter a profession or win that grand guy to whom you are attracted. Few successful people are without it.

Let us find out how the charming woman gets that way. What is her philosophy, her thoughts, her habits?

She has a well modulated speaking voice and is an interesting conversationalist. You'll never catch her groaning about her neuralgia or the size of the grocery bill. She is also tolerant. Knowing her own weaknesses only too well, she does not expect others to be without faults.

She has a keen sense of humor and knows that everyone enjoys the company of a gay companion.

She keeps in touch with what is going on in the world, reading the editorials in newspapers as well as the women's sections. When the men at the party start swanging about politics she isn't bored. She is quite able to put in her ten cents worth. Very neatly, of course—for that is her long suit.

She does not interrupt others and knows that everyone likes to hear talk down to more humble people. If there is a mistake in her grocery order she doesn't bawl out the clerk. Errors are bound to happen now and then.

She knows that interest in the arts—literature, music, painting—makes one a more cultured person. She reads at least one good book a week.

If she is aware of a weak spot in her personality, she endeavors to correct it. She does not live in the past or in the future, but in the 24 hours of each day, finding as much contentment as she can.

REDNERSVILLE WA

The May meeting of Redneersville WA was held at the home of Mrs. Hiram and Harry Adams last Wednesday. There were 21 members present.

Mrs. Stafford, the president, opened the meeting.

Mrs. E. McKay read the Scripture Acts 2:1-4. Mrs. Harry Adams read the correspondence. The secretary read the reports of last meeting. An invitation was accepted from Massassaga WA to spend the afternoon of June 1, with them. Plans were made for attending the convention at Madoc, on May 26. It was decided that the bill for tuning the piano be paid also the pianist.

Mrs. T. Thompson, as program convener, took charge. Mrs. E. McKay and Mrs. M. Rorabeck gave a piano duet and Mrs. Leon Ward a reading.

A third contest was won by Mrs. Carl Williamson with first and Mrs. R. Stafford, second. Mrs. Landry won low prize.

Mrs. McCutcheon conducted an auction sale which was humorous as well as profitable.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee. The proceeds for the evening were $30.62.

Foxboro W.I. Plans Activities

Mrs. L. Sheppard was the hostess, when the Foxboro Women's Institute met for its May meeting in the school auditorium.

Mrs. C. Hubble, the new president, presided at the meeting which opened in the usual way. It was opened by Mrs. Shenay and seconded by Mrs. MacPhee to send no delegates to Guelph in July, but have a family picnic later in that month.

Mrs. Shenay reported that $5 had been sent to the district secretary to help purchase the wedding gift for Miss Pegg.

It was also decided to have sent to a member in the hospital in Kingston. Also that Pilkington-Elon, Plainfield, Cannifton-Corbyville, Parkdale and Pine Grove Institutes be invited to the next meeting to be held in the school.

It was also decided that to have a "Sunshine Sisters' Club" among the members.

Since sufficient funds for the children's trip to Ottawa had been obtained, it was thought best to keep the money help for future use and that more of the Institute members should support the Home and Sc Association meeting by attend them.

Discussion regarding scholarship was tabled for June meeting.

EGGLETON WMS-WA

On Thursday afternoon the meeting of the Eggleton WMS WA was held at the home of Bruce Stapley with 14 ladies and four children present. The WA president, Mrs. Wilson McMullen, presided over the program, which had been prepared by Mrs. Warren Harlow. She opened the meeting by reading a short poem "Workers Together With God," and the hymn "Come Let us Sing of a Wonderful Love".

Devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Milton Reid reading the Scripture Lesson Psalm 103 and prayer by Mrs. Cayley Bridges.

The poem "Kneel Down" was read by Mrs. Harlow.

The minutes were read and roll call taken by Mrs. C. Pitchett.

Sick visits were reported made to sick members.

Seven members paid their WA dues to the treasurer.

Mrs. Nathan Wannamaker of Stirling, kindly invited the members of Eggleton WMS and WA to meet at her home for the June meeting.

Mrs. Maurice Clancy was appointed to prepare the program.

A letter was read stating that the WA convention is being held this year at Trinity United church, Belleville, Thursday, June 2nd. Plans were made for a number to attend.

METHEY BEE

Plans were also discussed for holding the cemetery 'bee' on Wednesday, June 1, with the ladies of the WA serving a dinner at the church lawn. Mrs. William McMullen and Mrs. Carl Bridges were appointed to arrange the menu.

Letters of thanks for boxes of quilt sent out during the month were read.

Mrs. Warren Harlow was appointed treasurer for the Home Mission Work funds.

A poem "The Divine Weaver", which had been received from Mrs. A. Andrews, was read by Mrs. Clarence Fitchett.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Clifford Lansing, gave a splendid paper on "What it Means to be a Church Member."

The president spoke briefly visiting Mrs. Lansing for her interesting address and voicing a word of welcome to Mrs. R. C. Chapman, and later she also thanked Mrs. Stapley for opening her home and Mrs. Harlow, program convener.

The hostess served refreshments and all enjoyed a social hour.

Women's Softball League Formed; Four Teams Enter

A four-team Women's softball league was formed at the Belleville City Hall last evening and christened the "Belleville and District Women's Softball League".

Last night's meeting was one of the most successful held in ball circles this spring as the twelve persons attending lost no time in completing most of the season's business. The four teams entered are Belleville Hospital Nurses, Trenton Town, RCAF and another Belleville team, run by Leo Lucciolo.

It was felt that a large executive was unnecessary so only a president and secretary were elected. Leo Lucciolo, a long-time worker in Women's softball in this district, was appointed president while F/L Mary Priest of the RCAF Station, Trenton, was a unanimous choice for secretary.

Among the business transacted was a ruling allowing each team to sign 21 players. The teams have until July 1st to have all the players they want signed but no player can participate in a game after June 15th, without having signed a certificate. Every girl must participate in at least three league games before she is eligible for league playoffs.

The schedule, to be drawn up by recreational director, Lloyd 'Red' Doran, will open the first week of June and run until the end of July. All four teams will be in the playoffs, first and third league members and second and fourth meeting in best-of-three semi-finals while the finals will be a three-of-five affair.

Schedule games will be seven-inning affairs with five complete innings constituting a game in case of darkness or rain. The games are called for 6.45 with 15 minutes grace. Each team will play two games a week, one at home and one away. With most of the games taking place on Monday and Wednesday, The Belleville teams will play their home games at the Alemite Field.

The visiting team will supply the plate umpire, the home club the base officials. In case of wet grounds or any other reason for postponement, the home manager must notify the visitors by 3.00 p.m. the day of the game and make arrangements for another playing date. In case of the two managers disagreeing on the playing conditions of the field, the decision will be left up to the game officials.

Mr. Ken Box, Belleville General Hospital, was named official scorer.

The league will operate under OASA rules with a few local amendments. Several clubs are expected to enter OASA playdowns in August.

Board Will Set Compensation For Annexation

BRANTFORD (CP) — The Ontario municipal board will meet here Thursday to consider the amount of compensation the city of Brantford should pay the county of Brant for loss of assessment through the city's annexation of 7,900 acres of Brantford township.

The board also will consider the matter of new ward boundaries in the enlarged city, and the question of whether the city should pay the township's cost in preparing a defence against the first annexation application, which the city later withdrew to draw up an application for a larger area.

Stanley Forbes, member of the board of governors of Brantford General Hospital, told a board meeting Tuesday night that "it seems to me the Ontario municipal board is getting quite a bit of money out of the municipalities." He was commenting on notification that the municipal board's charge was $1,400 for approving a hospital building extension bylaw.

70,000 Pamphlets About Canada Given to Japs

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TOKYO (CP) — Seventy thousand colorful pamphlets, printed in Japanese and depicting Canadian industry in action, have been distributed to Japanese in all walks of life from Canada's booth at the Japanese International Trade Fair which ended a two-week show here today.

Canadian delegates to the International Chamber of Commerce congress now underway here have been interested visitors to the booth since their arrival last Friday. Today, H. C. Berkinshaw, president of the Canadian council of the ICC, paid a visit to the booth as Canada's delegation head and heard the story of the exhibit from H. J. Donacher of Winnipeg.

A feature of the exhibit is a miniature grain elevator with a constant flow of wheat coming out of it spout. Canadian assistant chief grain inspector for the board of grain commissioners at Winnipeg, estimated that two bushels were taken out of the miniature bin by curious Japanese and that it will probably have been much more had it not been for their shyness in grabbing samples in North American fashion.

EMPHASIS ON WHEAT

The booth's emphasis was on wheat. In addition to the miniature elevator, there were panoramic aerial pictures showing Canada's great farmlands, grain elevators and wheat shipping ports.

Donacher said visiting food processors and millers are already sold on Canadian wheat and take its quality for granted.

Most questions centre around the size of Canadian farms and farm machinery, he said. Farmer visitors could hardly comprehend one man farming such huge tracts. They were fascinated by pictures of the 16-foot wide disc plough and of the Saskatchewan wheat pool elevator number seven at Port Arthur, the largest in the Commonwealth.

Panoramic pictures of strip farming for soil conservation also commanded much attention.

House Members Puzzled Over British Sterling

OTTAWA (CP)—The intricacies of converting Canadian dollars into British sterling and vice-versa had some Commons members puzzled Tuesday, not least opposition financial expert J. M. Macdonnell. He was told that even writing out a simple cheque on a British bank is more complicated than it appears.

The House plunged into the recesses of currency convertibility during a debate on the wheat allocation.

Trade Minister Howe said sterling was not freely interchangeable. One country could not accept British sterling and then buy what it liked with that currency. There were restrictions.

Mr. Macdonnell, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Greenwood, said the whole affair came to him "as an entire surprise."

Mr. Howe said if a Canadian living in a dollar area wishes to sell goods for sterling he can use that sterling only as the chancellor of the exchequer permits.

A friend of his who had "a sort of windfall" in sterling and discovered he could use the money for his personal living expenses but could not buy a necktie or a suit of clothes with the currency.

"Does the minister mean that if I have an account in an English bank I cannot write a cheque on it here to purchase something in England. . . I cannot believe that, surely," Mr. Macdonnell said.

Mr. Howe said if the bank was Canadian the money could be converted to dollars. But if money in an English bank was used for trade there, it was a different matter.

RAWDON

33 Attend Joint W. M. S., W. A. Meetings

RAWDON — Thirty-three ladies were in attendance Wednesday afternoon for a joint W.M.S. and W.A. meeting at the home of Mrs. Herbert Smith.

Mrs. Frank Jeffs, president of Mount Pleasant Woman's Missionary Society, opened with prayer. The monthly program, prepared by Mrs. M. A. Lane on the theme, "We Must Share," was used. The author of this statement of purpose, which reads: "To interpret the Christian life in terms of service; to build within the community the spirit of good will, and within the world the foundation of peace; to co-operate with all men and women in brotherliness; to work, play, love and worship in the spirit of Christ," is unknown. All sang "Lord, for Tomorrow and Its Needs," which stressed help me, guide me, love me, Lord, just for today.

TRANSLATION READ

Mrs. Milford Wrightman read a translation from Corinthians by J. B. Phillips in "Letters to Young Churches."

Mrs. Herbert Smith gave a resume of the stewardship discussion period at the recent Presbyterial.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen gave her report and 22 W.M.S. members were in attendance.

The June W.M.S. meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. John Hay, Keyword "Prayer," and Mrs. John Mulberon in charge of the program.

The keyword for May was "A Mother of the Bible." Mrs. Clifford Young was gathered by Jean Sharpe and dedicated by Mr. J. Holmes.

The treasurer reported $2.55 for April, which included thank offering and two fees.

The press secretary gave excerpts from a Presbyterian press secretarial letter and she was authorized to prepare a scrap book of her clippings.

Owing to the removal of the Mission Band leader to Norwood, it was agreed on motion that Mrs. Burton Sharpe be the leader with Mrs. Stanley Williams as assistant.

TRAVELLING BLANKET

The Baby Band, under the leadership of Mrs. Robert Merrick, has started a travelling blanket to raise funds. The committee Friendship secretary recorded a large number of house calls. The supply secretary would like to pack a bale in June. The Citizenship secretary read an article on "Good Citizens and Real Christians."

The president spoke briefly re "School for Leaders," and also gave a list of worthwhile books to read.

Mrs. Blake Sharpe outlined "The Growing Together of the Church in India." The executive secretary of the National Christian Council, held a regional meeting of the various council secretaries in Nagpur.

The World Dominion press authority quotes about 73 Missionary Societies with offices abroad and there are 80 foreign mission groups, which work separately. All this is harmful to a united effort of the younger churches. The regional Christian Council of India operates with understanding and tolerance and sincere Christian co-operation and despite so many different faiths, there seems to be much effective work.

CHURCHES CO-OPERATE

The churches of India are trying to co-operate. As early as 1806 William Carey proposed an ecumenical conference. He wrote thus to Andrew Fuller: "The Cape of Good Hope is now in the hands of the English. Should it continue so, would it not be possible to have a general association of all denominations of Christians from the four quarters of the world held there once every ten years. Let the first meeting be held in 1812 at the latest. We could understand one another better."

It took 100 years before the International Missionary council was formed in Edinburg, Scotland, now it has spread through countries like China, Japan, India, Africa, Burma and Ceylon.

REGIONAL COUNCIL

The Regional Council at Nagpur in Madhya Pradesh represents about 95 per cent of all Indian church membership. Much pioneer work has been done and the council triennial meetings are held in different areas.

Some of the most impressive examples of united effort are to be found in the realm of medicine, nursing and public health. Perhaps nowhere in the world has there been a finer example of Christian co-operation than in the Christian Medical College at Vellore, in South India, which was established by Dr. Ida Scudder.

There are many discouraging factors but it is hoped that in the days to come there will be a genuine deepening of the spiritual experience of the membership of the Christian church in India.

A letter was read from "Missionaries Reporting," about the work of Miss Joyce Kilpatrick, missionary at Dhar. After four years in India, she saw for the first time bins full of corn and work for all from dawn to dusk. The farmer owes much to the money lender that he will not be able to save, but at least he will be able to eat during this poverty.

W.A. MEETING

Mrs. K. Weaver presided over the W.A. meeting and Miss Doris Sine gave her report. The treasurer reported about $540 in the treasury. Delegates were appointed for the W.A. convention in Madoc. A buying committee was appointed to purchase several articles.

Mrs. James Hoard presided over the W.A. devotional and read the meditation. Mrs. Ross Jeffs read the Bible lesson, and Mrs. W. G. Fletcher gave a paper on the theme, "The Comforter."

Mrs. Marguerite McMullen contributed a vocal solo with Mrs. Burton Sharpe as accompanist.

The service closed with "Breathe on Me Breath of God" with Mrs. Ross Hoard at the piano.

The hostess served light refreshments and was thanked for her hospitality.

FISH STORY

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (CP)—Fishing at Hokianga in the far north of New Zealand Jack Tole lost overboard his wallet containing £10 and papers. Twelve days later Mrs. A. Baker caught a snapper and when the fish was cut up, inside was the wallet with contents undamaged.

SUCCEEDS CLUTTERBUCK

LONDON (Reuters) — Malcolm MacDonald, British commissioner-general in Southeast Asia since 1946, today was appointed high commissioner to India. He succeeds Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, recently named ambassador to Ireland.

Point Anne

POINT ANNE — Mr. and Mrs. Lee Bradshaw and Steve were Sunday afternoon and tea guests of Mrs. Bradshaw's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Lemuel Kish at Fermoy.

Mr. and Mrs. William Juby and Mrs. Harvey Elliott and Bonnie; Mr. and Mrs. John Royal spent the week-end in Watertown, N.Y., with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. George Mills, of Picton, were Sunday visitors of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cummings and children.

Mrs. Anson Reid, of Bannockburn, spent the week-end with her son, Mr. Wesley Reid and called on Mrs. Reid, who is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. Mrs. Reid is improving slowly after the fall she had, injuring her back.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Jack Andrews, who were married on May 7th, in Belleville.

Deepest sympathy is extended to the family of the late Mr. Wesley G. Henderson, who passed away in the Belleville General Hospital on Monday.

Deepest sympathy is also extended to the family of the late Mrs. Cecil Reid, who passed away suddenly on Friday morning in the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid and family lived for many years at Point Anne before moving to Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Akey and family spent the recent week-end at Long Lake with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Akey, at their cottage.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Fraser and daughter Kay and Mr. George Botting spent Sunday at Crotch Lake.

Sorry to report Mrs. Alfred Maracle, Sr., is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. All hope to see her home soon.

The Ladies' Aid of the Point Anne United Church was held on Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Claude Carter with a good attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. Daley Cummings and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Cummings and baby were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Howard of Napanee.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery

Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among those sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

Now this new healing substance is offered in ointment form for hemorrhoids under the name Preparation H.® The price is only $1.19 a tube including an applicator. The name to ask for is Preparation H—at all drug stores. And remember — if not entirely satisfied — your money will be refunded promptly.

'She's charming, Mr. Chase, but she doesn't know beans!' whispered Mr. Sanborn

"Our hostess knows good coffee, sir!" Mr. Chase hissed back. "She says our new Instant Chase & Sanborn is the most delicious she ever served!"

"I heard," Mr. Sanborn admitted. "But when I said 'It's the beans, dear lady . . . the beans that give Instant Chase & Sanborn such glorious flavor' . . . she looked blank!"

"But you shouldn't have shouted so about those beans, Mr. Sanborn. Now when I explained quietly that the secret is our unique method of brewing and extracting all the rich coffee essences from the beans, she was quite intrigued!"

"Hush! Here she comes," warned Mr. Sanborn. "Well, I'll just remark gently that top-flavor beans have made Chase & Sanborn the coffee that's served in Canada's finest hotels . . . and our Instant the choice in gracious homes like this."

Right, Mr. Chase! It takes real coffee people, with nearly 100 years' experience, to make a great Instant Coffee like Instant Chase & Sanborn. CIVIL REBELLION BECOMES GUERRILLA WAR IN VIET NAM

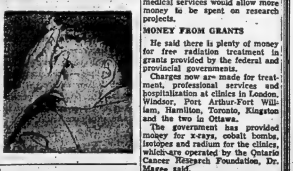
Viet Nam's civil war appears to have dissolved into brief skirmishes between small rebel bands and well-armed forces of Prime Minister Ngo Dinh Diem. But before the rebel Binh Xuyen forces were driven from the cities and towns, homes by the thousands were burned and whole city blocks were razed. This is all that remains of the market place of Xom Cui after being the centre of a siege of rebel forces.



Roving rebel bands are terrorizing the Viet Nam countryside, setting fire to homes and stealing food and other supplies. Here peasants try in vain to quell fires started in their wood-and-thatch homes as government soldiers walk by searching for the rebels. (Central Press Canadian).

TWINS ABDUCTED, FATHER HELD

Showing her happiness, Mrs. Austin Hepton of Cookeville hugs her, two foster sons, Ronald and Richard, 11-months-old twins, after they had been returned to her by police. The twins were taken from a baby carriage outside the Hepton home in Cookville, Ont., by a man "with curly blond hair," who shoved Mrs. Hepton aside and ran with the twins to a car. Arrested later was Herman Mast, right, natural father of the twins, on a charge of abduction. He had not seen his sons since birth. The twins and Mast were found in the home of Mrs. Mast's parents a few miles away. (Central Press Canadian).

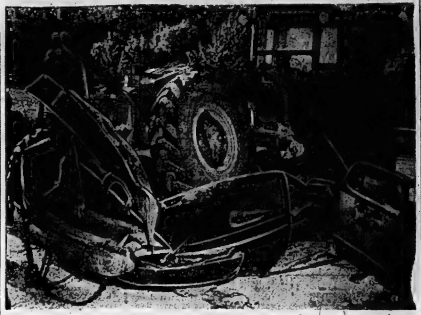
Nine Airmen Flown to Shelter Of Trading Post

WINNIPEG (CP)—Nine airmen who escaped without injury in a forced landing on the tundra have been flown to the shelter of a far-north Manitoba trading post.

They were marooned for more than 10 hours Tuesday when an RCAF Dakota was forced down during a 500-mile flight from Coral Harbor on Southampton Island to Churchill, Man., 600 miles north of here.

After being sighted from the air, they were flown to the Eskimo point trading post 160 miles north of Churchill and were to be taken out when the weather cleared.

Aboard the grounded plane were FO C. O. Thrasher of Winnipeg, pilot; FO R. Thomchik, Timmins, Ont., co-pilot; FO E. Rocheford, Montreal, and FO R. Griffiths Vancouver, navigators; FO H. R. Cutt, Winnipeg, radio operator; and passengers FO/L J. Scott and LAC L. Cole, both of Winnipeg, LAC L. MacKenzie and a Capt. Collins of the USAF.



The Dakota had left Coral Harbor with enough fuel for 7½ hours flying. The flight to Churchill normally takes three hours and 35 minutes.

How long it had flown before it landed was not known but almost six hours elapsed from the time of its departure from Coral Harbor to first word of its distress.

ACQUIT POLICE

MONTREAL (CP)—Without leaving the jury box, a Court of Queen's Bench jury Monday acquitted two Montreal police constables on a charge of accepting a $15 bribe. They returned the verdict after Mr. Justice Wilfrid Lazure said constables Raymond Gourre, 32, and Roger Sauvé, 29, should be given the benefit of the doubt when their testimony conflicted sharply with that of their accuser.

FIVE LIVED

Harvey Brown, of R.R. No. 7, Owen Sound, Ont., and four sons escaped severe injuries although their automobile was crushed beneath this road grader. The two vehicles met head-on near Owen Sound. The grader continued to roll and crept over and demolished the 1942 model car. Mr. Brown and one son were released after examination at the hospital. Three other sons were unhurt. (CP Photo).

EGGLETON Y. P. U.

MADOC JUNCTION— The May meeting of Eggleton Y. P. U. was held on Wednesday evening at the home of Donna Stapley.

Meeting opened with sic played by Mrs. Maurice Clancy.

The Scripture lesson, Ephesians 6, was read by Thomas Bridges.

During the business period, plans were discussed for having a hayride and wiener roast in the near future.

The Rev. R. C. Chapman told a story in connection with Mother's Day.

Bryce Phillips showed interesting slides of pictures taken in California.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Stapley and a social half hour was enjoyed.

Doctors Ask Free X-Ray Treatment For Cancer Cases

SUDBURY (CP) — The Ontario government has been asked to provide free radiation treatment for cancer patients.

Members of the Ontario Medical Association council who met here Tuesday said such treatment should be provided free of charge in the province's eight cancer clinics.

The council rejected a suggestion that all cancer treatment be provided without cost but held that charges for professional services should be based on the patient's ability to pay.

In outlining results of studies by a special association committee on cancer, Dr. R. K. Magee of Peterborough said that avoiding free medical services would allow more money to be spent on research projects.

MONEY FROM GRANTS

He said there is plenty of money for free radiation treatment in grants provided by the federal and provincial governments.

Charges now are made for treatment, professional services and hospitalization at clinics in London, Windsor, Port Arthur-Fort William, Hamilton, Toronto, Kingston and the two in Ottawa.

The government has provided money for x-rays, cobalt bombs, isotopes and radium for the clinics, which are operated by the Ontario Cancer Research Foundation, Dr. Magee said.

A report of the executive committee asked doctors to co-operate with civil defence services to increase efficiency of community disaster facilities.

Dr. J. A. Hannah of Toronto said hospitals and medical staffs in all communities should be organized so they can function adequately in times of disaster.

Choir Affiliated

TORONTO (CP) —Toronto's Roman Catholic Cathedral Choir School has been affiliated with the Pontifical School of Music in Rome.

James Cardinal McGuigan, Archbishop of Toronto, made the announcement Tuesday night at a concert by the choir in honor of the 25th anniversary of his consecration as an archbishop.

The affiliation gives the school authority to award degrees.

Test Plan Will Be Pioneered In Kitchener

KITCHENER (CP)—A test plan to be pioneered in Kitchener may be the basis of a Canada-wide scheme for absorption of newcomers into the Canadian pattern.

The setup and study of such a pilot scheme will be under the direction of the citizenship committee of the Kitchener Chamber of Commerce.

Official support and active participation in the scheme was approved Tuesday by the Chamber's board of directors.

Joseph Connell, committee chairman, said the reason for Kitchener's leading role was the part already played in absorbing newcomers into the community by the Kitchener - Waterloo Council of Friendship and other organizations.

Shows Improvement

YORK, England (Reuters)—The Archbishop of York, Dr. Cyril Garbett, 80, was stated today to have had "a reasonable night" and to be showing "increasing strength and interest" after a serious intestinal operation last weekend.

Community TV Aerials Are Being Considered

OTTAWA (CP)—Another type of consumer service is knocking at the door.

This one—community television aerials—is being considered by the government. It would require federal licensing before operators could go into business.

G. W. Browne, controller of the transport department's telecommunications division, told the Commons committee on broadcasting Tuesday that the new service would be for protection of television viewers in fringe areas. These are at the farthest reaches of a TV transmitter's beam, and where its reception is weakest.

MANY PARTS

He said there are many parts of Canada included in fringe areas, getting reception from one or more TV stations but good transmission from none.

H. A. Bryson (CCF—Rumboldt-Melfort) had asked whether the department is considering proposals to build community antennae in such regions. Privately-operated, they would be designed to receive and amplify a signal and then would pipe the program directly to receivers in their areas.

Mr. Browne confirmed the proposals are under study. "They would be licensed as 'commercial stations,'" he said, adding that the basis still has to be established. The idea had definite possibilities.

New Trading Differences Rise Between U.S.-Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—Despite the appearance of new trading differences between Canada and the United States no effort has been made to call together the joint committee of ministers set up in 1953 to deal with such things.

In fact officials here seem to have lost some of their faith that the trading problems can be resolved through the eight-member committee which includes the policy and trading heads of each nation.

One diplomatic observer went so far as to say Tuesday: "The committee is as dead as a doornail."

The joint committee on trade and economic affairs was set up late in 1953 following a meeting between Prime Minister St. Laurent and President Eisenhower. Its job was to tackle trade problems between the countries and to help solve them before they broke out in embarrassing headlines and threats of trade retaliation.

The committee held its first meeting in Washington early last year with apparent success. The way agreed at that time to make certain that any American give or plan on surplus farm products would not encroach on Canada's normal trade outlets.

But Monday Trade Minister Howe virtually accused the U.S. of breaking its promise. He told the Commons that the U.S. wheat disposal program is being pressed to the point where it is having a "disturbing effect" on commercial markets, curtailing Canadian sales in some of the smaller ones, such as Norway and Israel.

The joint committee includes External Affairs Minister Pearson, Trade Minister Howe, Agriculture Minister Gardiner and Finance Minister Harris of Canada and State Secretary Dulles, Agriculture Secretary Benson, Treasury Secretary Humphrey and Commerce Secretary Weeks of the U.S.

Brandon Families Urged to Speed Evacuation

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — Rising waters of the Assiniboine river continued to batter the two-mile long dike system here today and city officials urged close to 100 families to speed up evacuation of a low-lying area behind the wall.

Brandon civil defence director G. R. Rowe said Tuesday night six families were moved out by volunteers during the day and he believed about 15 other families abandoned their homes themselves. More than 85 families have been forced to move from the threatened north-end area in the last month.

The river, now at its highest level in more than 20 years, caused a few minor cave-ins in the dikes overnight but weary work crews quickly filled them with clay and sandbags. Every available man from the city engineering department was ordered to help with dike repairing.

Water branch officials have advised mayor James Creighton that the level, now at 1,179.15 feet above sea level, will rise by more than another foot when a flood crest, spawned in the Saskatchewan rivers by April storms, reaches the city. The present level is already a foot higher than the devastating flood peaks of 1948 and 1954.

Mayor Creighton appealed Tuesday to residents in about 100 homes to leave the danger zone alongside a weakened section of the dike wall. Most, however, did not heed the warning.

Man Is Killed, Woman Injured, Struck by Car

SUDBURY (CP) — A Waters township man was killed and a Sudbury woman was severely injured Tuesday night when they were struck by a car as they crossed the Sudbury - Copperclift road at the city limits.

Dead is Lauri Hill, 43. In hospital with a fractured right leg is Mrs. Willa Schmitt, 36. Her condition was described as "good."

Driver of the car was identified by provincial police as Rudolph Richard, 23, of suburban McKim township.

Police said Hill and Mrs. Schmitt were driving toward Sudbury in Hill's pickup truck. They parked off the highway, got out and started across the highway.

Police said Richard told them he suddenly saw the couple on the traveled portion of the highway but was unable to swerve around them.

8-Bed Hospital To Be Opened At Minden

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario division of the Canadian Red Cross Society will open a new, eight-bed hospital at Minden next month, R. E. Gray, chairman of the outpost hospital committee, announced today at the division's quarterly meeting.

The hospital will cost approximately $60,000, Mr. Gray said. It will be used for medical and obstetrical patients and emergencies.

Another new unit being constructed is a public health centre in Tinsagami, 40 miles north of North Bay. This centre should be completed by the end of the year, Mr. Gray said.

A new feature of the summer program of the Ontario Red Cross will be water safety week June 19 to 25. Five badges, backed by the provincial government aims to spread the idea of safe vacationing on the lakes and rivers.

PROTECT YEKF, TOO

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, completed action Tuesday on a bill making it a federal offense to harm, kidnap or assault the life of the vice-president or a president-elect. Existing law covers only threats against the president. Maximum punishment for v m a k i n g such threats is five years imprisonment and a fine of $1,000.

Obedient Pupil Tosses Teeth Into Basket

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Mrs. Loretto Jones, 3rd grade teacher at Taft junior high school, noticed one of her students struggling with a piece of candy he was chewing.

"Either swallow the candy or toss it in the wastepaper basket," she advised the youth.

"Can't," said the lad, "The candy is stuck between my teeth."

Jokingly, Mrs. Bonner told the youngster: "Well, toss your teeth in the basket with the candy."

The boy threw his teeth into the basket. He had a complete upper plate.

Self-Confessed Agent Begins 12-Year Term

BERLIN (Reuters) — A self-confessed agent of the East German security service today began a 12-year hard labor term for trying to kidnap two West Berliners and poison one of them.

The agent, Gerhard Beck, 29, had at one time given information on East German conditions to German employees of the United States high commission radio (RIAS).

When the East German state security service learned this they ordered Beck last March to deliver information concerning RIAS to them and instructed him to kidnap one employee, Mrs. Elisabeth Stein, by poisoning her with a cake.

The attempt failed although Mrs. Stein was unconscious for 48 hours after taking the poison.

Beck was arrested in West Berlin when he returned last month to kidnap another RIAS employee.

Two Bush Fires Under Control

SUDBURY (CP)—Two bush fires in Northern Ontario are today under control, the Sudbury office of the Ontario lands and forests department said.

The largest covers 400 acres in the Montreal river area north of Sault Ste. Marie. There are 137 men and 12 pumps fighting this blaze.

The other burned across 40 acres in the Pesshie lake area north of Blind River. There are 70 men and six pumps on this fire.

Fire Damages Stores

SUDBURY (CP) — A stubborn fire in two store basements on downtown Elm street threatened to destroy an entire business block early Sunday.

The blaze originated in the Mydlan Hat Shoppe and caused considerable damage there and spread to the adjoining Sally shop. Two other stores in the same block were damaged.

Charge Michigan Man Fired Shots At Canadian Ship

PORT HURON, Mich. (AP) — A Marine City boat livery operator was held at St. Clair county jail today, accused of firing rifle shots at a Canadian freighter steaming past his property on the St. Clair river.

Floyd B. Warwick, 45, was seized by state police Tuesday. He was one of a number of prominent residents who had complained that waves from fast-moving vessels had damaged their property.

Warwick denied he was the sniper who fired shots at the freighter John E. F. Misner last Thursday.

Bullets struck the ship but none of the crew was wounded.

Warwick was charged with unlawfully discharging a firearm. This is a misdemeanor that carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $500 fine.

Conservatives Put 5 Ministers Before Cameras

By ALAN HARVEY

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—The Conservative party, in an electioneering innovation, Tuesday night placed five leading ministers under public cross-examination before the television cameras.

With some 12,000,000 Britons looking on, Prime Minister Eden and four colleagues submitted to unrehearsed questions from editors of 10 newspapers representing London the Provinces, Scotland and Wales.

Eden was flanked by R. A. Butler, chancellor of the exchequer; Foreign Secretary Harold Macmillan, Health Minister Ian McLeod and Lober Minister Sir Walter Monckton.

BARBED QUESTIONS

The only barbed questions came from Randolph Collign, editor of the pro-Labor Daily Mirror, and Michael Foot, editor of The News Chronicle, a Liberal paper. Cutlipp asked whether the Conservatives, if re-elected May 26, would be Tories of a small majority, following a humanitarian policy, or Tories of a large majority, returning to pre-war policies which Cudlipp claimed would be more regressive.

In reply, Eden said Conservatives would practise an "intelligent, progressive Toryism."

Foot's voice pressed Butler hard on the subject of monopolies and price rings. He asked also whether the chancellor would lower tariffs to allow foreign goods freer entry, flatly replied the Conservatives have already moved towards freer trade—some people thought too far and would continue to do so as far as possible.

Think Postcards Mailed by Killer

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP)—Police held a strong hunch today that two postcards received by friends of Norman G. Yeasy were sent by Yeasy's murderer.

Detective Lieut. George M. Cruickshank said Tuesday night the cards were postmarked May 14 and Yeasy died May 7.

Cruickshank said each postcard bore the crudely lettered message: "Still going strong. Norman."

He said the murderer, possibly unaware that Yeasy's body had been found, was using the postcards to delay inquiry by friends and relatives as to Yeasy's whereabouts.

Cruickshank said the murderer quite likely obtained the names of the friends from Yeasy's personal effects.

Yeasy, 23-year-old army veteran, was driving to Alaska when he was robbed and slain, apparently by a hitchhiker, police said.

SCHINE NOW CORPORAL

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)—It's Cpl. G. David Schine now. The former aide to Senator Joseph McCarthy and heir to a hotel chain has been promoted, from private first class Monday along with 24 other members of the 71st Military Police Co. The extra stripe increases his base pay from $99.77 a month to $122.55. Schine is scheduled to be discharged in November.

Presbyterian Says Revival Not Genuine

LOS ANGELES (AP)—"The so-called revival now sweeping America isn't genuine or permanent," Presbyterians were told Tuesday night.

"Most people want God as you want a hot water bottle in the night—to keep you over a temporary discomfort."

Dr. Charles B. Templeton of New York, secretary of the division of evangelism of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, said at a rally preceding the church's 167th general assembly:

"Membership in the churches is increasing more rapidly than the nation's population and is at an all-time high. However, there is also an increase in the national debt, national taxes and national crime.

"Though there is a statistical increase in religious interest, there is also an increase in the number of criminals and the seriousness of their offences.

"Any genuine revival of religion will have to go beyond a mere concern to have God as a convenience and come to the point of dedication to Him and to His world."

Dr. Templeton said "There are approximately 35,000,000 people in church on Sunday. This means that on any given Sunday 125,000,000 Americans do not trouble themselves corporately to worship God."

U.S. Withdrawal From UN Would Destroy World

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Harry S. Truman says withdrawal of the U. S. from the United Nations would mean preparation for a third world war and "the destruction of the world."

The former president told a joint session of the Missouri state legislature Tuesday that world peace or world destruction are the only two alternatives we have.

Britain's Election Will Cost About Eight Shillings a Vote

By RON. EVANS

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Britain's general election this year will cost about £11,000,000—roughly eight shillings a vote.

That's the total amount likely to be spent by candidates, by returning officers and on the latter's share of the 34,500,000-strong electoral record. These are direct costs; nobody knows how much is laid out on indirect expenses, such as the cost of nursing party prestige between elections.

The smallest amount is spent by the aspiring candidates, chiefly because their campaign expenses are strictly limited by law.

Under the 1949 Representation of the People Act, a candidate must make a full return of expenses within 35 days of the election. No candidate may spend more than £450 plus a small allowance for each entry in his constituency register—2d for a county seat and 1½d for an urban seat, in all but 15 of the 630 constituencies, the maximum amounts to less than £1,000.

LOWEST LIMITS

The lowest legal limits are set in Northern Ireland, where candidates are allowed £100 and for voters. Belfast East must be fought on a thrifty £312.

Candidates' expenses usually run to between £700 and £1,000. In the 1951 campaign, 1,376 candidates spent £46,000 and 1,868 shelle dout £1,170,124 in 1950.

The biggest part of this—£389,- 687 altogether in 1951—goes for printing, stationery, posters, addresses and manifestos. Printing costs have climbed about 30 per cent since the 1939 election and party workers now are trying to economize on paper. Election addresses, for instance, regarded by most agents as a must, are being sent out in whole house bobs instead of one to a voter.

The treasury manages to defray a bit of this expense with forfeited deposits. In the post-war elections these have cost the Conservatives £27,350 and the Communists £17,850.

LESS ON CAMPAIGNS

All parties spend less on their campaigns these days. Between 1950 and 1951, the Socialists pared £34 a candidate off their expenses and the Conservatives cut £4.

Labor gets the best dividends on its investment, on one vote for every 8½d laid out. The Tories spend 10d a vote, the Liberals is 9½d and the Communists as much as six shillings.

Strangely enough, the cheapest campaigns in 1951 were waged by the most frivolous candidates. Bill Brownrigg, a 54-year-old farmer, spent just £1 running unsuccessfully in Penrith, Cumberland, on a platform a "legalized cock-fighting, sweepstakes, hardlyning and gambling." Albert Pickard, 77, who described himself as an "independent millionaire candidate," contested the Glasgow Maryhill seat with success on a total outlay of £11.

British Merchant Navy Still Holds Top Place in World

By TREVOR BLORE

LONDON (Reuters)—The Royal Navy may have first place in size to the mammoth United States Navy and the fast-growing Russian fleet, but the British merchant navy still holds top place in the world, particularly in the field of passenger liners.

The post - war reconstruction phase now nearing its end, with most major shipping lines reporting that their main rebuilding programs are complete or nearing completion.

The Shaw Savill Line, serving Australia and New Zealand with both passenger and cargo ships, lost 13 vessels during the war. To replace these losses and other obsolescent ships, new vessels have been built since 1946.

PRIDE OF FLEET

The pride of the Shaw Savill fleet is the 20,000-ton liner Southern Cross, launched last August by Queen Elizabeth who made most of her Commonwealth tour in Shaw Savill's Gothic, fitted out specially as a royal yacht.

The Port Line, also serving Australia, is another which has been given a new look. Four of the eight ships it has put into service lost during the war. These have been replaced by three new ships totalling 85,000 tons at a cost of more than £13,500,000. The latest of these, which is now on her maiden voyage a few months ago.

FOUR NEW LINERS

Similarly, the Peninsula and Oriental Line has made its big contribution to Commonwealth sea communications with four new liners since the war. Of these, three were for the Australian run, the latest being the Iberia which made her maiden voyage this year. Two more are on the stocks in the company's Far Eastern service.

JOHNSTOWN

Church, S.S. Hold 'Family Week' Service

JOHNSTOWN. — The Johnstown church and Sunday school met together on Sunday afternoon as it was family week. The service opened with a call to worship followed by a prayer. The hymn "For the Beauty of the Earth" was sung in unison and a Psalm was read ending with a prayer. A hymn was sung by the little children, the choir for the service. A story was read "The Boy Isaac", by Bob Ferguson. Darlene Harder gave "Prayers in the Moonlight".

BAPTISMAL RITES

Three babies were christened and the Rev. G. A. Puttenham asked the parents to bring them up to love the Lord.

The offering gifts will be given to the work of Christian Education in Ontario. This will make possible the training of leaders for the youth work of the churches, camp for boys and girls, church vacation schools, and all the other activities of the Ontario Council of Christian Education.

The Scripture reading was given by Teddy Clapp, Wayne Moore and Vera Krawchek. Miss Marian Bush, Miss Gail Lohnes, favored with a fine duet "The Lord Is My Shepherd," accompanied by Miss Thelma Stickle at the piano.

The lesson period was taken by Mr. Puttenham from Deut 6, saying "that parents are the first teachers of religion for what a child is taught until he is three years old molds his life for later years; the family that prays together stays together, and if one has to choose between bringing children to church with you and sending them to Sunday school alone, choose bringing them to church.

The Mission Band will have charge of the service next Sunday in the afternoon. A good crowd is requested as the children have gone to some trouble to put this on.

BANCROFT

300 Attend N. Hastings H.S. Concert

BANCROFT.—Thursday night's concert program by the North Hastings high school band, held in the school auditorium, was enthusiastically received by an audience of 300.

The band, under the direction of music master, C. Montreuil, is becoming one of the best entertainment draws in the district.

Solo items were rendered by Gordon Ray (trumpet) playing Schubert's "Serenade", and Jim Murphy (trumpet) playing Handel's "Angels Ever Bright and Fair." A vocal solo "Vaya Con Dios" by Heather Gunter, was one of the most popular items on the program.

Five numbers were rendered by the Grade IX-X and Junior girls' club, both conducted by A. Zetter.

Junior band numbers included "Woodnymphs" (Holmes), "Pacific Grandeur Overture", (Olivelli) and "Airmail March."

The senior band, competitors in next month's Waterloo contests, presented "Maple City March" (Chamberlain); "Cast Thy Burden," (Mendelsshn); "Blue Danube," (Strauss); "The Champion, (Southwell); "March Militaire" (Bennett); "Evangeline" (Buchtel); "Old Time Waltz Medley," (arr. Herfurth), and "Our Director March" by Bigelow.

Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN.—Mr. Bob Bush and Mr. Winfield Harder spent the week-end fishing around Lake St. Peter.

Mrs. W. Vandervoort is home from Hamilton, where she has been staying for some time with her daughter, Mrs. Long, who has a baby girl (Janet).

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Donald had supper on Sunday evening with their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Sticks.

Miss Geraldine Harry and her two brothers, Messrs. Gerald and Frank Harry spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Harry.

Miss Bernice St. Hilaire called on Mrs. W. Hart on Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Harder of Frankford, were supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lohnes on Sunday evening.

The Sidney Junior Farmers entertained Hungerford Junior Farmers on Friday evening at the Fourth Line Hall.

The fruit trees seem to be literally covered with blossoms this spring, around here. Some of the farmers are through seeding.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Clarke and daughter, Karen of Consecon, called on Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ferguson on Sunday.

The country has changed so much of late years. The cheese factory and the blind are past. The older folk are dying off and not many of the boys care about the work on the farm and they get for the long hours on the farm, so when the farmers get old they have to simply sell out because they can't stand the work anymore. Strangers then take over and of different religions and the little churches that these people have been going to for years find it pretty tough going to pay a minister. Some of the people get discouraged and go to a town church, but it doesn't help those country people who still go to that church which seems so like home to them.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Buckles and family spent Sunday supper hour and evening with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ferguson.

There will be quite a community north of the air port if houses keep going up at the rate they have been this last year.

Mr. and Mrs. Alva Meyers attended the funeral of the late Mrs. Allan Bailey of Trenton, on Friday.

Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD.— Mrs. Fred Rabathaw is visiting with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fell of Jondale Heights, Toronto.

Mr. A. Matches and Mr. Bob Barnum of Ottawa, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Roy Barnum.

Mrs. W. C. Wallace of Seymour East, and Mrs. Gordon McCulloch, of Seymour West branch of the Women's Institute, are attending the Officers' conference at Macdonald College in Guelph, this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Kelly and family of Ottawa, Mrs. F. Fitzpatrick of Belleville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Kelly, Doxsee Avenue.

Mrs. Florence Stephens spent the week-end with her son, Cecil W. Stephens and his wife, and family at Roslyn.

Mr. Ted Smith has successfully completed his second year in Electrical Engineering at Queen's University.

Mrs. A. D. Bennett of the "Happy Day Nursery School" spent the week-end in Toronto attending a conference of the Nursery Education of Ontario held in the King Edward Hotel.

Sunday dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hall were the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell MacFarlane of Melrose, and Mrs. A. Maclean, Karen and Donald and Mr. Jack Garvin of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. McLean Ingram and boys, of Manilla, spent Tuesday evening with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ingram, of Seymour East.

Mrs. R. J. McClennan and Dr. and Mrs. Stuart Holmes of Toronto were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Cairns, Queen St.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Tefft of Chicago, Illinois, spent a few days this week visiting at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Reid, of River Road.

Births at Campbellford Memorial Hospital this past week included: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kelly, R.R. 3, Campbellford, a son: Mr. and Mrs. G. Slater of R.R. 3, Harold, a son; Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Dunlop of Hastings, a son; Mr. and Mrs. Donald Woods of Warkworth, a daughter; Mr. and Mrs. Alan Devine of Castleton, a daughter.

6th Sidney

6TH SIDNEY— Mr. William Flindall, Belleville, called on Mr. and Mrs. Howard Dafoe, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wright and Mary, spent the supper hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Morley Sine.

Callers at home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Dafoe, Sunday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Dafoe, Front Road, and Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Badgley and Ronda, Thurlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Robb, of Belleville, called on Mr. and Mrs. Morley Sine, Sunday evening.

A good crowd attended the morning church service. The Rev. W. E. G. Dovey spoke on the text "Thou shall call His name Jesus for He shall save His people from their sins." "The power of Jesus Christ which caused Peter and John to cure the lame man at the door of the temple is still in the world today. Jesus Christ is the same yesterday, today and forever. The modern world is so obsessed with material things—money, worldly power, armaments and atom bombs, that the spiritual life has to take second place. The challenge is for Christians to awake to what is going on, and again grasp the power which is available by a renewed dedication to the Christ life."

Supper guests on Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Dafoe were Mr. and Mrs. W. Flindall, Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Gray of Toronto, were Sunday evening callers of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Dudley spent the Sunday supper hour with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dafoe.

Mr. Jack Consaul, Niagara, spent the week-end with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George Pollard.

Miss Dorothy Mae Carr spent the week-end with her aunt, Mrs. Dorothy Wannamaker, Wallbridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Dafoe, Front Road, were Sunday supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Dafoe.

Mrs. Loucks has returned home after spending three days last week with her brother, Mr. Harry Tweedy and Mrs. Tweedy, Carrollton.

Mr.-and Mrs. Edison Sine and girls, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. McInroy, Marmora.

Mrs. Merrin Carr spent the week-end with her daughters Mrs. Dorothy Wannamaker, Wallbridge.

Here's news for people who suffer needlessly from constipation
You've probably tried lots of laxatives. But do you know about Kellogg's All-Bran? It's the original natural laxative cereal pioneered by W. K. Kellogg nearly 40 years ago. All-Bran is a delicious dish that promotes comfortable elimination.
Relief from Constipation
The greatest advantage of All-Bran is that it corrects the cause of irregularity due to insufficient bulk. Chemical or drug-type laxatives, on the other hand, are intended only for overnight relief of a temporary stoppage. All-Bran, is made from the outer layers of the whole wheat kernel and supplies natural food bulk. Just eat daily a 100 ounce serving for breakfast and drink plenty of water. It will improve your "Intestinal Tone", so necessary to comfortable regularity.
Satisfaction Guaranteed or Double Your Money Back
All-Bran is a wholesome, good tasting cereal that has helped millions. We'll prove to you that Kellogg's All-Bran will give you gentle, effective relief from constipation within 10 days or give you double your money back. But be sure you get Kellogg's, the one and only All-Bran. Kellogg's, London, Ontario.

STIRLING

Two-Night Show Sponsored By Legion

STIRLING — Stirling Branch 220, of the Canadian Legion, sponsored a two-night show in Stirling Theatre and will clear approximately $300 for their building fund.

The show was directed by Miss Roberta J. Noel, and the performance was all local talent. It was centred around a musical minstrel show with K. F. Mayhew, as the interlocutor, who introduced the numbers, and Bill Moynes, as accompanist.

CAST — OF SHOW

The cast all in special costumes were:—

Amos, Elwin Carr; Andy, Geo. Noble; Miz Blue, Jake Parker; Madame Queen, Blake Faulkner; Kingfish, Jack Bice; Brother Crawford, Sherwood Reid; Ball and chain, Sid Demorest; Aunt Jemima, Ted Reynolds; Rochester, Lorne Faulkner; Sapphire, Ray Tanner.

The chorus girls were: Helen Acker, Grace Clarke, Marilyn Reid, Mary Ellen Long, Shirley Farrell, Joanne Heasman, Barbara Woodbeck, Patsy Donohoe, Evelyn Cooke, Pat Fraser, Grace Heasman, Rose Ann Vandervoort Mary Reid and Donna Carlisle (These were in costume and they sang old time melodies of the sunny south.

The contestants were The Aire's Trio — Charles Reynolds, Carl Pitman, and Doug. Brenton.

Tap dancing by Robert Leury, Wayne Campbell, Joan and Betty Fraser; vocal solo, Heather Rodgers; impersonating, Charles Reynolds; vocal duet, Shirley and Marion Broadworth; Dutch duet, Rika Broekema and Ann Zuidema; step dance, Jim Campbell.

The audience both evenings voted for their favourite contestants and the result was: Shirley and Marion Broadworth, 1st; Jim Campbell, 2nd, Charles Reynolds, 3rd.

SELLS MOST TICKETS

Miss Mary Reid sold the most tickets for the two shows and received a gift for her efforts.

K. F. Mayhew donated loving cups to the winners of the "Hay Toi" contest and the Queen of Toyland was Connie Donohoe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Donohoe, and King of Toyland, Richie Farrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barrard Farrell, local barber.

On Wednesday evening, George Heasman, Ernest Grills and Vincent Farrell, each won a $2. prize for having a large family in attendance at the show.

While the contestants' votes were being counted, there were some special features on the program. Among these were accordion solos by Gerald Taylor, and Rika Broekema and vocal selections by Ted Reynolds.

Miss Noel thanked Mrs. B. Long and Mrs. J. Parker for their assistance at rehearsals.

Mrs. Arthur Pyear was piano accompanist for the Fraser girls tap dance number.

IMPOSSIBLE SITUATION

TOKYO (AP)—The usual summer water shortage is on and "opening a water faucet now brings only a gurgle—sound" in 4,600 Tokyo homes. And evening News said. It said city officials describe the shortage as "hopeless."

FISHERMEN'S GROUP

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — The Newfoundland federation of fishermen, organized four years ago, now has a total membership of nearly 7,000, C. M. Lann, general secretary, says the federation, with 252 locals, has grown far beyond early expectations.

Carving Canadian History In Stone for House Centre Block

OTTAWA (CP)—At 11 p.m., after the Commons has completed its day's work, the night-long chatter of air hammers begins in the House rotunda.

Until 4 a.m. workers chip away at blocks of stone, tediously shaping the figure of an oldskin-clad fisherman from the Maritimes, an Alberta cowboy, a northern Ontario hard-rock miner. The men are continuing a job that began 35 years ago and may go on for 20 or 30 more.

In 1919, the Duke of Windsor, then the Prince of Wales, laid the cornerstone of the centre block, in which the Commons chamber is located. Almost as soon as the stone walls of the huge building began to grow, the job of carving them started too.

WAS DUTCH IMMIGRANT

The man in charge of the work of carving Canadian history in stone is genial 60-year-old William Oosterhoff who came to Canada as a Dutch immigrant in 1925. Succeeding Cleophas Soucy who died in 1950, Oosterhoff became the sixth sculptor-carver to supervise the job and he figures there'll still be plenty of stonecutting and shaping to do after he's gone.

He has created such works as the Memorial Arch at Niagara Falls, the big coat-of-arms over Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto and the crest for the Ontario Hydro Commission there.

Working 60 feet above the floor of the rotunda, the men with the hammers are carving Mr. Oosterhoff's designs. Chip by chip they are shaping a veritable hall of the provinces.

They work at night so that neither commoners nor senators, tourists or civil servants will be disturbed. When Parliament is in recess, they work from 5 p.m. until midnight.

There are 10 sections in the four walls of the rotunda on which to carry out the designs, a symbol—the official flower, the leading agricultural product, the largest industry—of each of the provinces.

In the white stone of the west wall is a carving of a hydro-electric generator of the type found in the larger power stations. Soaring above this generator are two steel Hydro line towers and strung between them are transmission cables. All of this symbolizes Quebec and Ontario.

But the west wall, for the two largest provinces, also bears the stone likeness of a hard-rock miner with steel helmet and diamond drill, as you see them in northern Ontario.

For Quebec the face of a lumberjack, a double-bladed axe and peavy crossed over his head, stares stonily out from another block.

In the spandrels below this frieze which runs deep below the stained-glass skylight, four-bells for Quebec and trillium for Ontario have been set.

The life and times of the prairie provinces are cut into the south wall. A tractor drags a disc for wheat-farming Saskatchewan; a cowboy tames a bronc for Alberta, which still is noted for cattle as well as oil; and a farmer with big-brimmed straw hat, a spade and a fork for mixed-farming Manitoba.

Into the prairie spandrels have been carved sheaves of wheat, the heads of cattle and the provincial flowers.

SYMBOL OF MARITIMES

On the north wall, for the Maritimes, is a fisherman in his boat with a net on one panel and a three-masted schooner in full sail on another.

A DC-3 airliner on the east wall, explained Mr. Oosterhoff, represents the distance "between British Columbia and Newfoundland."

The frieze and spandrels are lighted by stained-glass panels in the ceiling, 17 of these colored windows representing government departments.

This hall of the provinces has been two years in the carving. Another nine or 10 months will finish the job. But once the rotunda is down, there will be other stones to cut.

Mr. Oosterhoff initiates the ideas, subject to the approval of Commons Speaker Rene Beaudoin and Works Minister Winters and his deputies. He moulds them in clay, then casts them in plaster of paris. These plaster casts then are used as patterns by the hammer operators.

Mr. Oosterhoff works in a subbasement of the centre block, among relics of past carvings that include an 11-foot scale model of the peace tower.

TRY TO STOP U.S TANK PRACTICE

Practice by American artillery units on the slopes of Mt. Fuji threatened to flare into a hot issue. Some 80 demonstrators waving red flags and wearing white headbands tried to break into the restricted area, but were halted by 300 Japanese policemen. Residents of the area protested that the artillery firing would mar the beauty of Japan's loftiest peak, which is a source of income for the nearby villagers as a tourist mecca. The demonstrators (above) crowd around the tanks as the drill continues. (Central Press Canadian).

VISITS EAST COAST

The cruiser Ontario moves slowly through Halifax harbor with the newly-completed Angus L. MacDonald bridge forming a backdrop against leaden skies. The 9,000-ton warship, usually based in West Coast waters, leaves May 20 for a training cruise to Britain. She also will call at several European ports. (CP from National Defence).

MEMORIAL T O AIRMAN

Two RAF chaplains conduct memorial services as Canadian airmen line the courtyards of the Runnymede Memorial near London. The services were in honor of Commonwealth airmen killed in the Second World War. The RCAF was chosen this year to place a wreath at the memorial. (CP from National Defence.)

Ducharme Often With Klapouschak Says Witness

SUDBURY (CP) — John Manton of Dalton Mills testified in Ontario Supreme Court Tuesday that Robert Bruce Ducharme, 22, of Hanton, and Steve Klapouschak appeared to be good friends and often were seen together.

Ducharme is charged with murder in the shooting of the 21-year-old school teacher last December. Klapouschak's body was found under a woodpile in Dalton Mills, 225 miles northwest of here.

Witnesses from Dalton Mills said Ducharme, a railway section gang employee, frequently stayed weekends at Klapouschak's quarters. Manton, secretary of the village's school board, said the two also had been seen with John Naegel, a Renable miner killed in a mine accident two weeks before the preliminary hearing.

Section foreman Joseph Martel told the court he met Ducharme at Bolkow Dec. 4, the day after Klapouschak was last seen in Dalton Mills.

SAW ACCUSED

Two other railway employees testified that they had seen the accused Dec. 4 at Bolkow, eight miles from where the body was found.

Stolen articles from a Dalton home, 225 miles northwest of here, and also from a Dalton Mills home were exhibited at the trial.

Roger Doyon of Dalton said he saw Ducharme enter the eastbound train at Bolkow and leave it again at Chapleau. He did not speak to him.

After a short conversation with CPR worker Ronald Huard of Dalton, Ducharme had taken the train to Chapleau. He was carrying a paper shopping bag, Huard said.

All three witnesses agreed to this. Huard said he saw Ducharme pack the bag at the Dalton school house the previous Wednesday. Klapouschak was present at the time.

Evidence from Mr. Manton and E. C. Macmillan of Columbus, Ohio was that the latter's packsack and haversack had been stolen from the Manton cottage at Dalton Mills.

Both were found in the area between Dalton and Bolkow before the teacher's body had been found.

A pair of shoes was found in the packsack. These were identified Tuesday as the property of the accused by Mr. Martel. He had seen them sometime last September. Ducharme had shown his fellow workers how he had furnished the shoes with new soles cut out of a rubber tire, Martel said.

TRAGIC GREETING

COOK, Minn. (AP)—His eight children watched in terror Sunday as farmer Harold Thornberg, 40, crashed on the family farm after he put a small airplane into a shallow dive so he could wave to the youngsters. The children, 4 to 14, ran to the trees back of the farm house and found the crashed ship. The body of their father was

POLICE SAID BLAMELESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States consul Lampton Berry reported to the state department Sunday that available information indicted "no dereliction in duty" by the Singapore police in the fatal beating of Gene Symonds, United Press reporter. Symonds was attacked by a mob of strikers while covering a violent demonstration in Singapore May 1..

Need Scholars, Not Organizers, As Teachers

KINGSTON (CP)—There is a growing danger that school boards will seek organizers and improvisers for teachers rather than scholars, Dr. W. W. Mackintosh, principal of Queen's University, said Tuesday night.

Speaking to a dinner of the Associated High School Boards of Ontario, Dr. Mackintosh said:

"There is a particular need for a renewed emphasis on the teacher who is master of his subject and can rnix with those competent in the subject."

Dr. Mackintosh deplored what he called the emphasis on facile talking. "Youngsters are able to talk about a subject, but they do not come out of school with an understanding of it."

M. J. Kinzie, president of the organization, said that money is not the complete answer to the teacher shortage.

CHALLENGE IN TEACHING

More emphasis should be placed on the challenge to be found in teaching and the sense of contribution to one's country that it brings.

S. G. Robinson, secretary of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation, said his organization is prepared to accept Education Minister Dunlop's emergency measures for teacher-training but objected strongly to having persons so trained classified with those who had completed more difficult courses.

Grouping these teachers in a new "type C" category and provision for supervision of their work in their first years of teaching were recommended by the federation, he said. He also suggested that pupils unable to profit from secondary education should be removed from the high school.

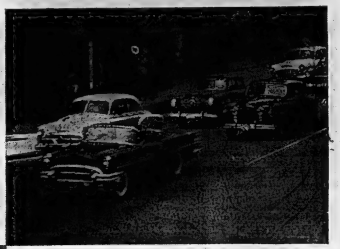
Rising school enrolments and the growing shortage of teachers made it impossible to teach everyone, he said.

BUSY CAMP

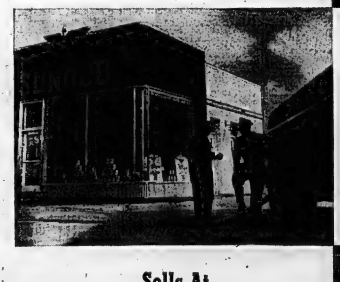
SAINT JOHN, N. B. (CP)—The Church of England's Camp Medley on the St. John river has been booked for boys' groups, girls' groups, Girl Guides, the Girls' Auxiliary and a men's weekend this summer but one weekend was left open. So a married couples' weekend will be held Aug. 20-21.

JAPS FLY U.S. JETS

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's rebuilt air force made its first public appearance in jets Sunday at an air show seen by more than 70,000 Japanese. Five jet trainers turned over by the United States flashed over Tokyo's International airport. They were freshly painted with rising sun emblems.



BLAME FIRECRACKERS



LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Firemen blamed children playing with firecrackers for a $20,000 warehouse blaze Saturday night in downtown London. Firefighters fought for three hours to control the outbreak in the two-storey corrugated steel structure owned by Wallace Weinstein.

FIREWORKS BURN

COOKSVILLE (CP)—Fire broke out Monday in a small manufacturing shed of a fireworks company here. Company firemen waited for the firecrackers to burn out before entering to fight the blaze. Damage was estimated at less than $1,000.

STIRLING

Residents' Birthdays Marked By Friends

STIRLING. — On Wednesday Mrs. Lloyd Dafoe was hostess to 14 ladies when friends and neighbors tendered Mrs. Lorne Wilson and Mrs. Harvey Pitcher, surprise birthday parties.

The afternoon was spent playing bingo with favors to the winners.

Mrs. Frank Harding and Mrs. Charles Devolin spoke briefly and presented each of the honored guests with a pair of vases in cornflower pattern with matching candy dish.

Two lovely decorated birthday cakes were cut in a special cake ceremony and dainty refreshments were served. Mildred and Mary each voiced thanks for the lovely gifts.

On Saturday evening, Mrs. Frank Harding and Mrs. Harvey Pitcher paid a surprise visit to Mrs. Clarke Rodgers. They presented her with a half-dozen fruit sherbets in cornflower pattern as a birthday gift, on behalf of her neighbors and friends and the ladies also took along a nicely decorated birthday cake which all shared.

Mae expressed gracious thanks.

All three ladies had a birthday anniversary last week.

Rylstone

RYLSTONE — The May meeting of the Women's Association of Rylstone Church was held at the home of Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn. The president, Mrs. Ray Stewart, opened the meeting in the usual way.

The Scripture reading was given by Mrs. Harry Mumby, followed by a reading, "Our Victory Through Christ", by Mrs. Ray Stewart. Psalm 736 was read responsively.

Mrs. Lily Anderson was convener for the following program: a talk on "Missions", by Mrs. (Rev.) N. E. Beare, reading on God's Word, by Mrs. Will Bullock-ford; reading "Prayers in the Moonlight", by Mrs. Thos. H. McKeown; sacred music on the piano by Mrs. Ella Jones; reading "Talents", by Ray Stewart; a hymn, "He Leadeth Me"; Jumbled flower contest.

After the meeting closed with Mispah Benediction, refreshments were served by the hostess.

There were 12 ladies present. Arrangements were made for catering to the community sale at Hoard's in the near future.

The June meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Ella Jones, June 15. Key word for roll call is "Altar".

HEADS OPTOMETRISTS

SASKATOON (CP)—W. M. Lyle of Winnipeg was elected president of the Canadian Association of Optometrists, national governing body of optometry in Canada, at its biennial meeting here Sunday. A native of Prince Edward Island, Mr. Lyle was educated in Port Perry, Ont.

Entertainment Bill of $26,352 CBC Questioned

OTTAWA (CP) — A parliamentary committee took a look today at the CBC's $26,352 duty entertainment bill for the year ending March 31, 1954.

"That seems like an awful lot of lunches to me," said Tom Goode (L—Burnaby Richmond), one of the Commons broadcasting committee members.

A. D. Dunton, chairman of the CBC board of governors, replied: "Related to the size of the corporation this is extremely small. A great deal of useful business is done over the lunch table. Our friends in other companies and in other countries do much more of this than we do."

THOUGHT REASONABLE

Committee expenditures for radio and TV in the year ended March 31, 1954 were $8,768,108—radio accounting for $6,108,551 and TV $2,659,557.

Irvin Studer (L—Swift Current-Maple Creek) said "$26,500 seems reasonable enough to me for entertainment.

"I can almost top that figure as a member of Parliament and not as a corporation."

Donald Fleming (PC—Eglinton) asked how far down the scale entertaining is permitted in the CBC.

General manager J. A. Oulmet said "There is no definite rule except to have people ask permission to entertain before they commit the corporation."

Ivanhoe

W. I.

IVANHOE — The May meeting of Ivanhoe W. I. was held at the home of the president, Miss Jayne Gay, last Wednesday with a large attendance of members and visitors.

Correspondence was dealt with. Miss Jayne Gay, Mrs. C. Douglas, Miss Helen Kerby and Miss Edna Tanner were appointed delegates to District Annual at Wellman's Corners, on June 8.

Mrs. Milton Shaw gave a reading "The Picture of Mother." As May is Health Month, a reading from Federated News by Mrs. Ridley, was read by the president. A splendid paper on the motto "One Good Mother Is Worth a 100 School Masters", was given by Mrs. Chester Sills, who stressed the responsibilities mothers have in the training of their children from infancy, in obedience and honesty and what difficulties a mother has to face in the training of that child.

A reading by Mrs. Arthur Wood "The Remembrance of Mother," and a contest by Miss Edna Tanner.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her conveners and a social half hour was spent.

FISHING GOOD

NORTH BAY (CP)—Fishing was reported excellent Sunday in the Lake Nipissing area and hundreds of anglers were getting their limit of six pickerel or pike. The season opened here Saturday. The city dock here was jammed with fishermen.

Contempt of Court Citation Against Papers Refused

FREDERICTON (CP)—An application for a contempt of court citation against five newspapers and an individual Monday was dismissed without costs by Chief Justice J. E. Michaud of the Queen's Bench division of the New Brunswick Supreme Court.

The application was made by G. A. Pichette, defence counsel for Mrs. Lina Thibodeau at her murder trial in Edmundston last month. She was convicted April 23 of slaying her husband and sentenced to be hanged June 29.

Mr. Pichette claimed Mrs. Thibodeau's case was damaged by publication of reports of the inquest and preliminary hearing. He did not appear at the hearing of the application here May 9, at which time the attorney-general's department said it did not support the application. It was believed the first time in Canada that an attempt was made to obtain a contempt citation for publication of evidence taken in open court.

The application named the Saint John Telegraph-Journal, the Fredericton Gleaner, Moncton L'Evangeline, Quebec Le Soleil, Grand Falls, N.B., Cataract, and Mrs. Audrey Stevenson, Telegraph-Journal correspondent at Edmundston. The Cataract is a weekly.

In his written ruling, Chief Justice Michaud found that "the newspaper articles complained of contained nothing which was not factual and which was not the privilege of the newspapers to publish for the information of the public."

He also ruled that Mrs. Stevenson was not in contempt as she had merely reported what was said in open court.

Chief Justice Michaud expressed the opinion that the "main cause of the difficulty . . . was the part of the coroner's jury verdict charging Mrs. Thibodeau with the murder of her husband. Had the coroner and the jury been properly informed and directed, they would have refrained from including that finding in their verdict . . . .

"Another cause of the misunderstanding on the part of Mrs. Thibodeau and her counsel is the fact that the magistrate carrying on the preliminary inquiry allowed an alleged confession . . . to come out in the open and be discussed in his court."

Metro Faces Court Action After Voting for Fluoridation

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto today faced threats of court action by foes of fluoridation after voting to add fluorine to the water supply serving 1,200,000 persons.

No sooner had metropolitan council made its decision Tuesday night than representatives of five of the 13 area municipalities said an appeal may be filed with the Ontario municipal board in an attempt to block the move. Individual organizations threatened to apply for a court injunction.

The council voted 18 to 5 in favor of fluoridation, which could be introduced in about four months. If so, Toronto would become the second city in Canada to add fluorine to its water. Brantford is the other city.

HEATED DEBATE

Before the question went to a vote, there was a heated four-hour debate during which two reeves—C. O. Bick of Forest Hill and Oliver Crockford of Scarborough—charged there was no provision in the Metropolitan Toronto Act which allows Metro to carry out such a decision. They said there should be separate votes in the municipalities.

The plan aimed at cutting down tooth decay is a public health measure and is the responsibility of the local municipality, Mr. Bick said.

The council voted against motions to take an area vote or to study the application of fluorine in school water supplies. Reeve W.A. Edwards of Mimico then demanded to know if metropolitan chairman Fred Gardiner wanted to go on record as stating that Metro can dictate to the people of the metropolitan area.

Mr. Gardiner said he favored metro having the right to call for a vote in the 13 area municipalities on the issue but objected to any further delay on fluoridation.

SILENCE HECKLERS

During the debate, noisy foes of fluoridation interrupted frequently and were twice silenced by the chairman, Ald. W. R. Allen.

Two dental scientists, in the city for the conference of the Canadian Dental Association, praised the council's stand.

Dr. J. P. Volker, dean of the University of Alabama's dental school, said the United States Food and Drug Administration recently had given approval to the manufacture of fluoridated toothpaste.

"They are the toughest people in the world to satisfy," he said.

Dr. R. E. McIntyre of Calgary, president of the Canadian Dental Association, said the "Toronto metropolitan area is to be commended for its stand on this health protective measure."

Claims Veterans Being Overlooked In Civil Service

OTTAWA (CP) — The government was accused Tuesday night of tending to overlook war veterans in filling civil service jobs.

Joseph W. Noseworthy (CCF—York South) said in the Commons he has had a number of complaints that less attention is being paid to the rule giving veterans preference in government jobs.

He said there is also a growing suspicion that responsibility for employment is passing out of the hands of the civil service commission and being taken over by heads.

Mr. Noseworthy referred to a series of grievances by the Dominion Civil Service War Veterans Association.

"It seems the farther we get from war," he said, "the greater is the tendency to forget the debt we owe veterans."

FALSE ALARMS

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — Firemen received only 15 calls from the city fire alarm boxes last year and Fire Chief Cory Moore says they all turned out to be false alarms. There were fires, of course, but every fire extinguished by the brigade was reported by other means than the little red boxes.

The Kibitzer

You can choke your bridge hands by trying to swallow too many rules at once. So, I try to give you one rule at a time in a single sentence; then bunch them into an order of preference.

In response to a takeout double now this order of preference: first, an unbid major suit; second, the longest unbid minor; third, the lowest ranking unbid suit as a last response.

The unbid major or longest minor is a promise of four or more cards without any assurance of its strength. The lowest ranking unbid suit may be anything, from unto less than four cards.

In between these three it is possible to make a response in the no-trump department. But this should always be avoided without certain stoppers in the opponent's big suit, which seldom happens.

Now lookie, cookie. The combined rule you have just read here is to compute use. If it has left its mark on you, don't go changing any of it during a bridge game. Not even with this east hand:

♠Q 6 4 3

Suppose the bidding starts off like this:

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Dbl.	Pass	?

The double by your west partner is for takeout. Unless somebody checks your impulse you are already thinking of bidding the club suit that is rebiddable. Have you forgotten the rule so soon?

You have four cards in an unbid major. It is the first choice in the order of responses. Showing the minor suit is second choice. If you bid your minor you will deny four cards in the unbid major.

So, respond first with a spade and show partner you have four or more cards in that suit. In the bidding there is no time to change signals. As my partner once said to me: When you stop to think you weaken the team.

Transportation Head Has 150 Ancient Autos Under His Care

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If you think you have troubles getting your sloop started in the morning, consider Jim Ruman's chore. He has 150 ancient autos in his care, ranging back to an 1896 horseless carriage.

Jim is the transportation head of 20th Century-Fox. That means he must supply movies with cars, both antiquated and brand-new.

The new cars are a cinch. Like several other studios, 20th has a tie-up with a major auto firm, which provides new cars for virtually nothing. The car company figures having its product seen in big pictures is well worth the expense.

Old cars are easy for 20th, too, because the studio owns one of the biggest collections of antique autos in the world.

Says Jim: "It all started about 11 years ago when I took over the department. I like antiques and thought we ought to start a collection of old autos.

"It turned out to be a good idea from the start. Having a car in a horseless carriage factory during the turn of the century, the Columbus, which was built for the Columbus Buggy Co. and Harvey Firestone Sr., fit perfectly."

1896 SCHACHT OLDEST

The 20th collection now numbers 150 oldtime cars, dating back to an 1898 Schacht. Among the other oldies are a 1901 Ford, one of the first off the initial assembly line; a 1906 Sears Roebuck; a 1908 Maxwell (it isn't Jack Benny's).

The cars are listed in a file according to vintage, with a crossfile providing the picture and details. Usually the correct auto can be found in the studio's long shed that houses the oldtimers. A file is kept of nearby cars that can be rented from private owners.

"Maintenance is our principal problem," said Bob Ashcroft of the transportation department. "We used to dust the cars off once a week and fill the tires with air. But when we came to use them in a picture we had to overhaul them completely. So now we just let 'em gather dust.

"Finding old parts is impossible, so we make our own. Our greatest problem is tires. We used to get the oldstyle tires from England, but they don't make them any more. So we are forced to use modern kinds."

AT THE BELLE

Bing Crosby Gives an Unforgettable Performance in "The Country Girl."

There are two Bing Crosbys. Always were. But Hollywood and perhaps even Crosby himself, are realizing it for the first time.

It has happened before—the split personality of a performer revealing itself occasionally on movie sound stage. But not until recently was it witnessed in connection with the long familiar crooner-comedian.

"He isn't," said one observer, "like any Bing Crosby I ever knew."

What brought on this pronouncement was the spectacle of seeing Bing Crosby hard at work on the deeply serious picture, Seriberg and Seaton's "The Country Girl," which opens today at the Belle Theatre.

Had Crosby overheard the remark, he might have added, "and he isn't like any Bing Crosby I ever knew, either."

Compared to the horseplay that goes on during filming of a Hope-Crosby "Road" comedy, Bing's sets at Paramount during "The Country Girl" were well-nigh monastic. Bing worked in practically every scene of the tense, dramatic film. All of these scenes called for lots of dialogue, with many of them running four and five minutes. Retakes might be considered long for nearly any film. For a Bing Crosby picture, with Bing doing the talking, it was record-setting.

Handed a long piece of dialogue spoken by the character of Frank Elgin, portrayed by Bing in the film, Crosby studied it, wrote out the whole thing in long-hand, and then retired to dressing room for a while. When he emerged, he had the whole thing memorized letter perfect.

When he had completed the tense scene, with William Holden and Grace Kelly, Bing was seen to mop his brow and remark: "Acting can be exhausting," a realization that came to him perhaps for the first time.

Acting is never easy for Bing. Sometimes it gives him real trouble, though never the fits. There's that omnipresent cavern, grinding away incessantly. There is the need for makeup, the troublesome lines to learn, the exacting chalk marks to hit with the feet. There are the reactions of fellow actors to consider. There is the being responsible for others' mistakes, as well as one's own.

But half an hour later when the Crosby camp followers stepped on a recording stage to hear Bing trill a tune, all was evenmotion, relaxed.

On a recording stage, Bing is in the little world he knows so well. The musicians are his friends. The conductor, Victor Young, he has known for years. The song-pluggers, hangers-on and well-wishers are as comfortable and reassuring as the old shoes Bing wears on such occasions. Bing is home.

He was about to record one of the few songs he sings in "The Country Girl." The tune was "The Land Around Us." The musicians had been giving the Ira Gershwin-Harold Arlen ditty a work-over for four hours before Bing's entrance. They had it pretty well licked. Someone handed Bing a copy of the lyrics as he approached the mike. There'd be little use in handing him the music. But he had wrestled with the tune, too, and was a bit anxious, the day before, and was familiar with the way it went.

He took the sheet of paper, hummed over the tune, and before Bing was feeling his way with the words. Finally he gave Young the go-ahead for a run-through with the orchestra, and the first rehearsal was under way. All was casual. All was easy-going. No rush, no tears, no sweat.

The first take was over, and Bing was beginning to "feel" it. He gave more emphasis on this section of the tune, eased up on certain words. Between takes, Bing walked down to the cluster of crooners, seated to one side of the mike-stand.

"Ready to make one?" Young asked him?

"Play it sweet, Vic," Bing replied. And so they made their first recording of "The Land Around Us."

DIES OF INJURIES

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Manuel Ayala, a veteran of auto racing and the nation's second race car driver to be killed, died Tuesday of the injuries he suffered in a crash at the Indianapolis motor speedway.

AT THE CAPITOL — Clifton Webb and Barbara Stanwyck star in a poignant scene as an international socialite couple whose basic concept of what is worthwhile in their lives finally causes them to separate after twenty years of marriage in a story set against the historic sinking of the Titanic in the Twentieth Century-Fox film, "Titanic", opening Thursday at the Capitol Theatre. On the same program is Technicolor "Pony Soldier", starring Tyrone Power and Cameron Mitchell.

JOHN FORD FIND CO-STARS IN THE LONG GRAY LINE

Ward Bond, one of John Ford's favorite screen discoveries, stars again under the four-time Academy Award-winner's direction in Ford's film, Columbia Picture's Cinemascope "The Long Gray Line," which comes Thursday to the McCarthy Theatre with a starring cast headed by Tyrone Power and Maureen O'Hara in color by Technicolor. When Ford discovered him, however, Bond had not the remotest idea of becoming an actor. It happened on the University of South California football field where Ford came one day to recruit athletes for a film "Salute" which he was going to make at Annapolis.

Ford picked Ward, then a sophomore, and also a team-mate, one John Wayne. After "Salute" was finished, Bond returned to his studies and graduated as an engineer. But when the depression made it too tough for engineers, Bond wondered if maybe he wouldn't be better off as an actor. The answer, he has found out, is "yes."

Ford has re-indorsed his original choice of Bond many times

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

GOOD SHOWS!

Track and field athletes of the secondary schools of the district have been sharing the sports spotlight the last few days.

Outstanding efforts were the sparkling performance of Bill (Sam) Gault in his record-breaking attempt in the cross country race, the scintillating achievements of 18-year-old Curtaline Gilbert, girl star of Albert College and the collective showing of Johnny Sisson's Quinte Secondary School team in the Bay of Quinte COSSA track and field meet on Saturday.

Gault's time of 30.53 shattered the old mark of 31.55 set in 1951 by George Ewald. But it should be remembered Bill had a "Chris Chataway" with him, in the person of 15-year-old Jimmy Green of Quinte Secondary School.

The pair staged one of the closest races since its inception eleven years ago. They raced practically neck and neck over the entire distance when Gault spurted beautifully near the finish to negotiate the tough Church Street hill and win by 30 seconds over his opponent.

It was the "pay-off" on well-programmed training. Bill said this department that he ran between seven and seven and one-half miles nightly getting himself in shape for the race. "It built up my endurance," he said. And seasonal stints of football and basketball do not cause any harm to the powerful Gault legs.

Apt in youthful Jimmy there is a powerful threat to the harrier record another year. The slim youngster has the natural build of a distance runner and the feet that he fitshaped strongly in his first attempt augurs well for the future.

"It was my first attempt," Jimmy smiled, "and knowing Sammy's ability I made up my mind to follow him."

Curtaline Gilbert, eighteen-year-old girl track star of Albert College, will bear watching in the sprints in the future—and it will not surprise this department to learn that this clever youngster will reach the high places in trackdom before long. She won the senior girls' championship at the COSSA meet on Saturday in times that bespeak a great track future for her.

Curtaline negotiated the fifty-yard dash in 6 2/10 seconds and the 220 in 3 7/10 seconds. The latter time is reported to compare favorably with the Dominion record. The modest youngster won the senior girls' championship in her log the last time she competed in Kenyon games, school in Bermuda last year and lacked but a point of making.

She will likely run in the COSSA track and field championships being held in Peterborough next Saturday and all Albert, as well as the Quinte district trackmen and girls will be pulling for the youthful flash to "bring home the COSSA bacon."

Curtaline intends attending McGill University next year where she will study physical education. Future plans call for her to return to Bermuda to teach this subject.

Quinte Secondary School, "the baby" of the city institutions made a highly creditable showing at the COSSA meet in its first time out. The Quinte youngsters walked off with the junior boys' championship. J. Goodman won the 100 and finished second in the 220. The school relay team won the 440 event with G. Aquino winning the running broad jump and the hop-step-and-jump. N. Jamieson finished second in the discus throw.

The North Hastings High School from Bancroft was another "first-year" entry, and it too, came up with a performance that reflected a lot of credit on its athletes and coaches.

PLASTIC POISONING

Don't leave plastic articles, broken or unbroken, lying around the summer cottage. Conservation officers of the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests have found that plastic is fairly deadly to certain animals which seem to like some substance it contains.

A trapper recently reported that a fisher had eaten a portion of his plastic gloves. The animal was found dead outside his cabin and the carcass was shipped to the department's Southern Research Station at Maple, Ont. Plastic poisoning was the verdict.

A fisherman reported that a fisher had entered his cabin and had eaten plastic floats. It died in the box in which the floats were kept. Strangely enough, the fisher normally is very timid with humans, but, in both cases, they had entered habitations in spite of their fear of humans and human scent.

AND NO FILTERS

While Whip Watson and Ivansky Kalmikoff, and Ken Kenneth and Karolsky Kalmikoff will uphold the king-size end of the insuling at Memorial Arena Friday night, those reasonable facsimiles of the strive-and-strut fraternity, the midgets, will come in for their share of the kudos. Little Beaver, Bil-Le-Lo and Penny Quick, who resembles a blonde Zolu, are well known to the Belleville faithful, while Reggie Littlebrook, a miniature of Britain's Lord Athol Layton is a newcomer to these grunt-and-groan regions. In fact in some places he is billed as "Lord Littlebrook."

The little guys with their speed, agility and humorous antics, have stolen the show in other wrestling centres, and the big "brudders" had better be good Friday or the same thing might happen here. And don't think they do not know a lot of wrestling sawyers. This is not a vaudeville show but the real thing and the mighty atoms of g'oanville will again thrill the faithful. Looks like a good card, all round.

SAVOIE WINS

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Armand Savoie, former Canadian welterweight and lightweight champion, outpointed Miami's Aldo Mente in a 10-rounder before 1,250 fans at Fort Hesterly Tuesday night.

The Montrealer's infighting gave him a slight edge in the battle between the two 139½ pounders who engaged in one of the cleanest fights ever witnessed here.

Whitey Ford Spins 1-0 Win As Did Kansas' Kellner; Rookie Collars Brooklyn

By The Associated Press

From the looks of the past seven days, this may turn out to be a pitcher's year in the major leagues their first since 1951.

It's been four years since the pitchers got together and confronted the hitters with as many as 13 guys who won 20 or more. Since then the hurlers with the whammy have fallen off to six in '52, eight in '53 and six again last season.

Right now, there are 17 pitchers who have won four or more a year ago there were 13) and they've had help from the rest to give the majors a total of 39 shutouts to date. In each of the past three seasons there were only 35 scoreless performances on record at this stage.

Thirty-two pitchers have figured in the white-washings, and 15 of the shutouts have come in the past week—including Allen Newcombe's one-hitter at Chicago and Sad Sam Jones' whitzer against Pittsburgh.

THREE IN NIGHT

Three of the shutouts came Tuesday night. Rookie Larry Jackson put the cap on the National League-leading Brooklyn at St. Louis in the 3-0 Cardinal victory. In the American League, Whitey Ford gave the Kansas City Athletics a 1-0 success; Ike Kellner turned in the Whitey Ford spun a 1-0 triumph for the New York Yankees against Chicago White Sox.

Only two other National League games were played with Milwaukee taking over second place, eight games behind the Brooks, by beating New York 4-1 and Cincinnati made it six straight defeats for the Cubs. Cold weather shelved Philadelphia's game at Chicago.

In the American, Boston knocked off Cleveland 10-3 and Baltimore beat Detroit 6-2.

Jackson's no-run job on Brooklyn highlighted a sudden surge in Cardinal hitting. It was the first shutout of the season for the Dodgers' mound staff. St. Louis hit third whitewash victory in four games.

FOUND THE ANSWER

The Brooks tagged the young righthander for 10 hits, but when the chips were down, Jackson went to a source and found the answer. Such was the case in the first inning, when the Dodgers loaded the bases on two hits and a walk. But Jackson, now 2-0, fanned Gil Hodges to end it.

Home runs by Red Schoendienst and Ken Boyer gave it to the Cards, who got nine hits off Carl Erskine, losing his first in six decisions, and Jim Hughes. The victory pulled the Cards from fifth into a two-percentage point edge over the fourth-place Giants.

At New York, Ford had himself a duel with Billy Pierce for seven innings before claiming his third shutout of the season and fifth victory. Pierce, all even now in four decisions, blew it in the sixth when he walked Mickey Mantle and Yogi Berra. After a double steal attempt that moved Mantle to third but nipped Yogi at second Pierce walked Elston Howard. Then Eddie Robinson's single scored Mantle with the run home without a hit.

ALLOWED SIX

Erv Palica, ex-Brooklyn righthander, allowed six hits in the form of three triples and Harvey Haddix's singles, but also limited the Tigers to but one hit in any inning. Billy Cox, another former Dodger, homered for the Orioles as Ned Garver lost his fifth in a turn-about of a game in Detroit last month. Palica lost that one to Garver by the same 2-0 count.

Kuzava now has smacked 10 hits in his last 14 trips, skyrocketing to a .286 average that tops the majors.

Another hot hitter was cooled off at Milwaukee (where temperatures were in the 40s). The Giants' Don Mueller came up his 24-game hitting streak stopped, settling for a tie for the league record.

FIFTEEN HITS

Gene Conley won his fifth on nine hits, riding out homers by Willie Mays and Hank Thompson while the Braves pounded five Giant pitchers for 15 hits. Joe Adcock had four hits, including a home run. Al Corwin was the loser.

Cleveland, missing the injured Al Rosen, Bobby Avila and George Strickland, finally was dumped at Fenway Park, Boston, taking 11 straight at the Red Sox hangout. Early Wynn lost it, his first setback of the year, when Jackie Jensen and Eddie Joost homered for four runs in the fifth.

11TH STRAIGHT

DETROIT (CP) — Dick Ramazotti, 132, of Detroit, scored his 14th straight victory Tuesday night with a six-round unanimous decision over Tommy Corrick, 135½, of Toronto in the co-feature of a boxing card at Motor City Arena. There were no knockdowns.

Wings Defeat Toronto 3-1; Royals Lose

By The Associated Press

The almost daily change in the standings of the International League saw the Rochester Red Wings perched on top today percentage wise but a half game behind on won-lost basis.

In the shift Tuesday, Rochester defeated Toronto 3-1, while Buffalo downed Montreal 6-4 and dropped the Royals to second place.

In the only other game, Syracuse and Richmond split a doubleheader. The Chiefs won the seven-inning opener 2-1 and the Virginians came back to blank Syracuse 3-0 in the nightcap. The Columbus-Havana doubleheader was rained out.

UP FROM THIRD

Rochester with a 17-9 won-lost record for a .654 percentage moved up from third place. The Wings have a 20-11 record for a .645 mark while the Maple Leafs are two percentage points and a half-game behind Montreal with an 18-10 standing.

Rookie Jack Brandt, who collected three of the four Rochester hits off Toronto's Jim Bunning in the sixth inning while rookie Mel Heim pitched the Maple Leafs to seven hits for his second victory. Brandt scored the final Rochester run in the ninth on a double, a wild pitch by loser Ken Johnson and an infield out.

Buffalo rallied for five runs in the seventh inning to overcome a 4-1 lead by Montreal Royals in the game. Glenn Cox his first defeat in five starts.

SECOND WIN

Four walks, back-to-back singles by Moose Flemming and Wayne Belardi and a pinch-hit double by Buddy Hicks enabled Jo Birrer to gain his second win against three defeats. Clyde Parvis paced the Royals with three hits in four trips to the plate including a bases-empty homer in the seventh inning.

Richmond and Syracuse batting for seventh and eighth place in the league standings received brilliant pitching from Dick Farrell and Bill Connelly.

Farrell held Richmond to six hits in winning his first game in the opener. Lou Heyman's fifth inning homer proved to be the winning run.

Connelly received credit for blanking the Chiefs in the second game although he needed ninth-inning help from veteran Bill Voiselle. Dutch McCord drove in two Richmond runs off loser Sch Moreland with a single and a double.

BREAKS ELBOW

BALTIMORE (AP) — Freddie Marsh, utility infielder of Baltimore Orioles, fractured his right elbow Tuesday night before the start of the Orioles' game with Detroit Tigers. Marsh broke the radius bone in his throwing arm when he crashed into the right-field stands while chasing a foul fly in the pre-game warmup. He will be out of action about six weeks.

Rocky, Cockell May Fight Return Bout in London

By Charles Edmonds

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The chances of a return bout between champion Rocky Marciano and Don Cockell, possibly in London in September, continued to brighten today as the camps of both Monday night fighters gave enthusiastic lip service to the idea.

The Cockell camp, naturally favors a London site. The Marciano crew agreed that "England is as good a spot as any for a rematch." The International Boxing Club, which will have the final say, wasn't talking.

Cockell, a small patch of adhesive tape on his cut forehead and slight scratch under his left eye the only signs of the beating he took, said he'd welcome another crack at the champ.

"I'd like to fight him again and I'd prefer London," he said at a news conference. "But I'd meet him in New York or almost any place else, although I don't fancy here at all.

ALTER TACTICS

"He is the best FIGHTER I ever faced. Afraid of him? Certainly not, I'm not afraid of any man but obviously I'd have to alter my tactics in a return match."

Marciano, high in his praise of Cockell's courage before the fight was stopped in the ninth round, said he'd be willing to meet him again "in England or any place else as long as the terms are agreeable."

"I'll fight anybody any time," he said.

His manager, Al Weill, who with the IBC will name the next opponent, said that if the terms were right—"and that takes in a lot of territory"—he thought England "was as good a spot as any" for a rematch.

"I'm going to be with Jim Norris (IBC president) in New York and we'll decide which is best—New York or London in September."

Weill said that Jack Solomons, British promoter, had made him "a good proposal" for a London match, but that the terms would have to include such items as the selection of officials.

"I think I would say we'd have to have an American referee," he said.

Teddy Waltham, secretary of the British Boxing Board of Control, who attended the fight, said an American referee would not be permitted.

"The referee in an English ring would have to be British," Waltham said, "He definitely could not be an American nor do we allow neutral referees."

SURVEY BALL PROBLEMS

NEW YORK (AP) — Commissioner Ford Frick made known Tuesday he had hired a group of experienced analysts to make a thorough survey of baseball's current problems for the purpose of "keeping up with the times and getting our house in order."

The assignment given the research firm, the Stephen Fitzgerald Co., Inc., is to "get the facts" concerning such pressing problems as radio-television, major-minor league relations, feasibility of expansion and falling game attendance.

Dupas Wins Bloody Verdict Over Ryff

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The scripting Louisiana Boxing Enterprises and the powerful International Boxing Club of New York today competed for a return match between top - ranked lightweight Ralph Dupas of New Orleans and New York's Frankie Ryff.

Dupas won a bloody 10-round split decision Tuesday night in handing the No. 3 ranked Ryff his first professional defeat before the largest paid crowd in New Orleans boxing history. But many of the 9,200 fans disagreed with the decision.

Blaise d'Antoni, wealthy founder of LBE, made a $15,000 offer to Charlie Black, Ryff's manager, for a return match in New Orleans. The fight drew a $48,000 gross gate and LBE officials pointed out many matches in Madison Square Garden draw less than half that. IBC wants Dupas and Ryff in a televised match from Madison Square Garden.

REVENGE FOR DUPAS

Dupas erased one of his six losses in a 65-fight career with the decision over Ryff, who went into the match with 57 victories without a loss. Ryff won a decision over Dupas last September.

The big crowd booted the decision when Judge Pete Glaruso gave Dupas eight rounds and Ryff two. Judge Francis Kercheval called Dupas the winner on 6, but referee Eddie (Kid) Wolfe awarded the verdict to Ryff, 6-4. The Associated Press gave Dupas the edge, five rounds to three, with two even.

Ryff's right eye poured blood after the second round as Dupas flicked at it from a distance with a lightning-like left. Dupas moved inside only occasionally for a two-hand flurry. Ryff was superior in the infighting and on the ropes, but Dupas showed a clear margin at long distance.

Alouettes' Fans 'Play Ball'

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes of the Big Four Football Union have already sold three-quarters of their seating capacity at the 16,000-seat Molson Stadium in season tickets, Alouettes co-owner Ted Workman estimated Tuesday night.

"We're completely sold out between the goal lines," Workman said in an interview. "We've been so busy we haven't had time to count up the tickets, but I would say that three-quarters of the capacity has been sold so far."

He also said there has been "fantastic interest" in tickets for the Grey Cup game at Vancouver Nov. 26.

Montreal fans, asked when applying for season tickets if they were interested in tickets for the Grey Cup game, had replied in the affirmative to the tune of 90 per cent, Workman said.

He believed much of the advance interest came from football controversies and player deals that kept the team in the sports spotlight well past the close of the season.

Sam Snead's Golf School

3. At the top of a full swing the back of your shoulders should be "facing" the hole. To arrive in this position the hip pivot is a quarter-turn and the shoulder pivot a half turn. To pivot more than this causes any but a very expert player a loss of balance and, in turn, lack of rhythm and timing. Remember, the clubhead must get back to the ball at the correct mechanical instant. If you over-pivot and as a result, overswing, it is extremely difficult to get that clubhead back to the ball at the instant when the hip-and-shoulder pivots, the downswing of the arms and the wrist-lash, which you pour in during the last third of the down stroke, have produced the maximum, controlled velocity you can give that clubhead. It is the blending of these power sources into a single rhythmic force at impact that delivers maximum distance. Never swing beyond the rhythm point in the effort to add power. Far too much power is the short route to high scores.

Irish Girl Whips Britain's Best

PORTRUSH, Northern Ireland (AP)—Little Barbara Romack of Sacramento, Calif., scrubbed two of Britain's finest golfers Tuesday to sweep into the quarter-finals of the British women's golf championship.

The U. S. women's amateur champion became a solid favorite for the title by eliminating Mrs. R. E. Garrett of England, an experienced international player, 7 and 5, and then ousting Philomena Garvey, 6 and 5.

Miss Garvey is the Irish champion and veteran Curtis Cup team member who Monday defeated the defending champion, Mrs. Roy Smith.

Aussies Whip West Indies

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters)—The West Indies cricket team Tuesday ended in a seemingly hopeless position against Australia on the third day of the fourth test match here.

Needing 519 to avoid the following-on, they had scored 187 for six in reply to Australia's total of 668. Australia forced home its advantage when play was resumed, Ray Lindwall and Gil Langley adding 61 for the ninth wicket.

Lindwall, playing his 118, created a personal test record, beating his century against England at Melbourne in 1946. He hit 16 fours and two sixes in an innings which lasted two hours, 20 minutes.

There are three days left for play.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The one sad feature of an otherwise surprisingly fine heavyweight fight is the fact that Rocky Marciano is being portrayed to British fans as a "dirty fighter" who employed back-alley tactics to defeat their game champion, Don Cockell.

To be completely honest with their public, the dozen war correspondents who accompanied Cockell from London to San Francisco would have scribbled more than the world champion fought a rough fight, as he always does. To say that the Rock is a dirty fighter is to distort the truth, or to display a "vast ignorance of boxing."

Over a long period we have watched more than a few fighters we thought dirty and crafty, both inside and outside the ring. A few of them might have been described as vicious. Marciano is none of these. He is a gentleman in all respectable habits, who wants to win a fight as quickly and decisively as possible.

HIS STYLE DID IT

But for his rushing, crowding, ever-swinging style, Rocky never could have been a champion. With his short arms and lack of height he was run out to be a Tony Fancy Dan. He had to get in where he could smash an opponent ceaselessly, never permit him a moment's instant and eventually slug him silly.

By the very nature of his headstrong attack, Rock is almost certain to fracture a small rule now and then, as he did against the bulbous Briton. He might aim a low left on the border of foul territory, but not so low as to cause more than normal hurt. He might follow through with a final blow as an opponent goes down, but only through inability to stop it. And our observation has been that it takes two fighters to butt heads.

There is, of course, the possibility that all the rumors about how Rocky did it will lead eventually to a return showing in London, with $1,000,000 worth of fans demanding the right to see Cockell reap his revenge. But there must be better types of ballyhoo.

Racing Season In West Opens May 21

EDMONTON (CP) — Western Canada's thoroughbred season extends nearly five months this year. The prairie season opens May 21 and the Pacific coast's does not end Oct. 10.

The Prairies will have 88 days of racing with purses aggregating $723,700 compared with 1954's 87 days and $703,000 in purses. The coast season calls for 84 days with $610,000 in purses.

Racing on the Prairies has come a long way since the early days when R. J. (Jim) Speers says, the western Canada fair circuit was conducted under the control of men who were in the book-making business.

This season has seven features with purses of more than $5,000 each. The Canadian Derby at Winnipeg's Polo Park carries $10,000added. The three-heat Governor Handicap at Edmonton in August has $8,000 added, and $7,000 added is the purse in the Alberta Derby, also run at Edmonton in August.

COAST CLASSICS

On the coast the classics are the $5,000 Futurity with part of $3,000 added and the B.C. Nursery Stakes with $2,500 added. Both are for two-year-olds. The top purses at the coast are the $5,000-added B.C. Premier Handicap and the $5,000-added S. W. Randall Plate, both run at mid-season. The coast season is the award of a B.C.-bred yearling valued at $1,000 to the winner of the top race at Exhibition Park in Vancouver Sept. 17.

Among the outstanding youngsters expected to run at the coast this year are Pursuit, a six-year-old owned by Jack Diamond, vice-president of the Vancouver Turf Club, and Admiral Quelch, a two-year-old trained by Jackie Russell which won six straight on Vancouver tracks last year. Pursuit won $25,000 at Tanforan last year.

MANY CONTENDERS

Approximately 450 horses are expected to be on hand for the prairie inaugural at Calgary and the horse colony is expected to swell to 625 for the May Winnipeg season running from June 4 to July 6.

The Winnipeg meeting will attract high quality horses to the Prairies and one of the top campaigners is a pensioner, Gipsy Rover, a "grey ghost" from Ireland.

Gipsy Rover, acquired in California by R. R. (Soapy) Lawson of Edmonton, is a three-year-old out of impeccable - Water Gypsy by Derwald.

A first-class jockey colony is also assured for the Prairies including Willie Marsh Jr., sensation of two years ago, the veteran Harvey Dunn, Cookie Rose, Jimmy Fitzsimmons, Jimmy Mason and Hank Matthews.

The prairie season is divided as follows:

Calgary—May 21 to May 28
Winnipeg—June 4 to July 6
Calgary—July 9 to July 16
Edmonton—July 18 to July 23
Saskatoon—July 25 to July 30
Regina—Aug. 1 to Aug. 6
Edmonton—Aug. 13 to Aug. 20
Winnipeg—Aug. 22 to Sept. 13

For the first time since 1948, there will be racing on Vancouver Island. The coast season opens at Vancouver's Landsdowne Park and continues to Aug. 3. From Aug. 5 to Sept. 19 the horses will race at Exhibition Park in Salmon Park. On the island at Sandown Park in Sydney, about 10 miles from Victoria, races will be staged from Sept. 24 to Oct. 10.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McDERMOTT
Major League Scout and Instructor

When you see an outfielder get in front of a drive like Vic Wertz's smash to the Cleveland bullpen in the first game of the 1954 World Series, field the ball, throw on the run and hold the batter to two bases as Willie Mays did, you realize how great an asset defensive play can be in the outfield.

To get the feel of handling grounders, many outfielders like to work out in the infield during batting practice, and the past experience of Irv Noren as a pitcher and infielder is easily evident when you see him charge ground balls. This is also true of Stan Musial.

Not all fields are as smooth as those used by the major leagues, and there are plenty of times when the outfielder may want to block the ball rather than field it on the run. Most fielders do this by dropping to the knee of their throwing hand, catching the ball, springing up and pushing off the foot of the throwing hand and striding with the foot of the gloved hand as they throw.

Breaks Leg Horse Shot

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Shannon II was destroyed Tuesday after the 16-year-old thoroughbred stallion broke a leg in a freak accident.

The syndicate-owned sire of Sea O Erin apparently lost his balance in making a quick turn at Spendthrift Farm and snapped his left hind leg below the hock.

Shannon II won 14 races, including many outstanding stakes in his native Australia. He was brought to the United States in 1947 and began racing for Neil S. McCarthy of Los Angeles in 1948. He won six stakes and $211,610 for McCarthy and equalled the world record for 1¼ miles.

A syndicate paid $500,000 a reported $300,000 in 1948 to get Shannon II for stud. During his 1954 his foals had earned more than $500,000.

Kaline Takes Short Route To Stardom

BALTIMORE (AP)—Al Kaline, a 20-year-old perfectionist, has taken about the shortest possible route to make his amazing jump to a top spot in the baseball world.

Just five years ago Al was a shinny 135-pound utility player at Southern high school here. His future on the squad was uncertain.

Today he is a major league standout with the Detroit Tigers.

But in some ways Al hasn't changed. He's still quiet and serious, somewhat shy. He still has lightning speed, a strong throwing arm and a powerful wrist motion that has made him a leading hitter.

Al tried out for the high school team when only a freshman. Coach Bill Anderson saw him as a pitcher, infielder and outfielder and was considering demoting Al to the junior varsity when a regular outfielder suffered an injury.

SLAMMED HOMER

Given his first starting chance, Kaline won the game with a home run. He played in every game after that.

Kaline's high school and sandlot batting average was astronomical. In 29 of Detroit's 21 games, he had the record for ¼ miles.

Empire Games Report Surplus

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Empire Games Society Tuesday reported an estimated surplus of $36 $36 in its financial statement of last summer's Empire Games here.

But the actual deficit was approximately $155,000, caused by additional expenditure of $183,36 in Empire Stadium roofing and floodlighting costs.

The society, however, denies responsibility for the additional costs, placing them as city charges. Their cost of building the stadium is shown as $1,971,846, plus the lighting and roofing costs.

The financial report shows expenditures totalling $1,853,362 in construction facilities; administration $97,677—publicity and promotion $76,742; organizational expenses $153,452; sports equipment $25,985, and ticket office, travel grants and sundry expenses $144,104.

Major items of income included $750,000 from a Vancouver civic grant, $800,000 from federal, provincial and civic governments; $90,000 from the sale of television rights; $342,286 from special canvass, and $387,966 from ticket sales.

Requests Hubby To Come Back And Face Charge

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Estelle Venner, 29, has appealed to appeal to her husband, Richard Venner, 38, missing for five days, to face a charge of conveying his own use $4,200 entrusted to him by members of a travel club.

A warrant for his arrest was issued Tuesday on information sworn by Roy Simpson, co-promoter with Venner of the Wanderers' Club, an organization formed to arrange charter of aircraft for 68 former U.K. residents planning a trip to Britain this summer.

Members of the club, mostly employees of U. K.-controlled aircraft firms here, said Venner did not show up for a meeting Saturday at a city hotel where he was due to collect the balance of the fares and ticket.

Mrs. Venner, in a letter published in The Telegram today asked her husband to return to his home at Keswick, 40 miles north of here.

"If you are in trouble, come back now and face it; you will have to do so eventually," she wrote.

SNOW HITS MONTANA

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—A Sunday snow storm disrupted air travel and highways in Montana. The weather bureau warned residents just east of the continental divide that up to four inches of snow were expected tonight. Most of the snow melted when it struck the ground but there were reports of control near this town 50 miles east of the capital.

SECOND YOUTH DIES

HAWKESBURY, Ont. (CP)—Today Bishop, 18, of Ottawa died Saturday joyride in a stolen automobile. The first victim was Leslie Anthony Davies, 16, also of Ottawa, who died shortly after the car in which he was riding went out of control near this town 50 miles east of the capital.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars,

For Thursday, May 19, 1955—

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—

Ideas for earning extra money and rewards outside of your regular work may turn out well if you are careful in choosing. For top results, emphasize thoroughness in all tasks.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—

Restraint and moderation in all activities will better your final returns. Be on-guard in situations that involve outsiders.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—

Move along spiritedly in routine matters. Be astute, however, and be extremely tactful in any unusual, out-of-the-ordinary situations which may confront you in the p.m.

July 23 to July 23 (Cancer)—

Some matters of long standing may be approached with confidence during this favorable period. A friend may help you bypass obstacles, bring about unexpected gains, a happy conclusion.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—

Concentrate on essentials this fine day. Once you have planned your activities well, step out in true Leo style and act advantages will be yours.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—

You can turn some of those new ideas into realities, get worthwhile profits; be keenly observing. Watch your health sensibly; there are limits for us all, we can tackle just so much.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—

Influences favor you in both business and personal endeavors. You may receive offers because of a special skill, your calm disposition.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—

Be discriminating in planning your day's program; you could overlook the important issues. Personal problems should not be allowed to interfere with urgent duties.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius)—

An excellent day for those of you who take a prope interest in vital matters. Talk with advisers, those who have shown sincere regard for your happiness and well-being.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—

This day may offer little, but press all advantages smartly and you can achieve good results, nevertheless.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—

By checking the "little things" early you can get off to a bigger and better start; can bridge more obstacles. Don't doubt your ability to achieve but don't force matters either.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—

Better review your acting. Watch a tendency toward exaggeration. Ally yourself with soundly progressive groups.

You born today have many fine traits: stability, self-reliance versatility. You can reach high ideals, be an honored friend, worker when rightly reared and once you have learned diplomacy. It is important that you associate with good, cheerful companions and hold fast to your religion. Your firmness of character, used properly, can carry you far in any field. Taureans make capable doctors, artists, musicians, teachers, lawyers, business managers. You can soothe the irritated and can take punishment "standing up." Avoid extravagance, stubbornness. DUCK PROVES POOR FLYING PUPIL

Meet MacDonald Duck, the Reluctant Mallard. He is the mascot of the RCAF station at MacDonald, Man., and he has posed a problem of F/O Tom Winslow, who has undertaken to teach MacDonald to fly. The duck fell from the station's hangar last fall, wounded and with ice on his wings. The airmen adopted him, fed him all winter and fully expected he would take to the air come spring. But not MacDonald, who probably knows a good life when he finds it. He just won't bother flying, and Winslow, who teaches fledgling pilots to manoeuvre in the stratosphere, is trying his best to apply some of his teaching technique to his backward pupil. Arm Soldiers With Shovels To Patch Assiniboine Dikes

BRANDON (CP)—About 200 men of the Royal Canadian Horse Artillery were armed with shovels and sandbags today and put to work on a weakened and isolated section of the Assiniboine river flood dikes shielding rich farmland about 40 miles west of Winnipeg.

The men were added to a force of 80 other soldiers, sent Wednesday to help provincial government engineers plug up seepages in the 14½ mile earthen wall running about a mile north of Manitoba's main east-west highway.

At Brandon, the river rose another inch Wednesday between noon and midnight but dike workers felt they had "beaten" the flood threat. The dike walls were raised during the night to more than one foot over the top of the river level.

Engineers expected a flood crest to reach the city today or Friday. They said the reinforced walls held firmly Wednesday, except for a few very slight breaks.

A few more families evacuated the north-end of the city but most of the residents stayed on in their homes, putting their faith in the straining dikes.

The optimism at Brandon was marred by a growing rural flood threat in the Poplar Point area where the military units are being sent. There, a dike is lagging at the tops of the dikes and has spilled over in some places.

Refuse to Talk About Possible Auto Strike

DETROIT (AP)—Principals in current negotiations in Detroit on the United Auto Workers' contract demands refused to discuss any wage refused today to be drawn into possibilities of a settlement of a strike in the auto industry.

Negotiators remained locked up in their respective rooms at work on new contracts with both Ford Co. and General Motors Corp.

In Washington Wednesday, Frank Rising, general manager of the Automobile Parts Manufacturers Association, told the National Press Club that "I believe the UAW leaders want a strike—a big strike —and a great and costly victory way for peaceful, militant action."

A spokesman for the union in Detroit declared that he "does not speak for the employers with whom we are negotiating." It is obviously an embarrassment to those he pretends to speak for. His opinions on the guaranteed annual wage are not worthy of reply."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO, (CP) — Synopsis: Cold windy weather is again pushing down across Ontario from Hudson Bay, and will cover the entire province by tonight. Temperatures in southern regions will be some 10 degrees lower Friday than today, with a risk of frost in many localities tonight.

SHARP INCREASE IN POLIO CASES REPORTED IN U.S.

23 Who Came in Contact With Inoculated Are Ill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A sharp increase in new cases of polio was reported today by the U. S. public health service. For the week ended May 14, new cases totalled 206, up 30 per cent over the previous week.

The number compares with 151 in the second week of May last year, and an average of 116 for the last five years.

However, for the first time since the anti-polio vaccination program got into full swing this summer, the polio cases among inoculated persons remained unchanged at 77 Wednesday.

STRANGE RELATIONSHIP

In another development, the public health service announced that 23 cases of polio have now been reported among children and inoculated themselves, who came in close contact with children given vaccine made by Cutter Laboratories of California. In these instances the inoculated children themselves have not contracted the disease.

These reports were all in the hands of the service Wednesday night when it announced that for several days at least there would be no further clearance of anti-polio vaccine.

The result was to add uncertainty to the whole vaccination program.

The only explanation was a statement by a public health spokesman that the health service that the delay was ordered for "another look-see at this whole very confusing picture."

Other supplies in the hands of health officers and physicians growing scarce as a result of a government order suspending sales of safety recheck, Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele said Wednesday night:

"There will be no further announcement with respect to the release of poliomyelitis vaccine for the next several days. This should not be inferred as reflecting in any way on the vaccine to be commercially produced, manufacturing and testing processes are under study."

This provided no elaboration by public relations spokesman for the public health service, which he heads, said the delay was ordered for "another look-see at this whole very confusing picture."

Still approved for use in the polio inoculation program is the relatively small portion still unissued from the 7,850,000 cubic centimetres originally released by manufacturers; Parke, Davis and Company of Detroit and Eli Lilly and Company of Indianapolis.

Plans to Spend Two Days on Wire Above Stadium

TORONTO (CP) — Harry Daves, 37-year-old Yugoslav tight-rope walker Wednesday night got up on a wire 60 feet above the pitching field at Maple Leaf baseball stadium in the first stage of an attempt to set a North American endurance record on a high wire.

Daves said he is trying to create publicity to launch himself in show business in North America. He said he would stay up for two days and eat his meals while balancing on the wire.

He was kept busy most of the night answering calls from admirers on a telephone he held on the wire. He said they helped keep him awake.

Armed With Rifle, Man Watched Estranged Wife

TORONTO (CP)—Police said a truck driver armed with a loaded rifle Wednesday was being charged on a charge of watching and besetting his estranged wife.

The wife reported a man acting suspiciously near her home and when police arrived a truck drove off. The cruiser took up the chase. It ended several blocks away when the driver stopped for a red light.

Police said Ludeig Gorczyk, 46, of Toronto, was in his cab with a loaded automatic rifle under the seat and a clip of 11 more shells in his shirt pocket.

PERON HAS 'FLU

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—The condition of President Juan Peron, who is suffering from influenza, has considerably improved, an official report said Wednesday. But a trip he was to have made to Northern Argentina today was postponed to an unspecified date.

Policeman Joined La Vegas Gang To Thwart Million Dollar Robbery

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—It was disclosed today that a police officer, working as an undercover agent, gave Las Vegas police the tip that thwarted a million dollar mail robbery plot Tuesday night.

Police sources said the informant was Ed Meagher, a policeman at Henderson, Nev., 15 miles from here, and formerly with the Las Vegas force.

Meagher was identified as the informant who gave the tip two weeks in advance after Wally Newcomb, director of public safety at Henderson, told reporters Wednesday that a Henderson policeman, acting in line of duty, had "obtained information by becoming a part of the gang with the knowledge and advice of his immediate superior officers."

Five persons accused of plotting the big robbery, with gambling casino cash forming a large part of the loot, are being held in jail in lieu of $15,000 bail each.

The holdup, if it had happened, would have been one of the biggest postal robberies in history. Las Vegas police, postal inspectors and sheriff's deputies surrounded the post office and waited for it to occur.

But the robbery gang, suspecting a trap, didn't go ahead with the plan. And police, knowing of the plan, substituted a mail sack for the cash.

Police chief A. H. Kennedy said the gang planned to waylay a police car carrying currency from the postoffice to the railroad station Tuesday night.

Health Minister Says Vaccine Not Complete Preventive

OTTAWA (CP)—Health Minister Martin said today Salk polio vaccine is not a total and complete preventive of paralysis from polio.

He told a federal-provincial conference on communicable diseases that the development of the vaccine is a notable medical advance and should be regarded as a blessing, not a miracle.

His remarks were contained in the text of a speech issued in advance of delivery.

The conference is being held to decide on a uniform system for evaluating the use of polio vaccine this year, to formulate a more uniform method of reporting and controlling communicable diseases and to decide on new methods to control poliomyelitis.

Mr. Martin also said that it now appears that the federal government and the provinces will be able to provide immunization for 1,500,000 children before the onset of this year's polio season.

Certain difficulties have developed, he said, in the supply of vaccine from commercial sources in the United States but the supply is such we will not reach the target I had hoped for. However, we anticipate that sufficient vaccine will be available from Connaught Laboratories to enable the provinces to inoculate at least 1,400,000 children before July 1.

Mr. Martin was referring to the U.S. public health service's decision freeze supplies of vaccine manufactured by commercial concerns. U.S. health officials now are studying American production methods and a spokesman said Wednesday in Washington there would be no further releases of vaccine pending a "look-see at this whole very confused picture."

Health department officials here said Canadian production also was curtailed by a temporary shortage earlier this year of rhesus monkeys whose kidneys are required in the manufacturing process. The higher estimate of inoculations also was based on the hope that the Montreal Institute of Microbiology would begin production of vaccine this month. It now is not expected to begin producing until the fall.

Imports of commercially - produced U.S. vaccine were stopped two weeks ago by the government. They won't be resumed until the American situation has been given a clean bill of health.

All Canadian vaccine is manufactured at the University of Toronto Connaught Laboratories.

The vaccine provided in the U.S. by a commercial firm was cleared for use only after tests.

"Although more than 500,000 children have already participated in these immunization programs, there have been no unfavorable reactions reported," Mr. Martin told the conference.

The vaccine used in Canada was subject to careful safety tests both by the manufacturer and the health department's laboratory of

CCF Leader Says Frost Regime Is Big Business Government

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario's CCF leader says mining and forestry bring in a billion dollars every year in Ontario but contribute only about $10,000,000 annually to the public treasury.

Donald C. MacDonald, swinging through northern Ontario on his campaign for the June 9 provincial general election, Wednesday night accused the Progressive Conservative government of being a "big business government" that "operates at the expense of protecting corporation profits."

In a speech at a Sudbury CCF rally, the 40-year-old former newspaper man said the province's gold mining corporations alone pay $60,000,000 a year in dividends as a mere handful of people while contributing a meagre amount in royalties.

The government of Premier Leslie Frost has failed to use its power to pay 50 per cent of the overall cost of new hospitals and gains in health insurance and supplement the amount paid old age pensioners, on the basis that it can't afford it."

Mr. MacDonald added:

"A growing proportion of our wealth is to be found today in the great corporations, their own and control great chunks of our resources. It is these corporations increasingly necessary that more of our revenue be raised from this source if the needs of the people are to be met."

"This is precisely what the government refuses to do because the objective of a Conservative government is to provide for profit levels of its friendly corporations to supply private funds."

Mr. MacDonald also said a CCF planned development program is the most suited for the needs of the North.

"The Frost government has too often neglected the North until the eve of an election."

Mr. MacDonald ridiculed Premier Frost as saying in Sudbury Tuesday night, "I like Sudbury."

But at least one road is promised at each of the premier's campaign stops, Mr. MacDonald said.

"Fortunately, Mr. Frost puts no time limit on them. You are promised roads in return for votes in the out-of-election campaign."

He said the Conservative government's "gerrymander" will be more accurately a "big business-made" election. Trade unionists and farm workers are far from welcome."

Labor speakers at the meeting included Paul Mihailchuk, CCF candidate for Sudbury riding, and Bill Stewart, candidate for the new riding of Nickel Belt.

Earlier in Timmins, a urantium boom town, he said the new riding would swing the election for the CCF in the riding of Algoma-Manitoulin. There are 2,700 eligible Indian voters in the two districts. They were given the right to vote in 1950.

Mr. MacDonald spoke to a small group of CCF organizers, including Edgar Gaboury of Kirkland Lake who was defeated in the riding of Timiskaming in the 1953 provincial election.

A CCF rally had been scheduled but only one supporter turned up. Party officials said this was due to the fact that most prospective

Mr. MacDonald said the CCF hopes to obtain the Indian vote currently held by the Liberals and record the party had with Indians in the northern parts of Saskatchewan.

Busy Campaigning So His Neighbors Plow His Fields

HAMILTON (CP) — Neighbors pitched in Wednesday to give a hand to farmer Ray Connell, Progressive Conservative candidate for Hamilton-Wentworth in the June 9 provincial election.

Seventeen farmers plowed 55 acres of Mr. Connell's 130-acre farm because campaigning has taken up most of his time.

"They certainly did a wonderful bunch," Mr. Connell said. Not all of them are members of the Progressive Conservatives, either, he added.

Mr. Connell is seeking re-election.

TREMOR ROCKS SHIP

BOMBAY, India (Reuters)—The 6,445-ton British tanker Lingula was rocked by "a violent tremor" while navigating south of the Nicobar islands in the Bay of Bengal, a Bombay radio station said Wednesday. The ship's message said a tremor of "volanic origin" was suspected.

Former Burglar Refused Entry Into Australia

SYDNEY (CP)—William Charles (Billy) Hill, 43, will return to London with the ship in which he came to Australia without having set foot ashore.

Hill has been refused entry because of a criminal record. He has spent a total of 17 years in jail.

Hill came to Australia with an attractive young woman to start afresh. He planned to open a beer parlor in Sydney.

"I would have been prepared, and am still willing, to work under the closest police supervision," Hill said. "It is true that burglary was my trade at one time, but it has been known, you know, for crooks to go straight and keep straight. But I am a dog with a bad name.

"I'm going back to London now. I've got a couple of nightclubs there."

FUTURE OF HOWE IS FAVORITE GUESSING GAME

Said Veteran Minister Resigning on Oct. 23

By JOHN LeBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — The capital's favorite guessing game today was the one called, "What's C.D. going to do?"

Apart from Rt. Hon. Clarence Decatur Howe, no one, including his own cabinet colleagues, seemed to have a clue to whether the 69-year-old trade minister will be retiring Oct. 23 or any time this summer.

And the veteran minister himself, aside from a non-committal statement of his intentions in the Commons, wasn't talking. Reporters were blocked off from his telephone.

The big gun of the cabinet next to Prime Minister St. Laurent—"Has it been cleared with C.D.?" is almost in Ottawa officialdom's dictionary—was stated in published reports Wednesday to be retiring from the cabinet Oct. 23, the 20th anniversary of her entry into the government.

"NOTHING IN IT"

There was a raft of speculation over Mr. Howe's intentions. The government's prime minister is known to have told friends late last winter he would be giving up the Transport, Defence Production and C.N.R. portfolios next year.

The published stories suggested Oct. 23. Mr. Howe, asked about this, said that there is "nothing in it."

Later in the Commons he said in reply to question from Stanley Knowles (CCF — Winnipeg North Centre):

"If there is a report that I am resigning from the cabinet, I think the report should come from myself. I was not aware of any report of that kind."

Newspaper men trying to reach Mr. Howe for clarification of what this meant were told by secretaries the minister would not see them or talk to them on the telephone.

EXPECTS STRONG PRESSURE.

A cabinet minister said he did not know Mr. Howe's intentions but would be "mighty surprised" if the minister resigned so soon this year. He said colleagues would put pressure on him to stay on.

Mr. Howe, an engineer who made something more than $1,000,000 in building western grain elevators before joining the cabinet, has been the first chief lieutenant of the late Prime Minister King and later Prime Minister St. Laurent.

He has—or has had—the most varied portfolio of any minister of any federal minister. At the moment, he's Canada's atomic energy boss as minister responsible for government-owned Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. He's the minister over Trans-Canada Air Lines, which he has carried with him through several departments. He is in charge of wheat marketing.

The federal corporations that a report through Mr. Howe include the munitions-making Canadian Arsenals and Polymer Corp., making artificial rubber. Mr. Howe has looked after the fate of ailing aircraft contracts for Canadair at Montreal and Avro at Malton, Ont.

After Seclusion of Foreign Office Eden Enjoying Role Meeting Public

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP)—In the city of Nottingham's old market square, where Robin Hood and his merry men used to plot against the sheriff, Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden was addressed by a crowd when a drizzle came down on them.

The prime minister patted his wet hair and remarked:

"My wife doesn't like it. But never mind, I'm sure she sun will shine again soon."

It was Eden being human. The public has been getting glimpses of British people becoming acquainted with the man who is leading the Conservative party campaign for the general election of May 26.

For a generation Eden has been a dyunamt public figure. But he has been cloistered in the foreign office, and he seemed to be in Paris or Cairo almost as much as London.

Anyone watching Eden making momentary stops as he dashes about to speak to citizens in many counties gets an impression he is enjoying the experience, but that it is a little strange. He waves and smiles cheerfully. The neatly-clipped mustache and the wavy grey hair give him a distinguished appearance.

He is a rather indifferent speaker, but he puts sincerity into his words when he spoken haltingly. He is trying to master the art of campaigning by speaking from cars to diplomats and members of Parliament.

Photographers complain that he does not strike colorful attitudes, and that one picture of Eden, standing decorously, just about tells the whole story.

At Leeds the photographers insisted on so many flashes he finally leaped over and asked:

"Couldn't we do it as we did in Indochina? Let's have a ceasefire for a little while."

Missing Sudbury Man Found Dying In Railway Boxcar

Suffering from Amnesia, Had Been in Car Ten Days

SUDBURY (CP) — Missing from his home in Sudbury since May 1, Philip Rainville, 50, was discovered in a CNR boxcar at Westree Wednesday, dying of dehydration, starvation and exposure.

Brought to Sudbury by train, Rainville is today confined to hospital, where his condition is reported to be "slightly improved." Rainville was discovered by CNR workmen as they prepared to load pulpwood into the boxcar, provincial police reported.

It is believed he had been in the box car for at least 10 days. He had been suffering with amnesia and was in a confused condition when he left home, relatives said.

Given intravenous feeding overnight, Dr. Theriault complete dehydration, Rainville is starting to take liquids by mouth today, Hospital authorities said he will recover.

Westree is 150 miles northwest of here.

Delivery Room Not New to Him, 'Was Born There'

YPSILANTI, Mich. (AP) — When the crew of 70 cab scouts toured Bye Memorial Hospital, one left a bigger impression than he had on a previous visit.

Mrs. Harry Gilmore, the nurse who showed the scouts the delivery room, asked if they had seen that part of the hospital before.

"Sure," said nine-year-old Bennie Soldecor, "I was born here." Then, with mild disappointment, "Don't you remember me?"

Toronto Bank Clerk Killed By Two Bandits

TORONTO (CP) — A bank clerk was fatally wounded today when shot by two holdup men at the central Toronto branch of Toronto-Dominion Bank at Dundas and McCaul streets.

The victim was identified as A.J. Hanna.

Police chased the getaway car. It was not known immediately whether the holdup men obtained any money.

Pope Suffers Dizzy Spell

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican sources reported today that the Pope suffered a light dizzy spell of weakness and dizziness following a general audience of more than an hour Wednesday for 35,000 Italian farmers.

The sources said the 79-year-old pontiff had recovered and today showed no signs of weakness.

The audience Wednesday was the biggest the head of the Roman Catholic Church has held since his grave collapse with a stomach disorder last December.

Two Hamilton Newspapermen Held in Contempt

HAMILTON (CP)—County judge William F. Schweger ordered Kingsley Brown and reporter Alan Morrison to appear in court today on an article published May 11 in the morning and evening editions of the Hamilton News.

An apology was published Wednesday in both editions. Judge Schweger allowed the two men to go on 30 days' suspended sentence provided no court "hearings Tuesday and Wednesday were paid.

The News said the article, headlined "Jail for Juror," was published in error. The News holds "the impartial majesty of the judiciary in the deepest respect and deeply regrets that its news columns may have cast any reflection upon the integrity and prestige of the judicial system."

The story which brought Brown and Morrison into court dealt with a series of jail breaks involving a Hamilton man's suit to gain custody of his 14-year-old daughter. The Surrogate Court of Wentworth county awarded custody to the girl's mother in 1947. The Supreme Court of Canada since has dismissed three appeals by the father, Charles Fraser.

Wives of Leaders Of Three Parties Make Safety Plea

TORONTO (CP)—The wives of the three leaders in Ontario's general election campaign Wednesday issued a joint appeal for greater road safety during the coming holiday weekend in efforts to reduce last year's toll of 13 deaths in the three-day traffic rush.

Mrs. Leslie Frost, Mrs. Farquhar Oliver and Mrs. Donald MacDonald appealed particularly to women drivers, described in a statement as "able to exert great influence in developing a sane and safe attitude on the highway safety."

The appeal is sponsored by the Ontario Safety League which calls on women to "instill the need for safety and courtesy" among all members of the family."

Rev. G. Minielly New President Queen's Alumni

Election of officers, football movies narrated by head coach Frank Tindall, and a talk by Quinte Secondary School, featured the annual meeting of the Belleville Branch of the Queen's Alumni Association held Wednesday evening.

Rev. George Minielly, of Trenton, was elected president of the branch for the coming year. He succeeds G. R. Cameron of Belleville.

Other officers elected are: Frank Moore, first vice-president; Mrs. Helen Bateman, second vice-president; McKinley Rankin, secretary; Douglas Law, treasurer; Ronald Moorman, Athletic Board of Control representative; George Van Schayck, Prince Edward County representative.

The nominating committee, headed by Stuart Indoe, of Belleville, was returned for another term.

Herb Hamilton, secretary of the General Alumni Association, spoke briefly about recent additions to the physical facilities of the university and about the alumni association's role in the future growth of Queen's.

A tour of the Quinte Secondary School was conducted by principal Leslie Reid and by boys' physical education director Jack Sisson.

Frank Tyndall, head coach of junior intermediate football and basketball since 1948, showed movies of Queen's-Varsity and Queen's-Western games.

Approximately 65 alumni from Belleville, Trenton, Picton, Brighton, and Marmora attended the dinner meeting.

Three Belleville Men Given Nine Months in Jail

Three Belleville men in Toronto Wednesday, added to their total of more than 50 previous convictions between them, were each sentenced to nine months definite and three months indefinite in reformatory for stealing brass from the axle journals of CNR freight cars.

Gordon Graves, William Cresswell and Vernon Stonehouse, each a jack capable of raising 25 tons to lift the freight cars and remove the journals, police said.

Passing sentence, Magistrate O. M. Martin said the three men "surely could easily have brought death to innocent persons. One of them was told the court they thought the cars, which were on a siding, were about to be wrecked.

"It's not the first time it has happened," said one veteran railroader commenting on the unusual theft. "But safety inspections are so strict now that I guess we would spot the journals were missing before the car was moved."

Manual Training and Home Economic Classes in Public Schools in City May Be Closed

Fears that the manual training and home economic classes in Belleville public schools may have to be discontinued due to inability to obtain instructors, was expressed this week at the regular meeting of the Belleville public school board.

Mr. Smith noted that two manual training instructors had been lost by the board and efforts to replace them had not been successful.

In view of the inability to secure instructors the board went on record as recommending that the home economic and manual training classes in the public schools be discontinued until suitable manual training instructors could be secured. The board indicated the step will be taken with the greatest regret and only after long deliberation as to what possible alternatives might be adopted.

Every effort will be made to secure instructors at the earliest possible date.

Schools administrator L. A. Keith noted that the classes would be discontinued if instructors had not been hired by the first of September.

Reasons given for the inability of the board to secure manual training instructors were the overall shortage of such instructors and the high salary structure offered by larger centres.

ON VICE-PRINCIPAL'S STAFF

Teaching staff member, Jack Wilson, Thursday, will leave the principal's staff for the year 1955-56 and will be with Principal Everett Fairman at Queen Victoria School.

James C. Allen, Isobel Street, complained to the board that surface water from Queen Mary School was ruining his garden during the spring freshet seasons. The board promised an investigation to see what action could be taken to prevent future flooding.

Four city public schools, Sir Winston Churchill, Queen Alexandra, Queen Mary and Prince Charles will be used as polling booths for the forthcoming provincial election.

Approval of the board was given to the Quinte District High School board to extend their track and playing field slightly onto property adjacent property at the King George school grounds. The Trenton school board was commended for its efforts in providing a track and playing field and promised co-operation.

A special committee was named to investigate the suggestion of the Bank of Nova Scotia that a school thrift plan be instituted in public schools.

Harry Smith Fuels was awarded the tender for the supply of coal. Price quoted was $13.75 for 1¼ inch nut slack; $13.75 for egg and kitchen stoker and $18.50 for rice anthracite.

TENDER ACCEPTED

The tender of Carl Rolnf for a strip film and slide projector at a price of $101 was accepted.

Hilton Hamilton was appointed to install a sound system extension at the new addition of the Sir Winston Churchill School, while the supply committee was authorized to call for tenders for other requirements for the new additions.

The board urged strongly for the city to close the open ditch at the Sir Winston Churchill School and to complete the proposed storm and tile sewer there.

Queen Mary School is to have an up-to-date flag pole with the board recommending that a trap for telescoping pole be erected.

The board will be asked further information regarding oil heating for school buildings. The present coal heating bother in Queen Victoria School is soon to be replaced and information regarding oil heating systems will be sought before replacement is made.

The board has received $45,000 as the initial grant on the annual legislative grant on public school costs. This amount is approximately one-half of the total amount to be received.

The board meeting saw almost full attendance with but one member being absent.

Kiwanis Club Golf Tourney For District Huge Success

Out on the links at the Belleville Golf and Country Club yesterday 124 ex-Kiwanians filled with quiet abandon and quite a lot of golf as the fourth annual tourney for Belleville Kiwanis got under way.

Nearly 150 Kiwanians assembled for the tourney and the succeeding banquet, to see a Kingston Kiwanian's team match the six-nut trophy with a gross of 373.

Other Kiwanis golf events include service club activities in this district, the tourney was attended by strong representations of Kiwanis clubs from Madoc, Scarboro, Trenton, Tweed, Napanee, Lindsay, Toronto Kingsway, Peterborough and Dunbarton.

With the emphasis as much on camaraderie as on cultivated golfing prowess, the event matched both requirements par excellence.

Early in the day the first golfers teed-off over sunwashed links into a cool breeze. By evening well over 50 golfers were in a subdued hue and cry after the main trophy. However, the results were not forthcoming until some time later when the sportsmen recovered from the after-tenth hole for the second half of the day's program — the banquet.

Following the sumptuous dinner, served buffet style, with Kiwanian stomachs taking a buffeting from a dozen different dishes, the list of prize winners was announced.

Main trophy of the evening went to the Kingston club whose foursome scored a fearsome 373 gross to take the cup off last year's winners, Lindsay Kiwanis. Individual scores of the quartet were: Les Wilmot, 90; Reg Charron, 96; Roy Roberts, 95; Jake Edwards, 83.

Jake Edwards' 83 gross also won an individual prize for scoring the second lowest gross. First low gross award was won by Bill Birkenhead of the Toronto Kingsway Kiwanis, who clubbed 82 gross out on the links.

Man with the lowest gross was Pete Atman of Lindsay, with 88.

Top low nets were scored by Doug Graham, Trenton, with 72; Roy Roberts, Belleville, with 73; and Storin, Belleville.

Low net prize with the "grossest" score was Bryan Butler of Cobourg, who spared the links but not his club to run up a gross 144 and quality as the most honest golfer of the session.

Other prizes went to Norm Armstrong of Trenton, for a low gross on nine holes and Bill Foley, Kingston, for low net on nine holes.

The awards were presented by Bruce Latimer while the main trophy was given away by Wilt LaPorte.

Belleville president, Staff McKenna, was chairman at the banquet and welcomed the members to a brief speech. He said he was "heartily appreciative of the effort" the Kingston had come to make the event a success.

You turned out in numbers greater than we had anticipated, he told the assembly.

The banquet also was addressed by Lt.-Governor Jack Baker, Mayor, who handed out the clubs for assembling at the event, while he said was one of the biggest in this area of Kiwanis clubs.

Innumerable door prizes were given out while the evening concluded with a cabaret entertainment.

Speed Merchants Had Better Watch Step

Local speed merchants who persist in burning up the pavement may have reason to be sorry for their actions in the future.

Yesterday afternoon a new electrically-operated speed timing device was put into operation by city police and with it traffic officers can determine the speed of passing motorists right down to the exact number of miles per hour.

First test of the new speed timing device was made on Dundas street near Bleecker Ave., when during the actual test motorists were clocked at anywhere up to 80 miles per hour. Following the test two officers were detailed to put the machine into official operation.

Operation of the device is simplicity itself. Two pneumatic tubes are placed across the street or highway exactly 11 feet apart and the time it takes one of the front wheels of the vehicle being checked is computed in miles per hour on the dial of the machine resting on the seat of the police car. The dial registers anywhere from 0 to 120 miles per hour and the machine can be set to check cars travelling in either direction.

Special signs reading "speed electrically timed" have been placed at all highway entrances to the city.

"We feel that the device will serve to reduce speeding," Police Chief Ellis said this week. "In other centres where the device is being used speed has been noticeably cut."

Charles L. Hyde New President Of Film Council

At the monthly meeting of the Belleville and District Film Council the following slate of officers was returned for the coming year: president, C. L. Hyde; past president, Mrs. W. Sine; vice-president, L. A. Keith; secretary-treasurer, Miss G. Delaney; recording secretary, Sister Mary Dorothy; publicity representative, B. Ward; directors: H. B. Frind, J. Silver, M. M. Hackett, Alex. Gemmell, J. Musgrave, and Mrs. an, F. C. Murray, J. Chard, C. Weld, J. Price T. Franklin; educational advisers B. H. Mackies L. A. Keith; program convener, Mrs. W. Sine; membership convener, Mrs. W. Sine; press reporter and publicity convener, Miss F. Sullivan; projectionist training convener, Dick Powell; projection maintenance convener, Fred Bowman; social committee, Mrs. H. Frind, Mrs. S. Dutton, Mrs. R. E. Cole.

Theme of the meeting was "Sales and Ad Club Dance Gala Event" and Mrs. Sine and Mrs. Pilms were shown on New Zealand and India by James Musgrove and a discussion was held under R. H. Macklem.

The next meeting of the council will be at Tweed Park, which will be followed by films shown by Ron Ward, NFB representative.

Sales and Ad Club Dance Gala Event

Girls event of the year for the Belleville Sales and Advertising Club was held at the Club Commodore Thursday night.

Some 135 couples, including members and their wives and guests from sub-clubs were on hand to attend the dance.

During the evening Frank Murray was inducted as president of the club for the coming year. The induction ceremony was performed by outgoing-president Harold Myers. Following the induction Mr. Myers was presented with an engraved cocktail shaker and Mrs. Myers with a bouquet of roses.

Among those attending from out-of-Town were Herman Dardick, president of the Kingston Sales and Advertising Club and Bud Fortner, president of the Peterborough club.

A lavish stock of presentations was received by the assembly. Gardinal and Bowlby full of generosities and two gifts were received by all the ladies attending, while the genie received ties.

Backed up by the Club Commodore orchestra a floor show highlighted the evening. Emceed by Gerry Lee, the show featured Mildred Morey, singer-comedienne and Cy Leonard, ventriloquist.

Happiest man of the evening probably was Al Wolfe who won a week-end trip to New York for two on the drawing of a ticket.

Other winners were Herb Hastle and Goldie Fitzgibbon.

Hook Muskie, Picture It Drop It Back

The two fishermen were trying their luck near O'Brien's Bridge the other day. On the bridge itself stood a dozen dozen spectators watching the several boats in the river. It was a nice warm sunny day, ideal for boating.

Suddenly one of the boys had a strike — a big one. Later he hauled in a five-pound muskie. His glad quickly grabbed his camera and "shot" a picture. Then the big fella was dropped back into the river.

Yeah, some two dozen spectators were watching.

SEIZE GANG MEMBERS

DETROIT (CP) — Police said Wednesday they are holding 52 youths as a result of a gang-fight between two 300 boys Thursday night. Squads of police raced to the scene and broke up the fight. They said home-made weapons taken from the youths included clubs, knives, razor blades, pieces of heavy chain, flares confiscated gunpowder and pieces of lead-filled pipe and hose.

Broadcasters Present Brief To Commission on Copyright

OTTAWA (CP)—A royal commission told Canada's private radio stations Wednesday "there is something to be said" for their aversion to Dutchery having the right to look at their books.

The royal commission on patents, copyright, trade marks and industrial designs, was studying a $13,000-word brief by the Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters. T. J. Allard of Ottawa, association executive vice-president, read and answered questions on $1,000 of the 13,000-word submission. The commission is to conclude its hearing of the CARTB brief today.

The association maintained Canada should enact her own copyright legislation, and place more music in the public domain by restricting copyright to 28 years after the composer's death, instead of the present 50.

SHORT DAY SO

It said record labels and sheet music, when the music is copyrighted, should set out on their own the rights; and it wanted a system set up for compulsory registration of all copyright ownership so that stations wanting to perform pieces could find out easily who had the rights on them.

The association said stations now are liable for infringement right down to network broadcasts, even though they have no control on program content. It wanted network liability levied against the originating station only, and that local stations have the right to rent individual selections rather than buying whole societies instead of having to incur their whole repertoire for a year.

Chief Dutch Hubert said a major contention of the association was against the right of the Composers, Authors and Publishers' Association of Canada and of BMI (Canada) Ltd. to examine broadcasters' records to verify the fees to which they were liable.

"It seems to me there is something to be said for working out a system that does not involve this vexatious matter of access to your books," he said.

St. John Brigade To Help Prevent Water Accidents

Every year in Canada between 900 and 1,000 people are drowned in swimming and boating accidents.

This is a tragic toll and something should be done about it. Obviously the first step is more care when in or on the water. But sometimes a few minutes' instruction to be some water accidents. There is a great need for people trained to help in such an emergency. It is in this phase that St. John Ambulance is making an important contribution with its "Save a Life" week from May 16 to 22.

During this period St. John is offering to give instruction at free official respiration to all those interested enough to make a two-hour class of demonstration and practice. The classes will be held in the evening and there is no charge. Those wishing to attend are asked to register in advance by phoning WO 2-3035.

Not one person in a hundred knows how to revive some one who has been pulled from the water in an unconscious condition. There can be no more heartbreaking position to be in than to have to stand by helpless when a rescue has been carried this far, but it is to help that many do take advantage of St. John Ambulance's offer to provide this valuable training.

St. John Ambulance will gladly give a lecture and demonstration to any organization wishing to take advantage of this opportunity during the next month. Any organization wishing to take advantage of this offer contact WO-2-3035.

Property Damage Extensive In Two Collisions

TRENTON — (Special)—Front Street between Elgin and Ford Streets was the scene of two serious accidents Wednesday. One person was injured and taken to the RCAF hospital for examination while the property damage ran high.

Mrs. Edward Laidlaw, 71 Division Street and Mrs." Laidlaw were travelling north in their car when it veered suddenly and mounted the east curb in front of Armstrong's store. Car mid-control. It hit a parking meter in front of Long's paint shop, then continued north knocking out two meters, a telephone pole and smashed a light standard.

Three soldiers from Picton had their hopes dashed minutes after they had purchased a car from a dealer in Trenton.

Private Leonard Samson, 30, was the proud new owner of a shiny used job he planned to drive for pleasure this summer. But fate soon twisted his expectations.

The trouble started when service friend Private Charles O'Connell was about to drive. Private Malcolm piled in and the three happy military types moved off. But not for long. O'Connell started to happen which the operator was powerless to prevent. An anticipated 30 mile journey ended a few hundred feet later in a crash involving a car owned and operated by John Zalesak, 32, of Trenton with his wife and their two-year-old sitting in the front seat.

Samson's dreams were shattered and so was his car to the extent of $400. Police said it would cost $90 to fix Zalesak's car. Those reporting that Samson had no insurance on his car and O'Connell was driving without a licence and no experience.

POLICE COURT NEWS

Robert Turner of Trenton may think twice before he throws his fists around again. Magistrate T. V. Wills imposed a six-months' suspended sentence and ordered him to pay costs amounting to $35 for assaulting Arthur LeClare.

Fred Ralph, found guilty of impaired driving, was fined $50 and directed to pay $26 costs.

James V. Anderson of Trenton was found guilty of drunk driving and sent to jail for thirty days. If he fails to pay $13 for driving without an operator's permit he will have to spend another week in confinement against his wishes.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP) — Industrials added to their earlier gains, climbing sharply to a record index level in early afternoon trading at the stock market today.

Algoma led the list, climbing 2¾ points after touching $71, a 1955 high, on 2,785 shares. There were no components of the industrial list that showed any real weakness.

Aluminium, Canadian Vickers, Chrysler, Consolidated Paper, Distillers Seagrams, Eddy Paper, Ford A, Pressed Metals, Walker-Gooderham all gained between one and two points. General Dynamics jumped 2¼.

Hudson Bay led most base metal issues jumping ⅞. Consolidated Smelting climbed ¾ to 34, but other advances were small.

Most speculative issues were slightly higher with best gains going to Consolidated Rarwich, Blue Rock Cerium, Black Bay, Faraday and Lorado. Preston declined 50 to 87 and Nama Creek 16 to 29 cents among a few lower issues.

Golds and base metals held firm in earlier trading while western oils remained moderate gains after earlier losses.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was barely steady with trade reported at a quiet demand.

Quotations provided by the Dominion department of agriculture:

Eggs, graded, in fibre cases: A large 39; A medium 38; A small 34; B 34; C 27. Wholesale to retail: A large 44; A medium 43; A small 39; B 39, C 32.

Butter solids: Ont., first grade, tenderable 38; non-tenderable 36 56½; western 38¼ (nominal).

Canada's Trade With Russia Has Evaporated

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's trade with Russia appears to have evaporated with the wind.

A brief 1954 flare-up in exports to the Soviet now has dwindled almost to the point of invisibility.

As an example, Canada's exports to that vast domain totalled a mere $638 in the first three months of 1955. Most of this covered an assortment of items sent to the Canadian embassy in Moscow. It contrasted with almost $600,000,000 worth of goods shipped to the United States in the similar period.

Canada's trade with Russia has been negligible in most post-war years, but in 1954 exports suddenly surged almost to $5,000,000 from $478 in 1953. Russia purchased Canadian chemicals, grain and surplus pork.

Missing Airliner Is Being Hunted Near Kilimanjaro

NAIROBI, Kenya (Reuters) — Safaris pressed through mountain country thick with lions, elephants and rhinos today in a search for a missing DC-3 airliner, missing in the Mount Kilimanjaro area since Wednesday with 20 persons aboard.

An extended air search had still failed to find any trace of the East African Airways plane, down somewhere in the Kenya-Tanganyika border area, south of here.

Safaris combed the big-game country on the ground, the country Ernest Hemingway wrote about in his "Snows of Kilimanjaro." If there were any survivors, they would be in peril from marauding animals.

The missing plane was due here Wednesday from Durban, South Africa.

Aboard the plane were six women, including Mrs. Mallie Sorabjee, wife of the general manager of East African Airways.

Obituary

CHARLIE W. WANNAMAKER
(Cannifton)

In ill health for the past eighteen months, Charlie Wilson Wannamaker, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday. He was born in Eldorado, 75 years ago, and was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John W. Wannamaker of Stirling and was never married. He resided for some years in Port Hope but spent nearly 35 years in Saskatchewan.

He was a member of the Anglican Church and is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Amos (Beatrice) Green and Mrs. Helena Wallace of this city, and four brothers, Daniel of Campbellford, William of Toronto, Nathan of Stirling and Harry of California.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

Asks Governments To Provide Homes for Servicemen

STE. AGATHE, Que. (CP) — A. C. Solomon of Montreal, president of the Canadian Legion's Quebec command, today urged federal, provincial and municipal governments to do their utmost to provide adequate housing for ex-servicemen.

Addressing the provincial command's 36th convention, Mr. Solomon said:

"While it is true that governments on all levels have participated to some degree in making available low and medium priced housing these efforts were not entirely coordinated, with the result that many . . . find themselves ill-housed and unable to pay either the high rentals or high prices demanded for the purchase of suitable housing facilities."

Mr. Solomon's remarks were contained in a text released before delivery.

ACTION URGED

He said current legislation provides for co-operation of federal, provincial and municipal governments in building low-rental housing "under a limited dividend plan."

He urged the Legion's Quebec command to take advantage of this plan as did the Ontario command, which had built several projects to accommodate older married veterans.

Turning to unemployment, Mr. Solomon urged the Quebec command to ask provincial and municipal governments for some form of unemployment relief without delay.

DOLLAR RATE

Liberals Annoy British Tories, Especially Woman

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—In a diversion from the straight Conservative-Labor fight which is the usual pattern in Britain's general election campaign the Conservatives are rounding up Cupid on the Liberals and the Liberals are fighting back.

A centre of discord is the highly marginal constituency of Chislehurst, Kent, held by red-haired Patricia H'n'r-Gosselin, only woman member of the Conservative government. Miss Hornsby-Smith ir distressed that the Liberals, with 110 candidates for the 630 parliamentary seats at stake next Thursday, are contesting 74 Conservative-held constituencies compared with only 28 held by Labor.

Miss Hornsby-Smith said Liberal policy of assigning candidates seemed as paradoxical as "a teetotaller taking shares in a brewery." She contended that Liberals are fundamentally anti-socialist, yet they concentrate most of their candidates not against Labor but against the Conservatives.

A Liberal answer came Wednesday night from Derryck Abel of the Free Trade Union, speaking on behalf of David Blackburn, the Liberal candidate in Chislehurst.

"She really does not understand us at all," said Abel. "Liberals believe that there is more in common between the average Tory and the average Socialist than between the average Liberal and either one of them."

The Liberal vote is widely regarded as the key to the election. It is usually estimated that Liberals lacking a candidate of their own tend to favor the Conservatives in a ratio of about three to two, but this trend may be offset by the fact that a majority of Liberals are running in Tory-held areas.

Geographically, the Liberal candidates are clustered in southwest and southeast England, in the home counties and in Wales. There were six Liberal members in the last House of Commons and hopes are high of all being returned.

12 School Choirs To Give Festival

The final music festival sponsored by the South Hastings Educational Association at the Quinte Secondary School on Friday evening will bring together representative choirs from twelve district festivals sponsored by this organization throughout South Hastings during the past month.

Major Brian McCool, assistant director of music for the department of education will be on hand to comment on quality of the music.

It is expected that approximately six hundred students from the elementary schools of Sidney and Thurlow township will be on hand to illustrate their vocal ability. Numbers representing primary, junior and senior grades will be presented as well as some novelty numbers.

The pupils and teachers concerned have practised diligently for the opportunity of appearing in public and a fine program has been arranged.

Barbara Romack Beaten in Finals For British Open

PORTRUSH, Northern Ireland (AP)—Mrs. Kathy Valentine, 40-year-old Scottish veteran, today won the British Women's golf championship by trimming U. S. amateur champion Barbara Romack, 7 and 6 in the 36-hole final.

The pretty 22-year-old Sacramento, Calif., girl, Canadian Open champion in 1953, was never in the running. Playing with a limp from a swollen left ankle, Barbara was three down at the end of nine holes, five down at the end of 18, and eight down after 27.

Workers Plan Strike If Wages Are Reduced

WOODSTOCK (CP) —Membership of Local 986, United Textile Workers (AFL-CIO-CLC) of America (CCL-CIO) Wednesday voted to strike if the York Paper Box Company, an affiliate of York Knitting Mills here insists on a 10-cent-an-hour wage reduction.

Ronald B. Spears, union business representative at London, said the executive has been empowered to call a strike without further recourse to the membership.

The employees, now working 35 hours a week, are demanding a five-cent-an-hour wage increase, a guaranteed 40-hour week with the same take-home pay as for regular 45-hour work week, and hospital benefits.

33 Pilots Killed In 39 Crashes, 1,000 Trained

OTTAWA (CP) — Thirty-three pilots of some 1,000 men trained in T-33 jet aircraft have been killed in Canada in 39 crashes of the plane since it went into service as an advanced trainer late in 1953.

Defence Minister Campney tabled the information in the Commons Wednesday in reply to a series of questions by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC, the Progressive Conservative party's defence spokesman.

Mr. Campney said that 13 of the 33 men killed were pilot students from NATO countries. He said there was an inquiry into every one of the 39 crashes. It was found the principal reason for the crashes was pilot errors in judgment.

Drunk, So Acquitted

TORONTO (CP)—Ambrose Starling, 36, was acquitted of car theft Wednesday after defence counsel told the jury Starling was drunk when he drove the stolen vehicle away and did not have the necessary intent.

Crown counsel W. H. Langdon told the jury:

"If you accept this man, then you will be opening the door to allow people to use the fact that they were drinking as an excuse to steal cars."

NEUTRALITY — IT IS WONDERFUL!

"It is encouraging to learn that the hectic pace of modern living has not been permitted to tarnish the tranquility which enshrouds the lives of some of Canada's top policymakers.

The Canadian Press carried a story from Ottawa the other day which was as quaint and fascinating as great grandma's hoop skirt.

In the event of the United States becoming involved in a war in which Canada was not engaged, American troops now stationed in Canada would probably be asked to leave the country, The Canadian Press reported.

This departure, it was added a few paragraphs later, could depend on North American defences, for some of these men operate stations in the Pine Tree radar line.

The article observed that "the possibility the U.S. might get into a war with Communist China over the Nationalist-held islands of Quemoy and Matsu has given the problem (of Canadian neutrality in a war in which the U.S. is engaged) some significance in recent months," since Canada "has made it plain she will not enter such a fight, unless it spreads to North America."

The American troops manning the Pine Tree radar line have been sent to Canada to provide a warning if any Russian planes loaded with A-bombs try to fly over the Pole to devastate U.S. cities.

But if war breaks out between the United States and China and Canada is still neutral, the Americans will be asked to withdraw these troops.

That is what the men at Ottawa say, according to The Canadian Press.

Can anyone imagine Washington meekly complying with that request?

Suppose Canada for not interning the U.S. servicemen stationed in this country at the outbreak of war?

All we need to make the present lookout for a surprise raid over the Pole unnecessary is a nice little private war between the U.S. and China.

For, after all, if the bombers do come then, they will not raid neutral Canada but belligerent United States.

There is one little point, though, that the gentlemen at Ottawa, studying their neutrality laws, do not seem to have made any provision for. If the war spreads to North America.

Is the act of dropping a few A-bombs on U.S. cities spreading the war to North America—or does there have to be a land invasion before we permit the U.S. troops to enter Canada and man the Pine Tree radar line?

SOOS TURN BACK CLOCKS

"Unless" is a little word which has unquestionably prevented a double murder at the Soos.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., not Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., are celebrating the centennial of the Soo locks. The male of the species, as it frequently does on such occasions, has been growing a beard for a while. No great harm has been done, since barbers long since ceased to depend on their razors to scrape funds into the family coffers. Indeed, a lucrative new industry in trimming beards has probably been developed.

All would have been well if the mayor of Soo, Mich., and the mayor of Soo, Ont., had not put their heads together and, on March 15, hissed a proclamation which read, in part, as follows:

"That, in Memory of their Pioneer Great Grandmothers of Years Any and All Females of the Gentler and Fair Sex residing within the Limitations of the Two Cities of Sault Ste. Marie shall Hereafter from this Date until that of September Fifth:

"Refrain from appearing in Public or on The Mall. The Post Roads or The Queen's Highways while wearing, either Singly or in Combination, such Modern Innovations as Lipstick, Powder, Rouge, Mascara, Eye Shadow, Mascara, Attachable Lashes, Nail Polish (both on Metatarsal or Metacarpal Extremities), Perfume, Cologne, Tinted or Bleached or Dyed Hair, Curled Masses of Goosamer Locks or Shorn Tresses, Earrings, or Jewelry or any Other Kind of Cosmetic, Hirsute or Skin-Covering Additions or Improvements upon the handiwork of Mother Nature . . ."

By this point in the proclamation, we feel sure, all the members of the so-called stronger sex must have taken to the Soos.

The ladies, however, apparently decided to read on to the bitter end before starting the slaughter. And thus they ran into that little life-saver, "unless."

"Unless," the sanctimonious proclamation, "The Lovely Ladies in question have First Obtained the Official Centennial Belle Emblem Button. This Official Insignia shall Indicate that She Attended the Gala Ball Full Permit, sion to wear, effect, employ or display such Aforementioned Feminine Embiandishments for the Purpose of emphasizing Her Charm and Beauty and (b) Has Obtained Her Official Membership in the Subsidiary of Loyal Centennial Supporters, known as the 'Centennial Belles'."

Those Centennial Belle Emblem Buttons must have been in great demand. Unless (that little word again), the Lovely Ladies decided to take a horrible revenge and parade around sans lipstick, rouge, nail polish, etc., until after the close of the centennial celebrations. What a shock that would be to the men. Serve them right too, the beardgrowers!

JUST FOLKS

VOICE OF WISDOM

Once I thought I knew it all.
Very wise back then was I.
Just fourteen, as I recall,
But I knew what things to buy.
Knew what father ought to do,
Knew just what he ought to wear,
Almost daily told him, too.
But he didn't greatly care.

On his face would come a smile;
Mother then would hear him say:
"Let's be patient for a while.
This in time will pass away.
When the voice of wisdom speaks . . .
We should lend attentive ears
It's been known to last for weeks;
Now and then for months and years.

"It's a phase all boys go through.
I was once as sure and wise;
Everything I thought I knew.
Time for that, the cure supplies.
Bear with him as best we can.
All who live will blunder touch.
When he grows to be a man
He won't think he knows so much."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 19, 1935

Punts are the craze along the water front this season declared a well-known local enthusiast today. In almost every back yard along the harbor, punts are being built or old ones are being remodelled and patched for the coming boating season.

Mr. J. Vernon Parker of Elgin and Mr. Charles Turner of Fort Percy have purchased the City Hotel in this city from Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, who has successfully conducted the hotel since the death of her husband Henry Johnson. She operated the hotel for many years, Mr. Johnson is well known in this city as he is closely associated with sport in Picton and two years ago he represented the provincial fleshlifts.

Mr. Bruce Graham has arrived home from England where he spent six weeks. He came over on the steamship "Duchess of York" and landed at Quebec.

Mr. Archie Boyd has been successful in passing his first year examinations at the College of Pharmacy, Toronto.

30 YEARS AGO

May 19, 1925

Milton Sills, popular movie star and a native of Huntingdon township, passed through this city today enroute to Ottawa. Mayor W. C. Mikel and several other citizens had a brief interview with Mr. Sills in his compartment on the train and invited him to attend the coming Old Boys' Reunion. Many of Mr. Sills' contemporaries also by Miss McDougall and Mr. Chancey Ashley, who is a distant relative of Mr. Sills.

Miss Evelyn Wilson of West Huntingdon attended the graduation exercises at the Kingston General Hospital this week.

Mrs. Allan Sinclair, Alexander Street, spent several days in Kingston this week.

Mrs. John McIntosh is spending some time in Guelph.

40 YEARS AGO

May 19, 1915

Mr. T. E. Ewen, M.A., of this city is in Toronto to attend the Quinquennial Celebration of graduates of Toronto University of the year 1870 and the years prior to that date. There are now only about thirty graduates living who graduated in 1870 and prior to that time and among them are Sir John Gibson, the Hon. Richard Harcourt and Mr. Ewen.

The following have been elected members of the Ontario Street Methodist Church for this year: H. J. Clarke, R. J. Frederick, Hyslop Hollon, G. M. James, R. B. Morden, Jacob Price, R. B. Wisman, Dr. Day and Alex. Ray.

Mr. Reg. J. Elliott of this city has passed the first year examinations in medicine at Toronto University.

50 YEARS AGO

May 19, 1905

A large shipment of whitefish fry arrived here today from the Newcastle hatchery and they were deposited in the bay.

The steamer Varuna will run in excursions to Picton on May 22; return fare 40 cents. The boat trip to Picton is always popular.

Mrs. Elliott, wife of the Rev. O. C. Elliott, pastor of the Bridge St. Church, was entertained at the home of Mr. Hitchon, Alexander Street, last evening and during the evening she was presented with a dozen table knives by the members of the Timothy Mission Band of the church. Mrs. Elliott and her husband will leave here shortly.

One thing about all the rain we have been getting is that it makes sure that the growth of weeds in many parts of the city will not be a failure; they have become so familiar that we sure would miss them.

Wants French Taught to All

(Hamilton Spectator)

Mayor Lloyd Jackson suggested during the good-will tour of civic officials to Shawinigan Falls, Quebec, that French and English should be taught in every elementary school in Canada. We certainly agree with him.

Canada is a bilingual country. English and French are its official languages on an equal basis. Neither has precedence. Bilingualism was one of the promises of Confederation and should be a principal bond of Canadian unity.

But actually provincial educational systems appear to be perpetuating a dualism of culture which weakens both the strength and the culture of the nation.

Mr. Kenneth Smith, Spectator staff reporter who accompanied the city delegation to the Quebec community, has observed: "We met an amazing number of bilingualism here in spite of the fact that only about eight per cent of the people are of English background. Fluent English made one ashamed of inadequate French."

Possibly a favorable trend is the growing opinion that Ottawa should subsidize the provinces or municipalities of part of the increasing education bill. At present while the provinces are naturally jealous of their "rights", there is no financial assistance from the federal aid.

A report prepared for the Canadian School Trustees' Association, under Dr. M. E. LaZerte, national director of research and education, recommends federal grants of $100,000,000 to the provincial school systems.

Federal participation in education could help to prevent breaking down the French-English bi-operative difficulty. French pronunciation more easily mastered.

Most products of the secondary schools in this province will agree that their knowledge of French has been of little value. It could have been a liberal for the learning of French literature; more often it became merely a mental exercise and a dull memorization of how many square feet of wallpaper would be needed to cover rooms of specified dimensions are such-and-such, with so many windows.

Certainly Canada's future experience is not treated with the respect merited by an official Canadian language, spoken by 70,000,000 persons throughout the world.

In Belgium, the two official languages, it has been written that "what is not said in French remains unsaid." Certainly a deeper than nodding high school acquaintance with its literature and culture would promote national harmony and open up a new field of enjoyment of the French heritage in literature, art and the sciences—and of stimulating association with a large group of fellow Canadians.

Report Lloyd Jackson's timely proposal that French be taught in all Canadian elementary schools may provide an opportunity much the better. An open discussion is overdue.

Apple Jelly Comes in Tubes

(Wall Street Journal)

A little apple-raspberry jelly for your toast? Just pick up the tube, simulate a fire extinguisher and squeeze out a portion. Sandwich spreads in tubes, mustard and mayonnaise likely will be available in a tube, too.

Food-in-a-tube is one of a number of developments in packaging which will be changing American living in big ways and little ways. Competition for sales dollars is focusing ever-increasing attention on package appearance. Also, a cost-conscious merchandiser don't want profits shaved by over packaging that his merchandise spoil or get dirty.

Packaging of food in tubes is popular in Europe, but has only been used for fish pastes and a few isolated products here. Now 16 tube manufacturers think they can cultivate a market. They see tubed food appealing to the pocketknicker who wants items in small quantities, to mothers preparing school lunches and to hungry stenographers and secretaries who like a variety of coffee breaks and don't want to lug lunch boxes to work.

Here are some other new packaging feats, some of which are already commercially practicable:

Martinis and manhattans in bags, complete with olives and cherries; a bag in which water may be boiled; bagged pickles in brine; goldfish in transparent bags; transparent bags strong strong enough to carry 100 pounds of grapefruit without any danger of bursting; individual portion bags and plastic envelopes containing such diverse products as auto windshield washing fluid and liquid shaving cream.

Bags are being used for toting acid by battery manufacturers. Batteries are sent to dealers without the acid and the acid is poured in at the time of purchase, assuring customers of ever-good batteries.

Packagers say there's more interest than ever in transparent containers, so a purchaser can see exactly what he's getting. Ready to put part, door handle, golf ball or a pickle. Sturdiness also is demanded, so goods won't be hurt by manhandling on counters; one new plastic container is strong enough to support an elephant without damaging the glass items inside.

The growing consumer interest in individual packages—instead of bulk goods—is another boon to wrapper and container makers.

Marmora Mine First of Many

(Financial Post)

Anotlier page was added to Canadian industrial history when Marmora Mine, first of many to be moved out of Bethlehem Steel's Marmora mine for the docks of Picton, Ont., began its trek.

In itself, of course, this is a relatively small operation employing about 270 men. But it is the sort of development we can expect to see proceed again and again as the coming years, as newly discovered and developed fields forces U.S. mineral users to look for new supplies.

For we're over a hundred years it has been known that there was iron in this south central Ontario region. But beyond a little surface scratching there was no real development. Other ores were more accessible or more easily handled or both. That is not so today.

Mathematics Easy for Him

(German Federal Govt. Bulletin)

Even in our scientific-minded era the popularity of mathematics has hardly increased. Many a well-educated person would be apt to name the great theoretic mathematicians of modern times, although some of these are even whose significance for science matches that of a Euclid or an Archimedes.

One of the few who is perhaps still known is the name of Karl Friedrich Gauss, whose death one hundred years ago was recently commemorated not only at the University of Gottingen but by some of the greatest societies of scholars in the world.

With almost playful unerringness his genius was able to attack and solve the most difficult problems. At the age of nine—son of a Brunswick craftsman—Gauss and his classmates were set the task of adding together all the first 100 to 60, the teacher hoping to occupy the children a long hour. After a minute or two, however, young Gauss presented the correct solution: 5,050. He had grasped the grasp of a mathematical law. If one adds 1 to 100, 2 to 99, and progressively added —1 + 60, 2 + 59, 3 + 58, etc.—the result is always 61. There are just 50 such pairs of digits between 1 and 100, thus the total is 50 x 101.

When he was 19 years old, Gauss solved a geometrical problem which had long been in question since ancient times. At 24 he published a treatise which proof of the fundamental proposition of algebra—proof which had been attempted unlike Euler and Lagrange had sought in vain. Discovery of asteroid Ceres in 80, Gauss was professor of mathematics at Gottingen and director of the observatory there.

Among the principles of his method of calculating planetarian orbits is still used by all astronomers. He also made contribution to the test at the turn of the century. When the asteroid Ceres was seen from Sicily on New Year's Eve but disappeared after 40 days. Ten months later it was found in the exact place where Gauss had calculated it would be.

An theorist in physics his accomplishments were of equal importance. Together with Weber he made magnetic units which he set up, a unit of magnetic induction which is the same internationally.

However, with the humility of the truly wise, this great scientist one year before his death wrote in a letter to Alexander von Humboldt: "Nature has more means at her disposal than we poor humans can begin to grasp."

Immigrate To Altars

(Detroit News)

A report that New Zealand has 40,000 more bachelors than spinsters of marriageable age has brought a flood of English girls to set sail for down under looking for a statistic with honorable intentions.

This has the New Zealand government worried. Officials there explain that figures may lie, especially in matters of the heart. Officials also point out that many with New Zealand spinsters who may all sailed on matrimony bent bours, but they do point out that a lot of them are to be found in the "bachelor" class because they low on the hog.

Those who are not easily discouraged, however, are not easily discouraged, and this covers girls traveling 12,000 miles by the light of a glint in the eye. So the New Zealand sailing sail again, they did 336 years ago to these shores. If that isn't love, it is a part of what makes the world go around.

WHEELS

"He's a 'big wheel'!"

The current slang is apt, meaning an important person; a leading executive. And the ambition to become a big wheel is just as prevalent today as the ambition to be the big shot of another generation. The man has found to describe those who have risen to positions of trust at the people who are revolving about them and to their efforts to deserve the title.

But if you want to be a really important big wheel you ought to study machinery. For one thing the big wheel is usually the big turning fast; they move slowly, and let the little wheels geared to them do the rapid flying. The big ones move deliberately and powerfully.

And the big wheels are the strong ones, made of heavy metal to withstand heavy strains. They are the solid, dependable wheels that keep turning and do not crack when the load gets heavy.

In some machinery, the big wheel is the flywheel—the wheel whose weight and momentum keep the machinery going. As long as the flywheel keeps turning the machine will function; without a flywheel, it would stop after a few revolutions.

So if you are on your way to becoming a big wheel, don't overload your real purpose. Concentrate on the qualities that make the big wheel really valuable to the rest of the machine.

Little Lesson In Pathology

In these days of "wonder drugs" or "miracle medicines" some doctors who use these drugs as cure-alls seem unconcerned with elementary pathology. Otherwise it's hard to see how they can expect the latest miracle medicine to cure anything.

When a physician calls your victor of pathologist in surgical diagnosis. In a great many instances the physician's opinion of the nature of the trouble is confirmed or negated by the pathologist's examination of material the doctor submits, and perhaps a vital decision for or against radical treatment becomes possible.

The most valuable service of the pathologist is in the performance of the biopsy. Standing by, with microscope and other equipment ready, the pathologist quickly examines a bit of tissue obtained by the surgeon, and reports what his examination reveals. This enables the surgeon to conserve tissue which otherwise he might have removed, or to do a radical operation where otherwise he might have assumed the condition to be benign.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

Just imagine what a drab and dreary world this would be without any color! Not even in a sunset. The Creator knew that life would not go on without color—or everywhere, even in the eye of a human being. And so we have color in every growing thing, and in the dress and plumage of birds. We have color in the sea and sky, and, in the carpet of this earth, flowers.

Advertisers and salesmen know the value of color. It is the most attractive. Magazine covers and book jackets are colorful, and the sales of such are greatly increased. The taste for colorful things has grown greatly increasingly. Black and white camera pictures grow less and less in popularity. Everything that is not colorful And now the dream of the scientific mind is to have colorful shapes in the deep tropics. Is it that they were made so beautiful so that they would not get lonely in that quiet area? Each one of us is also less lonely with lots of color about us!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Among many different specialties to be found in the medical and surgical professions are a few which make getting into any particular field—the study of the diseases and health conditions of old people. In the club and lodge room, I have had a chat with a geriatrician. He has specialized in the problems of "old people," he said, "or the psychological one. The new trend, which developed in the last few years, towards smaller family groups and the breakup of the whole of a problem for countless elderly people within say, the last two years. They have their homes any more. Their children can't take care of them in these modern bungalows and compact apartments. It has been a tradition from remotest times that old people are naturally cared for by their children. That tradition is now crumbling.

"Formerly, we had a fair number of psychological situations with regard to old people who, rather than change their manners or change their ways, preferred to live apart from their children. Or the tankerous, critical, scolding elders who did not realize their authority had waned when their children grew up and established homes of their own. But now there are thousands young."

He is a specialist to whom the problem at all in the "old folks' home" who is victim of difficult purely economic problem of peace. The old age pension does not come anywhere near paying for suitable separate board and lodging, he said, for comfortable old people. And this creates distress, anxiety and fear in the old folk and to new trouble, in the family. Therefore science is supposed to have extended greatly the health and life expectancy of the elderly. This would be true except for the new problem of old age pensions, which, not to mention the accelerated cost of living, has made life not easier to be old, right now, than it was fifty years ago."

On the other hand, good doctor that at least there were specialists of agreeable, adaptable and useful old age to be found in the medical and lodge room. I have had a chat with a geriatrician. He has specialized in the problems of "old people," he said, "or the psychological one. CCF LEADER SAYS

At Schumacher, Premier Frost said that never before has so much been done for the north country.

His comment came during an attack on a newspaper supporting the liberal party. The premier referred to an editorial and story in Tuesday's edition of the Toronto Daily Star which was headed "Get on the Gravy Train Tory Advice to the North."

Mr. Frost said he had often reiterated the statement that if it were not for lumber exports in the North, Ontario would not be so prosperous.

"I am glad to have an opponent accuse me of spending money in the north country," he said. "For every dollar raised in the area the province matches it with more than a dollar from provincial funds. Never before has northern Ontario scrolled treatment of that sort.

DOING THINGS

"Friends, if that is a gravy train I am glad to come here and acknowledge that we are doing things for the people."

The editorial, Premier Frost said referred to Mayor J. W. Spooner of Timmins as a Frenchman.

"Mayor Spooner is proud to acknowledge descent from the great, great French race, the original Canadians from overseas. I am glad to acknowledge that my people came from Scotland, many years ago and my wife is glad to acknowledge that her people came from Ireland.

"But friends, I am a Canadian, my wife is a Canadian and Mayor Spooner is a Canadian."

RAPID TOUR

The premier, continuing a rapid tour of northern Ontario later visited Matheson and Kirkland Lake by car. He travelled by aircraft from Sudbury to South Porcupine during the morning and then to Schumacher by car. He will speak at Clinton tonight.

He spoke in support of mayor Spooner, candidate for Cochrane South. The premier questioned a statement of Ontario Liberal leader Farquhar Oliver that the Liberal platform would cost the province only $35,000,000 a year and could be paid from surplus accounts.

"He said, it will take $35,000,000 but my conservative guess is $250,000,000." Mr. Frost said. "To say that he is going to finance it out of surplus accounts makes me wonder. It would mean pitching heart research and Salk vaccine out the window, taking from hospitals and universities and throwing them overboard and taking from cancer research."

ATTACKS LIBERAL PLATFORM

The premier, attacking the Liberal platform said it has done in speeches this week in northern Ontario, described it as "a fantastic gerry-built structure of bubbles, planks, limbs and butts of logs, left over from other platforms."

He said the Progressive Conservative party has a "very great platform that isn't a matter of promises but things in progress."

Mr. Oliver said a Progressive Conservative promise to spend $200,000,000 on roads in the next five years is impossible to carry out. Speaking at Sault Ste. Marie, he charged that Mr. Frost is being unrealistic.

"They can't do it and they won't. They voted $140,000,000 for roads last year and they didn't spend that."

He added that the Liberal government under the late Mitchell Hepburn, "built more and better roads with half the money the present government spends on road construction."

HIS LONGEST DAY

Wednesday was probably the longest dayof Mr. Oliver's current campaign. He spoke at Espanola at night after leaving Kenora at 3 a.m. to fly to Sault Ste. Marie for a luncheon meeting of the Sault Ste. Marie Liberal Association. He then drove to Espanola, 44 miles from Sudbury, covering a total of more than 650 miles by plane and car.

It was at Espanola that he accused the premier of conducting a "Jekyll and Hyde" campaign for re-election.

In his strongest personal attack on the premier, the 51-year-old Liberal head said it was about time Ontario had a good government all the time and "not just blessings at election time showered by a Santa Claus with white whiskers."

IN EVERY DEPARTMENT

Mr. Oliver added that there is waste and extravagance in every government department. He listed Hydro and labor as the worst offenders.

Mr. Oliver said the premier had appeared in Sudbury during his election campaign and noticed a bad road "for the first time."

"You elect my member and I'll build you a road," Mr. Oliver quoted the premier as saying.

Kinsmen Will Help to Complete Recreation Centre

PICTON — Picton Kinsmen Club is going all out in an effort to help complete the Agricultural and Recreation Centre at the Fair Grounds.

In an earlier campaign, the club collected $1,259.97 in cash donations. This had been held in trust several years. When Prince Edward Agricultural Society decided to erect the Agricultural Centre to provide for indoor entertainment and additional display space for the annual fair, it was thought wise to erect a building sufficiently large to also be used as an arena if the public and organizations so desired and provided financial support. The exterior of the 100 x 240 building was completed last fall.

Implied to the drive to make the building also an arena was given by the Kinsmen's Club. They immediately turned over the money donated by individuals for such a purpose several years ago.

In addition, the club pledged to make the sum up to $5,000. This has now been raised.

PRESENTED CHEQUE

At its last meeting the club presented a cheque for $1500 to the fund. President Cy Folds in making the presentation to the Agricultural Society secretary-treasurer, Phil Dodds, stated that an additional thousand dollars will be presented shortly.

Accepting the cheque, Mr. Dodds expressed appreciation of the support of the club which had largely been responsible for such a project being undertaken. He felt a completed building, including a hall, would be a memorial to efforts of those who supported the project.

Though a drive for funds is not planned until fall,"many donations are being received to aid the fund. The Girl Guides plan a rally of pennies on June 4. The Agricultural Society will have a draw on a new car.

Weddings

SNOW—ATKINSON

Lovely spring flowers formed the setting in Christ church, Bellecliffe, on Saturday, May 14, at 2.00 p.m., for the marriage of Audrey Eleanor Atkinson, of Toronto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Atkinson, to Sergeant Douglas Fraser Snow, of the RCAF, of R.D., Trenton, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray J. Snow, of Barrington Passage, Nova Scotia. The Rev. Everett F. Smith, assistant rector of Christ church, officiated.

Mr. John C. Withers presided at the console of the organ, and accompanied the choir of seven boys who rendered the "Nuptial Psalm", and during the signing of the register, "Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring". Other selections rendered by the organist were, "O Perfect Love" and the Bridal March from Wagner's "Lohengrin."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely dress of nylon taffeta and embroidered net in ankle length, fashioned with a strapless bodice and overdress of Chantilly lace and net, having a Mandarin collar and long sleeves. She carried a fingertip veil of tulle illusion worn by a tight bouquet of net and lace. She carried a semi-cascade of deep pink roses and white orchids.

Mrs. Herbert W. Cavalier, of Belleville, was matron of honor, the bride's only attendant, attractively attired in ice blue taffeta, with matching bracelet of lace and overdress of lace and net. She wore a matching head band of ice blue taffeta, matching gloves, and carried a small hand bouquet of three shades of pink spring flowers.

Mr. Donald Snow of Barrington Passage, N.S., brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and the ushers were, Mr. Murray Atkinson, of Belleville, brother of the bride, and Mr. Herbert Cavalier, of Montreal, brother-in-law of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at Golden Acre Club, Kingston Road, where the bride's mother in navy blue velvet dress with pink accessories and corsage of pink roses and white hyacinth bells, received. The bridegroom's mother wearing a lovely taffeta of black and pink with matching black and pink accessories, and corsage of pink roses and black ribbon, assisted.

For travelling to the United States, the bride chose a two-piece grey suit with red and white accessories and corsage of deep red carnations.

Guests were present from Barrington Passage, N.S., Halifax, N.S., Clyde River, N.S., Hunting Lodge Island, Montreal, Quebec, Ottawa, Toronto and Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. Snow will reside in Belleville, upon their return. Cables and telegrams of good wishes were received from Zweibrucken, Germany; Grostenquin, France; Cornerbrook, Newfoundland; Summerside, P.E.I.; Nuffenan, England, and Merrilton, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick William Leeming are shown following their marriage in Christ Church, in company with their six choristers. The bride is the former Miss Jean Clarkson, younger daughter of Mr. H. A. Clarkson, of Preston, Lancashire, England, and the late Mrs. Clarkson. (Photo by W. Riley, Belleville.)

LEEMING—CLARKSON

Lovely spring flowers formed an attractive background in Christ church, Bellecliffe, on Saturday, April 23, for a pretty wedding, when Jean, younger daughter of Mr. Albert Clarkson of Preston, Lancashire, England, and the late Mrs. Clarkson, became the bride of Frederick William Leeming, of Belleville. The Reverend L. A. Page of St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill, officiated.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Mr. Albert McGowan, looked lovely in a gown of white glorina, with fingertip veil and carried a cascade of red roses and baby's breath.

Her attendant dressed in pale turquoise terylene and carrying a cascade of pink roses and baby's breath, was Miss Kay McGowan.

Mr. Donald E. Leeming, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. The ushers were Mr. A. Jackson, and Mr. T. C. Whittle.

The wedding reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. McGowan, of Marshall Road, uncle and aunt of the bride.

The bridal couple left on a wedding trip by car to Niagara Falls, and points west.

Out-of-town guests were from Preston, Lancashire, England and Montreal.

Grand Old Lady Reaches 91st Milestone

Yesterday Mrs. E. Alexander, of Church street, was "at home" to her many friends on the occasion of her 91st birthday.

Receiving at the door were Mrs. James Alexander, daughter-in-law, and Mrs. M. McGowan, a daughter from Edmonton, who is now residing with Mrs. Alexander.

During the afternoon and evening, many friends called with this grand old lady many happy returns of the day, among whom were the Rev. and Mrs. Smith, former pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, and Mrs. Hornsby, of Picton, and the Rev. R. D. MacLean, pastor of St. Andrew's and Mrs. MacLean.

Mrs. Alexander was the recipient of a telegram from her brother, Mr. S. Stewart of Pittsburg, as well as floral tributes, and a lovely birthday cake presented by her daughter, Mrs. McGowan.

The tea table was a picture with its natural raffia basket of pink flowering almond, flanked by pink candles in silver holders. Different colored cakes also lent a pleasing complement to the lovely centrepiece.

Mrs. Denis, of Bloomfield, a long-time friend, poured tea.

The citizens of Belleville join with her family in wishing Mrs. Alexander her 100th birthday.

St. Thomas' Parish Guild Sponsors Attractive Spring Tea

Beautiful baskets of double, white and mauve lilacs, yellow, rose and mauve tulips filled each end table in St. Thomas' Parish House, and overflowed onto the steps where silver-covered boxes of velvety pansies, mauve and white sweet alyssum, mingled with sprays of white bridal-wreath spires added a fragrant and lovely touch to the spring tea yesterday afternoon under the sponsorship of St. Thomas' Parish Guild.

Receiving the numerous guests were Mrs. W. J. Robinson, wife of the rector, and Mrs. A. V. Pringle, president of the Guild. Mrs. E. Jones, treasurer for the afternoon presided at a little table with its accent of spring flowers, while tall, white baskets of lilacs and tulips graced the steps nearby.

The whole assembly room was given over to the little guest tables, each with its white cloth, green and white serviettes, and centred with a crystal holder of sweet pickles.

CHARMING TEA TABLE

The tea table, with its snow-white damask, was centred by a large crystal bowl of white lilacs, orange-colored parrot tulips, sprays of orange-red japonica, orange blossoms and mauve and orange tulips. Silver services completed a charming arrangement.

Those pouring were, Mrs. Austin Smith and Mrs. D. Fisher; Mrs. L. Kells and Mrs. A. H. Ketcheson; Mrs. H. Stone and Mrs. R. E. Morton; Mrs. F. S. Wilson and Mrs. I. Thompson; Mrs. F. B. Gerrard and Mrs. V. Blakelee.

Serving were, Mrs. H. McKellar, Mrs. A. Coulter, Mrs. William Hurst, Mrs. L. A. Kells, Mrs. J. Hawkins, Mrs. R. Keel, Mrs. Davison, Mrs. A. Gonin, Mrs. L. V. Arnott, Mrs. Knudsen, Mrs. F. E. Wills, Mrs. E. G. Porter, Mrs. G. E. Little, Mrs. A. Wolfendon, Mrs. F. C. Loder, Mrs. H. Murray, Mrs. J. Buchan, Mrs. A. Howe, Mrs. S. Henry, Mrs. G. Jones, Mrs. J. Minett and Mrs. R. H. Wildifield.

The tea room hostesses were, Mrs. G. Miller and Mrs. H. Alford.

Arranging plates: Mrs. J. Mason, Mrs. A. Simpson, Mrs. J. Watson, Mrs. J. C. R. Punchard, Mrs. G. Hosang, Mrs. T. H. Kelly, Mrs. Jeffrey, Mrs. P. Clarke, Mrs. H. Carruthers, Mrs. E. Lyons, Mrs. Randell and Mrs. Winters.

The attractive display of cakes, rhubarb and peach pies, butter-nut, taffy, red apple jelly and black jellied currant tarts; daintily decorated cup cakes iced with whipped cream and sprinkled with shavings of coconut; white-iced layer cakes; chocolate cakes; hot buns fresh from oven; date turnovers; bran muffins and angel cakes in white, pink, and natural, as well as jars of pickles, relishes and conserves, was soon sold.

A most attractive tea, charmingly arranged with appreciative thanks going to the convener, Mrs. Thomas Irving, and her assistants, Mrs. T. Wrenshall, Mrs. J. Marshall and Miss Peggy Blakelee, also to Mrs. R. A. Pringle, Mrs. H. Murray and Mrs. A. E. Purdy for the delightful floral accents.

Bay of Quinte W.I. Holds Meeting

The Bay of Quinte Institute held its May meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Boulton, Belleville G.D. last Wednesday with a nice attendance of members. The meeting was opened in the usual manner by Mrs. Alfred Reid, the new president.

In the long business session, it was decided to donate towards the Blind and the Belleville Salvation Army, also to our district fee.

It was also decided to send a card of congratulations to Miss Anna Lewis, who was married in April. Miss Lewis was the superintendent of Home Economics for Ontario Women's Institutes in conjunction with the Department of Agriculture.

It was approved that a certain sum be given to the flower committee to carry on and that cards be sent to people outside the Institute, in case of sickness or death and to the members of the W. I. and their families, also flowers.

The June meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Yateman, on the 6th of June in the evening. Each convener is asked to have an item for the program.

The District Annual will be held at Sidney Baptist Church, near Stirling, on June 9th., delegates appointed to attend are: Mrs. Ernest Curtis, Mrs. Arnold Ketcheson, Mrs. C. DeClerc and Mrs. Alva Meyers.

Mrs. Reid thanked the hostess for the use of her home.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and conveners.

KILLED IN FALL

HAMILTON (CP)—A young coke oven worker was killed Wednesday night when he fell from the rear of a truck that was transporting him into the city. Harvey Joseph Tessier, 18, of Hamilton was dead on arrival at hospital. He had a broken neck and a fractured skull.

Christ Church C. C. Plans Tea

Monday evening, members of Christ church Guild were busily engaged in sewing. Some of the girls worked on bags in assorted colors, while others dressed Kleenex dolls in lovely pastel plastic. Still others served on cool crisp summer garments for little folks or stitched pretty aprons. Everyone had a job to do.

While the girls worked, a short business meeting was held and further details regarding the forthcoming tea were discussed.

At the close of a busy evening, members enjoyed refreshments served by hostesses Mickey Lake, Margaret MacInnis and Marion Hanson.

TIMELY CALL

HAMILTON (CP) — A Hamilton mother discovered a fire in her son's bedroom Wednesday night when she answered the four-year-old's request for some water. Mrs. W. Marchese said she thought the boy was sleepy but on answering the call for water the second smoke billowing from the bedroom. Firemen confined the blaze to the one room.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

HERE'S A SENSIBLE GIRL; LET'S HOPE SHE STAYS THAT WAY

Most of 14 tells me that "There is something my family and I had a big discussion about, and we all came to the same conclusion."

Then she wants to know if I "disagree or agree" with them in their conclusions, which is that:

"We think a girl 14 or 15 years old shouldn't go steady. We think she should go out with different fellows and not tie herself down to just one."

She goes on to say that:

"Some girls disagree, though. They say that when a girl goes out with many fellows they talk about her, call her a flirt. I know, because I've heard such talk about a girl in school."

And she adds that she would also like to know "at what age, you think a girl should go steady?"

Well, hurray for this 14-year-old and her family! I am certainly glad to hear they all agree on this question of "going steady."

I've been telling teenage girls over and over again that it's a very foolish thing for them to tie themselves up to one boy at the very time in their life when they should be learning about human nature by dating lots of boys.

The big reason for this are (1) That it would save them a lot of emotional upsets and heartaches if they didn't rush and say one boy has their exclusive possession, and (2) all through their teens, because these teenage enthusiasms invariably break up one after the other, and (3) that if they insist on dating just one boy, they cheat themselves out of the opportunity to develop the good judgment about young men which, as they grow older, will enable them to make a wise choice of a husband.

So I hope this particular teenager will pay no attention to the "discussion" she heard from her school friends on this subject. If she will hold to her sensible views on dating, she'll be way ahead of the other girls in maturity.

As for how old a girl should be before she "goes steady," I don't think anyone could possibly set a definite age and say: "Now's the time to go steady."

Some girls mature much younger than others, and at 15 or 16 form a friendship that lasts and deepens until it finally leads them into marriage.

But, as a general rule, I don't think most young people under 20 are wise enough either to know their own minds, or to be able to size up other people so that they can really tell whether or not a given young man will be the right husband for them.

I know a great many young people will disagree with me on this, and I wouldn't be at all surprised to have some of them write and tell me that they were married at 17, 16 or even earlier, and everything has worked out fine. And to those, my answer would be that they were exceptionally lucky young people, and possibly exceptionally mature, but that it would be very unfortunate indeed if young people in general were mar-

Hot Off the Grill

By Mary Moore

What with a wedding, a cooking school, extra writing to get ready to go to England, my out-of-doors eating is being neglected. I have not had one bit of food out-of-doors this year and it is crying disgrace. It is nice things eats in my diet!

So I cannot honestly write to you about a picnic that we have had. I can write with longing about the picnic I would like to have come next Monday—the "fifth" on the 24th.

It is really a humdinger of an idea. I don't have to apologize for immodesty for it is not mine.

A picnic is only half-hearted without a fire. However I hasten to add that eating cold food outside without a fire is better in my opinion than eating hot food inside.

If you are going to start an argument about wet wood and where to find some that is dry without driving a hundred miles, settle the whole business by storing a bag of charcoal in the car trunk. If you must be civilized use your gasoline stove. But go!

PICNIC MENU WITH A FIRE

Mixed grill of broiled hamburgers and wieners—Buns
Barbecue Sauce Picnic Succotash
Green salad Roquefort dressing
Fresh Fruit (bananas, oranges, apples)
Spice Cupcakes
Fruit Juice or Milk for children
Coffee

THE MEAT:

Broil the ready-shaped and flavored meat cakes and the hot dogs on a wire rack over the fire or pastured them in an outside long-handled frying pan.

Have ready-mixed the Barbecue Sauce and put it on to gently boil while the meat cooks: (8 cups) 1-4 cup water, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 cup vinegar, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-8 teaspoon garlic powder or 1-3 clove garlic chopped, 1 thsp. chopped onion, 1-4 cup Worcestershire sauce, 1-4 cup catsup, 1-4 cup chili sauce, 3 tablespoons lemon juice.

NOTE:

That sauce is also good for fried at any such ages.

If "going steady" means that two young people have an eye on marriage, then I think around 20 years old is plenty young enough for that.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

FRESHENING THE YOUTHFUL NECKLINE

A beautiful neck shows graceful curves from collar bone to chin, from shoulders to ear lobes and from the nape of the neck down to the upper back. The texture of the skin should be satin-smooth and of fine texture. Its color may be one shade darker than the face—but no more.

The hair line should be trim—no little rag-tags and bob-tails of tresses showing. The pressed mode which decrees that hair should be of collar-length makes it easy to trim neat locks in form.

If the lower portion of a woman's profile shows a clean-cut, youthful line from lips to collar bone you may be sure that she is still in her twenties—or that she has mastered the secret of youth.

The reason that necks go tweely is that usually they get no part of the cosmetic feast. A good rule: start your night creaming far down; give your neck as much time and attention as you give your face. Use cream lavishly. Massage in up and down movements with flattened fingers. Throw your head back, start stroking under your chin, continue out at the sides, and give a few creamy kudoes to the back of your neck. There's no telling how much that may look!

If tissues have softened, a simple exercise may help to restore them to a firmer, more normal condition. Clasp your hands together at the nape line. Holding them firmly against the flesh, turn the head from side to side as far as you can. There will be a hard gull of all the muscles from jaw line downward to the chest. The result will be a stimulation of the blood streams, a toning of the flesh. Do this exercise while the cream is on. Ice frictions are also helpful.

HINT can be fun as well as highly practical at your child's party. Use your pinking shears to cut gaudy-red rectangles from old shooting. Sew the ends of a length of ribbon to two corners, and only it in the middle for ties. Print names or designs with bright crayons. Adults like them, too!

GLAD TO TRY AGAIN

FREDONIA, Ky. (AP) — Two cafes ago this community launched a fund-raising campaign for a waterworks system. After raising almost $2,000, workers began drilling for water. The drill got down to 365 feet Tuesday and hit a black gooey substance—oil. Experts said the well may be one of the best producers in western Kentucky. The search for water is still on.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECKMAN

SHOULDN'T SHARE EXPENSES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

The parents of our son's fiancee have invited us to the dinner they are giving in honor of their engagement of their daughter and our son. Only the families are to be invited. Would it be proper for us to share any of the expenses of the dinner or of the champagne or other beverages to be served? — M

No . . . you should not offer to share the expenses of this dinner, of which they are hosts. If you and your husband would like to give a dinner, it would be a delightful gesture for you to give a dinner rather soon, inviting the engaged couple, the girl's parents, and any other guests you wish to.

A GIFT FOR THE NEW HOME

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In the near future I am going to a week-end to visit my best friend's parents for the first time. While there I will be spending an evening at the home of his sister and her husband. The young couple moved into a new home recently, and I am wondering if it would be in order for me to take them a gift. Would you suggest one for their home. (Any suggestions?) Incidentally, this will be the first time I have met the couple. — R.

It would be a charming idea for you to take a gift to the couple for their new home . . . you might say you like the idea of bringing a gift to a home the first time you visit that home. And since you don't know the couple and haven't seen their house, I would say, in my mind, be an excellent choice for a gift. Choose a simple design—so it will "go with" anything . . . perhaps a white glass or crystal, very plain, of the medium size that is so useful.

SHOULDN'T EXPECT GUESTS TO WAIT TOO LONG

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our daughter is to be married in July, and most of the guests are from distant cities. Would it be correct to have the reception following a 10 A.M. wedding? The ceremony will last about an hour, then pictures will be taken, so the reception would begin about 11:30 or 12 o'clock. The reason for not waiting to have the reception in the late afternoon or evening is that there is no place for the guests to go between the ceremony and a single reception. — Reader

And this reason is a perfect reason for having the reception as soon as possible following the ceremony. Actually this is the correct and natural procedure. To keep guests, particularly out-of-town guests waiting for hours for the reception . . . with nothing to do but "wait around" . . . is incredibly thoughtless, and I'm so glad you are wisely considering and choosing the way of thoughtfulness for your guests. (So many readers write me complaining they had no time or place to wait for a late reception.)

For the wedding breakfast, appropriate for this hour, you might serve hot soup, possibly consomme; cold ham and or chicken with a simple green salad, or potato salad; the Wedding Cake, with or without ice cream; coffee, served at once and after the breakfast; a cold beverage for the toasts.

LADIES!

You may think to save a dollar is quite a lofty chore,
And you may think it's almost hopeless to save a penny more.
However you can do this, but there is a small request,
You have to climb the stairs, but wait, until you read the rest —

We've summer styles that just came in today,
In lovely prints that are all so cheerful and so gay,
For any occasion, we know we'll have the dress,
For a wedding, or a formal, or for streetwear we've the best.

Just think a little further than your nose is long we'll say,
We don't mean to be insulting but we express ourselves that way,
If you get the chance to save a dollar, or maybe ten,
Don't you think it's worth the climb, and, you'll be sure to please your men.

So go around the corner and climb the stairs and see,
Just how really smart and stylish at a low price you can be.
The dresses are really lovely and that no one can deny
So climb our stairs, it's not so bad, and you'll really get a buy.

RAWDON

Bride-to-Be Feted With Many Gifts

RAWDON.— Mrs. Jim Pollock, 6th concession, entertained on Thursday evening, in honor of Miss Ruth Clancy, a May bride-to-be. Forty-three ladies were in attendance and Ruth was the recipient of a large array of red and white kitchenware.

Mrs. Delmore Merrill, Campbellford, was master of ceremonies and each person in attendance was introduced; they responded with a wish or a bit of advice to Ruth.

Miss Gladys Clarke, Fetherick's Corners, contributed an accordion solo; Miss Marlene Moorcroft, Stirling, read a humorous selection; Miss Ruth Linn, Mount Pleasant, contributed a vocal solo; Miss Ruth Murphy, 4th concession, rendered a piano solo.

Readings were given by Mrs. Doug. Clancy and Miss Leona Hinds, of Wallman's.

Three enjoyable contests were staged by Mrs. D. Merrill and Mrs. Don Pollock of Campbellford and Mrs. Lindsay Pollock, of Stirling.

BRIDE'S BOOK—GIFTS

A lovely bride's book along with the large array of gifts were presented to Ruth. The recipient voiced grateful thanks and invited her friends to visit her in her new home.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and her committee.

Later the group journeyed to the Clancy home and viewed the bride's trousseau.

Earl of Gowrie's Empire Day Message Given Despite Death

OTTAWA (CP)—Hope for peaceful and happy years in the future is expressed in the final message of the late Earl of Gowrie, president of the Empire Day movement, who died in England on May 2.

The Empire Day movement decided that the message written by the Earl of Gowrie should be published despite his death. Empire Day will be celebrated in most schools Friday, the last school day before Victoria Day which in Canada this year is being observed on May 23.

Text of the message:

It is with sad feelings that I send you my Empire Day message this year. Sixty-five years ago I was commissioned in the army by Queen Victoria. Ten years ago I returned to this country (England) after completing my final service overseas as governor-general of the Commonwealth of Australia.

Now this, my 11th message, must also be my last, because I have regretfully decided that the time has come for me to hand over my work, as president, to someone younger.

As your president I have tried to show you something of what it means to grow up in the vast family of nations which makes up our Commonwealth and Empire, a family including as equal members people of so many different races.

I spoke of the traveler of our young Queen and her husband and their great happiness in the friendship they found among their people overseas. And I know of your delight in seeing for yourselves the Queen who belongs to you, and also this year, the Princess Margaret during her splendid tour in the West Indies.

Now, today, in taking leave of you, I remind you that each one of you is important as a person; you have your own plans and your own work waiting to be done, if you have not already begun it. There are splendid opportunities for service. There is outlet for adventure and enterprise, and also room for the quiet courage and determination of those who are not physically strong.

I have enjoyed working with you all for our Empire Day movement, and I shall always think of you on this day in what I hope will be peaceful and happy years in the future.

May God bless you and strengthen our friendship now and always.

Wallbridge

WALLBRIDGE. — Congratulations to one of the popular young men, Mr. Carmen Bilkley, who was married on Saturday.

Mrs. M. Carr and granddaughter, Miss Dorothy Carr, were week-end guests of her daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Wannamaker and children, and on Sunday, Mrs. Elmer Smith and son, Carl, and Mr. Gordon Carr and friend of Trenton, were callers.

Lt. Robert Fisher and Mrs. Fisher of Barrie were week-end guests of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Sine.

Mrs. Harold Phillips, president of the W.I., attended the convention held at Guelph last week.

Glad to report Mrs. V. Moore is able to be home from the Belleville Hospital, where she was a patient for a couple of weeks.

Quite a number attended the W.I. meeting held at the home of Mrs. M. Reid, Belleville.

The Rev. R. W. Dovey was tea-hour guest of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Johnson on Thursday night.

The farmers have completed their seeding and are busy preparing their ground for the hoe crops.

Mr. Bailey, assessor, made his annual calls through the village on Tuesday.

Mrs. J. Chisholm spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ted Evans and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ketchenson.

6th Tyendinaga

6TH TYENDINAGA. — Sympathy is extended to Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Larkin in the loss of their baby daughter.

Mother's Day service was well attended at Mt. Pleasant when the Rev. E. J. Kenny gave a helpful address on "The Home". At the beginning a baptismal rite was held when Duane Richard son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Boldrick, Ronald Earl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harrison; Robert Alton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Goodman, were baptized.

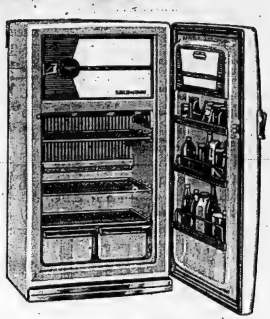
Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trewerton, Belleville, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Trewerton.

Mrs. C. Goodman spent the week-end at her home here, before going to Northport for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller Parks, Wallbridge, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Alton Goodman and Mrs. C. Goodman. All spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Goodman.

Saturday evening visitors of Mrs. J. Boldrick were, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bird and boys of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Lorne McKenzie visited Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rimmer, Lonsdale.



Supper guests of Mrs. Arthur Boldrick were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Elliott and Mrs. J. Reynolds, on Sunday.

Mr. Robert Jenkins returned home on Sunday from the Belleville General Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Alexander, Roslin, spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. A. Boldrick.

Liberals Will Select Candidate On Saturday

PICTON — Opposition for Norman Whitney, Progressive Conservative candidate in Prince Edward-Lennox, now seems assured. It was arranged Wednesday by Clinton Green, president of Prince Edward-Lennox Liberal Association, that a second party convention will be held in Picton, Saturday night to choose a candidate. At a previous convention all nominees refused to accept.

Mr. Green stated that the convention is expected to nominate Fred M. McConnell, who resides at Hoblin, in Lennox county. He is a contractor and home builder.

Mr. McConnell, 52, has served 7 years, and as councillor one year. He was Lennox warden in 1953.

He is active in community and church work, a former director of Kingston General Hospital and director of Ongwanada Sanatorium, Kingston.

Though opposition was not previously assured, Mr. Whitney, who resides near Consecon, and is a farmer and accountant, has been busy preparing for the campaign. He has opened committee rooms in Picton and Napanee.

RAWDON

Rural Life Sunday Held At Mt. Pleasant

RAWDON.—"Rural Life Sunday" was commemorated last Sunday morning, at Mount Pleasant United church, with about 80 people in attendance. The theme was "God the Lord of All." Rev. K. M. Hamilton, Kinsdale, Nova Scotia, made the special drawings of rural scenes. A bouquet of lilacs added beauty. The call to worship was based on Psalm 24: "The Earth is the Lord's."

Misses Raye. David and Gail Jeffs sang "This is My Father's World." The Litany was a blessing upon the countryside. The congregation sang, "We Plough the Fields and Scatter the Good Seed on the Land."

The pastor, the Rev. W. G. Fletcher, based his message on the dedication of seed, soil and sower to God. He spoke on conservation and emphasized the great need of enriching the soil in order that the next generation would inherit it in readiness for a crop.

RELATION OF GOD TO MAN

The purpose of Rural Life Sunday is to magnify the relations of God and man in food production and to pray God's blessing upon the human efforts to prepare for a crop.

Ralph Waldo Emerson has written of the perpetual miracle, "Seedtime and harvest shall not fail". It is well to remember that it is not the land, the furrow of the ploughshare, nor the glare of the sun, but it is God's power that calls the green shoots out of the ground.

CHARGED IN DEATH

DETROIT (CP)—Mrs. Rosemary Jacques, 31, Tuesday was charged in court with manslaughter in connection with the death of Bobby Szabo, 6. Mrs. Jacques was arrested after an autopsy report showed the boy had died from shock following internal hemorrhaging after he had been beaten with a wooden plank.

Mrs. Harold Elliott contributed piano music; Mrs. Don Heath sang in honor of Mothers' Day; and Mrs. H. Mumby, with a group of assistants, staged a humorous train ride. At the close the Past Grands served ice cream and cake.

Mr. Earle Green is a patient in the General Hospital, Belleville.

The Rev. H. C. Secker and Mr. Bruce Bell attended an Ontario Synod meeting in Kingston.

Naval Cadet, Ross H. Hermiston is training for the summer months at Naval headquarters, Ottawa.

BANCROFT

Boy Scout Troop Has Energetic Leader

BANCROFT.— The 1st Bancroft Boy Scout Troop, for some years comparatively inactive, is now under the energetic leadership of the Rev. O. E. Johnston, becoming an effective group.

The troop is to be sponsored by the local branch of the Canadian Legion, with a group committee comprising chairman Harold Peich, secretary the Rev. O. E. Johnston, treasurer, Don Creighton, members George Toner, Henry Smith and E. G. Thomas.

Three boys have been registered to attend the World Jamboree in August, they are Troop Leader, Charles Burgess and Patrol Leaders, David Milks and Alvin Loney.

A meeting of the parsonage board of the Thomasburg-West Huntingdon pastoral charge of the Unite dchurch was held last Friday evening, at the parsonage.

Mr. Harry Carleton, enumerator for Thomasburg in the forthcoming provincial election on June 9, made his visits during the latter part of last week.

Mr. C. Adams had a well drilled near his new residence, construction of which is proceeding rapidly. The structure on High 37 north of the village will be modern in all respects.

Mr. B. French is having a well drilled on his property at the present time.

A delightful pre-nuptial shower was held in honor of Miss Eileen Blakely, a bride-to-be of the near future, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Morton on Saturday evening.

Divine service in the Anglican church took place at 11 a.m. and in the United church at 8 p.m. with Sunday school at the usual hour of 10 a.m.

Mrs. W. A. Holbert is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Harold Morton at present. She has spent the winter months in Belleville with another daughter, Mrs. Elwood Kerrish. All wish her home again.

Canadian Army Will Build Town For Boy Scouts

OTTAWA — The Canadian Army has undertaken the task of virtually building and equipping a town on Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., this summer to accommodate an estimated 10,000 Boy Scouts from all parts of the world at their eighth World Scout Jamboree.

Nearly two years of planning between Army and Boy Scouts officials have been carried out in an effort to ensure a successful 10-day outing (August 18-28) for Scouts from Canada, the United States, the United Kingdom, and 30 other countries including Australia, Egypt, Greece, Japan and Venezuela.

More than 100 separate items of equipment from Army stores will be loaned to the Scouts for their Jamboree. These include more than 1,000 tents for living, messing and hospital accommodation, bedding of every kind, sanitary equipment, furnishings of various kinds, hospital stores and equipment, engineer and signal stores, flags and flagpoles, gasoline lamps and stores, flashlights and batteries, and a number of other camp stores.

Army engineers are planning the extension of water lines from existing mains to the camp layout. Existing lines are sufficient to supply the needs of militia training exercises to be conducted earlier in the summer, but the presence of 10,000 active boys calls for additional planning. The pipes will be recovered by the engineers when the jamboree is over.

Another Army engineer responsibility will be the cutting of a wide access path to the camp swimming beach. This path will be rough planked to reduce dust and erosion. The road from the camp to the beach must also be put into passable condition.

The camp will be divided into main camp and ten sub-camps, each of which will be provided with a Boy Scout first aid post to handle routine first aid cases. Patients requiring further treatment will be taken to the main camp hospital where extensive medical facilities will be available. This includes equipment provided by the Army and medical personnel from the Army, Navy and RCAF.

SUPPLY DOCTORS

Nine medical officers, 18 nurses and 27 medical attendants provided by the three armed services will be in attendance at the camp. Two dental officers and four dental attendants will be provided by the Army.

While the Army stores are being loaned free of charge, it will cost the Boy Scouts in the neighborhood of $36,500 to have the Army prepare the camp for the jamboree. This amount will be reduced to the extent of the value of the equipment returned to Army stores when the jamboree is over and will cover the provision of showers, extension of pipelines, electrical service and camp maintenance, including pest and mosquito control, clearing of poison ivy areas, and repair of buildings presently located in the camp area.

The Army camp site, along the Niagara River, is an expanse of meadow and trees once famous as an Army training centre. The town itself lies at the mouth of the Niagara and good swimming beaches exist on nearby Lake Ontario.

Afraid Friends Would Laugh At Their Kilts

CHATHAM (CP) — Two young soldiers Wednesday blamed the new kilt of the Essex-Kent Scottish Regiment for their failure to attend a regimental parade.

Pte. Michael Murray, 17, and Pte. James Robert Cough, 18, charged under the National Defence Act with neglecting to attend parades, said they were afraid to wear the new dress kilt recently adopted by the regiment because their friends would laugh at them.

"There's nothing wrong with the kilt," said magistrate I. B. Craig. "I wore it when I was younger. It's been a very honorable uniform for hundreds of years."

The two recruits were given a week's suspended sentence on condition they attend the next regular parade of the Chatham garrison.

The Annual Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children was held in Toronto on May 19th, at which the executive was elected. Shown above are some of the new executive committee members: Clyde S. Heaman (left) of London, president; Wilfred R. Carter (centre) of Hamilton, Ont., chairman of Treatment Services Committee, and Conn Smythe (right) of Toronto, who was re-elected chairman of the finance committee. These men have all been active in crippled children's work for a number of years. The Ontario Society for Crippled Children annually conducts the Easter Seal campaign.

91 New Industries Established in 1954

TORONTO (CP) — Ninety-one companies established new industrial sites in 37 Ontario communities last year, the trade and industry branch of the Ontario department of planning and development reported Wednesday.

In its 1955 edition of the Ontario Industrial review, the department says 57 of the companies are from the United States, 20 from Canada, six from the United Kingdom, four from West Germany and the rest from Sweden and Italy. Toronto got the largest number with 38.

Russia Cutting Into U.S. Lead In Heavy Bombers

By DAVE McINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—A blunt Canadian warning voiced last fall sparsely is coming home to roost.

Early last September, senior defence officials said the West was losing ground to the Russians in weapons development.

They said they were worried about the speed with which the Russians were developing new and more deadly nuclear weapons and jet aircraft.

"The Russians are gaining or perhaps are ahead of us in the fields they choose to concentrate on, such as atomic weapons and aircraft," one responsible authority said at that time.

As far as is known, this warning didn't raise a ripple among the Western nations.

But the U.S. defence department last week issued a statement that Russia is cutting into the U.S. lead in production of heavy and medium jet bombers.

And Tuesday the U.S. Senate armed forces committee said it will inquire into the strength of the U.S. Air Force in view of an apparent significant increase in Soviet air capabilities.

The key to air power, and thus to the West's policy of massive retaliation in event of attack, is the long-range jet bomber. Nuclear weapons are not of much use unless there are means of delivering them.

Last year at this time, Canadian officials said they had received a "nasty shock" when the Russians unveiled a new jet bomber during a May Day air show over Moscow.

Washington reports say this now came as a shock to U.S. defence officials. The Soviet air force showed off a flight of type 37 long-range jet bombers which compare to the American B-52 heavy bomber.

BAUDOIN GIVES AMNESTY

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo (Reuters)—King Baudouin of Belgium has ordered a partial amnesty for convicts serving short prison terms in the Congo to mark his first visit to this African colony. Sentences up to six months will be reduced by two months and fines not exceeding 10,000 francs will be reduced by 1,000 francs.

Shortages Are Plaguing U.S. So Government May Promote Basic Industries' Expansion

Fee Increases Approved By Medical Assoc.

SUDBURY (CP) — Increases of up to 50 per cent in medical fees were approved Wednesday by the Ontario Medical Association.

Under the revised schedule, passed at the OMA's annual convention, calls to a doctor's office will be raised to $5 from $4 for most surgical and obstetrical charges will remain unchanged. House calls were also boosted to $5 from $4 and emergency calls to a residence will cost an extra $5 above the ordinary fee.

A call to a practitioner's office involving a full history and examination was increased to $7.50 from the previous $5. However, a casual office call is reduced to $3 from $3.

RISE IN COSTS

The increases were recommended by the association's tariff committee because of a rise in costs of services.

The resolution listed would, association officials said, offset to a degree the increases and the general increase would probably be about 10 per cent. The revision replaces the 1948 schedule.

The rate changes probably will be put into effect in September and will be listed in a pamphlet to the profession in July. Some members of the association said the rates may not be adopted in some rural areas.

PHYSICIANS' RATES

No immediate raise in Physicians Services Inc., rates was under consideration, an official of the organization said. He added that a series of case-histories had to be done before new rates were set.

PSI did not raise its rates when the Ontario Medical Association raised fees in 1948. However, it did increase its rates three months after the OMA established higher fees in 1951.

An official of the Ontario Hospital Association, operator of the Blue Cross plan, said it probably will not follow the OMA increase. Indemnities paid by Blue Cross for some services are not integrated with the rate schedule of the Ontario Medical Association.

Prosecution Ends Evidence In Murder Trial

SUDBURY (CP) — Defence witnesses were to be heard today at the Supreme Court trial of Robert Bruce Ducharme, 23-year-old Hamilton youth, on a charge of murdering a 22-year-old school teacher in December.

The bullet-riddled, frozen body of Steve Klapouschak was found in the hamlet of Dalton, 225 miles northwest of here.

The prosecution closed its case Wednesday against the former railway gang worker. Testimony of 28 crown witnesses was heard.

The trial, which started Monday under Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly, is expected to end Friday.

Testimony Wednesday revolved around the whereabouts of the back of a money order which the former CPR gang worker cashed Dec. 4 at Chapleau, 46 miles southeast of Dalton.

FOR GROCERIES

The money order was sent to store proprietor Mrs. Lucienne Beaudoin of Dalton by Mrs. A. Desbiens of nearby Bolkow for groceries.

Mrs. Deablen testified she had given the money order to her nephew, Barclay Martel, who in turn gave it to a railway baggageman Garnet Robinson for delivery to the Beaudoin store.

Robinson said he put the order in one of two cases of milk for delivery in Dalton. He said Klapouschak had ordered one of the cases.

Ducharme's defence counsel interrupted the testimony of A. H. Hubert, RCMP document examination branch officer, and said his client admitted to forging the money order and had cashed it at Chapleau.

CHARGE BOY

BRAMPTON (CP) — 13-year-old boy Wednesday was charged under the Ontario Juvenile Act in the shooting last Saturday of William Burrows, 11. The boy was shot in the stomach as he played with a cousin in the town dump. He was operated on for removal of a .22-calibre bullet.

65,000 Britons Shiver in Cold To Hear Graham

LONDON (AP)—Billy Graham preached to the biggest audience of his second London crusade Wednesday night—65,000 sat sitering British cos.

A cold north wind whipped across Wembley stadium and Graham slapped his hands and stamped his feet to keep warm.

It was the first evening without rain since the American evangelist came to London from his six-week crusade in Scotland.

He told them God for that, he said. "Now that the sun has come out we must work to make this mission the most important religious revival ever known in London."

He asked for decisions for Christ. The people came forward in hundreds. There were 3,226 in all, bringing the number of decisions for the first four nights of the one-week crusade to 12,630.

PLAN PARKING BUILDING

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Board of control Wednesday approved plans for a $1,000,000 seven storey parking building to be erected in downtown Windsor. The plan is subject to approval of city council.

Will Teach Men How to Stand Up Under Torture

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defence secretary Charles E. Wilson Wednesday named a 10-man committee to devise ways of teaching members of the U.S. armed forces how to stand up under torture and conduct themselves as prisoners of war.

What is needed, Wilson said, is a "simple, easily understood code" for Americans who serve their country in battle, Wilson said, he had in mind the confusion that has arisen because each service dealt in a different way with men who succumbed to Communist "brainwashing" in the Korean conflict.

The committee will consist of five civilian officials in the Pentagon and five retired admirals and generals.

Wilson asked them to recommend ways for training military personnel to defend themselves against brainwashing, other physical and mental torture and propaganda if they fall into enemy hands.

TWO TRAPPED, DIE

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—Two young children, found trapped in an abandoned ice box, died Tuesday in a fiery explosion and fire in Ballance, 3, son of Mrs. Edna Mae Ballance and Nancy Gregg, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cygan. Authorities estimated the children had been trapped for about 30 minutes after the door swung shut.

Fears Reds' Moves in Europe May Be Setting Asian Trap

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Robert Humphrey (Dem., Minn.) said today the Russians may be setting a trap in Southeast Asia by spectacular moves to ease tension in Europe.

Humphrey, a member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said in an interview that he fears the Eisenhower administration may have a "tendency to let down" in Asia because of its present concentration in European affairs.

"I think the Russians may be moving to ease tensions in Europe and at the same time restraining the Chinese Communists from violence in the Formosa area in order to infiltrate the governments in Southeast Asia and cut them off from the free world country by country," he said.

Humphrey called for a reexamination of American policies in Asia, and suggested a number of recent developments there may be significant.

He said it reported forthcoming visit of Prime Minister Nehru of India to Moscow could be "very important to the West in its implications."

He said Indonesia, "which didn't have a Communist problem not long ago, now has Communists in its government," and added:

"We face elections next year in Viet Nam which could give the whole of that country to the Communists."

Humphrey said he does not expect the Communists to make any openly aggressive move in the Far East but to depend on infiltration tactics.

"In spite of the suffering involved, the Korean war upset the Communist timetable and alerted the free world to its dangers. The Communists would rather lull us to sleep now, I believe."

Humphrey said he agrees that Eisenhower is not likely to fall into any appeasement trap in a top-level meeting with the premiers of Russia, Britain and France. Eisenhower told his press conference Wednesday there is "no appeasement in my heart."

Senate Support Increasing On Proposal to Fill Seats

OTTAWA (CP)—Senate support is increasing behind a proposal to put a time limit on vacancies in the upper chamber.

Two Liberal members, Senator A. R. Hugessen of Quebec, the son of an English lord, and Senator Gordon Campbell of Ontario voiced their support Wednesday, joining a growing list of senators who have expressed backing for the measure.

A majority of the senators who have spoken so far in an extended debate have favored the bill which would require appointments to fill vacancies in the 102-seat chamber within six months of their occurrence. It would not apply to the present 22 vacancies.

Senator Campbell said the measure simply means that the Senate should be kept at full strength.

"No one can seriously say that this present situation is allowed to go on indefinitely," he said.

Senator Hugessen said the bill is not a criticism of the government for the present extent of vacancies. It would merely be plugging the intentions of those who wrote Canada's constitution.

If the measure were adopted, he said, no one could be penalized for not making appointments in time. It would have little legal effect.

But its moral effect would be considerable. No prime minister would care to be left himself open to an accusation of flouting the Constitution by ignoring the time limit.

Senator Hugessen suggested, however, that the time limit be longer, possibly two years.

The bill's sponsor, Senator William Euler (L—Ontario), a former Liberal leader in the senate, has had no objection to changing the time limit.

Senator John J. Kinley (L—Nova Scotia) said he objects to the bill would require appointments to fill vacancies in the 102-seat chamber within six months of their occurrence. It would not apply to the present 22 vacancies.

He referred to other appointments by the federal government and said the fact that most recently-appointed judges were Liberal adherents is "the way it should be."

"Merit should be rewarded, and those who are eminent in the law, who have given good service to their country, who support the party and forward the principles of the party in power, are the sort of people who should be appointed to high positions during the time the government they support is in power."

First and Cabin Class Passengers Had Sandwiches

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) Because of a steward's strike the 700 first and cabin class passengers on the Queen Mary dined on sandwiches and cold meat Wednesday night. They normally would have had pate. de fois gras, chilled melon, turkey and steak.

The dispute began when the liner berthed in New York because of a fuale in the English channel.

Passengers for New York already were provided with embarkation. But 200 stewards, angry at being deprived of a night ashore because of the quick turn-around, walked off the ship. An offer of an extra day's pay was rejected.

Then a compromise was reached. The men agreed to go ashore and to make sandwiches for the first and cabin class passengers and then to have time ashore until the sailing this morning.

PUT OUT FIRE

KINGSTON (CP)—The combined efforts of the army, navy, RCMP and civilians put out a bushfire Wednesday after a seven - hour battle on Cedar Island in Kingston harbor. Thirty soldiers, the crew of an RCMP cutter, naval officers and 13 civilians fought the stubborn blaze to a standstill. About the four acres of trees and dense bush were burned.

AWARD DAMAGES

WHITBY (CP)—E. Whitby, 62, of Toronto was ordered Wednesday to pay $25,079 damages in connection with a traffic accident in volving three cars three years ago. Damages went to Mr. and Mrs. Frank Tuck of Port Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Davies of Oshawa. The latter couple received $12,000.

THIS IS

Government for the People!

The great advances in Human Betterment made by the Frost Government are an enduring contribution to the welfare of the people of Ontario. Under the present Progressive Conservative administration, more forward steps have been taken to increase individual and family security than in all our previous history.

IN TERMS OF SOCIAL SECURITY . . . this means Equality of Opportunity in Education for all the children of the province . . . 25,000 new beds in our general and private hospitals as a direct result of provincial grants . . . the world's finest system of mental hospitals . . . the securing of Old Age Pensions for all at 70 and for needy senior citizens at 65 . . . Pensions for the totally disabled (for the first time in Canada) and Pensions for the Blind at age 18 . . . greatly increased Mothers' Allowances and Children's Aid . . .

IN TERMS OF HUMAN DIGNITY . . . it means the outlawing of discrimination in employment and accommodation on grounds of race, creed or colour . . . the right of women to serve on juries and to equal pay for equal work . . . the grant of full civil rights to our Indian fellow citizens . . . the highest Workmen's Compensation benefits in Canada . . .

IN TERMS OF MONEY . . . it means that almost 50 cents of every dollar the province receives in taxes is now paid out for Human Betterment in Health, Public Welfare and Education . . .

HEALTH—A sound foundation is being laid in Ontario for national Health Insurance by the vast system of provincial grants for maintenance and building of hospitals. The province will spend $38 million on health projects this year. In the last three years, grants of $900 per bed have been paid to hospitals for repairs and new equipment. Hospital grants have increased 20-fold since 1943. Hundreds of thousands of school children have received free polio vaccination—the greatest use of the new vaccine anywhere in the world.

PUBLIC WELFARE—In 1952, Premier Frost's leadership secured Old Age Pensions for all at 70 and for the needy at 65. To further increase old age security, the province pays half of the costs of all municipal Homes for the Aged and $2000 per bed for homes operated by charities. A total of 74 homes receives these grants. In 1952, Ontario became the first province to provide pensions for the totally disabled. It was the first province to give free medical services to a large class of needy citizens. Ontario's Mothers' Allowances and Children's Aid are the most generous in Canada.

EDUCATION—Under the present government, the province's expenditures on education have risen from a mere $13 million when the administration took office to $102 million this year. Provincial grants are related to the financial resources of each community in order to provide Equality of Opportunity for all children regardless of where they live. For the same reason, free text books are provided, and grants are made for school transportation and milk in schools. Teachers' pensions have been expanded. School accommodation has increased over 150% in 10 years.

Imagine what you can do with $3,000. That's how much you can win this week in the DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE-HUNT. Numerous phone calls were made to all parts of Ontario last Saturday night without finding a grand prize winner.

Mrs. Rene Lepine of 150 Clarence Avenue, Ottawa, won a $100.00 consolation prize for naming the product, but failed to answer the telephone with the magic words "Dominion Stores" and the Phantom Famous Brand.

DON'T TAKE CHANCES! Be ready to win $3,000 this week in the DOMINION "Famous Brands" FORTUNE-HUNT. First, find the "Phantom Famous Brand" listed on this page but not illustrated. Next, if your telephone rings between 8 and 9 o'clock next Saturday evening, DO NOT ANSWER HELLO or you will be automatically disqualified from an opportunity to win $3,000.

Instead of answering HELLO, say "DOMINION STORES" and then state the name of this week's "Phantom Famous Brand." If you do, and it is the DOMINION FORTUNE-HUNT calling, you will win the Grand Prize of $2,000.

$1,000 BONUS! If you win the Grand Prize and have in your home at the time a box top or label from this week's "Phantom Famous Brand" (or a reasonable facsimile) PLUS a DOMINION cash register slip dated this week and totalling $5.00 or more, you will qualify for a bonus prize of $1,000.

$100 CONSOLATION PRIZES! If the DOMINION FORTUNE-HUNT calls your telephone number and you make the mistake of answering HELLO, but can still name this week's "Phantom Famous Brand," you will qualify for a consolation prize of $100.

GRAND PRIZE MUST BE WON! If this week's Grand Prize is not won on Saturday night, it will be added to next week's Grand Prize of $1,000. This will be repeated if necessary until someone wins the accumulated Grand Prize.

Employees and agents of Dominion Stores Limited and their families are not eligible for this contest.

Runaway Romance Comes Cropper, Farmhand Admits Being Married

BILLSBORO, England (AP)—The runaway romance of an Irish farmhand and the pretty sister of the Queen's royal standard bearer came a cropper Wednesday. The dashing farmhand disclosed that he already is married and father of two children.

Susan Dymoke, brown - eyed, blue-blooded and 20, ran away 10 weeks ago with James Webb, a cow-milker on her family estate. They had told friends they planned to wed.

"I have wronged the girl terribly," said Webb when told by reporters that Mrs. Mary Webb of Ashford had identified him to police as her missing spouse.

"I have deceived her and her family into thinking I was free to marry her, but I am not," Webb said. "I fully realize now what a fool I have been and what a mess I have made of both our lives."

Webb, who is 48 but looks younger, said he has "taken Susan away to friends who will look after her. I can tell you she is not going back to her family."

Meanwhile at Heydon priory, Dymoke ancestral home near Brailsham, Mrs. Lionel Dymoke, Susan's mother, tearfully told reporters:

"My daughter's life has been ruined."

Reporters were unable to learn the whereabouts of Susan's 29-year-old brother, Capt. John Dymoke, who carried the royal standard at the coronation. He holds the honorary and ancient title of Queen's champion.

POLICE DOG!

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Esther Long, 40, is charged with stealing a $150 dog from city patrolman Fred Scruggs and selling it to city patrolman Lee Colquitt for $10.

Locomotive Hits Work Machine, Wrecks 9 Cars

DORCHESTER, Ont. (CP) — A speeding Canadian National Railways locomotive rammed head-on into a railroad work machine and overturned near here Wednesday, ripping up 300 feet of track and destroying nine freight cars loaded with scrap metal.

No one was hurt.

Three crew members in the engine cab were shaken up but climbed out unharmed after the collision. They were engineer Joseph Fellows, 57, fireman Charles Fraser, 33, and brakeman Don Campbell, all of London.

The train smashed into a work machine pounding ballast beneath the eastbound tracks 10 miles east of London. The two operators, Alex Rosborough of London and Fred Leighton of Stratford, jumped on to an embankment and rolled clear of th scrash.

Behind the train a warning flag was erected a mile west of the crash scene before the ballast equipment was put into operation. The engineer refused to comment on the accident.

INTERNATIONAL FIRM

TOKYO (AP)—A joint Japanese-Italian fishing firm will start operating this fall, following private talks between fishing officials of the two countries, the newspaper Nihon Keizai said today. The Italians will invest 1,500,000 rupees and provide boats for a 51 per cent interest in the venture.

No Shortage Of Monkeys For Making Vaccine

TORONTO (CP)—An official of Connaught Laboratories said Wednesday night there was no shortage of rhesus monkeys for Canadian production and that Connaught is pushing its manufacture of Salk polio vaccine.

John S. D. Tory, chairman of Connaught, at the University of Toronto, said the laboratories here expect to receive between 2,000 and 3,000 monkeys in the next two or three weeks.

He was commenting on reports that the federal department of health scaled down its estimate of the number of Canadian children who may receive the vaccine before next July because of the halt in vaccine imports from the United States and a shortage of monkeys earlier this year.

Mr. Tory said there has been no scaling down in the laboratories' production target. Production has not been imperilled by the temporary Indian ban on the export of monkeys.

Referring to Health Minister Martin's estimate that 1,500,000 Canadian children would receive anti-polio vaccine by July 1, Mr. Tory said:

"If there is any shortage of vaccine, it must stem from somebody else's estimate of anticipated production here and elsewhere."

He said Connaught's original production target was treatment of 900,000 children. With the postponing of the third inoculation, production now is sufficient to give two shots to between 800,000 and 1,000,000 children.

SINGER BETTER-PAID NOW.

CHICAGO (AP) — Songstress Marion Marlowe announced Wednesday she had signed for a three week night club engagement at five times the salary she said she received in the Arthur Godfrey troupe. The Chez Paree, where she will open June 12, will pay her $22,500 for the engagement. At the time Godfrey dropped her and five others from his cast last month Miss Marlowe said she was getting $1,300 a week.

Study Diseases Of Aging Persons

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario business and medical leaders are getting together here in a move to foster and direct medical research into the cause and cure of ailments associated with growing old.

Outcome of this move is the announcement Wednesday of the founding of the Ontario Geriatrics Research Society under the patronage of Lieutenant-Governor Breithaupt.

In a statement the society says it will "establish, maintain, promote and expand clinical, laboratory and other facilities for research and diagnostic work . . . into the cause and prevention of diseases associated with aging."

Chief aim of duties sponsored by the Ontario Geriatrics Research Society will be "to stop waste of our most precious human resources: wisdom and experience."

The group estimates that nearly 1,000,000 active Canadians will be lost to the country's productive services either through illness or retirement in the next 10 years. This loss, the new society says is a "tremendous waste of decades of training and investment in learning . . . wisdom comes with experience and experience comes only with time."

Particular stress will be laid by the group on study of degeneration of blood vessels, leading to coronary heart disease and strokes which are described in the statement as "today's No. 1 killer."

BODY WORTH $27.78

TAKAMATSU, Japan (AP)—The Japanese national railways today offered a $27.78 reward for the recovery of the bodies of each of 10 persons still missing in last week's sinking of the ferry Shinn Maru.

Airmen Huddle In Snow Hut Before Rescue

WINNIPEG (CP)—Nine airmen, who huddled in a makeshift snow hut for almost 10 hours after their RCAF Dakota was grounded on the wind-swept tundra of northern Manitoba had "all the comforts of home" while awaiting rescue.

FO Charles Thrasher of Winnipeg brought the plane down 75 miles north of here Tuesday morning when its navigation instruments failed, its radio faded and the crew was unable to take astral readings because of the red twilight glow of the sub-Arctic spring.

The men were picked up and flown to the Hudson's Bay Company trading post at Eskimo Point, 30 miles north of where they landed and 160 miles north of Churchill, Man.

FO Thrasher said the men began to build a snow hut immediately after landing. They dug through two feet of snow and pitched a parachute over a hut framework large enough to hold nine persons.

Th crew put out markers for search planes and began sending S O S messages on the emergency radio set.

HUNTS FOR FOOD

A ski-equipped RCAF Otter, piloted by Flt. Lt. John Grant of Churchill, took the men to Eskimo Point in relays after search planes had located them.

While the men were marooned co-pilot FO R. Tomchik of Timmins, used the shotgun from the plane's emergency gear to shoot five ptarmigan (birds of the grouse family).

Ore Locomotive Lands On Elevator Cage

SUDBURY (CP)—A section the McKim mine has been clos for repairs after an undergrou ore locomotive dropped some feet down a 3,000-foot shaft. W Tuesday and landed on an eleva cage.

No one was injured in the mish when the engine fell from the 4 foot, level. Workers below s crushed cage were brought to surface in an adjoining compa ment.

The locomotive's motorman, R. Ross, 34, of nearby Chelmsfo said something went wrong w the engine's mechanism when was about 20 feet from the sha He jumped to safety.

Officials of Falconbridge Nick Mines, operators of the mine, sa full extent of the damage cau was not known. However, the d shift was expected to be call back to work Friday. The mi employs about 130 men.

One company official said the was no explanation of the cause the accident, but a heavy do should have been closed to preve the locomotive from going over.

The men were making a 35 mile flight from Coral Harbor the north of Hudson bay to Churc 30 when they lost their way a made the landing. They had be in the air almost seven hours. T trip normally takes three hou and 35 minutes.

LUCKY ANGLER

When the Ontario department of lands and forests stocked a half-mile section of Otter Creek with 600 speckled trout and opened it for youthful anglers, more than 400 boys besieged the fishing spot. Raymond Furadia, 4½, grins as this lands and forests department photo, was one of the lucky ones for his 14-inch trout and a big white wood him a prize of $5. The fishing spot, which is out of bounds to anglers over 16, is near Mildmay, about 50 miles north of Kitchener. (CP Photo).

Steel Products In Tight Supply For Rest of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States is in the midst of what may be the biggest steel boom of the postwar period and most steel products will be in tight supply for the balance of the year, Iron Age, the national metalworking weekly, says.

Its relief is in sight from the pressure for production and delivery of steel, it adds.

Iron age reports the present boom may exceed record-breaking 1953. Orders received by steel mills are still running in excess of capacity and some important consuming industries are just beginning to demand steel. Mills are behind in deliveries. Consumer inventories are low and must be rebuilt.

In addition, there are thousands of tons of export business seeking supply. American mills are handling whatever of these orders they can without short-changing their regular customers on steel needs.

Iron Age estimates steel production this week at 97 per cent of capacity, unchanged from last week.

Going to Arctic To Pick Eskimo Family for CNE

TORONTO (CP)—Elsa Jenkins, women's director of the Canadian National Exhibition, and today she is planning to spend two weeks "living like an Eskimo" 500 miles north of Akiavik so she can select an Eskimo family of four to spend two weeks at this year's CNE Arctic exhibit.

She is headed for Tuktoyaktuk, which is not marked on the map but is an outpost she hopes to reach by plane or boat from Akiavik.

The east wing of the women's building at the CNE will be devoted to the arts and handicrafts of the Canadian north and an igloo will be the centre of the display, Miss Jenkins said.

DIVISION TRAINS

CAMP GAGETOWN, N.B. (CP)—The army says 10,000 men will be stationed for divisional training at this base under Maj.-Gen. J. M. Rockingham by June 30. Units began arriving about June 1 and will undergo training on a divisional basis until late July.

DROWNS IN CANAL

OTTAWA (CP)—Brian Shae, 5, drowned in a few feet of water in the Rideau canal Tuesday. He was pulled from the water by Robert Bryce, 16-year-old high school student out on a track training run. But the tot failed to respond to resuscitation efforts.

Its landing gear buckled, a Vickers Viscount squats on the runway of Winnipeg airport with its propellers bent and underbody damaged. The big turbo-prop passenger plane, recently purchased from Britain for Trans-Canada Airlines flights, was on a practice landing run when its landing gear suddenly collapsed and the ship slid to a stop on its underbody. None of the crew of three was injured. (Central Press Canadian).

12 Rings Stolen

BRANTFORD (CP) — Twelve diamond rings were stolen Wednesday from Wilson Credit Jewellers store in downtown Brampton. Police said a man stole a tray of rings while a woman accomplice distracted the attention of the only clerk in the store at the time.

Police were told the rings were worth "well over $1,000."

Marsh Hill

MARSH HILL—"Rural Life Sunday" was observed Sunday morning at Marsh Hill church. The order of service prepared by the Board of Home Missions of the United Church of Canada, was followed, the theme being, "God the Lord of All".

During the service Mr. Fred Campbell sang a solo "I Do Not Ask, O Lord that Life may be Pleasant Road". The Rev. A. F. Darke gave an interesting sermon on "Rural Life".

Mrs. Berson Mitts attended the officers' conference for the Women's Institute presidents at Guelph last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Heasman were recent guests of their daughter, Mrs. Rose Grier and Mr. Grier of Trenton.

CHARGE DRIVER

HAMILTON (CP)—Police Tuesday charged a Fruitland driver in connection with Monday night's highway death of a young schoolgirl. Suzanne Wright, 9, was killed when thrown from her bicycle. Robert Ross, 39, was charged with criminal negligence and careless driving.

Baby Gorillas Detroit-Bound Thanks to Dulles

DETROIT (AP)—Two more baby gorillas are coming to the Detroit zoo after some fast red tape cutting.

The zoo wants them to keep a gorilla it has just received from getting lonely. But zoo officials were balked in getting export permits from French Equatorial Africa.

The zoo went to Mayor Albert E. Cobo. Cobo went to Senator Charles Potter (Rep., Mich.). Potter went to State Secretary Dulles. Dulles went to the U. S. ambassador in Paris. The ambassador went to the French government. And up came the permits.

Talks Are Ended

NEW DELHI (AP)—The prime ministers of India and Pakistan wound up their latest talks on Kashmir Wed., without settling their long and bitter quarrel over the princely state. They announced they plan further negotiations at a later date.

India's Jawaharlal Nehru and Pakistan's Mohammed Ali are reported deadlocked over terms of a plebiscite in Kashmir to settle the state's future.

TORONTO (CP)—Fred Thompson, 50, of nearby Weston, was trapped 15 minutes Monday when one wall of an excavation collapsed. Theophile Giroux, a trucker, rescued him with the help of passers-by.

Talks With Chou Should Await Big Four Parley

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Walter George (Dem., Ga.) said Wed. any discussion with Red China's Premier Chou En-lai about relaxing tensions in the Far East should await a forthcoming top-level Big Four meeting.

George, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, said he still favors a meeting with Chou despite conditions laid down by the Red Chinese leader Tuesday in renewing his offer to negotiate directly with the United States on Formosa.

Chou said the Communists would not sit down with representatives of the Chinese Nationalists and would not give up their claims to Formosa. He repeated his demand for a Red Chinese seat in the United Nations.

BOY HIT, DIES

Acropolis Is Puzzler For Derby Bettors

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP)—With the 178th running of the Epsom Derby due next week, a fantastic situation has developed. The heavy favorite is a horse which has never been fully tested on the race course.

The colt in question, Alice Lady Derby's Acropolis, provides probably the most puzzling form problem in the history of Britain's big race. He could be a champion—some say the best of the century—or he could be a flop.

Despite this persistent doubt, he goes to the post a short-priced choice, carrying enough pounds, shillings and pence on his handsome chestnut shoulders to break the Bank of England.

Herb Score Hangs 3-0 Shutout On Boston With Three-Hitter; Yanks Win

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Gzo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

A TOUGH "FIGHTER"

A few days ago a curious fisherman wrote asking information about a piscatorial "Rocky Marciano" called the ouananiche (we'll spell it, you pronounce it.)

The ouananiche is a land-locked salmon, which the experts say were left behind thousands of years ago when the salt water receded from the area around Lake St. John, Quebec. The fish became accustomed to fresh water and spawned in the cold streams flowing into Lake St. John, depositing their eggs on gravel beds.

That is as far as our records show, but the Department of Lands and Forests came up with a fine story about this prized fighter of Jimmy-Pan Alley.

About 28 years ago they brought the ouananiche to Trout Lake, near North Bay, as that resulted in a biological triumph, for today the fish have multiplied and increased to the extent where their growth has caused revision of ideas about their propagation.

The biologists watched their experiment with interest. Then one day reports came that a strange fish had been caught while surface-leading on Trout Lake. They were identified as ouananiche.

What puzzled fishermen was the proper technique to be used in striking the hard-mouthed fighter, still-fished; wouldn't rise to flies, scored plugs, spinners and spoons which other types hit readily. It was discovered, probably by someone who had fished the Lake St. John area, that the answer was a fast-trolled long streamer fly.

Locally fishermen usually operate as fellows: They fish with two lines, both baited with the long streamer flies, some at them four or five inches in length. One fly is trolled directly in the slipstream of the propeller, the second perhaps ten feet farther back and off to one side. The fishermen heads towards the quiet waters and look for swirls which indicate that the fish are feeding on the surface, usually in the morning or late afternoon.

Once a fish is sighted, the boat is headed directly for it —over it, in fact. The turbulence created by the boat and the roar of the propeller do not alarm the ouananiche as they do other fish. He may submerge briefly, only to come up and smash the moving fly with terrific force.

It is with this first smash that most fishermen lose the ouananiche. Between the momentum of the fast-moving boat—about twice as fast as when trolling for lake trout—and the shock of the strike, almost always the fish is off before he hold, however, the unskilled angler finds himself lashed to a furious monster which knows all the tricks in the fishing book. The ouananiche rolls, dives, runs and jumps—splashes. He sulks until the unwary fisherman reaches for him with bare hands or a net. Then he breaks into another flurry and begins all over again. In recent years, fish of up to ten pounds have been taken from Trout Lake—and a ten-pound fish on a fly or spinning line is enough to make any fisherman wonder why he ever started the battle.

For some years there was no limit on the number which could be taken but, even so, few fishermen ever came out from Lake with more than one or three fish to show for a day's work. Now the limit is one per day—the first fish taken. Most fish and game organizations have agreed with the Department of Lands and Forests that that is fair enough.

But you have to be patient—and a fighter. The average angler loses four out of five when he does hook them. And it is a good fisherman who can come off Trout Lake with even one a day.

But the challenge is there—and is being accepted by more people than ever. Increasingly, residents of Canada and U.S. fishermen are now in the North Bay area and camp owners are jubilant. They report reservations for this time of year heavier than ever before.

GOOD SHOW!

One of those moujiks with the facial foliage, Ivan Kalmikoff, will meet Whipper Billy Watson, who doesn't have to resort to such an ambush, in the feature wrestling match at the Memorial Arena on Friday night. Ivan, a vigorous member of the Russian Kalmikoff Brotherhood, will have even his pummelling hands full when he enters the ring against the resourceful British Empire champion.

Another highlight of the same program will be the appearance of the fabulous midget wrestlers in a special feature, a tag team match. Few of these amazing midgets will be in action, the most famous of these tiny tusslers, namely, the combo of Little Beaver and Roger Littlebrook against the duo of Sky Low Low and Fuzzy Cupid.

The other half of the Kalmikoff Klan, Karol, will wrestle Ken Kenneth, of New Zealand, in the other bout.

Tribe Explodes for 11 Runs In Fifth in Red Sox Rout; Cards Sweep Dodger Series

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When St. Louis Cardinals are winning, you'll never find a pair of sunglasses to match the twinkling blue of Eddie Stanky's eyes. And the little guy's peepers are flashing blue blazes right now.

The Cardinals have won five straight and six of their last seven. Their 3-2 success Wednesday night split a series from Brooklyn — something the Cards have managed just four other times since Stanky took over as manager in 1952.

With the two defeats in St. Louis, the Dodgers find themselves dragging a three - game losing streak as they head home from a dismal western trip on which they lost five of nine. But thanks to their fine showing at home the Dodgers still hold a 7½-game lead in the National League.

CUBS GRAB PAIR

Chicago is second and the Cardinals third. The Cubs moved up by taking both ends from Philadelphia 11-5 and 7-5. Milwaukee is fourth, one runnerup spot by losing to New York Giants 4-3.

That left the standings jammed behind the Brooks. The Cards are nine percentage points behind the Cubs, and three points up on the Giants. And the Cubs are only two percentage points ahead of the Braves.

The only other National League game went to Cincinnati 5-1 over Pittsburgh, which now has lost seven straight.

In the American, Cleveland leads by 1½ after smashing Boston 19-6. New York downed Chicago White Sox 11-6, Detroit trimmed Baltimore 8-3 in 10 innings and Washington defeated Kansas City 7-2.

TIGHT PITCHING

Stanky finally is getting the pitching he's missed for so long. His hurlers have allowed a mere three runs in their last five games.

Barney Schultz came in from the bullpen Wednesday to get the final two outs and protect Harv Haddix second victory. That broke a five-game losing string for Haddix.

The Cards jammed all their scoring into the last two innings. From there on, loser Johnny Podres and Clem Labine shuttled only one base runner.

At Milwaukee, Hank Thompson's two-run single got the Giants moving in a three-run sixth. Warren Spahn was the loser as Johnny Antonelli spun a six-hitter. The Braves, never at all, Eddie Mathews, recovering from an appendectomy.

The Cubs smacked the Phils with the help of poor fielding in the opener and three home runs in the nightcap. Sad Sam Jones, making his first start since no-hitting Pittsburgh, tossed in before giving way to Hal Jeffcoat in the ninth. Jeffcoat got credit for the nightcap, relieving John Andre in the fourth, and he needed four hits to win. The Phils have lost 15 of their last 16 games.

SCORE, WEIRD STAR

Cleveland waltzed behind Herb Score's three-hitter. The rookie fanned nine. Willard Nixon was knocked out in an 11-run fifth inning that saw Vic Wertz drive in five runs on a grand-slammer and a single.

At Yankee Stadium, Mickey Mantle powered a bases-loaded homer following a controversial interference play that might have ended the inning except for umpire Ed Hurley's ruling. The Yanks had four homers, two by Vern Stephens, to back Whitey Ford.

Bob Grim, the winner with help from Bobby Morgan, hit Minnie Minoso in the head with a pitch, but after x-ray examination it was reported the Sox outfielder won't miss any action.

At Kaline's single scored the tie-breaking run for Detroit over the Orioles, giving Frank Lary his third victory.

At Washington, the Senators scored four runs in the first, with Tommy Umphlett and Pete Runnels driving in two each, and coasted past the A's.

Rookie Rudy Minarcin won his first major league start for the Redlegs behind Ted Kluszewski's two-run homer and Wally Post's bases-loaded double.

Cricketer Sets World Record

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (Reuters) — A world record seventh-wicket stand was established here Wednesday in the fourth test cricket match by Denis Atkinson, captaining West Indies in the absence of Jeff Stollmeyer, and Clairmont Depeiza, the West Indies wicketkeeper.

They took the West Indies first innings score to 494 for six wickets.

In reply to Australia's 668 and are still engaged in an unbroken stand which has so far put on 348 runs.

This beats the 53-year-old record stand for a seventh wicket, 344 by J. S. Ranjitsinhji (230) and N. Newham (153) when batting for Sussex against Essex in 1902.

In cricket a seventh-wicket stand consists of the number of runs scored between the fall of the sixth and seventh wickets. It does not correspond with the total scores of the batters involved.

Close Race For Lead In International

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There may have been closer races in the 79-year-old history of the International League, but old timers today couldn't recall one that matched this year's pennant scrap.

Ten games separated the first four clubs with only one month of the season gone by.

Montreal retained first place Wednesday night as they nipped the Buffalo Bisons 3-2, and Rochester, which held the top spot, fell to third place as Toronto Maple Leafs edged them 3-2.

Havana swept a doubleheader from Columbus, winning the first 7-4 and overpowering the Jets in the second 5-1. The Syracuse Chiefs defeated the Richmond Virginians 3-1.

ROYALS IN FRONT

The Royals, who finished behind the defending champion Leafs last season, hold a percentage-point margin over Toronto with Rochester in third and Havana two games behind.

Rocky Nelson's single drove in the winning run for Montreal in the ninth inning as rookie Don Drysdale outpitched Bill Fruata, the ex-Leaf hurler, in the opening inning, then Drysdale and Fruata matched shutout ball until Nelson broke the game.

The 18-year-old Montreal rookie scattered eight hits, struck out six and walked three while registering his third victory of the season. Fruata gave up seven hits, walked four and walked seven as he took the defeat of the season.

A seventh - inning single by pitcher Eddie Blake, who went the route, for his first victory of the season, provided the winning margin for the Leafs.

Toronto scored single runs in the first, sixth and seventh innings while bunching Rochester to single tallies in the first and eighth innings. Blake got by on 10 hits, walked three but struck out seven as he outpitched Ed Ludwig.

Pete Castiglione's single, and a double by Hector Rodriguez gave Leafs their first run, and Rodriguez' triple and a single by Sam Jethroe plated the second.

Havana rallied for five runs in the fifth inning of the seven-inning opener as Luis Arroyo, 20 hills apart, Brilliant relief pitching by Raul Sanchez enabled Connie Marrero to gain his second victory of the season.

Nino Escalera and Ray Noble each drove in two runs in the game.

Syracuse scored two runs in the fourth inning and one in the eighth to defeat Richmond after by Mario Picone of the Virginians. Picone struck out 10 but gave up five walks which led to his downfall.

Angry Chisox Threaten Bauer After Alleged 'Dirty Tactics'

NEW YORK (AP)—Angry Chicago White Sox players, fuming at New York's Frank Bauer for his use of what they termed "dirty tactics" threatened today to retaliate against the bruising Yankee outfielder the next time the teams meet.

At the same time the White Sox accused umpire Ed Hurley of "playing it down the middle" because of his ruling on a play during Wednesday's game in which Bauer was charged with interference.

The Yankees won the game 11-6.

The play in question occurred in the seventh inning with New York at bat. The Yankees, trying to increase their 7-6 lead, had filled the bases with one out. Andy Carey hit a grounder to second baseman Nellie Fox, who turned to tag Bauer, the base runner from first. Bauer charged into the little second baseman and sent him sprawling. Fox, from a supine position, threw to first too late to double up Carey as Gil McDougald scored the plate.

When manager Marty Marion charged out of the White Sox dugout to protest, Hurley ruled interference on Bauer and sent McDougald back to third. Bauer was called out and the bases remained full.

Marion argued for a doubleplay but got nowhere.

Mickey Mantle then hit a grand slam homer to put the Yankees beyond reach.

Baseball rule 7.09f seemed to uphold Marion. It states:

"If any base runner who had just been retired hinders or impedes any following play being made on a runner, such a runner should be declared out for the interference of his teammate."

Hurley, however, had a different version. Reached in the umpires' dressing room after the game, he said:

"Bauer pushed him while Fox was in the act of fielding the ball. He did not hit a complete control of the ball. That's why I called Bauer out for interference.

"If Fox had full possession I would have ruled it a doubleplay."

The box observers were unanimous in the opinion that Fox not only had fielded the ball, but was in the act of tagging Bauer when the husky outfielder came barreling into him.

Bauer told it this way: "Sure he had the ball, but he was standing in my way. I'm entitled to the baseline. So I hit him with my chest."

Ex-Narcotics Convict Denies Presence in Dressing Room

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Harold Johnson was due back on the witness stand today in a probe of his relations in a nationally-televised fight with Julie Rebeiro.

Johnson was the only witness in Wednesday's session of the investigation by the Pennsylvania state athletic commission into reports the Philadelphia boxer had been drugged before the May 6 fight.

The commission has charged Johnson, three of his handlers and the matchmaker with negligence in covering up his pre-fight condition.

In a televised interview Wednesday night, the No. 1 light heavyweight contender said the investigation "is one of the toughest fights of my career and I'll be licked pink when it's over."

On the stand Wednesday, Johnson identified the picture of a former narcotics convict as that of a man he saw in his dressing room the night of the fight.

The man was identified for the record as Louis Saccarona, also known under the aliases Louis Black and Louis Roman.

Police said he had been arrested a total of 10 times on narcotics charges and that he had been paroled in 1953 after serving two years of a 10-year sentence for violation of the Federal Drug Act.

DENIES HE WAS THERE

In Miami, however, Saccarona, who is one of Mederos' three managers, replied when told of the charges:

"It's a damn lie. They're not going to make me the goat in this thing."

He denied he was in Philadelphia the night of the fight. He said he was in his Miami home watching the fight on TV, and two of his neighbors confirmed his statement.

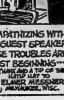
What asked why his picture was used in the investigation proceedings, Saccarona replied:

"I don't know. I only known Johnson's handlers and the promoter for 20 years. Johnson wouldn't need any picture of me. He's known me for about 30 years . . . Perdieu just beat him with a one-two combination body shot."

NOT ORANGE DONOR

Johnson testified Saccarona was not the stranger who gave him an orange before the fight. Johnson told police the orange tasted bitter but he believed it was the cause of his later sluggishness.

Although apparently unhurt by Mederos, Johnson was unable to answer the bell for the third round and the Cuban was awarded a second-round TKO.



Commission doctors reported medical tests showed Johnson had been drugged with a barbiturate and the effect of the drug didn't wear off for several hours. They said it was possible the drug was administered through the orange.

As a result of the medical report Governor George Leader suspended professional boxing in Pennsylvania for 30 days pending the outcome of the investigation.

JOINS LEAFS

TORONTO (CP)—Bill Miller, a southpaw pitcher acquired from the Baltimore Orioles last week, joined Maple Leaf baseball team of the International League Wednesday. He was with the Leafs for a short time last year, but was unable to pitch because of a sore arm.

"My arm is OK now, and I'm rarin' to go," Miller said.

'Stick to Tea and Crumpets' Suggests Dempsey to British

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Jack Dempsey, who wasn't called the Manassa Mauler for nothing, defended Rocky Marciano's questionable fighting tactics today and suggested the English "stick to tea and crumpets."

"Sure, he's a rough fighter" said the beetle-browed former heavyweight champion, "but he's not a dirty fighter. He never does anything deliberately — and these things have to be judged on intent.

"Marciano, it so happens, is just not a finished boxer. He is a wild swinger who, when he misses with a left, is liable to hit you with his head. He is always pouring with head, elbows and anything else he has handy.

IN FIRST ROUND

"If think if he had been a straight-hitting, finished puncher he could have got rid of Don Cockell in the first round.

Dempsey, who watched the fight on a screen in Chicago, said Marciano's tactics looked tame beside some of the old fights he has seen and even in which he has been engaged.

"Marciano is one of the finest, cleanest champions we have ever had," Jack said.

Dempsey said the howls of the British stemmed from their own misconception of the fight-game, as Americans know it.

"It's a different sport in England, entirely," the ex-champ added. "The fans like to see their boxers stand off and peck away at each other like fancy fencers."

ENGLAND-SPAIN TIE

MADRID (Reuters) — England's soccer team, outplayed for long periods, tied 1-1 with Spain here Wednesday in the second match of a continental tour. A crowd of 125,000 in Bernabeau Stadium saw Spain, playing a fast and well-organized game, control most of the play.

Elgins Batter Red Sox 11-7

ST. THOMAS (CP)—St. Thomas Elgins, defending champions of the Ontario Senior Intercounty League Wednesday night pounded four pitchers for 15 hits, including five home runs and a double, to defeat Stratford Red Sox 11-7 before 1,017 fans.

The Elgins started early as they collected five first-inning runs off starter John Fricke. The runs came off two singles, two walks and a grand-slam homer by first baseman Jim Hallard after Don Buller had walked to force in the first run. That gave the Elgins a 5-1 lead which they never lost. Left-fielder Tom McGration had homered with the bases empty in the top of the first.

RID IN THIRD

The Sox made their only serious bid of the game in the third when three successive walks by Elgins' starter, Johnny Ambrose, forced in a righthander to the showers. Amboise had two on when the next batter when relieved by Gene Florzyk, another righthander. Before Florzyk could retire the side three Brantford runs had crossed the plate.

The Elgins came back in their half of the third with three more runs.

The Red Sox put together three singles and an error in the fourth for two more runs but after that, Florzyk gained credit for the win.

In the fifth the Elgins' bats boomed again. The first two batters to face third reliefer, Bill Chivers, walked, then Marc Reaume, St. Thomas catcher, hit a three-run homer. With two outs (6) and a runner on base, centre-fielder Willie Casanova slugged a two-run homer and rightfielder Butch Lawlog followed with another double-dropper which left the ... empty. That brought on fourth reliefer Don Robertson who retired the side and gave up only one run in the seventh. Starter John Brebner was in charge with the loss.

Tempers flared twice in the game as opposing managers took turns berating the umpires. Playing manager Tommy White of the Elgins was ejected from the game in the third, while manager Harry Moorsdian of the Red Sox was ejected in the fifth.

Leading the Elgins at the plate was Hallard with his two homers and seven runs batted in.

Riders Sign Mustang Star

OTTAWA (CP)—Kenny Arkell, six-foot-two tackle who starred with the University of Western Ontario last fall, will be on the field when the Big Four Ottawa Rough Riders open their training campaign in July.

The club announced Wednesday night that the 225-pounder, described by McGill coach Larry Sullivan as one of the best linesmen of the 1954 season has been signed.

Football Is Chief Weapon of West In National Sport, Says Campbell

MONTREAL (CP)—Football is the only means by which western Canada can compete in national sport on an equal basis with the East, Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, says.

Addressing the annual banquet of the Canadian National Railways Idea Club, Mr. Campbell said Tuesday night that western hockey is not a means of national competition because of the lack of adequate facilities. Bigger facilities, such as those now planned at Winnipeg, are needed.

Mr. Campbell devoted a major part of his address to problems raised by television.

Local team support was changing to national or international team support as a result of TV which brought games right into the living room. Twenty years ago a good team playing any sport could draw a full house, victory or no victory, but now the emphasis was on victory.

Three major league baseball clubs, he said, recently were "bribed to move" to other locations because "playing rackets." Hockey was an example of the changing sport scene and would need eventually to be sport at all for lack of competition.

Canada had not yet felt the full impact of TV on sport. Canadians like to watch sports events but were familiar with major league sport through television. Support of local sport would be affected by the situation, possibly forcing a form of TV "blackout" such as existed on the Cockell-Marciano fight.

Mr. Campbell said he believes the day when sports events will be provided to TV viewers on a "fee or subscription" basis is "closer than we think."

Hamilton Beaten By Huddersfield In Tour Starter

HAMILTON (CP)—Huddersfield Town, English League first division champions, Wednesday night opened its Canadian tour with a 7-1 victory over an all-star club from this city.

Jimmy Glazzard, the high scoring centre forward for Huddersfield slipped in a pair of visitors' goals to give the first count of the game. The visitors counted again when Metcalfe drove home one minute before the end of the half to make the count 2-0.

The first 20 minutes of the second half started similar to the first with the tourists carrying the play. At the 13-minute mark, Brian Frear scored a fine visitors' goal when he scored his first marker of the game.

His goal was a sizzling drive after a beautiful solo effort right down the wing. Jimmy Nichols, the Hamilton keeper, was beat nicely.

At the 21-minute mark Max Johnson, star of the all-stars, scored Hamilton's first goal with a free kick which was taken by Westwater.

SECOND GOALS

Five minutes later Frear scored his second goal of the night with another brilliant effort and at the 35-minute mark Jimmy Glazzard scored his second goal to give the Huddersfield club a commanding 5-1 lead.

With time running out, Les Quested scored for Huddersfield. With time running out, Les taking a pass from Glazzard and driving it home. From the face off Huddersfield carried right down the field and Tommy Cavanaugh scored the final marker.

Actually the game was much closer than the score would indicate and it was only in the final 10 minutes the roof fell in with Huddersfield scoring four goals.

Huddersfield will play seven exhibition games in this country before returning to England early in June.

About 5,000 fans saw the game.

Business Ladies Bowling League Holds Banquet

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

"We was robbed". We were stopped. We were not invited to one of the outstanding functions of the current "Knife-and-Fork League".

We have gurgled barkey and chirped until we reached the point where we by-past every farmyard when trowelling. We do not like to look an honest gobbler or Plymouth Rock he-man in the face.

But our underground operator out Centre Church way in Redneersville tells us the gals of the Business Ladies' Bowling League had a wing-ding party to celebrate a successful season the other night.

Not only males of the species present were the waitled guys who got the biggest roasting of their lives and came under the mallet of the gals themselves. Apparently they did not need a "carver".

Result, that turkey took an awful beating, and the reports say the ladies of Centre Church outdid themselves in an outstanding culinary effort. It seemed the ladies bowling "threshers" were there.

But they mixed a few business Items with the reminiscences and Hetta story-telling. After fighting league battles all over they elected Rosie Locker as the incoming president. Grace Lapp is the vice president, Lillian Summers the treasurer and Kaye O'Shaughnessy the secretary.

And they paid fine tribute to the "Pirates" the 1954-55 league champions who were presented with the Hetta Trophy.

"Gang Busters" finished in second place with the "Go-Getters" winding up in the show position.

Rita Madden who rolled the best high single, 367 was presented with the Symons Milk Bar award. Mary Fairbairn, a veteran of the alleys, won the Paul Mercier Trophy with the high average of 207, while S. Cairn was presented with the Wills Hardware Trophy for the most high triple, an 815. Watch your step, young guys.

15,000 Canadian Golfers to Try To 'Beat Furgol'

TORONTO (CP)—Organizers of National Golf Day, to be held June 4, predict that at least 15,000 Canadians will tee off in the event this year.

"We raised $12,958 in 1954," Bill Hamilton, manager of the Royal Canadian Golf Association, said at a luncheon Wednesday. "Each year we continue to show improvement in the financial department."

Gross receipts from the event are divided evenly between the Canadian Red Cross and a fund for the development of junior golf. In this manner, Canadian golfers have contributed more than $33,00 tio the last three years.

This year women golfers will match their June 4 scores against Babe Zaharias, United States women's Open champ. The men will direct their skill at improving on the round shot by Ed Furgol, U.S. Open champion.

The Babe and Furgol will shoot their round at San Francisco's Olympic Club. "They will not be permitted handicaps. But their opposition in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico will be allowed full handicaps.

Detroit—Willie Pep, 128, Hartford, Conn., outpointed Gil Cadilli, 126½, Los Angeles, 10.

Hollywood, Calif.—Memo Diaz, 111¾, Mexico City, knocked out Kenny Teran, 111, Los Angles, 2, (for North American Flyweight title).

North May Join ORFU

STURGEON FALLS (CP)—The possibility of affiliation with the Ontario Rugby Football Union was discussed here Wednesday night by team representatives from the Northern Ontario Rugby Football Union when they met with W. A. (Bill) Fry, secretary-registrar for the intermediate section of the Canadian Rugby Union.

Fry outlined the CRU setup as it applies to intermediate football teams in Ontario and the rest of Canada.

The NORFU, which came into being last year as an outlaw organization, will hold another meeting May 29 at New Liskeard to make a decision regarding affiliation.

Clubs represented at the meeting were Sudbury Hardrocks, North Bay Roughriders and Sturgeon Falls Bombers. At the May 29 meeting it is expected that the other three teams, Tri-Towns, Kirkland Lake, and Noranda, will also be represented.

General opinion of the meeting here was that the NORFU should affiliate with the ORFU, but should stay in intermediate B competition, rather than in intermediate A.

Reg Wilkinson of Sudbury, a member of the NORFU directorate, was chairman of the meeting.

Pitching—Herb Score, Indians, scattered three hits and struck out nine as Indians trounced Boston Red Sox 19-0.

Batting—Mickey Mantle, Yankees, hit three clean game wide open with a grand-slam homer after drawing three walks in Yankees' 11-4 victory over Chicago White Sox.

White Sox, Dropo Sued for $25,000

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Chicago White Sox and their first baseman, Walt Dropo, were sued here Wednesday for $25,000 on a charge that Dropo slapped a young spectator at an exhibition baseball game here.

The suit, filed in the name of 14-year-old Tommy Glover of Little Rock, charged that Dropo entered the grandstand and "wantonly and maliciously" slapped Glover. The suit said the incident occurred after young Glover caught a foul ball during the practice session preceding an exhibition game between Chicago and St. Louis Cardinals April 5.

Judith Anderson Enjoys Time Spent on California Ranch

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—It's Medea among the melons and Lady Macbeth in the lettuce patch when Judith Anderson is not doing her high-powered emoting before cameras.

The Australian-born actress gets away from it all at her 38-acre ranch in Carpinteria, just north of Santa Barbara, Calif., and friends say that she really escapes from her classical roles up yonder. In place of flowing robes, she sports blue jeans, old shirts and straw hats.

When viewed on the set of "Ten Commandments," she was in more typical attire. She plays the slave of the pharaoh's daughter, Miss Foch, and the scene showed them fishing the infant Moses out of the bullrushes.

MIND ON AVOCADOS

Miss Anderson, dressed in an early Egyptian costume with a metal slave band around her arm, looked cour as she sank the baby boat into the Nile (actually the tank on Paramount's 20th St.).

Afterwards, she was told "you looked great in the rushes," but this bit of drollery was wasted on ters, such as Paris and avocados.

The Paris matter concerns "Medea," which she is going to do next month as part of the U. S. state department.

But to get to the avocados—"I am expecting them to take care of me in my old age."

TREES TEMPERAMENTAL

So far the temperamental trees haven't come through for her. When she bought the ranch a few years ago, it was fairly rundown. She had the place spruced up and 500 avocado trees planted.

"There are so many things that can go wrong," she said. "The wind can blow the blossoms away or the bees might not appear to carry the pollen. So far we haven't had any fruit. In another year we'll find out whether these trees will produce or if we'll have to graft new buds on them."

The actress said she completely escapes from the show business grind when she's at the ranch. Her trouble is that she gets there all too seldom. One year she was absent all but five weeks. Yet she harbors no yen to retire from performing.

Even if the place should be come a moneymaker," she said, "I don't think I'd ever quit. Not as long as I can find jobs."

Her mind was on other mat-

Faces of Dancing Cigaret Packs Kept as Dark Secret by Sponsor

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—You'll never see the faces that go with three of the prettiest pairs of legs in television—those of the dancing cigaret Packs.

Their cigaret sponsor tries to protect their identities as closely as if they were state secrets on the theory that the mystery creates added interest among viewers.

The theory appears to have considerable substance. Nearly 200,000 viewers have written in to ask the names and be allowed to see the faces of the girls in the dancing Packs on "Two For the Money," on CBS, and "Truth or Consequences," on NBC.

Miss Regular Pack has been a member of the act the longest, making her debut in 1948 during commercials on Ted Mack's original amateur hour, which the company also sponsored.

Second was Miss King Size who made her debut in April 1953. The newest member is Miss Filter King who joined last September.

Miss Regular Pack is choreographer for the act. Her comment, relayed through the secrecy veil, is:

"At first I didn't like it. But now I wouldn't have it otherwise. Today I dance before millions of people a week. When you like dancing, you like to dance for lots of people."

OIL WELL BLOWS IN

DUTTON, Ont. (CP) — An oil well blew in three miles west of here Wednesday, throwing drilling equipment and spray into the air and briefly knocking out a 230,000-volt hydro line between London and Windsor when the heavy equipment caught on the lines on the way down. Dutton is 18 miles southwest of St. Thomas.

Contribution To Level-Crossing Fund Increased

OTTAWA (CP) — A measure making a five-fold increase in federal contributions to grade-crossing safety was passed by the Commons Wednesday with Transport Minister Marler cautioning that it will not be the final answer to ending rail crossing accidents.

The problem can only be solved when motorists are fully educated in safety, he said. "We need a lot more care by drivers."

The bill, still to be considered by the Senate, would increase the government's annual contribution to the railway crossing fund to $5,000,000 from $1,000,000. The money is used to help pay for highway underpasses and overpasses and for installing safety devices at level crossings.

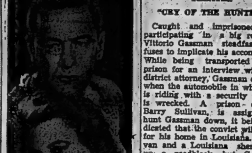
MAKE SUGGESTIONS

Opposition members made a series of suggestions for further safety measures during final study of the legislation.

George Hahn (SC—New Westminster) and H. W. Herridge (CCF —Kootenay West) proposed a uniform system across Canada of traffic regulations and signalling devices governing traffic at railway crossings.

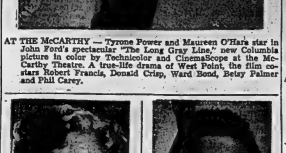
Howard Green (PC—Vancouver-Quadra) expressed support of a CNR proposal that the Railway Act provide for prosecution of motorists who disregard level crossing signs and safety devices such as wig-wags and warning lights. The CNR had suggested a maximum fine of $25.

He said the CNR had tried unsuccessfully to prosecute motorists involved in crossing crashes under the Criminal Code provision for reckless driving.

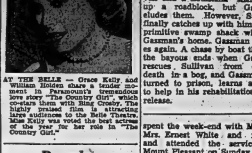


Mr. Marler said several provinces already have laws against disregarding level crossings. The transport board felt such a rule is outside federal jurisdiction.

BETTER RIDE



PARIS (CP)—Injured and sick in this town will no longer ride to the hospital in hearses. A local service club Wednesday night presented an ambulance to the community and a volunteer ambulance brigade is to be organized.



AT THE McCARTHY — Tyrone Power and Maureen O'Hara star in John Ford's spectacular "The Long Gray Line," new Columbia picture in color by Technicolor and CinemaScope at the McCarthy Theatre. A true-life drama of West Point, the film costars Robert Francis, Donald Crisp, Ward Bond, Betsy Palmer and Phil Carey.

AT THE BELLE — Grace Kelly and William Holden share a tender moment in a scene from their romantic drama, "The Country Girl," which co-stars them with Bing Crosby. The highly praised film, a attracting large audiences to the Belle Theatre. Miss Kelly was voted the best actress of the year for her role in "The Country Girl."

AT THE CAPITOL — Barbara Stanwyck has a role worthy of her great talents in the Twentieth Century-Fox film "Titanic," which opens tonight at the Capitol Theatre. The film, produced by Charles Brackett, tells in a spectacular story unfolded on the decks of the ill-fated vessel. On the same program, in Technicolor, "Pony Soldier," starring Tyrone Power and Cameron Mitchell.

AT THE CAPITOL — WAR CHIEF — Cameron Mitchell plays the novel Cree Indian chief, Dull Knife, in Twentieth Century-Fox's Technicolor outdoor drama opening tonight at the Capitol. On the same program "Titanic" stars Clifton Webb and Barbara Stanwyck.

INCREASE SERVICES

TORONTO (CP) — Twenty-three Ontario branches of the Canadian Red Cross Society now have voluntary service committees, Hope Holmested said Wednesday. She was reporting at the executive meeting of the Ontario division of the society.

Rawdon

RAWDON— Mrs. Charles Morton, who has been a patient in Campbellford Hospital, is now convalescing at her home. She was also the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Morton, 6th concession, for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ryan and family spent Sunday at Tweed.

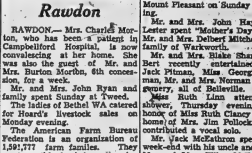
The ladies of Bethel WA catered for Hoard's Dairy sales on Monday evening.

The American Farm Bureau Federation is an organization of 1,591,777 farm families. They meet monthly for information, inspiration and recreation as a family group.

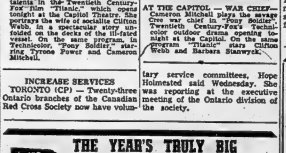
Miss Edith Stone, Halloway, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest White and family, and attended the service at Mount Pleasant on Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hay and guest "Mother's Day" with Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Mitchell and family of Warkworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Blake Sharp and Bert recently entertained Mr. Jack Pitman, Miss Georgia Pitman, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Montague and all of Belleville.



Miss Ruth Linn attended a shower, Thursday evening in honor of Miss Ruth Clancy at the home of Mrs. Jim Pollock. Ruth contributed a vocal solo.



Mr. Jack McEathron spent the week-end with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley McEathron, Bancroft, and also visited his father and brother, at Hermon, Ontario, on Sunday.

Just when you learn a difficult bridge system the author pulls changes on you. What I am about to tell you today is not a change. It is an addition to the rules you have read here.

When your partner doubles for takeout you are forced to bid if there is interveing bid by opponent. This is the rule. It is a rule that should not be violated because of weakness.

However, there is a condition under which you may pass if no bid intervenes after a takeout double by your partner. This is when you can help to defeat the contract.

Let me show you such a situation. Suppose the bidding goes like this:

South	West	North	East
2 H	Pass	Pass	Pass
Pass

You sit with the west hand shown here:

♥ 6 3
♦ K J 9 8 4
♣ A J 4
♣ 7 6 4 2

The double by your east partner is for takeout. There is no intervening bid by south. This means that you are forced to make a bid of some kind. So goes the rule.

However, look at the cards you hold in the opponent's bid suit. Consider the strength in clubs suits your partner shows by his takeout double. Combine what your pair can take.

Even if opponent is in a bid or only one heart your pair can give him a terrific beating. Knowing this, you may ignore the force to takeout, and pass. It turns the takeout into a penalty double.

Thus, there are two conditions under which you may pass your partner's takeout double. One is when there is an intervening bid. The other is when you can defeat the opponent's contract.

This is not a new rule. It is a rule born from rule. But it is as old as the game.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, May 20, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Mixed aspects. The day could be trying at times, encouraging at other periods. Armed with this foreknowledge you can choose your course and your matters out sensibly.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Apply your talents, knowledge and general know-how toward achieving the gains possible now, though the day will not be a particularly generous one. Be clever at management.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Consistency of effort and patience can make this day's efforts bear fruit. You may tend to be irritable, not willing to wait for the proper outcome of work and plans to unfold.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer)—It is not always wise or productive to speed ahead without stopping to heed the side effects of what you are doing. Day stresses, slower (but surer) advancement, avoidance of confusion.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—At time for careful consideration of everything—especially matters that involve finances, advancement, discussion, talks with superiors. Of course, good work always brings new advantages.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo)—As with most of us, it is a "must" to think before-acting. Don't strain or be hasty, no matter how demanding your duties. Do only that which you can reasonably handle.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Favorable rays linger on yesterday's benefic Venus effect. Be mindful first of urgent tasks. Take them in hand ably and calmly then you can undertake the lesser duties with more alacrity. Good going!

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—You do not have to keep going at the same tempo every day to insure a good score. Consider "little things", some wholesome fun, too.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)— The day may not be all you'd like in a personal or business way, but good returns are possible, nevertheless, and these, in turn, will attract new advantages. Co-operate with right sources.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Old practical Saturn is in a warning mood, so stress serenity, thoughtful action, care in handling others' affairs and your own. Recognize the importance of small errors, others' opinions.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)— A wide variety of activities is not favored; nor will all things be satisfying, but familiar matters and those in which you have talent or training can prosper. Use logic.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)— Maintain an ambitious but not overly aggressive tempo or schedule. Enjoy some leisure or you will become too tired, unfit for later tasks. But don't dawdle.

You born today have many sturdy characteristics; are innately practical, persuasive, congenial and efficient. Don't be intolerant at necessarily slow-moving matters or obstacles. Your determination is admirable when applied to good causes, activities. You are finally to be found doing things that are constructive—and the pattern you enjoy. You have high ambitions; strive consistently to attain them. Never lose hope; look ahead with renewed courage each new day.

TENDERS FOR COAL AND COKE
FEDERAL BUILDINGS
PROVINCE OF ONTARIO

SEALED TENDERS addressed to the undersigned, and endorsed as above, will be received until 3.00 P.M. (E.D.S.T.), THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1955, for the supply of coal and coke for the Federal Buildings throughout the Province of Ontario.

Forms of tender with specifications and conditions attached can be obtained from the Chief of Purchasing and Stores, Department of Public Works, Ottawa, and the District Architect, 502 Confederation Life Building, Toronto, Ontario.

Tenders will not be considered unless made on or according to the printed forms supplied by the Department and in accordance with conditions set forth therein.

The Department reserves the right to demand from any successful tenderer, before awarding the order, a certified cheque payable to the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent of the amount of tender, or a guarantee bond, in the form of Canadian Government war loans, or Bearer Bonds, with unmatured coupons attached, of the Government of Canada or of the Canadian National Railway Company, or of the constituent companies, unconditionally guaranteed as to principal and interest by the Government of Canada.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

ROBERT FORTIER,
Chief of Administrative Services,
and Secretary.
Department of Public Works,
Ottawa, May 10, 1955.

Passed Bad Cheques

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Robert Bruce Simmons of Brantford, in court Wednesday on a charge of passing worthless cheques, was sentenced to two years in jail and of six months on two charges. He recently finished six-18-month penitentiary term in Missouri for a similar offence.

Vaccine Stock Slightly Reduced In Canada

OTTAWA (CP)—A stop in vaccine imports from the United States and a temporary halt in the flow of India's rhesus monkeys has reduced the stock of Salk polio vaccine available for Canadian children.

Federal-officials estimated Wednesday that the number of Canadian children that may be inoculated before next July likely will total about 1,000,000. The health department previously had estimated that about 1,500,000 might receive the vaccine before July.

The estimate was made last month. Since then there has been a halt in imports of the vaccine from commercial sources in the U.S.

The Toronto Connaught Laboratories, lone Canadian producer, experienced some lag in production when India placed a temporary ban on exports of rhesus monkeys earlier this year. The monkeys' kidneys are used in the manufacturing process.

Erased Chalk-Marks, Toronto Man Fined $25

TORONTO (CP)—A man whose police claimed erased chalk-marks on his automobile tires Wednesday was fined $25 and costs.

Frank Bonanno, 34, was convicted on ch arge of obstructing police.

Constable Colin Campbell testified that, after he had chalked several cars on his beat as a means of checking parking time, he was told someone was erasing them. Later, the constable said, he saw Bonano erase chalk marks on his own car and one parked near it.

Contract Payoffs Are Being Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Investigating senators today sought to unravel conflicting testimony about cash payoffs and costly favors in connection with large-scale buying for the United States armed forces.

Witnesses told Wednesday of alleged gifts of a coat to a woman government contract official, a home freezer and fine lingerie to persons not yet named, and $50 bills to a $60-a-week government inspector who denied they were bribes.

Marvin Rubin, a professional seeker of government contracts for garment makers, was called back as a witness today to tell the Senate preparedness subcommittee more about his activities.

Rubin had earlier from sub-committee chairman John McClellan (Dem. Ark.) to ponder overnight his seven denial flats on an was "influence peddler," and his testimony that the $50 bills were loans to navy Inspector Julius Goldman.

Goldman testified he accepted $50 almost every Friday for a period of three or four months in 1952 while inspecting raincoats manufactured for the navy by the Canadian Garment Company of Coaticook, Que., which Rubin was a business finder.

58 DIE IN THEATRE

WARSAW (AP)—Fifty-eight persons were burned to death in a theatre fire last week at Wislo-bole, a village in southern Poland, the newspaper Trybuna Ludu said today. The newspaper said four theatre employees have been arrested. An official investigation found 200 persons were in a room meant to hold 90, that fire protection was inadequate and that both audience and staff were smoking, a violation of regulations.

May Be 60 Men Trapped In Mine At New Glasgow

Flood and Rock Falls Occur in Nova Scotia Mine

NEW GLASGOW, N.S. (CP)—Doosco officials said here today that all miners escaped a flood and cave-in at the MacGregor mine and only one — a surveyor—suffered facial injuries.

NEW GLASGOW, N. S. (CP)— There may be between 50 and 60 men trapped in one of the underground sections of coal seams connecting with the MacGregor shaft whose communications and water pumps were cut by a flood and subsequent cave-in early today.

This was the estimate made by unofficial sources after officials of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation said that it looked as if only three men were still trapped and they would probably walk to safety.

One of the last of perhaps 100 miners who made its safety from the main McGregor shaft told a New Glasgow Evening News reporter that he had worked his way out with great difficulty. He said he bobbed along in the water which was over his head and there was only a foot of air space between the water and the low, rocky roof of the mine. At spots where the roof dipped, he had to go on all fours to get through, he said.

The last major accident in the McGregor shaft at Stellarton occurred Jan. 14, 1952 when 19 miners were lost in an explosion. The shaft was subsequently sealed after this accident.

TRAPPED AGAIN

An unofficial report said water from one of the old surface workings which had formed a deep pool had suddenly drained into the main shaft of the McGregor and carried away some equipment, thus causing a fall of coal. According to this report only three men were in the mine this fall at the time and it is understood that when dreagermen have cleared away the debris will be able to walk to the surface.

The fall has blocked the main haulage lines and the men will have to walk the whole way.

Senator Praises Canada For Vaccine Handling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senator Richard Neuberger (Dem. Ore.) told the Senate Thursday the Eisenhower administration "could learn a lot from our neighbors in Canada" about a public health program.

He said Canada is making "a strict and orderly" distribution "which can command the confidence of the people and of doctors, which stands in sharp contrast to the chaotic conditions which has developed in the United States."

Under the Canadian program, he said, "there is no shortage, there is without a case of polio being reported, for a week."

"One facet of the Canadian program will be of interest to the American people. The Canadian government obtains its supplies by purchasing the entire output of the (University of Toronto's) Connaught Laboratories. The cost of the carefully tested vaccine for three immunizing inoculations is $1.50. There is no other price for private purchasers because the government contracted for the entire output."

Chevrier Says Water Traffic Will Be Trebled

COPENHAGEN (CP) — Hon. Lionel Chevrier, president of Canada's St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, said today the seaway is expected to more than treble water traffic in the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes area.

In an address prepared for delivery to the Baltic and International Maritime Conference, he said it is estimated that between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 tons of traffic a year will traverse the seaway soon after its construction. Tonnage now is about 30,000,000 through smaller canals.

Mr. Chevrier said about 85 per cent of seaway traffic might broadly be considered internal. North American trade that would continue to be carried largely by the coastwise ocean vessels. But there would be room for expansion of trade between overseas ports and lake-river points.

The statements were included in the text of a speech issued to the press before delivery.

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The almost cloudless skies of Thursday will continue throughout the province today, and in most regions Saturday. Some clouds and a few showers are expected north of Lake Superior Saturday.

LIGHTNING KILLS FOUR SCHOOLBOYS IN TEXAS STORM

Destructive Floods Sweeping Four States

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Flooding rivers surged through towns and cities in parts of four states today in one of the most destructive floods in years in the southwestern United States.

At least five persons were dead. Four schoolboys were killed during a thunderstorm at Kingsville, Tex., when a lightning bolt struck down 42 youngsters. A Colorado woman was drowned.

Rain started again in Texas, and more showers were predicted for southern Colorado and northern New Mexico where rain has been falling since Tuesday night.

Mass evacuation was in progress at two southeast Colorado cities, Lamar and Holly, where the civil defence director declared an emergency. Scores of homes and business houses were abandoned to rising waters; elsewhere in Colorado, Oklahoma and Texas, Northeast New Mexico also was hit by torrential rains.

Authorities in Colorado estimated at least 2,000 persons were isolated by the floods. Elsewhere, an additional 300 persons were removed from their homes in scattered Oklahoma communities.

Assiniboine Breaks Dikes West of Winnipeg

BRANDON, Man. (CP) — The Assiniboine River broke over a river bridge through dikes today near Warren's Corner, about 85 miles east of here and 45 miles west of Winnipeg, sending a stream of water over the area.

District residents were working frantically to patch up a hole 10 feet wide and 12 feet deep in the dike in an effort to prevent further flooding.

About five houses and a school have been threatened by the breakthrough. A general store in the area was surrounded by water.

As the flood pushed several farther east, teams of repair men at Brandon reinforced weak spots in the two-mile diking system which held firmly Thursday night.

At the Sioux Valley village on the outskirts of Portage la Prairie, 90 miles east, the ramparting was washed out a ¼-mile section of road leading to the settlement. Mayor R. L. Henderson of Portage la Prairie has described the situation as "critical."

BELIEVED SAFE

Water from the big pile in the water level would flood out the Indian village.

The crest sweeping eastward is expected to hit Portage la Prairie about Saturday but engineers predicted it would raise the river level only 18 inches.

Evacuation of the 600 soldiers continued working on a weakened and isolated section of the dikes, 40 miles west of Winnipeg.

Three Houses Burned

SUDBURY (CP) — An hour-long blaze Thursday night destroyed three houses and damaged a fourth in Capreol, 30 miles west of here. Fire started in the home of Tony Lancia, which was partly destroyed by fire 2½ weeks ago, it spread to the homes of E. J. Lachance, Mrs. D. Berard and Mr. and Mrs. Gelan Bessing.

The Robinson home was slightly damaged but the other three were destroyed.

Crowd at Cockell-Marciano Fight Pitied by Church of England Paper

LONDON (Reuters)—The Church of England newspaper came out fighting today over the Rocky Marciano-Don Cockell fight last Monday night, but most of its punches were aimed more at the 18,000 spectators at White Hart Lane Soccer Stadium than at the world heavyweight title bout itself.

The newspaper called the fighters "two perambulating mountains of bone and flesh," adding:

"The one that can pound the other into bloody pulp before he can retaliate in kind receives the applause of thousands, the hero worship of two nations with pre-over their degredation."

"The one that can pound the other into bloody pulp before he can retaliate in kind receives the applause of thousands, the hero worship of two nations with pre-over their degredation."

tensions to greatness and vast sums of money into the bargain.

"Long live Christ the King" until police dispersed them.

Earlier in the evening thousands of Catholics packed the Metropolitan cathedral and 14 other churches in Buenos Aires for evening masses. Officially they marked observance of the Feast of the Ascension. But the unusual number of evening masses made apparent the church authorities intended a demonstration of support.

Police stationed heavy concentrations near the principal churches, but the marching youths were the only demonstrators.

After Senate action and Peron's signature on the bill, the government will call an election for the assembly to rewrite the constitution. The vote is expected late this year.

Removal from the constitution of reference to the church would spell the end of all financial aid to church schools and discontinuance on the small salaries paid from government funds to certain Roman Catholic priests and others.

About 90 per cent of the Argentine people, including Peron, are members of the Catholic Church.

Drag for Body Of Six-Year-Old In Ottawa River

PEMBROKE (CP) — Searchers resumed their operations for the day for the body of Brenda Blake, 6, who, police say, drowned Wednesday in the Ottawa River near the Pembroke, Ont., dock.

The youngster was last seen walking in the vicinity of the dock with her 30-pound stepgrandfather, Mr. Blake, who later was found wandering around in a dazed condition suffering from a head injury.

Mrs. Blake was reported in serious condition in Pembroke Hospital.

Inspector Bert Dickie of the Pembroke police said Thursday the fate of the girl has definitely been established, but declined to elaborate.

He said that Mrs. Blake has been questioned, but her story would not be made public pending the recovery of the child's body.

Pembroke is about 100 miles northwest of Ottawa.

BANK CLERK SLAIN

5 Race Horses Die in Fire At Fair Grounds at Picton

PICTON (Special!) — Five race horses were burned to death and a horse barn at the Picton Fair Grounds, valued at an estimated $15,000 was destroyed Thursday evening when fire of undetermined origin razed the building despite efforts of the Picton and Bloomfield fire departments.

Four of the race horses were owned by Fred Shannon of Picton, the fifth being owned by Norman Flatford of Bloomfield.

The blaze was discovered about 9.30 p.m. by an unidentified passerby, who turned in the alarm. Firemen first ran hoses to the pens and the doors to the barn but were driven back by the flames and attempts to rescue the five race horses proved futile.

Firemen were able to save a second horse barn only ten feet from the burning structure and farther east, teams of repair men at Brandon reinforced weak spots in the two-mile diking system which held firmly Thursday night.

At the Sioux Valley village on the outskirts of Portage la Prairie, 90 miles east, the ramparting was washed out a ¼-mile section of road leading to the settlement. Mayor R. L. Henderson of Portage la Prairie has described the situation as "critical."

BELIEVED SAFE

Water from the big pile in the water level would flood out the Indian village.

The crest sweeping eastward is expected to hit Portage la Prairie about Saturday but engineers predicted it would raise the river level only 18 inches.

Evacuation of the 600 soldiers continued working on a weakened and isolated section of the dikes, 40 miles west of Winnipeg.

The Picton horse barns also used each winter by racing men for winter quarters for their race horses.

Thirteen other race horses in the second horse barn were released from their stalls when it appeared this barn might also burn and stampeded through the crowd into the fair grounds where they remained the balance of the night. The horses were owned by Alec Williams and George Cockburn, Picton race men well known on Ontario and Quebec tracks.

There was no one in the horse barn which burned, but a night watchman was sleeping in the second barn which was saved. Mr. Shannon was to leave today to race his horses on U.S.A. tracks. Sulkies and other racing equipment were lost in the fire.

The fact that both horse barns were covered with sheet metal, undoubtedly saved the second barn from destruction.

The burned barn was constructed of red five years ago and was built to replace a building destroyed by fire.

Argentina's Deputies Vote To Separate Church, State

By FRED L. STROZIER

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina's Peron-dominated Chamber of Deputies gave overwhelming approval Thursday to bills to the president's demand to end Roman Catholicism as the state religion.

In the first formal step toward amending the constitution, the 46-lower house voted 121 to 12 for the government - backed proposal to eliminate Catholicism's favored legal position. The bill calls for deletion of a national convention to change the country's basic law.

Victory in the lower chamber had been a foregone conclusion. The Peronista party normally controls 149 of the 196 seats. The bill now goes to the Senate — where Peronistas hold all 34 seats—and then to the president for signature.

The deputies' session, stretching two days of debate on the crucial issue, moved to the tempestuous demonstrations both in the chamber and outside.

Deputies pounded on their desks and shouted "Peron! Peron!"

Outside several hundred Catholic youths paraded toward the Capitol, chorusing "Argentina is Catholic and "Long live Christ the King" until police dispersed them.

Earlier in the evening thousands of Catholics packed the Metropolitan cathedral and 14 other churches in Buenos Aires for evening masses. Officially they marked observance of the Feast of the Ascension. But the unusual number of evening masses made apparent the church authorities intended a demonstration of support.

Police stationed heavy concentrations near the principal churches, but the marching youths were the only demonstrators.

'AUTOMATION' IS WORD FREQUENTLY USED IN HOUSE

Said Major Factor In Jobless Situation

OTTAWA (CP)—A machine-age word, automation, is getting increasing use in the Commons.

It means replacement of workmen by machines and technological developments. A succession of Commons members Thursday expressed opinions on how to meet its impact in Canada.

Clerve Gillis (CCF—Cape Breton South), speaking in a general debate on introduction of latest de-partment estimates, said automation is a "major factor in present-day unemployment."

He suggested two cures: Establishment of industrial councils to find ways of offsetting the results of mechanization, and acceptance of the guaranteed annual wage encouraging workers a certain amount of security in wages from their employers.

"You just don't throw a horse out on the street and feed him only when he's working for you," Mr. Gillis said.

ALWAYS NEW JOBS

John Diefenbaker (PC — Prince Albert) said such efforts at unemployment have been expressed ever since the industrial revolution. "But some new industry—plastics in the modern age—always came along to provide new jobs."

"While each generation fears such displacement, it will reduce employment, each generation displacement is solved . . . employment is extended by the accelerating field of other production."

Mr. Diefenbaker ranged over other topics: Planning for next winter's seasonal unemployment, problems of older workers, vocational training and the condition of federal labor laws.

Viet Minh Give Refugees Another Month to Leave

HONG KONG (Reuters) — Communist North Viet Nam announced today it is granting refugees another the time limit for refugees to cross to non-Communist South Viet Nam, the New China News Agency has reported.

A deadline of May 18 had been set by the Geneva conference last July which resulted in an armistice ending the eight-year war in Indochina.

Britain had proposed two weeks ago through Russia that the May 18 deadline be extended for transfer of refugees from one part of the divided country to another. It also made the approach to Russia as co-chairman of the Geneva conference.

Issue New Stamp

OTTAWA (CP)—A new, five-cent postage stamp, commemorating the Dominion Day visit of the provinces of Alberta and Saskatchewan, goes on public sale June 30, the post office department announced today.

The features of a pioneer-garbed man and woman dominate the left-hand side of the stamp, which also over stalks of ripening wheat to three oil derricks in the distance.

TORONTO (CP) —Police today swore out a warrant charging Arthur Aronson, six-foot former resident of northern Ontario, with armed robbery in connection with a bank holdup Thursday in which a clerk was killed during an exchange of gunfire.

Meanwhile, as they pressed the hunt for the 29-year-old Aronson, they charged Lloyd Simpson, 22, with armed robbery.

Simpson, a self-employed housepainter, was arrested eight hours after the $2,300 robbery-holdup at the Dundas and McCaul streets branch of the Toronto-Dominion Bank in central Toronto. Police said they found him with a gunshot wound in his back in a bed in a west-end rooming house.

SEMEN HELD

Police described Aronson as six feet—two-half inch tall, 170 pounds, with light brown hair, fair complexion, blue eyes, long nose and a small mouth. They said he is a "neat" dresser and may be wearing a grey suit and brown shoes.

Police also held two women as material witnesses. They identified them as Mrs. Aronson, 22, and Mrs. Eunice Aronson, 27.

Police said the women are not married to either man but are related by marriage. They said Miss Aronson is a sister of Simpson's wife and Mrs. Aronson is married to a brother of Aronson.

Officers assigned to the investigation said they are looking into the possibility the two suspects may have been responsible for the $5,000 robbery of the Canadian Bank of Commerce branch in Sunnybrook shopping centre last month and the $7,091 robbery four months ago of the bank held up Thursday.

BELIEVED ARMED

Police said Aronson is believed armed with an automatic gun used since Thursday from the bank.

Killed in the wild gun battle which exploded in the lobby of the bank was bank clerk Alan Hannan, 25. Caught in the crossfire, he was cut down by a bullet as the bank manager exchanged shots with the holdup men.

Simpson was taken to hospital and operated on immediately. A bullet had passed through his body. In his room detectives found $1,218 in a woman's handbag. They also found a satchel containing a blood stained plaid shirt.

Whether the death of Hannan is murder or accidental killing has not yet been "established, police said.

KILLED BY JR

An autopsy Thursday night showed that a 38-calibre bullet had taken his life. The bullet, fired from him in the right arm and pierced his heart and liver.

Police said a shot from the bank manager's 38-calibre revolver may have struck Hannan in the crossfire. The weapons used by the bandits were a .45-calibre and 12-gauge shotgun—both fired on a cabinet in the bank when the spell fired—and a .38-calibre Smith and Wesson-action rifle, found in the abandoned getaway car.

Nab Wounded Man, Seeking Another Following Holdup

Young Bank Clerk Slain As $2,300 Taken from Cage

BY DON HOYT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX (CP)—Three veteran West German journalists said Thursday they doubted whether a big-power meeting "at the summit" would bring about the unification of Germany.

The West Germans were among 16 European newspapermen who arrived here on the first leg of a NATO-sponsored tour of Canada.

Speech was Ukskull, political editor of Hamburg's influential Die Zeit, said in an interview he expected no formula for unifying Germany from any meeting of Big Four leaders.

There had been no reaction yet to the restoration of sovereignty to Austria which came about only a few days after West Germany was admitted to the 15-nation Western European defence alliance.

Ukskull said the unexpected Russian gesture on Austria had caused a "psychological shock" among Germans.

"But security is still foremost in the German mind. No matter how much he desires reunification, he feels more with the West."

The editor of the pro-Adenauer paper said the German chancellor feels "ratification of the rearmament pacts is the road to unification."

Karl Weiss, parliamentary correspondent for Munich's big daily Suddeutsche Zeitung, said "unrest" has been growing in Germany during the last few weeks over the Austrian treaty.

"It is discussed every day in the country."

Weiss said a bid to capture political power by ex-Nazi Otto Strasser was being supported only by "fools and dreamers" and ignored by the responsible press.

Strasser, former friend of Hitler, returned to Germany in January after 14 years of exile at Paradise, N.S. Before leaving, he predicted that he would oust the Adenauer government and seek unity with East Germany in exchange for a neutral buffer state between communism and democracy.

Weiss said Strasser is following among West Germany's 50,000,000 people "a certain following among tens of thousands."

He said Strasser's planned press conference had all been "flops" because of a "gentleman's agreement" among editors not to print a line would be written about his return."

Police said the bandits, armed with revolvers, entered the bank and forced the manager to hand over the money.

Four Other Ships Aid Navy Search

Four other ship's cats were later discovered patrolling the decks of the ship, after the first one cut and one kitten were taken ashore.

As news of Butch's fate made headlines, Capt. C. M. Parry of the Canadian Pacific steamship Beaverbrae, admitted the cat was tossed over the side by a member of the crew.

It wasn't "the ideal way to kill a cat." He also disclosed that a search was ordered to drive into the harbor and rescue Butch.

Thursday, after appeals from the Cleopatra's newsy - founded "save our cats society," Inspector Harvey Hinds of the Royal Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Animals went aboard the ship.

Navy brass are fretfully awaiting his report. It isn't expected to be flattering.

High Brass of Royal Navy in Dither Over Fate of Cleopatra's Cat 'Butch'

PORTSMOUTH, England (Reuters)—The high brass of the Royal Navy today were anxiously wondering what to do about the tragic death of Butch, the ship's cat.

They're worried because Butch, former mascot of the cruiser Cleopatra, is a popular public idol. Not more than any cat, dead or alive, has ever done in all its long, proud history.

Butch was dropped overboard by a crewman ordered to drive the cat from round his neck by an officer of the Cleopatra on Monday. He struggled free and was rescued, but was so badly hurt he had to be destroyed later.

When Butch was dropped overboard he was reported to have had his death marked the beginning of a purge. Twenty cats were just too many for the Cleopatra; some had

Quinte Sea Cadet Corps Paid Tribute at Inspection

Outstanding tribute not only to the corps itself, its officers and general efficiency, but to the fine public support behind it, was paid the Quinte Sea Cadet Corps at its annual inspection held by the "ship" last night.

Before a large crowd of admiring spectators, the corps marched past a reviewing stand where high ranking naval officers were gathered, gave demonstrations of precision drill and other phases of sea cadet training and later were hosts at a reception to parents and other guests.

Commander F. C. Benson, RCN, HMCS York, Hamilton, was the inspecting officer. With him were Lieut. Commander S. G. Coombe, area officer Sea Cadets and Lt. Commander J. S. Gardiner, assistant area officer Sea Cadets.

Commander Benson in his first visit to Belleville, paid special tribute to the public support given the Quinte cadets. "It is tremendous," he said. "It is the best I have seen thus far, and I have inspected the majority of Sea Cadet Corps in Ontario."

TRIBUTE TO EFFICIENCY

Commander Benson paid further tribute to the efficiency of the corps stressing the final naval qualifying of Petty Officer Gerry Taphouse, who was in charge of the corps throughout the inspection.

The inspecting officer took the salute as the corps marched past in column of divisions. He witnessed an outstanding demonstration of physical training by the efficient armed guard, and paid particular attention to the trim drum and bugle band of the corps under the baton of P.O. P. Shandraw.

He inspected a "sail-past" of members of the corps in their trim dinghies, and also the drill and recreation exercises and pither features of cadet training.

Officers of the corps are: Lieut. Ross Watson, commanding; Sub-Lieutenant R. Fetcher, executive officer; Sub-Lieut. E. Richards and Midshipmen J. Donovan and S. Baldwin.

ARMY REPRESENTED

Lieut.-Col. Everett S. Fairman, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, represented the army at the inspection. Other distinguishing guests were: Lieut.-Col. P. H. Wills, M. C., the late Rev. Jack Guthridge, president of the Belleville branch of the Navy League of Canada; Lieut. Addison Lloyd, chairman of the Sea Cadet committee; Frank Crandame, vice-president, Navy League; Charles Hunt, treasurer, Navy League; Jim Brownlee, Quinte Sea Cadets; Bill Judge, Ross Silver, Jr., Quinte Sea Cadets; Rev. Keith Daniel, and others.

Headed by the smartly attired band, the corps, trim in their "round rigs" of blue and white, swung smartly past the reviewing stand as the large, admiring crowd looked on. Then came the precision squad and band demonstrations as the function got under way. Commander Benson paid particular attention to individual cadets during the inspection, stopping to chat occasionally with one of the boys. He paid close attention to the various manoeuvres.

One of the features of the inspection was the presentation of certificates of proficiency and chevrons to a number of cadets. The examinations were held on April 21.

QUALIFY FOR RANKS

Qualifying for the rank of petty officer were: Leading Cadets C. Horning, J. Williams, R. L. Brown, R. Worsley, D. Bishop, J. Grindrod, J. Carmichael and J. Downes. Earning leading cadet efficiency were: Able Cadets J. T. Mowers, S. Lucas, J. E. Roper, W. Richards, C. Booth, R. Ladouceur, R. Boomhower, B. Hogan, R. Markle, J. Meldrum, G. Fleury, J. Ueris, J. Lucella, D. Gibbs, J. Downey, R. Holgate and E. Brady.

From ordinary cadet to able cadet are: R. Sopha, S. Wilkinson, R. David, T. Keller, D. McMahon,

CHARLIE W. WANNAMAKER

The funeral of Charlie Wilson Wannamaker was held Thursday, May 19th, from the chapel of the Bellerville Burial Company Funeral Home. Rev. W. J. Robinson conducted the service.

Bearers were Carleton Wallace, James Perkins, Percy Fleming, William Akey, Robert Wills and Don Wannamaker.

Interment took place in Stirling cemetery.

12 New Members Initiated Into Power Squadron

Bay of Quinte Power Squadron cruised into its second year last night with colors flying.

At its second annual meeting, conducted at the Hotel Quinte, the membership increased from 20 to 32 when 12 new members, three of them women, received their qualification certificates and membership in squadron. Some 10 senior members also were presented with pass certificates in engine maintenance and seamanship.

Jack Tatham was returned as commander for the year, succeeding Ian Murch, and Jack Marshall was named Lt.-Commander of the squadron. Other members of the new executive are:

Milt Davidson, 1st vice-Commander; Frank Leach, treasurer; Len Smith, secretary.

Also attending the meeting was Bill Thompson, Toronto, chief commander of Canadian Power Squadron, parent body of the local branch; Harry Tirg, vice-commander CPS and Jim Hunt, rear commander, Hamilton.

Most of the speech-making was brief and precise.

Before reading the pledge to new members, Jim Brownlee made a short address, recalling the origin and growth of CPS, an organization, he said "has done much to bring the sandjammer and the power boat men together." (Membership in CPS is not necessarily limited to power boat ownership).

CERTIFICATES PRESENTED

Harry Tirs then presented the certificates to new members. They are: C. W. Bristol; E. Colborne; R. Edwards; F. Foley; Dr. J. H. Forrester; M. Grier; Ben Hogle; McKee; R. Morton; M. T. Waddell; Mrs. M. Edwards; Mrs. J. Forrester; Mrs. G. Marshall.

John West later presented certificates in seamanship and engine maintenance to: Bob Boyce (seamanship and engine maintenance); Freeman Burrows, Harold Craig, Milt Davidson, Phil Morrall (engine maintenance); Jack Metshall and Jack Tatham (engine maintenance and seamanship); J. L. Smith and Mrs. Smith (seamanship).

All of the above had passed their examinations with 100 percent marks, a fact that drew comment from commander Thompson, who declared Canada had shown such results, and dubbed it a "terrific feather" in the local squadron's cap.

Frank Foley presented the squadron's instructors with tokens of appreciation.

Commercial Loop Closes Season With Banquet

The keglers of the Men's Commercial Bowling League held their annual banquet at the Moose Hall last night, with presentations of trophies to league and playoff winners.

The Carling-McNab Trophy, emblematic of the league championship was presented by President C. Martin to Quinte Distributors, with individual trophies being presented to Bill Dennis, Bill Brown, Bill Corbett, Walt Kiker, Andy Kost, Jack Callaghan and Mark Storms.

The Fitzgerald Memorial Trophy was presented to the runner-up team of Pat's Clippers, by its donor, Jack Fitzgerald.

The high average trophy was captured by Bill Brown, whose 226.7 average made him the top bowler in the league.

The trophy for the high triple was taken by Harold Thrasher with a 841, and Hank Delint's 385 won him the high single honors.

Individual trophies were presented to Pat's Clippers for winning the "A" Group playoffs, with prizes going to Ed. Patrick, Hank Ryan, Russ Jones, Lionel Blaker, Jimmy Barriage, Gar Anderson and Maurice Callaghan.

The "B" Group playoffs were won by the Beaver Lumber with individual trophies were presented to Carl Bosiak, Vince Sagriff, Bill Webber, Art Whalen, Bill Finch, Charley Sagriff, Joe Valchar and Stan Boyle.

Special gifts were presented to George Carver of the press, Jack Devine of the radio, President Clarence Martin and Secretary Lionel Blaker of the league in appreciation of their services during the bowling season.

In the election of officers, President C. Martin, vice president V. Sagriff, secretary L. Blaker and treasurer D. Batchelor were returned for another term of office, to officially ring down the curtain for the 1954-55 bowling season.

Elks Lodge Donates Room to Hospital

Members of the Belleville Elks Lodge will sponsor a three-bedroom ward in the new Belleville General Hospital, it was announced by lodge officials this week.

Decision to sponsor the ward was made at a recent meeting of the lodge, which was addressed by J. N. Yanover, chairman of the hospital Board of Governors, who expressed his appreciation. He told the Elks Lodge had been the first organization to donate a room to the new wing and he hoped that the example set would be followed by others.

Ralph Downey, Exalted Ruler of the Belleville Elks, said the lodge was now commencing several fund raising projects to raise money for the hospital room.

A cheque representing the first payment toward the hospital room has already been presented by the lodge. Shown in the picture are: Grant Blaker, J. N. Yanover, Ralph Downey, Ted Rayner, Ed Bateman and Wint Ave, Hamilton, for service on Victoria Day, May 21st at 2.30 p.m. Interment Belleville Cemetery.

Alert Constable Arrests Two For Break-in

A slight noise which gave away their presence in the building as an officer of the law passed made a routine check for open doors, led to the arrest early today of two men, who have been charged with breaking and entering.

Police said that Raymond Wood, 35, of Mountain View and Belleville, and Charles Asselstine, 40, Belleville, had been found hiding in the stock room at the Riggs Motor Sales building. Both men are charged with breaking and entering, while Wood is also charged with being in possession of burglar tools.

Police constable William Warring was making a routine check of doors when he found the front door of the Riggs building open. He entered the building to call other members to notify the desk sergeant of the insecure lock when, as he was making the call, he heard a noise at the back of the building.

On investigation he discovered the two men hiding in the stock room and placed them under arrest.

Both men were arraigned this morning and were remanded for court appearance until Tuesday.

4.6 Miles of Frankford-Foxboro Road to Be Given Mulch Pavement

The Ontario Department of Highways will provide a mulch pavement for 4.6 miles on the Frankford-Foxboro development road at no cost to the county of Hastings, it was announced today by W. E. Sandercock, P.C. riding representative at Queen's Park during the past legislature.

Mr. Sandercock stated that an amount of $23,000 had been allotted for the work by the highways department. The work is to be carried out during the coming summer by the county roads department, likely during the month of August.

The road will be mulched east from Frankford to the Wallbridge turn.

Mr. Sandercock has long been an advocate for permanent type being provided for development roads built by the highways department, noting that he had spent many hours along with the county road committee in getting approval of the work by the department.

Strike Called For After Vote

LONDON (AP)—British railway firemen and engineers today called a country-wide railroad strike for May 28, two days after the general election. At almost the same time, a dock union threatened to strike against four key British ports next Monday, three days before the voting.

The rail strike threat sprang out of a demand for higher wages. Dockers threatened a walkout at Liverpool, Manchester and Hull in an inter-union jurisdictional dispute. The unions would paralyze much of Britain's transport.

IN MEMORIAM

DeROCHE. — In memory of my dear father, Elie DeRoche, who passed away May 20th, 1951.

Sadly missed a special day
To bring you to my mind,
For the days we do not think of you
Are very hard to find.
If all this world were ours to give
We'd give it, yes, and more,
To see the face we love so dear
Come smiling through the door.
Forever remembered by daughter Mary.

Fresh as a Daisy
Weston's BREAD

Weekly Livestock Review

TORONTO (CP) — Cattle prices were steady to 50 cents a hundredweight lower this week at the Ontario public stockyards. Calves were generally unchanged. Hogs were 50 cents higher and sheep and lambs were firm.

The cattle run was some 600 head fewer than last week and about 700 head less than the same week in 1954. Included in the fresh run were 1,250 head of western cattle, mostly stockers. This is some 400 head more than last week and the largest western run this year. Shipments to eastern Canadian slaughterers were seven carloads, three carloads more than last week. One carload of heavy heifers was exported to the United States.

Another liberal supply of cattle, particularly of steers, was on the fresh run totalled some 6,700 head, proved to be the weakening factor in the market for all classes of slaughter cattle except heifers. The estimated a cwt. over will be about 300 head, all stockers. The dressed beef trade is reported as active.

Prices: Choice steers, all weights $20-21; mixed steers and heifers, choice weighty steers up to $21.25; good steers $19-20; medium $16-19; commons $12-16. Choice heifers $18.50-19; tops of $19.25; good heifers $17-18; medium $14-17; commons $12-14; boner steers and heifers $10-12; choice feed yearlings $20-21; good fed yearlings as reported $17-19; good butcher cows $14-14.50; a few cows of $15; light heifer cows up to $16; canner and cutter cows down to $9; good heavy bologna bulls $14-14.50; tops of $15; good light butcher bulls up to $16; common and medium light bulls down to $10.

Replacement trade: This class met an active demand with shipments at 1,700 head making a new high for 1955. Prices were firm with good stockers at $20-20.50; tops of $21; medium $18-20; commons $16-18.

Calves were about 100 head more than last week. Although the action wasn't as fast, prices were generally unchanged with good and choice vealers at $21-24; medium $15-20; commons $10-15.

Hogs were about the same as last week. Carloads of hogs shipped off the market, including two cars to Montreal, sold at $26.75; hogs were generally $26.50 for grade A $18; sows were $14.

Sheep and Lamb receipts were some 250 head more than last week. Meagre numbers of spring lambs strengthened this class with fancy springs selling up to $31; several truck loads of medium feeder lambs $21.50; common lambs $19-20; good light sheep $3-10; common and heavy sheep down to $4.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

The egg market was barely steady with offerings in excess of a quiet demand.

Quotations provided by the Dominion department of Agriculture: Eggs, graded, in fibre cases: A large 39; A medium 38; A small 34; B 34; C 27. Wholesale to retail: A large 44; A medium 43; A small 39; B 39; C 32.

Butter solids: Dot., first grade, tenderable 58; non-tenderable 56-56½ (nominal); western, first grade 56½ (nominal).

Achievement Day Held by Two High Schools

Belleville fair grounds rumbled to the noise of tractors of various makes and models Thursday as 4-H Tractor Clubs from the two Belleville high schools held their Achievement Day.

In charge of the Achievement Day was J. Clarke, Agricultural Engineering Fieldman of the Ontario Agricultural College at Kemptville. The two clubs are under the direction of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, through county representatives A. C. Dempsey and Allen Francis of Stirling.

Driving tractors supplied by city and district farm machinery dealers, the boys went through various driving tests. The boys were judged on their driving ability and answered questions on tractor adjustments and their effect on tractor operation. Club leader at Belleville Collegiate is Ardell Wilson, motor mechanics instructor, and at Quinte Secondary School, Bill Cochrane.

Jack Vermilyea, R.R. 3, Belleville, was outstanding driver in the B.C.I. club and won the prize donated by Yonck and Farm Supply. Second and third place winners were Dave Rollins of Plainfield, and Arthur Bateman.

Other club members taking part were Gary Anderson, Don Doyle, Dave Craig, Eric Emerson, Earl Hyde, Ross Morris, Bob Long, Ron Green and Tom Anderson.

Murray Seymour, Belleville 4, was winner in the Quinte Secondary club. Prizes were presented with the Trudeau Motors prize. Garry Herrington, Frankford, was second, and Howard Frost, Belleville R.R. 2, was third. Other prizes in Belleville: Doug Heath, Paul Masse, David Ray, Jack Hill, Ron Denyes and Larry Grew.

Arthur W. Ghent, Toronto, Awarded $1,000 Fellowship

Arthur W. Ghent, of Toronto, son-in-law of Col. and Mrs. Rosslyn Vandervoort of Foxboro, has been awarded a $1,000 fellowship for doctorate studies in the Division of Biological Sciences of the University of Chicago.

He will be studying under the direction of Dr. Emerson and Dr. Park, among the most prominent men in the field of ecological research in North America.

Mr. Ghent is currently doing research in forest ecology at the Chalk River Laboratory of Sault Ste. Marie.

In 1949 Mr. Ghent received the charter award of the Toronto Men of the Trees scholarship in forestry. He took a degree in forestry from the University of Chicago in 1952 and in the same year did graduate work in zoology on the Robert W. Lyons fellowship.

In 1953 he received a scholarship from the Research Council of Ontario, and in 1954 took his M.A. in zoology, from the University of Toronto.

Belleville Man Released on Bail

BROCKVILLE (CP) — George E. R. Jones of Belleville, former Canadian Army major, Thursday was released on bail as magistrate Gordon Jermyn reserved decision for a week on charges that Jones attempted to shoot his estranged wife.

The wife, Dorothea, said in court the couple was at a summer resort at Bass lake, northeast of here, when her husband chased her with a revolver. She said she ran around the cabins in search for protection as he fired two shots. She said he fired another two shots before she fell to the ground. She wasn't injured.

Jones termed the episode a "bluff that became more or less a farce." He said there were only blank cartridges in the gun.

Jones said he fled from the area when his wife fell. He was arrested while entering Smiths Falls.

Mobile Physiotherapy Unit Being Sponsored by Rotarians

Hastings county has a new service to remove much of the ruin from rheumatism.

It is a mobile physiotherapy unit that brings qualified help, modern treatment aids and a new lease on life into the homes of rheumatic and rheumatoid patients.

The unit, under the auspices of the Canadian Arthritis Society, is being sponsored locally for two years by the Belleville Rotary club at a cost of approximately $5,000 per year.

The local unit, established February 1st, 1955, is one of 14 such units in Ontario and one of more than 80 throughout Canada. Purpose of the service is to provide qualified assistance to patients with arthritic disease so that they can maintain maximum function of affected parts and thereby maintain their independence, and to lessen the burden of care that falls to others.

Service is available by requisition of the family physician and is carried out under his direction. Completion of the requisition form and notification of the unit will bring a station wagon load of mechanical aids to the patient's home. What is more important, it brings the skill of a specially physiotherapist qualified to render practical assistance.

14 RECEIVING TREATMENT

Two dozen Hastings county residents, 14 of them in Belleville, are currently receiving treatment. The unit is capable of caring for another 10 or 20 cases.

Miss Mary H. Martin, supervisor of physiotherapy for the Canadian Arthritis Society, spends Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week in Belleville. Service extends to Trenton, Stirling and Picton at present. Offices of the unit are in the Stobie building, Pinnacle street.

Services include instruction in long range adjustment to the patient's condition, as well as treatment of the affected joints.

When necessary the unit will enlist the aid of other community services and agencies designed to provide economic assistance and welfare. A social worker to assist in caring for the family's needs also is available.

MEDICAL AIDS AVAILABLE

The physiotherapist will also help the patient and the patient's family to understand the disease, the long range aspects of treatment and the adjustments necessary for successful long range therapy.

From experience the physiotherapist knows that anyone with rheumatic disease may require drugs, more rest, specific rest for damaged joints, or special exercises to maintain maximum range of joint movement and muscle function.

Mechanical aids available through the unit include short leave and infra-red diathermy, heated wax baths, weights and exercise apparatus and adjustable crutches.

Self-help aids, such as long-handled appliances to prevent unnecessary bending, are available in order to make the individual as independent as possible.

Treatment is designed for practical application in the home and for severe cases aims to reduce the furuling of hospitalization.

Patients receive the service without charge but are asked to make a donation if possible.

EQUIPMENT PROVIDED

Equipment is provided by the Canadian Arthritis Society via grants from the Department of National Health and Welfare and by federal government.

The Canadian Arthritis Society, formed in 1948 on a suggestion by Health and Welfare Minister Paul Martin, is a voluntary organization that has spread to all provinces but Prince Edward Island and Newfoundland.

Its first board of directors was composed of doctors interested in rheumatic disease. Laymen were then brought into the Society and the plan now is for each unit, after an inaugural period, to become locally independent and locally financed.

Total expenditure of the Society in 1948 was $5,000. In 1954 the Society spent $1,000,000 on a program that enlisted the free support of medical experts and civilian workers and which advanced a dozen research projects on rheumatic disease in Canada's medical schools.

ANAF Veterans To Hold Picnic At Crystal Beach

At an executive meeting of the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans Association held in the board room on Thursday evening, arrangements were made for several events during the summer months.

The executive set July 24th as the day for the veterans' picnic, which will be held this year at Crystal Beach. This is one day when all the veterans turn out to help entertain the kiddies, especially those of widows, whose husbands made the supreme sacrifice. A varied program is being arranged by chairman J. W. Cleary, and his energetic committee.

On June 4th the Provincial Sports Day will be observed at Stratford and the local branch is sending up cribbage and dart players to the tournament. This activity is under the chairmanship of Dick Burns and his committee and those going to Stratford will travel by bus. This day is always looked forward to and the local branch has won its share of prizes at the tournament.

Ten men were arrested Thursday by the Ontario Provincial Police. Police said several are employees of the company.

Police withheld the names of three of the men held on receiving charges. The men have been released on $5,000 bail.

Charged with theft are: Kenneth Wyroman, 21, Bridge St. North; Kenneth Joy, 30, Melville Quiney, 30, Michael O'Brien, 32, Michael Lalonde, 30, and Ross Davies, 35, deemed as a first-up. Because their owner continued paying taxes on the property and because it was not occupied, it could not be torn down.

Early this year Dr. E. W. Dow, medical officer of health, condemned the house.

A petition circulated by residents of the area described it "as a menace to children."

Early this year Quinn was issued a permit to remodel the house as a duplex. A request to add a basement apartment was refused.

At 1.30 this morning Trenton fire department was called to the scene but the house was practically gutted when they arrived.

Damage was not estimated, but owner Quinn had recently advertised the house for sale at $4,000. The structure last night was a total loss.

Empty House, Once Condemned, Burns to Ground

TRENTON (Special) — A two-storey frame house which has been condemned as a firetrap and described in a petition to town council as a menace to children while it stood empty for four years, burned to the ground early Friday morning in what Fire Chief Clarence Orser described as "a mystery fire."

The home, owned by Matt Quinn of Carrying Place, was moved to a site on George Street four years ago. The frame shell was permanently finished and no one ever lived in it.

In 1953 the Trenton fire department tried to have it condemned as a firetrap. Because their owner continued paying taxes on the property and because it was not occupied, it could not be torn down.

Early this year Quinn was issued a permit to remodel the house as a duplex. A request to add a basement apartment was refused.

At 1.30 this morning Trenton fire department was called to the scene but the house was practically gutted when they arrived.

Damage was not estimated, but owner Quinn had recently advertised the house for sale at $4,000. The structure last night was a total loss.

WANT COPYRIGHT LAWS CHANGED

The Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters wants Canada's copyright laws changed.

The Association contains that the present laws, basically unchanged since 1842, were intended to protect composers but now tend to benefit publishers.

If this contention is accurate, it is a situation which should be rectified, but composers may be forgiven if they are somewhat wary of their new self-chosen ally.

It may occur to some of the composers that the Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters is interested in the revision of copyright laws because it wants to pay less for the right to broadcast copyright songs and music.

This suspicion may be enhanced by the Association's statement that "the substance of copyright law reflects the conditions of an era which did not visualize the phonograph, let alone motion pictures, radio and television broadcasting."

If the law has been basically unchanged since 1842, this statement is doubtless true.

But it is not clear why composers should not reap higher rewards for their efforts today than they could hope to obtain before these devices for the mass enjoyment of music were invented.

If, as the Broadcasters claim, present copyright laws result in monopolies held by publishing firms, is there anything to prevent the Association from entering the publishing or purchasing copyrights of new songs and musical compositions?

MERRILY WE ROLL ALONG

A rolling stone, says the old proverb, gathers no moss. Years ago some iconoclast, unimpressed by the wisdom of the ages, angrily inquired who the heck wanted to gather moss anyway.

Those who are opposed to moss gathering can take comfort in the knowledge that Canada's railways are not engaged in this occupation. In the past decade they have spent $850,674,823 to keep things rolling.

That is the total which the CNR and the CPR have invested in new rolling stock. Some of it is pretty classy stuff. Cars used as duplex roomettes and bedroom-buffet-lounge combinations cost about $200,000 each and dutch-uncle coaches $130,000 for a day coach among the 867 new passenger cars purchased by the CNR and the 541 similar cars purchased by the CPR. Some of the horses of steel power, the ones which bring in the dollars, are the freight cars of various types, of which the CNR has acquired 35,982 and the CPR 29,984 in the past ten years. And then, of course, there are the diesels, 581 for the CNR and 431 for the CPR. Plus six steam locomotives for the CNR and 100 for the CPR and 299 pieces of work equipment for the CNR and 160 for the CPR.

New passenger cars of both railways would make a train 23 miles long and freight cars a train 575 miles long. It is said, but this seems like an understatement, as any motorist will tell you after having a train scoot between him and that blonde in the convertible ahead.

KEEPING THE BOSS HAPPY

It's always nice to keep the Boss happy.

It does seem to us, though, that there are limits to this practice. If S. A. Fraleigh of Forest Hill High School Board is correct in his appraisal of the situation, the school inspectors don't have passed these limits. At a convention of the Associated High School Boards of Ontario, held at Kingston, Mr. Fraleigh made the startling observation that it would do no good and was considerable harm if these inspectors turned in true reports on teachers. The school boards, he said, would be unable to replace poor teachers. Accurate reports would thus only serve to make inspectors dissatisfied with their staffs. Mr. Fraleigh apparently believes that school boards should be left in blissful ignorance if teachers they employ are not doing a good job.

We have known some bosses who would take a rather dim view of foremen who followed this line of reasoning.

Dr. T. F. Wilson of Bancroft School Board observed Mr. Fraleigh. He thought that a frank report should be made early in a teacher's career, "because it is practically impossible to get rid of them when they have been with the board for 10 years or so."

Even without the aid of inspectors, a decade seems a long time for a school board to remain unaware of a teacher's ineffectiveness.

IMPERSONAL TIES

J. M. Macdonnell, the Progressive-Conservatives' financial expert in the House of Commons, has found the intricacies of currency convertibility rather puzzling.

Hon. C. D. Howe understood to explain some of the restrictions.

A friend of his, he said, had a sort of windfall in sterling. He discovered that while he could use the money for his personal living expenses, he could not buy a necktie or a suit of clothes with the currency.

Mr. Macdonnell may join us in wondering just what distinction there is between a personal living expense and the purchase of a necktie or a suit of clothes.

THE SPORT PAGES

I like baseball, I like hockey,
I like football in its season.
I like knowing horse and jockey,
And for that there is a reason.
Time, I'm told, I spend too much with
All the news of sports reviewing,
But I want to keep in touch with Everything that youth is doing.

On the sideline now my place is,
And the truth is hard to
Though I cannot run the bases,
Those who cap I like to follow.
Does it matter what my age is?

Should I sit here fuming,
Sighing,
Or of sports go through the pages
Just to learn what youth is doing?

Bucky Harris, Charley Dressen,
Life would duller be without them.
Should I let my interest lessen
And in time forget about
them,
With athletics every stage is Set with constant goal thrilling.
I read sports and all its pages
Just to know what youth is doing.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 20, 1935

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Woodley have returned home from Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island, where they spent some time with their son, Mr. W. Woodley, who is the manager of the Acme Sure Shoe Store in that city.

At the 42nd. annual meeting and banquet of the local Y. M. C. A. the office was occupied by Mr. Morley P. Duff and on the motion of Mr. R. J. E. Graham, barrister, seconded by Mr. B. F. Jennings, the following directors were re-elected for a term of three years: Messrs. Harry W. Ackerman, Norman Edwards, A. B. Findlay, Geo. H. Griffin, G. B. Smith and Geo. E. Wright. Mr. Thomas J. Walker, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, was the special speaker and he gave an excellent address. A vote of appreciation was tendered Mr. Ackerman for the great service they render the association and Mr. Percy Ackerman presented a bouquet of roses to Mrs. E. Hickey, matron of the Women's Auxiliary, as a token of appreciation of her untiring services in the interests of the Y.M.C.A. Mr. Joseph Imlah presented a humorous address to Mr. Rawlinson, who for six years has given faithful service in superintending the care of the dormitories in the Y. M. C. A. Building.

Praises Japs' Architecture

(By Yoshiro Taniguchi in the Asahi)

Just as the color and scent of flowers are influenced by sunlight, water, soil and air, so domestic architecture also depends on its natural environments.

This is particularly true of Japanese architecture. Because of the Japan's geographic situation her climate is under both Pacific and continental influences. Moreover although her area is small Japan extends a great distance north and south so that her seasons vary greatly.

Sweltering summer heat, bitter winter cold, heavy rainfall, high humidity, frequent earthquakes—all these go to make Japan, architecturally, a unique adverse place.

But the challenging seasons have been a delight to the Japanese people. Long ago they evolved houses well suited to this changeful climate. And, since their mountains abound in timber, it is with wood that they have evolved their superior technique of housebuilding.

Japanese houses possess remarkable beauty and purity of design. Like those Alpine plants which put forth the purest flowers despite bitter climate, or the weeds of waste lands that bring forth lovely flowers, they exhibit pure plastic lyricism.

Moreover, their style has a long history behind it. Originated in the fifth century A.D., it underwent many stages of historical development, resulting in the present simplicity, Japanese architecture successfully assimilated Buddhism and Asiatic culture in the sixth century, and developed a style of European culture in the sixteenth.

Simplicity, functionalism, straightforward expression of materials and construction geometric composition devoid of superficial ornamentation, standardization of parts, unity of house and garden—these are the elements which make up Japanese architectural beauty.

Railroading Not Yet Staid

(Savannah, Ga., News)

What with the days of fast streamliners, powered by push-button diesel locomotives, one is prone to believe the romance is largely gone from railroading. In part perhaps, but consider these incidents:

Sweating railroad men were faced with the problem of getting a circus giraffe under a low bridge. Some suggested cutting off the animal's head, but among them solved the dilemma nicely by dropping a carrot on the floor of the open-top car. Then, while old stilt-legs bushed himself to get it, the car was bustled through.

In another instance a fisherman on a bridge got his line entangled with an automatic rail signal. Undaunted, he lighted a fire over 117 miles of track, and seven trains ground to a grinding halt. Some of the language that undoubtedly ensued might not be classed as romantic, but it is doubtedly was picturesque.

The romance is there. It's just a little harder to find these days.

No Chinese Delinquents

(St. Thomas Times-Journal)

An editorial in the Saturday Evening Post quotes a New York judge of a juvenile court as saying that not once in the 17 years he has been on the bench, had a Chinese-American court-case been brought before him on a juvenile-delinquency charge. He talked with other colleagues; they said that not one of the estimated 10,000 Chinese-American teenagers in New York had ever, to their knowledge, been brought into court on a depredation, narcotics, speeding, burglary, vandalism, sticking up, gang-assaulting accusation.

It is a statistical fact that there are more than 100,000 Chinese - Americans in the four largest cities in the United States, and the story is the same. The chief constable in Vancouver says he has never heard of a Chinese-delinquent juvenile.

According to F. H. Chang, consul-general for China in New York:

"Filial piety, the love for parents, is a cardinal virtue my people have cherished for more than that once was free. A Chinese child, no matter how old he lives, is brought up to recognize that he cannot shame his parents. To do so would bring on him the wrath and condemnation not only of his parents but of the whole family. He would be cast free and alone from our traditions that go back many, many centuries."

"Before a Chinese child makes a move, he thinks of how it will be the reaction on his parents will be. Will they be proud or will they be ashamed? . . . Above all other things, the Chinese teenager is anxious to please his parents before he pleases himself. Our family household's work on the part of parents are well-ordered and seasoned, and if the children imitate the household, there can be no wrong."

There are many Chinese in St. Thomas, and the only time we can recall a Chinese citizen being in the police court was as a witness against someone who had kicked up a row in his restaurant and assaulted him.

When it comes to the problem of juvenile delinquency, our sociologists and police should look to the Chinese for some helpful things—which costs nothing—rather than to high-priced psychiatrists' clinics organized for that kind.

In other words, it all comes back to home training.

Are Too Busy Doing Nothing

(Saturday Review)

We are busy doing nothing. Never before has so much leisure time been available to so many. Labor-saving devices exceed working hours.

But we have a genius for cluttering.

We have somehow managed to persuade ourselves that we are too busy to think too busy too much, too busy to read, too busy to look ahead, too busy to appreciate beauty. All our wealth and all our power are not enough to safeguard our future unless there is also the wisdom-creating of the danger that threatens us and keeps us busy.

Thus, being busy is more than merely a national passion; it is a national excuse.

Everyone seems to agree, from the president down, that we ought to find some way other than war to protect ourselves, support the cause of freedom in the world and serve the cause of man.

But who is giving any conse-

Letter to the Editor

Denies Fluoridation

Public Health Measure

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

This letter is prompted by the announcement that Metropolitan Toronto council, by a vote of 56 to 8, has approved fluoridation of the water supply for its 13 area municipalities.

That a similar abandoning of common sense might afflict the local council is a possibility that should be avoided.

There has been entirely too much debate about the scientific washing of mischievous for children and silly for grown-ups. They tell their customers that Quaker Brady must be a "filthy" fellow —he never brushes his teeth.

Neither the old-timers nor dentists of the present, if any still honestly believe brushing with or without dentifrices prevents tooth decay, have thought up an explanation of the fact that the people with the finest teeth in the civilized world have never had any use for tooth brushes or dentifrices, such as Yankee minstrels with rotten teeth apply so faithfully instead of the more obvious prophylactic treatment by the dentist.

The people with the finest teeth, the least tooth decay, are the inhabitants of Tristan da Cunha, one of the "Lonely Isles" in the south Atlantic. Perhaps I should say they had the finest teeth up to '49 or '50 when a Capetown-London company established a canning plant. That industrial development, following the first "store," where, for the first time, the island people could purchase refined flour, sugar, candy, etc—quick calories minus the vitamins and minerals they form merly got in unrefined foods. By now, I'm afraid, Tristan da Cunha folk are beginning to know what poor teeth we have in America and England.

But, heck, I like dentists. I admire them for their skill and for their ethical probity. The dental profession commands my respect, even though some fatheads in the profession can't see what I'm driving at. I respect particularly the way 999 dentists adhere to ethical principles while only one breaks faith and advertises his wares—as any cut-price merchant does.

Referring to the "filthy" condition of my mouth, I'm happy to tell you I have 28 teeth in a state of functional efficiency—85% of the number with which constitutions of my dentists. So I believe I owe to my dentists the fact that I'm pounding away at it here and not harping over yonder.

"For all my teeth, but not immediately replaced by a functioning dental substitute, one must deduct two years from one's life expectancy."

I tell only what I believe to be the truth. Likewise when I say that the sound or functionally effective tooth is worth at least $100—with my own teeth, contributions of one mine for $1,000—I'm trying to make you poor misguided people realize that your dentist's stock in trade includes good digestion, good health, wife, good looks and longevity.

By DR. WM. BRADY

I Like Dentists

First of all, I like dentists because they are not immediately replaced by a functioning dental substitute. Secondly, one must deduct two years from one's life expectancy.

I tell only what I believe to be the truth. Likewise when I say that the sound or functionally effective tooth is worth at least $100—with my own teeth, contributions of one mine for $1,000—I'm trying to make you poor misguided people realize that your dentist's stock in trade includes good digestion, good health, wife, good looks and longevity.

Friends of mine spent the evening with me recently and we consumed most of the time looking at the books in my library and exchanging one another's spirit and mood. Some of the volumes were fondled and our love expressed for them, and others were hurled. I like people who show a natural spirit and of whose feelings are really genuine. Not that certain specialized topics are introduced into a conversation, I think it best that people get excited over the love for fine things, but true democracy, for none on these shelves claims greatness beyond another. Each book is a companion and next to its neighbor which it touches, regardless of all circumstances!

TODAY'S TALK

SPIRIT AND FEELING

Being a lover of books as I am, I have often wished I might, unknown to either, look upon a writer or an artist and see just how he or she works, wondering if I could sense the spirit and feeling of such a gifted worker at play.

Many times I used to visit the studio of Charles Dunlap Lay, the famous newspaper cartoonist. It was always an interesting experience. The cartoonist would open his mouth, and use facial expression as he drew, minding anyone who might be near, as I was, but buried deep in the thing at hand.

Robert Henri was a very great teacher of painting. He told his students took down much that he said in the classroom. Here is one sentence: "Pretend you are dancing or singing a picture." Here is another: "Every man is good or should enjoy his work, or else the observer will not enjoy it." Of the soothers, "All real works of art look as though they were done in joy." Nothing lasts long that is not done in joy." Nothing lasts long that doesn't hold the spirit and feeling of the one who created it.

Strength for the Day

By DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

SO LET US READ—AND HEED

We often hear it said that the Bible continues day after day to be the best seller. And, indeed, it is true, and it is a truth which ought to keep us encouraged in the midst of many discouraging signs of the age we live.

But because Bibles are sold does not necessarily mean that Bibles are read. A lot of them are put on the top shelf of a bookcase, laid on the living room table and allowed to collect dust. When the Bible was first translated into English, a copy of it was chained to the lectern of English and Scottish churches, and people formed queues and were given so many minutes to stand in the lectern and read. Today we have the opportunity we have for knowing God's will and Word, the Bible, while it remains the best seller and, taken all in all, is the most widely read book in the world, is not read as much as its huge sale would indicate.

But there are many signs that we are realizing the situation and doing something about it. In one state alone, one denomination has received pledges from 25,000 people to read a considerable portion of Scripture each day and to meditate upon it. A Bible list prepared for the guidance between Thanksgiving and Christmas was printed and issued by the American Bible Society, was eagerly snatched up by churches and business houses until the circulation exceeded anything the originators had ever dreamed of.

The Bible is meant to be read. This is its function.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Taken out of circulation by a cruel fate, I find that my friends and cronies has been borrowing books from me to read in his garden. Each one has a favorite spot to read or, he is astonished at the number of volumes of books that have been written without his knowledge or consent. I have lent him some dandies, myself, such as Thoreau's Walden, Montaigne's Essays, Lamb's Elia, Hudson's Purple Land, Jerome K. Jerome's Three Men in a Boat, Kinglake's Eothen, Lawrence's Seven Pillars of Wisdom, Kinglake's Eothen, Lawrence's Seven Pillars of Wisdom, The Struggle for Europe. Six weeks ago, he declared he hasn't read one word, the luckiest thing that had happened to him in his life, for everyone else said, "I would have died not knowing."

Four weeks ago, having run out of tangy items, I took him a bunch of poetry. "The Tempest" by Shakespeare, AE, or George Russell's collected poems including the one that stated:

"Call not thy wanderer home as yet Though ill be late."

and several others. Never have I seen a man so shaken.

Sitting in his deckchair, he explained his new-found treasure.

"You m u s t tell people," he pleaded, "about poetry. In all my years, were are inner rooms of consciousness or awareness. I think every living soul of us has these rooms of consciousness in which they are unlit. Neither experience nor teaching has opened these rooms to us. Even as in a dream we women gifted with the control of language and a superior power of perception of beauty, truth, meaning. And their function is to be the sensitive nerves of our consciousness that otherwise might stand dark and unexplored all our lives."

"I think it's a mistake," I said, "to talk about poetry, to explain it, analyze it. Either you get it or you don't. Explain nothing."

"But those dark rooms!" cried he my friend. "man, I've discovered I'm far larger than I thought I was! Listen to this bit from The Tempest:

"Ye elves of hills, brooks, standing lakes and groves,
And ye that on the sands with printless feet
Do chase the ebbing Neptune, and do flee
Him when he comes back;"

Okay, okay! So I wrote this.

Deficiencies and Surpluses Results of Accounting Errors

OTTAWA (CP)—Details of inventory "deficiencies and surpluses" in quartermaster stores at the Canadian Army's Camp Ipperwash, Ont., have been tabled in the Commons by the defence department.

Replying to a series of questions by J. W. Murphy (PC—Lambton West), the department said deficiencies turned up in accounting checks at the camp between December, 1952, and May, 1954, amounted to $22,308 and surpluses to $22,568.

"For the most part the deficiencies and surpluses were considered . . . to be the result of accounting errors," the department said.

The investigation, published first last year, revealed that soldiers at the camp had been selling to civilians material bought from army stores.

"In these transactions, although contrary to regulations, there was no loss of public funds."

MOST RECOVERED

Some blankets, sheets and pillows were pilfered but most have been recovered.

An RCMP investigation resulted in sentences to three soldiers of from 45 to 90 days detention and a fine of $25 and a reprimand to one sergeant.

Responsibility for the accounting situation at the camp was attributed to the commanding officer and the quartermaster of the unit involved, the department said. The commander was given "a reproof" by the chief of the general staff and had "an administrative deduction of $150 imposed against him." The quartermaster was assessed a $200 "administrative deduction."

The department said the RCMP recovered from 41 civilians most of the items improperly sold to them by soldiers. Total value of these items was $1,721.

SOCIETIES SHARE $100,000

DETROIT (AP) — Executors of the estate of Mrs. Emma McKenzie were surprised Thursday to find a fortune of $300,000 upon opening her safety-deposit box. The 75-year-old widow who died March 27 willed her estate to the Michigan Humane Society and the Detroit Institute for Cancer Research. There are no known relatives.

ANNOUNCES GRANT

NEW YORK (CP)—The Rockefeller Foundation Thursday announced a $37,500 grant to the University of Rochester to assist in its research on Canadian history and culture. The foundation said: "The University of Rochester is the first American university to undertake a definite and long-term program of work on Canada."

Radio and TV Policies Will Be Reviewed

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's radio and television policies may be reviewed by an independent body this year for the second time in four years.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said in the Commons Thursday that the government is contemplating appointment of a royal commission to look into radio and TV.

"That does not mean that any decision about the immediate appointment has been reached," he said in reply to Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton).

But if the government accepts a recommendation from the 1951 Massey commission on arts, letters and sciences, the commission is expected to be set up later this year.

TheMassey commission recommended that the whole subject of TV broadcasting be reconsidered by an independent body no more than three years after the start of regular television in Canada. It started at Toronto in the fall of 1952—almost three years ago.

Mr. St. Laurent has said previously he still supports the Massey commission's majority recommendation that the CBC continue to hold regulatory control over broadcasting.

The CCF supports the government view. But the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties want an independent body to regulate both forms of broadcasting. They maintain the CBC should not be both the regulator of, and competitor of private stations.

PERSONAL VIEW

Earlier this year, when the advisory council of the National Liberal Federation urged commission consideration of whether an independent body should be established Mr. St. Laurent reiterated his personal view that an independent regulatory body "is not desirable or necessary."

In the Commons Thursday he was also asked by Mr. Fleming whether the government may abandon its policy of letting only one TV station operate in each broadcasting area.

The prime minister replied: "The policy has never been that there would be, for all time, only one station in each locality. The matter is one that is under constant consideration."

He said there may be no decision on the single-service policy before a commission is appointed.

Weddings

TASKER—WARREN

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Warren, Marmora township, was the scene of a quiet yet pretty wedding, on Saturday afternoon, May 14, when their daughter, Winnifred Loyce, became the bride of Irvine Mitchell Tasker, son of Mr. Robert Tasker, of Cochrane, Ontario, and the late Mrs. Tasker.

The Rev. Archibald Carson of Frankford, who had performed the wedding ceremony of the bride's parents, officiated.

The home was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers, accentuated with white bells.

Given in marriage by her father the bride was charmingly attired in pale blue taffeta in ballerina length. Her fingertip veil was of nylon net. She carried white roses.

Her bridesmaid was Miss Helen Matthews, of Bonarlaw, who was gowned in nylon net over pink taffeta in ballerina length, wore matching headdress of pale pink roses. She bouquet was of pink roses.

The bride's young sister, Carol Ann Warren, made a charming flower girl in pale blue nylon with matching headdress of pale blue roses. She carried a basket of pink roses.

Garry Warren, young brother of the bride, performed the duties of ring-bearer.

The best man was the bride's brother, Mr. Boyd Warren, Jr.

Following the ceremony a buffet supper was held at the bride's home with Miss Alice Matthews, presiding. The bride's mother received, wearing a gown of mauve taffeta. She was assisted by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Peter Vesterfelt, wearing a gown of navy crepe.

Later, the bride and bridegroom left for a trip to Oshawa and points west. The bride travelled in white nylon dress with blue design and matching accessories. Upon their return they will reside in Marmora township.

Out-of-town guests were present from Oshawa and Frankford.

SWEETING—ROLLINS

Tall white standards of white gladioli, and pink snapdragons and ferns formed a lovely background on Saturday, May 14, at 2.00 p.m., in the Christian Missionary Alliance church, Belleville, for the marriage of Barbara Joan Rollins, of Plainfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rollins, to Douglas Sweeting, son of R.R. 1, South Monaghan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Sweeting. The Rev. Eric Strain, pastor of the church, officiated.

Mrs. Beverley Foster, church organist, provided the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Eleanor Sargay, who sang before the ceremony, "The Wedding Prayer," and during the signing of the register, "The Love of God."

Given in marriage by her father, Mr. Robert Rollins, the bride wore a lovely bridal gown of ivory brocaded satin in floor length, fashioned with fitted bodice, having long sheath-like sleeves, "V" pointed over the wrists, and net-edged neckline outlined with seed pearls. The skirt was caught up at intervals with white satins bows revealing the ruffled underskirt. Her pearl-encrusted headdress held her fingertip veil of tulle illusion and she carried a white Bible crested with red roses and white streamers.

Miss Lamoine Post, of Belleville, as maid of honor, was attired in mauve net over taffeta featuring a modified bodice with ribbonette-overlays bolero having a stand-up collar, and short sleeves. The floor length skirt was accented with ribbonette-overlays.

Miss Faye Rollins, of Plainfield, sister of the bride, and Miss Marie Davis, also of Plainfield, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaids, were similar gowns in green net over taffeta with lace boleros, and floor length skirts enhanced with bands of self-lace. All wore braided headdresses of straw embellished with iridescent sequins matching their gowns, and carried nosegays of yellow roses, white mums, white baby's breath and sweetpeas tied with yellow satin streamers.

Mr. Richard Gandy, of Lakefield, was groomsman, while Mr. Ralph Sweeting, Peterborough, cousin of the bridegroom, and Mr. Beverley Foster, of Malloway, acted as ushers.

At the wedding reception held in Victoria Ave. Baptist church parsiors, which were decorated for the occasion with pink and white streamers, lilacs and spring flowers, the bride's mother received, wearing a navy gown with navy and white accessories. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who was also gowned with white accessories and corsage of pink roses.

For travelling the bride chose a medium blue suit with navy and white accessories, and corsage of pink roses

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SOME DANCING LESSONS WILL HELP THAT SHYNESS!

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a fellow of 19, and I suppose you would call me shy. I like to have dates, but am backward about asking a girl. I'm interested in a lot of things including sports, movies, hobby clubs and so forth, but when it comes to dancing, I can't get by, and I'm inclined to believe that this is one reason for my being afraid to invite a girl out, because most of them like to dance.

What would you suggest? —Bill T.

Dear Bill:

You've been smart enough to put your finger right on one very important reason why you're so shy. If you were completely confident of your ability on the dance floor you'd know that girls would like to dance with you, and that would bolster up your morale. This is such an easy matter to set right that I suggest you begin immediately to do it by taking some dancing lessons.

Once you've become a good dancer, I think you'll find yourself beginning to lose your shyness. Incidentally, you probably don't realize so much that you'll be asking girls all the time.

SHE WANTS TO KNOW IF SHE'S "BIGOTED"

Dear Miss Fairfax::

The other day I read your answer to a girl who was having friends who hold different faiths than your own. You wrote that she was bigoted. Well, I have the same problem, and want to know if I should go out with the fellow or be "bigoted," as you wish to call it.

About two months ago, I met a young man, with whom I have since talked casually, and we have spent one evening together. We seem to like the same things and find we have a lot in common. We are both in our middle twenties and are no longer "silly kids," but we are of different faiths. I know he wants to ask me to go out with him, but I feel that if we did become real friends, we would eventually get serious about each other, and, since we are both proud of our faiths, neither would give way on the subject of where to get married and how to bring up any children.

Because of this difference between us, I feel I should discourage any idea of his going with me. Could you please help me on this? — Susan

Dear Susan:

Isn't your imagination working overtime? What makes you so sure that you and this young man "would eventually get serious about each other"? That's a big conclusion to jump to on the basis of little more than one evening spent together.

If you were so silly as to discourage his present friendly interest in you for any such flimsy reason, you may simply be "doing yourself out of what might be just an interesting new friendship and nothing more. And if you don't want any friends except those of your own faith, then yes I definitely would call you "bigoted."

Again, to take a big jump ahead and assume that the question of marriage ever should come up, I think you would both be "bigoted" if neither of you "would give way" on the serious problems that are always involved when two people of different faiths be married. Don't you agree? Or if two people love each other, if not, let me know.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

CARE OF THE NAILS

A woman's hands, so expressive of her personality, are not lovely because of their size and shape alone, but because they are soft and white, and beautifully cared for. And her nails, those nail-like sheaths on her finger tips, must always be in perfect condition.

They are the focal point of the hand—especially when they carry the rosy glow of polish. Like the complexion, they reflect good health and fastidious attention. A woman who relies on neglected nails, like carelessly applied make-up on the face, will accent rather than hide defects.

High grade manicuring instruments and nail cosmetics should be a part of every woman's beauty equipment. She should know how to use them properly, since incorrect methods can cause trouble, even infections.

One should have a flexible metal nail file (very handy); nail white pencil; curved, needle point scissors; orange wood sticks; cuticle cream, nail polish and polish remover.

You will notice that when Jeanette, the beautiful manicurist, does your nails, she does not start with a hand-washing, as you are likely to do when you give yourself a home treatment.

She removes polish, then does the shaping with the file. As the hands are soaked in soapy water before the filing, the nails will be soft and ready to bend.

Shaping is done by filing from sides to center. If the flesh at the sides is cut ever so little, nature will build up a hardened cuticle. The oval outline is best.

Then comes the scrubbing with a brush and the passing of the white pencil under the nails. Cream is applied to soften the flesh so it can be detached gently with the orangewood stick. Hangnails must be snipped away with the tiny scissors. Then another washing, drying and drying, and on goes the polish!

Brittle nails are a common affliction. They split and break and drive a woman frantic. Such nails have been robbed of their natural oil but a remedy can be found in nightly applications of a soothing cream.

Teen-agers Will Hold Conference On Citizenship

TORONTO (CP)—Anxiety to promote better understanding of national and international affairs among Canadian teen-agers has led to plans to hold a girls' citizenship conference opening here Friday under the sponsorship of the Young Women's Christian Association, officials said Wednesday.

The conference, to be known as the Citizenship Project Consultation, will last May 20 to 24. Speakers will include Mrs. Harold A. Innis, dean of women at University College, Toronto; Mrs. Ryrie Smith, national president of the Canadian YWCA and Dr. Alice Arnold of the world YWCA.

There are always ways of adjusting these things, and truly sincere and intelligent people can find them. It all depends on how you want to find them.

Don't you agree? Or have your questions?

Readers' Friday Column

As Conducted by Mary Moore

IMPORTANT NOTE:

I do not like doing this but you should know that I am going to be away for the month of June. The dear old column will go on, written by one of course, but I won't be home to receive or answer your letters. I'm going to Europe for the month of June. So —don't write to me after today. We'll until after June 30 to start writing again. It is like cutting off my arm to tell you this, however I suppose Europe will have its compensations!

QUESTION:

My daughter is being married next month and we are having the reception at home. Our lunch will be buffet style and I am having difficulty trying to decide what to serve. I had thought of creamed chicken in puff pastry shells, fruit salad, tomato jelly, potato salad, pickles, olives, and celery stuffed with cheese. For dessert, angel cake with ice cream. Do you think this menu is all right? Could you suggest something else? I would like it more to the main course. Any suggestions you make will certainly be appreciated. We expect about 60 guests. How many chickens would we need? Would mushroom soup added to the creamed chicken make a better flavor.—Ruth S.

ANSWER:

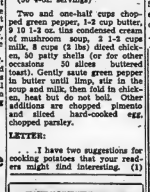
Well I've just gone through it as I have an idea of how you feel, I have mailed you a copy of the buffet menus we had at our wedding. It may give you a few extra little ideas.

CREAMED CHICKEN

(90 4-oz. servings)

Two and one-half cups chopped green pepper, 1-2 cup butter, 9 10 1-2 lbs. cooked cream of mushroom soup, 2 1-2 cups milk, 8 cups (2 lbs) diced chicken, 60 patty shells (or for other occasions 50 slices buttered toast). Cook finely sauce green pepper in butter until limp, stir in the soup and milk, then fold in chicken, heat but do not boil. Other additions are chopped pimento and sliced hard-cooked egg. chopped parsley.

LETTER:



I have two suggestions for cooking potatoes that your readers might find interesting. (1) slice flattish well-scrubbed unpeeled medium size potatoes in half horizontally, score deeply, salt, brush well with fat or cooking oil. Bake in medium hot oven, brushing again with fat when nearly done. If desired. They take from 45 min. to 1 hour. (2) Cut potatoes into small pieces, about the size of a walnut with as many exposed surfaces as possible. Melt in your largest pan fat (10x14) or cooks sheet with edges, about 3 or 3 tablespoons fat—best if you like yours crisp, pork for flavor. Toss in potatoes, salt well, stir to coat with fat and bake 45 minutes or 1 hour in moderately hot oven. Top element may be needed to brown them. Can be cooked faster or slower to accommodate other baking. In this way you can have roast potatoes every time you have the oven on. The potatoes should be in a single layer in the pan. (3) Any time the oven is on put in enough potatoes to bake to use for fried potatoes later. Much better flavored than boiled.—B. McD.

ANSWER:

Thanks again. As you know I replied to the main query in your letter some time ago.

WHALE CHATTER RECORDED

LONDON (Reuters) — "Whale talk"—communicated in rattles, grunts and high-pitched whistles—sounded through the stately galleries of Burlington House at a Royal Society meeting here Thursday night. The whale "voices," recorded by hydrophones in Canada's Saguenay river, were part of an exhibit by the department of zoology of the British Museum.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. BEECHAM

NOT MENTIONING FATHER IN ANNOUNCEMENT

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

My parents are planning to announce my engagement shortly. About this we have a problem. My fiance's parents are legally separated: he living with his mother and not associating with his father. When announcing the engagement in the newspapers, should I put "son of Mrs. Mary Jones"—or what? Incidentally, the mother showed a preference for just having her name mentioned—is that correct?

I'll have the same problem with announcing the wedding in the newspapers. — L.

For the published announcement of the engagement to read "son of Mrs. Mary Jones" is absolutely incorrect. When husband and wife are legally separated, they are still married, and therefore correctly the wife is still Mrs. Frederick Jones. It is of course, bad taste, for her to use the taboo form, "Mrs. Mary Jones."

The question of omitting the name of the fiance's father, in the published announcement of the engagement and also in the published announcement of the wedding is, of course, extremely serious one. A stranger, not knowing all the details of the situation, would not, could not, have the right to pass judgment. However, I would plead that deep and very human consideration should be given by all concerned before making the decision to announce the engagement of a son whose father is still living and to make no mention of him. The question is: In such extreme unkindness really justified?

DINNER JACKETS INCORRECT AT 2 P.M. WEDDING!

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

We are making plans to be married in the middle of September. A church wedding at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The prospective groom and his friends feel it would be correct for the men in our wedding party to wear white dinner jackets at that time of the year. — J. W.

No, Ma'am . . . No Sir. It is not correct for the men in the wedding party to wear dinner jackets, white ones or black ones, at any time of the year at an afternoon wedding. Dinner jackets are evening attire, and it isn't correct for men to wear them before 8 o'clock in the evening, at the very earliest. And they certainly look strange and strangely inappropriate worn in the broad daylight of 3 o'clock in the afternoon!

NO SHOWER BY BRIDE'S SISTER, MAID OF

Dear Mrs. Beecham:

My sister is to be maid of honor, my only attendant. Does my sister give a bread shower for me? There has been quite a discussion about this with my friends. I know that a sister of mother is not expected to give the bride a shower, but my friends say that if I am to be her your maid of honor she can give you a shower. I say no. — Bride to be.

And your "no" is the right answer. That is, when the maid of honor is a sister of the bride it is not considered proper or appropriate for her to give a shower for the bride. I'm hoping that the group of friends who have said they will get together and give you a fine shower, be-

B.P.W. Club Installs New Executive

The annual meeting of the Belleville Business and Professional Women's club was held recently at the club rooms in the YMCA. The candle-lighting ceremony of installation of officers for the coming year was the highlight of the evening, and was conducted by charter president, Joy Nichols. Mrs. Dorothy Brown was installed for her second year as president of the club. The executive for the year 1955-1956 are as follows: president, Mrs. Dorothy Brown; immediate past president, Mrs. Isabel Wellbridge; vice-presidents, Miss Evelyn Coulter and Miss Dorothy Dowdell; recording secretary, Miss Jeanne Stephenson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Eva Doolittle; treasurer, Miss Marjorie Sherman; program chairman, Mrs. Simone McFadden; ways and means, Mrs. Violet Burwash; publicity, Mrs. Irene Hetz; bulletin, Mrs. Sadie Rose; membership, Mrs. Helen Buchanan; international, Mrs. Anna Goode; emblem, Miss Joy Nichols.

"The House that B and P Built", a speech given recently in Sarnia, by Miss Lilas Trout, provincial treasurer, was read by Mrs. Anna Goode, and pointed out the aims and ideals of the organization and the ways in which the organization had carried out those aims. Of particular interest to the newer members, it also served as a reminder to veteran members of the club.

Several contests and a singsong added to an enjoyable evening.

'AUTOMATION' IS

Labor Minister Gregg expressed no opinions on those matters in a brief speech introducing his estimates in which he reviewed the major fields of labor department operations.

He said a 10-year program of capital grants for vocational training facilities is ended but there were few changes in the program of actual training, a joint undertaking with the provinces.

TWO STRIKES IN 99

In the fiscal year ended last March 31, he said, there were two strikes among 99 labor disputes dealt with. Some $257,628,000 in unemployment insurance payments had gone to 1,001,000 persons and the above-average demand had reduced the insurance fund by $40,000,000 to $540,692,000 at year's end. The employmentservice had placed 842,866 job applicants.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC—Hamilton West) said the national advisory council on manpower which last met in November, 1953, should get to work and study ways of solving unemployment.

The council is a 34-member group of high - ranking representatives from government, labor, industry, employers and agriculture. Mrs. Fairclough said it should start now to plan measures to meet an unexpected seasonal rise in unemployment next winter.

Mr. Diefenbaker backed the proposal and suggested the council so far has been window-dressing.

Opposition leader Drew said there is need of a new labor code which would be an instrument of goodwill among labor, management and government.

Michael Starr (PC—Ontario) said some industries are discrimination against certain persons by stringent qualifications for employment. Some refused to hire workers over 35 years of age, less than 150 pounds, or shorter than five feet 10 inches.

Henry Hosking (L —Wellington South) said he hopes the government will reinstate its program of grants for building vocational training schools. At present costs, many municipalities could not meet the need for those facilities.

The job-seeking problems of those over 40 produced another topic of debate.

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) criticized the federal civil service rule of not employing those over 40. He termed it "the method of the horse and buggy age."

Mr. Gillis said that for those out of work at 40, "that is the death sentence; you are through living."

NAB WOUNDED

Members of the bank staff told detectives that after firing one shot from the shotgun, one of the bandits began shooting with a revolver he also carried.

McCathie said the bullet taken from Hannam's body and bank manager William Davidson's gun have been sent to the RCMP laboratory in Ottawa for ballistics tests.

ENTERED BANK

It was just after 2 p.m. when the bandits entered the bank at abusy mid-downtown intersection. Mr. Davidson said he was sitting in his office when one of the bandits, wearing sunglasses and carrying a sawed-off shotgun came in and ordered him to get the money.

"I got up and went out," Mr. Davidson said. "As I walked around to the back I picked up an inkwell and threw it through the plate glass window to attract attention."

He said one of the men was standing at the doorway. The other, when he couldn't get into one cage, moved to another and while he was doing that, Mr. Davidson "ducked into the vault and grabbed a gun."

"Then the firing started," he said

NEAR CAGE WHEN HIT

Four customers and nine staff members were in the bank. Hannam, a six-year employee at the bankhouse mother had warned him to quit his job because she said it was too dangerous, was standing near the teller's cages when the shooting started. He fell, blood pouring from his chest.

The holdup men escaped in a stolen car they had parked outside the bank. This was found abandoned on a west-end street an hour later.

Detectives got a lead early Thursday night from something they found in the stolen car. They refused to divulge what this clue was.

It led them to a room where parts of the sawed-offshotgun used in the holdup were found. At this address they also found the licence number of a car owned or used by one of the men.

Within five minutes this car was located and a police watch placed on it. An hour later, two women entered it and drove away. Police followed them until they were away from the district, stopped the car and held the women.

GAVE AN ADDRESS

The women were questioned and finally gave an address on Dovercourt road, in the vicinity where the get-away car was found. The address proved to be useless, but a house-by-house search in the neighborhood brought detectives to the place in which the first suspect was hiding.

Police were just too late to catch both men. The second fled from a rear entrance when he heard the squeal of police cars' brakes.

Seven detectives, guns drawn, burst into the house where Simpson was found lying on a bed. A home-made pad had been placed over the gunshot wound in his b ka .

From Simpson, police obtained the licence number and a description of a car the second man was thought to be using. This was found about an hour later, abandoned. In the back seat was a heap of clothing.

Colonial Coach are putting into service on many routes a completely new and magnificent motor coach — the HIGHWAY TRAVELER.

With these unique busses you'll enjoy the amazing AIR-SUSPENSION RIDE—a new suspension system in which rubber nylon air bellows replace the conventional metal springs. Air is "metered" to a pair of the bellows over each wheel, thus cushioning the coach against road shock and floating you along in a vibrationless ride. You can read, write a letter, or just watch the passing scene in complete, steady comfort!

And here are other exciting features of the new HIGHWAY TRAVELER:

OVERSIZE PICTURE WINDOWS— each 6 feet wide, for greater sight-seeing zeal

LUXURIOUS INDIVIDUAL SEATS — of an entirely new design, giving you a choice of five reclining positions!

PLUS—ALL-NEW INTERIOR styling, controlled individual reading lights, greatly increased baggage space.

The best of Tall Tales

Up in northern Quebec there are several unusual colonies of beaver being studied by naturalists. These beaver are digging around the roots of trees until the trees fall down instead of chewing through them in the usual way. The explanation seems to lie in the fact that most of the bush is sugar maple and the beaver are probably afraid of getting tooth cavities.

Miss Lulu McQuaid is a patient in the Prince Edward County Hospital, having undergone an appendectomy.

RECENT SHOWER

In the Wellington town hall about 50 friends and neighbors gathered to honor Mr. and Mrs. Robert McCombe (nee Nora Cox). A social evening was spent and as an added attraction Miss Margaret Head and Miss Mary Marvin gave many enjoyable piano selections.

Later in the evening Nora and Bob were seated at a gaily decorated table.

The address was read by Mr. Donald Upton on behalf of the community, Mrs. Doris Head, Mrs. Agnes Findlay and Mrs. Helen Fritz.

After receiving many beautiful gifts the happy couple sincerely thanked their friends for their kindness.

Refreshments were then served.

WHERE DOES THE DOLLAR GO?

Everyone likes to keep track of the money he earns.

At Imperial Oil, accountants keep close tab on every dollar the company receives. Auditors and government tax people double check. Of every dollar of Imperial's income last year...

About 52 cents went to purchase raw materials including crude oil (we pay freight charges out of this too).

Roughly 30 cents went in operating and administrative costs, including the wages of Imperial's 13,000 employees.

10 cents went in taxes to federal, provincial and municipal governments. (This did not include provincial road taxes.)

About 4 cents went back into the business to help replace worn-out equipment and provide for future needs.

About 4 cents went in dividends to the company's shareholders.

Change in Garrison Command Outstanding Military Function

PICTON — One of the outstanding military functions of the year took place at the Royal Canadian School of Artillery, (AA) Picton Heights, Wednesday evening, when Lt.-Col. A. G. Hood handed over command of the Picton garrison to Lt.-Col. G. L. Vincent, C.D., after a period of two-and-a-half years.

At this ceremony, Brig. M. S. Dunn, Commander of Eastern Ontario Area, and his inspecting party, conducted the annual inspection of the Picton garrison on parade. The event took place on one of the air strips at the camp and was attended by a large crowd of spectators.

Following the general salute, Brig. Dunn inspected the officers and ranks of the Royal Canadian School of Artillery (AA), Nos. 2 and 3 Batteries of the 1st L.A.A. Regiment, and 127 and 128, L.A.A. Batteries.

After walking through the ranks, Brig. Dunn took the salute as the men marched past in column of route, headed by Lt.-Col. Hood, with the RCSA trumpet band, under Lieut. D. G. Thompson, playing.

Following the change of command, Lt.-Col. Vincent led the soldiers in a march past in column of troops and then advanced in review order, with general salute.

LT.-COL. HOOD

"This is the last parade it is my privilege to take as the Picton Camp, and I thank you for your effort. When I took over command here, I said I would never be satisfied, but tonight you have put on an extremely creditable show.

"It has been my good fortune to have had the loyalty and support of all the officers and men in the camp. Collectively we have gone a long way together, and the Picton Camp will go on into the future.

"In handing over command to Lt.-Col. Vincent, I can assure you that you are getting a sound commander — one with a wealth of knowledge and experience. To all of you collectively and individually I wish the very best of luck and good fortune."

At the conclusion of his remarks, the parade gave three rousing cheers for Lt.-Col. Hood.

LT.-COL. VINCENT

In assuming command, Lt.-Col. G. L. Vincent, C.D., remarked that he was getting a happy camp. "Under Lt.-Col. Hood's tour of office progress has been continuous and I hope that this progress can be maintained in the future," Lt.-Col. Vincent stated. He asked for the co-operation and support of all personnel in the camp.

BRIG. DUNN

"This is the best ceremonial inspection I have seen in Picton," Brig. Dunn said, "and it proves you have been receiving very good training." To Lt.-Col. Hood, the Brigadier said he appreciated his support while he was Commander in this camp. We wish him well in his new position as A.H.Q. is gaining — we are losing.

"I know every one of you will see to it that you give the same co-operation and loyalty to your new garrison commander, Lt.-Col. Vincent. Great strides have been made since Lt.-Col. Hood came to this camp. From now on I trust you will not only keep these high standards, but will raise them even higher."

MEDALS PRESENTED

During the ceremonies, long service and good conduct medals were presented by Brig. Dunn to Staff Sgt. Burdon and Sgt. Major WO 2 Salsbury.

Parade Commanders were:—R.C.S.A., Major C. R. Keefer; 1st L. A. A. Regt., Major J. Hilliard; No. 1 Bty., Major V. M. Higgs; No. 3 Bty., Major J. Francis; 127 Bty., Major L. Sanchagrin; 128 Bty., Major A. B. Mackenzie.

Duchess of Kent Attends Rally

LONDON (AP)—The Duchess of Kent Thursday night attended Billy Graham's revival service at Wembley Stadium.

The Queen's aunt was the first member of the Royal Family to attend any of the American evangelist's services in England or Scotland. The duchess entered a royal box without attendant s or ceremony and only a few of the 56,500 persons in the audience were aware of her presence.

At Graham's invitation to make "decisions for Christ," 3,036 persons came forward.

HILLIER

Sunday School Holds Convention

HILLIER — The Hillier township S.S. convention was held at Bowerman's Church last Wednesday evening, May 11, with record attendance. Only one Sunday School was not represented.

Mr. Burton Tice, president, welcomed the group. Mrs. S. Foster was secretary.

The meeting opened with devotional exercises carried out by the Intermediate class at Rose Hall. Miss V. Istead was in charge.

A missionary program was presented. Mrs. A. Wanamaker was pianist.

The Rev. A. Poulter led in prayer.

The film strips on Vocational Bible Schools was presented by Mr. M. Snider. Mr. Poulter gave the commentary.

The Wellington girls, under the leadership of Mrs. Mitchell, favored with special musical numbers which was much appreciated. Bowerman Sunday School gave the address of welcome.

The reports of various departments were given by Mrs. L. White of Friends, Wellington; Temperance by Mrs. L. McLellan and Missionary by Mrs. Wanamaker. These reports were interesting and showed the progress and work carried on so splendidly by different schools.

The Rev. Mr. Cook gave the address of the evening and spoke on leadership and training as a trust from God and the faithfulness needed to advance the work of bringing children into the faith of a living Christ.

Mr. Ron Burr reported for the nominating committee. Mr. Wm. Soble is the newly elected president and Mrs. Johnson secretary.

Mr. Datoe replied for courtesies and paid tribute to the work of the retiring officers and specially mentioned the long period of time that Mrs. S. Foster had served as secretary and commended upon the faithfulness of all officers who had helped through the year and thanked all those who were responsible for making the convention such a splendid success and special mention of Bowerman's for entertaining this year.

After the closing the ladies of Bowerman's served refreshments, sandwiches, cake and tea, and a social half hour was enjoyed.

A vote of thanks was tendered the group, which was ably responded to by Mrs. Johnson.

Origin of Talon Vaults in Quebec's Lower Town Shrouded in Mystery

By SHIRLEY MORRIS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

QUEBEC (CP) — Far below a building in Quebec's Lower Town thick-walled vaults that have withstood the cannon fire of two wars are being revived, for the fourth time in their stormy history.

Before the fall of the French regime, governments used the building housing the Talon vaults to solve weighty problems while in other rooms judges interpreted the law and soldiers planned battles. The vaults, now fallen into more plebeian uses, are a favorite spot for oyster parties, popular Quebec social functions.

Five of the vaults, constructed some 300 years ago, have been reopened and are visited by 10,000 tourists every year. Workers spent the winter cleaning out the sixth and last known of the small underground rooms.

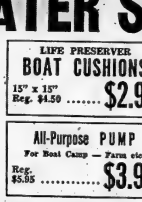
ORIGIN A MYSTERY

Although the vaults have become a landmark, their origin is shrouded in mystery. They took their name from Intendant Jean Talon, who, as manager of the French colony's business affairs, established a brewery in 1668 in the building over the vaults. But it is not known if Talon actually erected the building or simply moved into one already being used for other purposes.

Historians point out that similar vaults found under Quebec buildings of the same era were used to store merchandise from France and England.

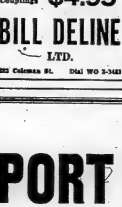
Whatever the origin, the vaults have had a stormy history. The eight-foot thick stone walls, supporting the arched ceilings, have survived the flames and cannon fire that three times destroyed the building.

Talon's brewery folded in 1675 when colonists lost their taste for beer and preferred to smuggle in alcohol. The building was abandoned for 14 years until the government of the day, the intendant and sovereign council, moved in with batteries of ledgers and clerks renaming it the intendant's palace.



FATAL FIRE

It was levelled by fire first in 1713, when four persons lost their lives, and again during Christmas festivities 12 years later. Each time it was rebuilt. In the last year of the French regime, 1759, the walls of the palace were heavily damaged by British cannon fire and finally it was destroyed in 1775 for the last time, ironically by the French.



In that year, the American military leaders, Richard Montgomery and Benedict Arnold set up headquarters in the abandoned palace to plan their assault against the walls of the city. They believed they would have support from the French in their attack on the colony, by then under British rule.

The French, however, fought alongside the British, killing Montgomery and wounding Arnold, During the night of bitter fighting, the old building was wiped out but the vaults, far below street level, remained intact.

The vaults were forgotten for 100 years until they were unearthed during construction of a new brewery.

Sunday School Lesson:

Ministry of Reconciliation

By ROY L. SMITH

A famous historian said; more than a generation ago, that there could never be any hope of peace in Europe until the teachings of history in the Balkans was prohibited for at least 50 years. This was another way of saying that as the ancient feuds were kept alive they fed the fires of hatred which could issue only in war. The problem of peace will never be solved until there can be a world-wide ministry of reconciliation. We have too many open sores in today's world which only charity of mind and the spirit of forgiveness can heal.

Nation Under Schjoction

This week's lesson can only be understood in the light of the tragic experience of the little kingdom of Israel. Completely destroyed by the powerful empire of Assyria, the northern Hebrew state had been reduced to something worse even than servitude. Tens of thousands of the best families had been carried into exile, all local government had been destroyed, and the people had even been forbidden to worship Jehovah in any way.

With all economic life at a standstill, with the national hope benumbed and almost dead, with the solace of religion denied them, the people of Israel looked out upon a world upon which the sun seemed to be setting amid the clouds everywhere.

An Enemy to Rescue

The schism which had rent the Hebrew kingdom in two had been a bitter affair, and the division had been tragic. For more than a hundred years the warfare between the two Hebrew states had been relentless, cruel and suicidal. For a variety of reasons the southern kingdom of Judah was destined to outlive the sister state of Israel by at least a hundred years and in the hour of crisis it was fortunate in the fact that a really noble king sat upon the throne.

What Christmas and Easter is to the Christian and what Independence Day is to the American, the Passover was to the ancient Hebrew. It commemorated that amazing experience through which his fathers had been brought by the power of God, by which they had been freed from Egyptian bondage. It was an act of the Divine, in behalf of their freedom.

And Hezekiah, the king of Judah, invited all the remnant of Israel to join with Judah in a vast celebration of the Passover in the Temple at Jerusalem. It was one of the most beautiful gestures of friendship in all ancient history.

Faithful Responded

There was a certain hazard involved for the Israelites. Assyria was a world power that permitted no follies and no presumptions. She ruled by force and governed by terror. It called for a certain amount of courage therefore, for an Israelite to accept Hezekiah's invitation, and the thrilling thing about it is that thousands upon thousands of the people did accept the proffer of friendship. Occasional revelers, rough-necks, outlaws, and pe'er-do-wells refused profanely, but the better elements—the righteous, the upright, and the dependables—poured into Jerusalem in multitudes and offered up their holy vows once more, after more than a century of separation.

The strength of any land or nation depends upon that body of devoted and dependable people who make up the hard core of the nation's character. Every person raises or lowers the average. One man cannot do much, but he can lift the level of the nation, and that is an achievement worthy of any man's best efforts in the name of God.

Stirling

STIRLING — Mrs. Walter Elliott, of Stirling, was the special guest speaker at "The May Court Festival," held on Wednesday afternoon, May 18th, at The Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby. Approximately 500 guests were in attendance. During the afternoon "The May Queen" was crowned by Mrs. Elliott.

Miss Ruth Mumby, president of the combined AYPA group of Stirling, Glen Milbrook and Frankford, was in charge of the regular meeting Monday evening at Frankford parish hall.

Mr. Elwood Bateman has purchased the Farley Parnell property on Baker Street and will take possession in July.

Mr. E. Drummond of Brighton, has purchased the Potter property on Elizabeth Street and will take possession in early June.

Mr. Glenn Morrow has sold his home and lot near Trent River to Mr. James V. Thynne, of Frankford.

A joint meeting of the 4-H Clubs of South Hastings was held Monday evening in Stirling community hall with approximately 120 boys in attendance. The group, with their leaders, were: South Hastings 4-H Potato; South Hastings 4-H Grain and South Hastings 4-H Swin Clubs; Stirling 4-H Calf Club; Belleville 4-H Calf Club, Tweed 4-H Calf Club and Madoc 4-H Calf Club.

This was purely an educational meeting when instruction and judging took place under the direction of Mr. Allan Francis, assistant Agricultural Representative.

Club leader Carl Bateman gave instructions on judging dairy cattle; club leader Harold Detlor gave instructions on beef cattle; club leader Douglas Harry outlined sheep judging and club leader Roa Bateman gave the educational points of swine production.

Mr. A. O. Dalrymple, Agricultural Representative, discussed hog carcasses.

The meeting was opened by Mr. Harold Detlor, president of the Hastings County 4-H Club leaders' association and all repeated in unison the 4-H pledge.

Eighteen Junior Farmers of Hastings County attended the associations annual conference at Guelph and Mr. Allen Francis, assistant Agricultural Representative, was also in attendance.

Mrs. Arthur Pyear, president of Hastings and Prince Edward W.A. and Mrs. Walter Elliott attended Dominion Council W.A. this week at Toronto.

Flight Cadet Ray T. Hermiston of Queen's University, Squadron RCAF, is taking a six weeks' basic training at Kingston Royal Military College.

FAREWELL TENDERED

Mrs. Louis Rodgers was tendered a farewell at her home, Ridge Road, before her departure to reside on Mill Street, Stirling. Rev. W. H. T. Walker presided over a short program of solos, readings and music.

Mrs. Volney Richardson read an address of appreciation and Bessie was presented with an electric table lamp, featherweight iron and bedroom clock with matching bed lights.

The recipient voiced thanks to her friends and neighbors for their kindness and gifts.

The ladies served refreshments and a social hair hour was enjoyed.

DRAMATIC FAREWELL

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO FRIDAY, MAY 20, 1955

Provincial Health, Hospital Insurance Scheme Would Cost $200,000,000 Annually--Frost

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A national health and hospital insurances scheme would cost about $600,000,000 annually and a similar provincial scheme for Ontario would cost about $200,000,000 a year, Premier Frost says.

Such a scheme can not be introduced overnight but must be done in an orderly fashion and from a practical approach, the premier told a Progressive Conservative meeting Thursday night at Clinton.

Meanwhile, Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver told a meeting about 75 persons at Bracebridge that political patronage has run wild with the present administration at Queen's Park, and CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald said in a radio address the problem of education in Ontario is growing greater because of the Conservative government's policies.

HEALTH SCHEME

Premier Frost, addressing 300 persons in support of Thomas Pryde, candidate for Huron county in the June 9 election, said the Liberal party has resurrected for each election the government-goon-scored health insurance scheme.

He said a Liberal claim that the party platforms could be carried out without increases in taxes is preposterous. "It is not a practical plan at all for the advancement of the province," he said.

His party would promise only that it will do its best.

"If a year for someone to come along and say: 'Let me in and I'll do more,' but look at the record and you'll find out who was responsible for many accomplishments."

It was not necessary, he said, for him to go into community to explain what had been done; it could be seen in such things as schools, hospital additions, homes for aged and so on.

Earlier in the day the premier ended a quick three-day tour of northern Ontario. He flew from Earlton, near New Liskeard, to Malton and then to Centralia. Today he will speak at Kincardine and Shelbourne.

QUOTES PREMIER ON ROAD

Mr. Oliver, speaking in support of Mrs. Wanda Miller, Liberal candidate for the new riding of Muskoka, quoted Premier Frost as announcing in Little Current recently that he would build a road between Little Current, on Manitoulin Island, and Espanola.

The urgency of the need for the road apparently never had been considered until the election campaign, Mr. Oliver said. The government was going around with a satchel filled with trinkets which it produced in any campaign where the going was rough.

He said the present government has become "saturated" with the idea of political patronage and in many ways subservient to it.

SIMILAR SITUATION

Mr. Oliver said Prime Minister St. Laurent had handled a similar situation in Saskatchewan differently.

The prime minister, during the 1953 federal election, had refused to endorse the South Saskatchewan irrigation dam project without first making a "close" investigation, Mr. Oliver said.

He added:

"You prime minister is a statesman not a politician and acted accordingly despite the likelihood his promise to build the dam might have aided Liberal candidates in South Saskatchewan."

Mr. Oliver said it was "obvious" however that the Ontario government "doesn't operate that way."

Mr Oliver will deliver addresses today in Barrie and Orillia.

Ground-Breaking Ceremonies Off Because of Costs

OTTAWA (CP)—The St. Lawrence seaway ground-breaking ceremonies, planned for the latter part of June, were cancelled because of high cost involved, seaway officials said Thursday.

Prime Minister St. Laurent and President Eisenhower were to have participated in the event which was to have taken place at Cornwall, and the opposite side of the St. Lawrence at Massena, N.Y.

Officials said that when a Canadian-American committee began investigating the costs of what was to have been a "grand show," they found they would run to about $150,000—to be shared on a 50-50 basis by Canada's St. Lawrence Seaway Authority and the U.S. St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

RATHER HIGH

"That figure appeared to be rather high, particularly when of the fact that we would have to have another ceremony when the seaway is completed perhaps at the end of 1958," one informant said.

The costs would have to be recovered through tolls levied on shippers when the seaway was opened. A ground-breaking observance on the power phase of the seaway took place last August.

The seaway ceremonies were cancelled May 9 in an announcement which said they were postponed indefinitely in "unforeseen and unpredictable obstacles to the proper celebration of this important event." It was estimated here that perhaps 20,000 persons would have turned up at the event.

SIGN FONDA

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Henry Fonda Thursday was signed for the starring role of Pierre in an Italian movie production of "War and Peace." Audrey Hepburn and her husband, Mel Ferrer, previously were announced for the other top roles.

Norris Appears At Commission For Questioning

NEW YORK (AP)—Jim Norris, International Boxing Club president told the New York state athletic commission Thursday he was not aware of any boycott against boxer Vince Martinez of Paterson, N.J.

Under questioning he was reported "undercover" manager, for about 30 years but said he did not know Carbo's business and had never discussed boxing with Carbo.

Norris appeared as a commission hearing into managerial practices and particularly into the reported "boycott" of Martinez, was resumed after a delay of more than a week.

Under rather sharp questioning by Heiland, Norris conceded that if such a boycott existed he believed it was bad for boxing. He added that IBC managing director Harry Markson never had told him such a situation existed.

Markson testified last week that he had left arrangements to get matches for Martinez and was satisfied that managers were refusing to let their fighters meet him in sympathy with Bill Daly, former manager of Martinez.

To Open Hospital

CORNWALL (CP)—The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission on Thursday announced a 30-bed hospital for workers on the St. Lawrence power project will be opened near here next month. The date is not set.

Resident staff will include Dr. John McIntyre, four registered nurses, first aid men and ambulance men.

Facilities will consist of a small laboratory, a dispensary, an emergency room, single, double and four-patient rooms, a general ward for 14, and an isolation ward.

CHARGE GUELPH DRIVER

KITCHENER (CP) — George Thompson, 23, of Iespeler, was fatally injured Thursday night when his motorcycle was struck by a car pulling on to the highway from a refreshment stand. Police have charged the driver of the car, Elm M. Fellin, 29, of Guelph, with careless driving.

Labor Leader Runs Informal Election Campaign With Wife Chief Counsellor, Chauffeur

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP)—Clement Attlee campaigns informally.

Leader of the Labor party, he is as easy and familiar as an old shoe as he goes about the country asking voters to support Socialist candidates in next Thursday's general election.

Mrs. Attlee is his chauffeur. She takes him swiftly from meeting to meeting in the old family car. On the back seat is Clem's speaker, in case of a sudden chill, and a vacuum bottle for tea.

Frequently no other car accompanies them. But Mrs. Attlee knows her highways, and the party committees up and down the country know she will be on time to the dot.

NEIGHBOR TO ALL

Affable, 72-year-old Attlee is just everybody's neighbor, dropping around without ceremony to chat and to urge that Labor party candidates be sent to Parliament.

He is an informal man and informal things happen by him. Mrs. Attlee wheeled up to the Henry Thornton school at Clapham Common, but didn't stop quite where the reception committee expected. So when Attlee crawled out of the car he was greeted not by a policeman, but by the school janitor. Attlee knew his first name. They shook hands and discussed the new hedge which is the janitor's pride.

Mrs. Attlee takes off his overcoat, which under her management is well buttoned, and he strides quickly to the platform for a talk which is usually about local affairs. Invariably he knows them well. He knows the tax rate, the average income of the district and the condition of the paving.

Attlee speeches are deliberately matter-of-fact. He avoids oratorical effects and makes few gestures. Usually his thumbs are caught in his vest pockets. His friends say he is fullest when he has thoroughly prepared a speech, but often is, witty when speaking casually.

Colorful Papered Walls Spell 'Before and After'

BEFORE wallpapering almost any room can look as bleak as this.

AFTER wallpapering the same foyer takes on the color you want in your home. Here a harmonizing horizontal pattern adds width on the end walls of the room and provides a soft accent.

Venetian blinds and a metal lath room divider shown at left make a modern dining nook.

Venetian Blinds Offer A Modernizing Short Cut

A short cut in modernizing home interiors—once you have decided on your wallpaper and painting scheme—is to install venetian blinds. By using a little ingenuity, you can employ blinds in ways that will save you real money.

These contrivances can make windows seems much larger than they actually are. They can give you the decorative appearance of a window where there is no window. They can cut down drafts in the winter and help with air cooling in the summer.

Here's how the indoor appearance of a window can be enlarged. Suppose your window is 3 feet wide. Hang a venetian blind 4 feet wide in front of it. Build a box valance 5 feet wide to accommodate the blind when it is raised. Hang your draperies from a rod inside that concice so they will cover a foot or so on each side of the window.

The result is that you have a window 5 feet wide at far as interior appearances are concerned.

Architects have used the same kind of camouflage on the outside of windows for generations by employing shutters which people do not use. The same tactics indoors produce the effect of a wider window without cutting an expensive hole in a house.

Faking a window where there is none is just as easy. Suppose you have two small windows at the end of a room. They may be separated by a space that could have been used for a third window. If it wouldn't, have made the exterior design lopsided. You can treat that space as a third window and keep a venetian blind closed over it. Or you can treat the entire room end as a window wall, hanging a wide venetian blind across it with draperies down the corners.

As for stopping drafts, blinds act almost like storm windows. When closed they create a buffer space and diffuse whatever draft leaks in by acting as baffles.

In summer they insulate in another way. Tests have shown that when the slats of venetian blinds are tilted at 45-degree angles, they can reflect much heat while letting air circulate and add an insulating value varing from 20 to 35 per cent at the window.

PAINTING THE SLATS

A decorating advantage of venetian blinds is the possibility of painting the indoor sides of the slats any color to harmonize with a room scheme, while leaving the exterior sides a neutral shade to unify exterior appearances. A California manufacturer has been making metal venetian blinds for some time in 10 or more colors on the inside with an ivory finish for uniformity on the outside.

You can do the same thing with almost any type of venetian blinds. Remove the slats and place them inside-up on newspapers on the floor. Two layers of base paints will cover them neatly without brush marks. Or if you can get the exact shade you want in one of the new aerosol spray cans, you can spray paint them as neatly as a factory job.

As for suspension tape, you can get that now in virtually any contrasting or blending color you want. Or the ladies can die it as easily as they tint their frilly frills.

Insulation Means Economy, Comfort

Insulation not only reduces the temperature of the home during the warm weather months but, over a period of years, it actually pays for itself in fuel savings.

It is estimated that fuel consumption may be reduced from 20 per cent to 40 per cent depending upon the kind, amount and completeness of the insulation.

summer includes lightweight aluminum chairs, and chaise lounges at the lowest prices in some years. A new combination chaise lounge and rollaway bed provides solid comfort the year round.

Lawn umbrellas this year are fringed and lined with flowered chintz. They make a striking picture with white enamelled tables.

Deluxe verandah rugs, made of wood fibre are easily cleaned, smartly styled and low priced.

FARM BUILDING TIPS AND NEWS

Weather Barrier of Fir Plywood Protects Door from Wind, Snow

A winter weather-break to protect your house or barn door can be an attractive addition anyone can make.

The one shown here uses fir plywood panels and is of the simplest construction. In addition, the waterproof glue bond of the fir plywood stands up to extremes of dampness and cold and makes the panels ideal for screening off wind, rain and snow.

Details for building the screen are shown and sizes are determined both by the shape of the house and the job that has to be done. Note that the panels are set in the centre of the framing lumber. They are held in place by 1/4 round moulding nailed to the frame.

This wind screen can be given a creosote-base stain finish, for a very attractive effect that shows the natural grain of the fir.

Alternatively, the fir plywood can be painted to match the house. Edges of the panels should be sealed before installing when panels are to be painted and a high-grade exterior house paint primer will do the trick.

The same primer thinned with one pint of raw linseed oil for a gallon of paint should be put on the whole structure as soon as it is built. Finishing coats of top quality house paint applied according to manufacturer's directions will complete the job.

Color Stains Decorate Kitchens

Wood Grain Preserved In New Hues

Color is the latest recipe for a livable kitchen. Colorful cabinets, countertops and floors appeal to the majority of women who want something different from the laboratory-style white kitchen. Many kitchens are now decorated with the same care as any other room in the house.

Along with this trend, makers of wood cabinets and paint manufacturers have joined in considerable research on stains. Color-stains have resulted. These preserve the natural grain of the wood and still provide the variety of shades people want to choose from. When used over clear pondcrosa pine, the wood that is generally used for stock kitchen cabinets, they produce what is known as a "decorator" effect. The color is pleasantly soft and natural, sparkling a kitchen from the sheen of automobile finish.

Here's a list of eight of the most popular stains:

1. Early American pine. A mild reddish stain. Use pecan oil stain colored to suit with vermilion fluid oil tint.
2. Pecan pine. A uniform brown! Pecan oil stain.
3. Suntan pine. A light-to-medium warm tan. Use suntan stain or champagne.
4. Straw-tone pine. This gives a golden effect. Use bleached mahogany stain.
5. Blond pine. Use blond stain, wheat or platinum.
6. Platinum pine. A color stain on the gray side. Use driftwood stain.
7. Silver-gray pine. Wipe this stain with a rag when it is semi-dry. Use silver-grey, platinum or graywood stain.
8. Graywood pine. Gray paint thinned as desired.

Some of the stains in the new line give a striking effect when the pine has been sandblasted first. Usually only the doors and drawer fronts are sandblasted. The cabinet bodies, not sandblasted, can be given the same stain, or they can be painted in a harmonious hue.

You can get sandblasting done at any monument works. It's a good idea to have the man who does the sandblasting experiment on a sample piece of the same wood first. Watch him as he does it and tell him when he gets the degree of sandblasting you want.

Four color stains suggested for sandblasted surfaces are weathergrwood (thinned platinum stain), driftwood, wheatwood and champagne.

How Various Shades Can Be Obtained

Here are directions for color staining wood kitchen cabinets. They were compiled after experiments on clear pondcrosa pine cabinets in both assembled and knocked-down form.

A knocked-down, or "KD" kitchen cabinet is entirely pre-cut and sanded. It is assembled and installed with a hammer and screw driver.

For staining, ask for a sample piece of the same material the cabinet is made of. Try the color stain on this sample piece and apply a finish coat of varnish or lacquer to see the effect. If the sample is suitable, proceeds with the job as follows:

1. Clean the wood surface of all dust, dirt and grease.
2. Apply the stain and wipe it off to get the desired depth of color. The longer the stain is allowed to penetrate before wiping, the darker the color becomes.
3. Apply one or two coats of clear, satin varnish (dull finish varnish) or lacquer.
4. Sand slightly between coats to keep surfaces smooth.

If sandblasted effects—to raise the grain—are desired, proceed as follows:

1. Have the doors and drawer fronts sandblasted at a monument works.
2. Clean off all dust with a cloth dampened with a solvent or thinner.
3. Apply satin, thinned more than otherwise, because sandblasted pine absorbs more stain. Apply finish to sample piece before going farther with project to judge results.
4. After stain has dried, sand very lightly with a sanding block and fine sandpaper. This removes the stain from the high points of the wood and highlights of the grain.
5. Dust and apply one or two coats of dull finish varnish of the non-yellowing type, or clear lacquer.

BELLEVILLE INDUSTRIAL, HOME AND

Interior Rooms Add Livability

A modern house designed to show the advantages of interior skylighted bathroom and rear lavatory, opportunities for glass block partitions, paved entry, window walls facing the garden, among other features. Sleeping quarters are entirely separated from the rest of the house, forming a sheltered patio on the garden side. Red cedar siding or slate pavement can run from covered entrance porch through the foyer and on to the patio, effectively merging indoors and outdoors. This is design H-37AP by the Homograf Co., 11711 East Eight Mile Rd., East Detroit, Mich. The house covers 1,620 square feet; carport adds 416 square feet. Large laundry, heater space and storage shed at end of carport eliminate need for a basement. Low pitched roof is nearly flat.

New Design Shows What Can Be Done

A house plan that is both compact and contemporary, without sacrificing comfort, beauty or convenience, can be called modern.

To win that designation, a house does not have to be freakish or look like a public lobby. But it does have to be easy to live in. No house can be considered modern if it is not completely livable.

Shown here is a house designed to illustrate a maximum of the latest ideas in architectural planning. Interior bathrooms, skylights, a paved entrance foyer that carries the red quarry tile or vari-colored slate flags of the patio indoors, a broad window wall facing the rear garden and opportunities for the use of glass block partitions are among features of this plan.

Room arrangement has the advantage of private sleeping, living and work areas, yet all rooms are convenient to one another to afford a smooth flow of indoor traffic. The paved entrance foyer has a guest closet and provides access to either sleeping, living or work areas. There is a sliding door between this entry and the bedroom hall. This is a distinct advantage for those who like to get their sleep while young people enjoy their party.

LIVING ROOM FEATURES

A large brick fireplace in the living room provides for a hearth which can carry the foyer tile or flag pavement into that room. In addition to the wall of windows, there is a door from the living room to the patio. Open trellis work over the patio can be covered with corrugated plastic panels of fibre glass for protection against the rain.

Since the living room has switched from the busy street front to the quiet garden rear of the house, the kitchen in turn takes its place in front to give the housewife more convenient access to the front door. This kitchen has a built-in range and oven and a window over the sink. There is a broom closet and plenty of counter and cabinet space. A separate breakfast nook or dinette is made private from the kitchen by sliding doors.

A feature of this area is a floating cabinet between breakfast nook and living area. This sets about 6 inches above the floor and is attached to the side-walls.

NO BASEMENT NEEDED

An ample laundry-utility area eliminates need for a basement. It provides space for a food freezer, ironer, washer, dryer, with lots of window area. Heating facilities are tucked away to the rear of the laundry.

A convenient lavatory is adjacent to the laundry and side door from carport. This is an advantage for families with children.

This lavatory, like the main bathroom, is an interior room with a skylight and mechanical ventilation. The arrangement of both the lavatory and the main bathroom illustrate some of the advantages offered by modern interior rooms when it comes to planning the remainder of the house.

A small bathroom with a stall shower, adjoining the master bedroom, still is located on the exterior wall, but the Homograf designers of this house, suggest that an outer wall of glass block and a ventilating fan could increase the efficiency of the room over inclusion of a window.

Kitchen walls can be wasted spaces. Put them to use by lining them with cabinets. Color stains offer a wide variety for decoration of stock pine cabinets. You can preserve the natural wood grain and still have a hue to harmonize with other details of your decorating scheme.

Built-in Storage Space for Family

To obtain maximum storage space, while sacrificing a minimum of living area, consider the use of built-in cabinets. They can fill spaces that would otherwise be wasted and can be designed to store almost any item or combination of items.

Strategically located to store equipment in the area where it is used, they can do much to save steps and at the same time reduce room clutter.

SANDING IS IMPORTANT

Sanding is one of the most important phases of floor finishing. The finest finish you can buy will not make a poorly sanded floor look like anything but a poorly sanded floor.

Build It Yourself!

For exterior and interior uses, hardboard is the most modern material on the market today and is becoming increasingly popular with both professional builders and with those who wish to improve their homes because it is easy to work, durable and rugged, yet economical in cost. The kind of material calls for no special skill and can be successfully utilized by anybody who can handle a saw and hammer.

Hardboard is a product that enables any home owner to renovate rooms, halls, to make an attic into a sewing room, or a basement into a recreation room at comparatively little cost. The board, which is a fibre product and a derivative of the newsprint industry, comes in panels 4-feet wide and from 8 to 16 feet in length; with some sizes available in 4-foot lengths as well. It can be sawn, planed, nailed, shaped, screwed or glued with little trouble and all types of paint, varnishes, enamels and stains can be applied with brush, spray or roller, (for effective natural) finish is achieved by using a paste wax, with or without a filler. These characteristics are true not only by the standard grades of Abitibi hardboard but also of the new, exclusive Abitibi Woodgrain hardboard, a panel board with a rich field and finish that gives the appearance of natural wood.

Abitibi hardboard is all grades and thicknesses. Is obtainable from lumber dealers who will recommend the type best suited to meet the problem of the customer.

Window Walls Loom Large on Home Scene

Window walls, extending from floor to ceiling, are no longer a monopoly on the winterless south. Even in snow country, double-glazing will guard against frosted glass and cold.

Large glass areas make a small room look larger and bring inside and outside into close relationship.

Canada's Draft Dodgers Not Fugitives from Army

Canada has draft dogers, too. But they aren't fugitives from a recruiting officer. These unfortunate souls are merely people who spend most of the winter trying to dodge those relentless currents of icy air that pursue them upstairs and down; in bedroom and living room; in and out of every cosy corner of the house.

According to the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating, the old-fashioned draft is the cause of more colds and discomfort than all the blizzards of winter. But, fortunately, they are not as deadly as they used to be, because in recent years drafts have been the subject of considerable study by heating engineers. The results of these studies are not only improved methods of house insulation, but a variety of methods of home heating that are specifically designed to eliminate the nuisance of drafts.

Drafts, like sea breezes, are caused by air moving from cool areas to warmer ones. So it seems that the main cause of drafts is a house's uneven distribution of heat. Starting from this premise, heating engineers began devising ways and means of warming up those cold corners and icy corridors along which drafts scurry so playfully.

The road to success in combatting drafts, they found, was careful selection of heating units. In other words, by using the right type of unit to suit each particular case, even the most persistent of drafts could be overcome.

Take, for instance, large bay windows, or large windows on two sides of a corner. These are favorite haunts for drafts, particularly if the window sills are built too close to the floor to allow room for a conventional type radiator to be installed. An excellent cure in these cases is a convector.

This type of heating unit comes in various models of varying heights, many low enough to be put beneath a quite low window sill. Further, they are designed to both radiate heat and circulate air, and in this way send up a flow of warm air across the window surface to counteract incoming drafts at the same time as they warm the room.

A very recent development in the heating field, and one which appeals particularly to the householder who is plagued with drafts at floor level, is the baseboard panel. This heating unit takes the place of, and looks like, a normal baseboard, and in this way carries warmth the entire length of a wall, or can even distribute it round the complete perimeter of the room. With heat thus evenly spread over a wide area, and radiated at floor level, the problem of drafts becomes a thing of the past.

In addition to convectors and baseboard panels there are a variety of new types of chrome radiators, concealed radiators, and newly-designed warm air vents in many shapes and sizes which will not only combat drafts but add considerably to the appearance of any room. There is, in fact, almost no problem in either drafts or decoration, for which a suitable heating unit cannot be found to supply the answer.

And the beauty of it is that it isn't necessary to have a new home to take advantage of these new developments. They can be installed in place of existing units in almost any modern heating system.

What is even more important, it is not necessary to switch the entire heating system to new heating units all at once. It is quite practical to replace them a room at a time, perhaps in conjunction with a program of gradual renovation and re-decorating.

To find out just how much can be done, a discussion with a reliable heating contractor would be a wise move. In this way it can be immediately determined just which types of the new units it is possible to hook up to the present heating system of the house.

An investment in new heating units is not only well repaid in added comfort and beauty for the home, but is a very real investment in that it adds to the value of the house as such. And its contribution to the general health of the family cannot, of course, be reckoned in dollars and cents.

LIABILITY INSURANCE

Every home owner's insurance program should include comprehensive personal liability insurance. If you are building, you should obtain this coverage as soon as you buy your lot.

CONCRETE SEPTIC TANKS
STEEL REINFORCED
These tanks are made from a special mixture of cement very similar to the formula that is used in the manufacture of our concrete burial vaults and are fully reinforced with steel wire mesh. The baffles are cast into the tank and no special or any fittings are needed to connect the tank to the sewer lines. Being a horizontal type of construction the above tank has a much higher rate of digestion than tanks poured into the ground.
All tanks are guaranteed watertproof as this is done in the batching of the cement, it is therefore not necessary to plaster or asphalt as in the case with poured tanks.

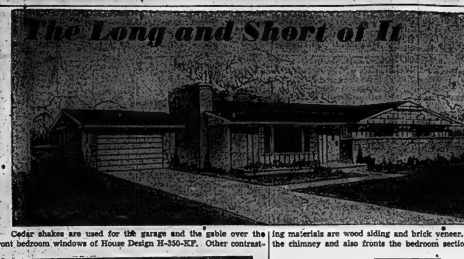
NHA SMALL HOUSE DESIGNS

—This new bungalow design by architect F. Mascheira, of Toronto, has an appeal that would make it standout in any neighborhood. The horizontal lines of the brick exterior are relieved by the large window areas and the vertical supports of the open porch which is bordered by a planting area.

A decided effect on the bright and cheerful atmosphere of the well-planned interior is provided by the corner window theme. This highlight may be noted in the living room, dining room, kitchen and master bedroom and it will appeal to many prospective home owners.



This abundance of closet space, so important in a bungalow, is one of the features of this design.

The floor area of this house is 1,333 square feet while the cubic measurement is 23,330 cubic feet. The exterior dimensions are 40 feet by 38 feet. Working drawings for this house, known as Design 331, may be obtained at minimum cost from Houston's.

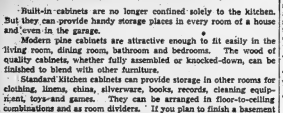
FARM BUILDING TIPS AND NEWS

The Long and Short of It

Cedar shakes are used for the garage and the gable over the front bedroom windows of House Design H-350-XF. Other contrasting materials are wood siding and brick veneer. The latter makes the chimney and also fronts the bedroom section of the house.

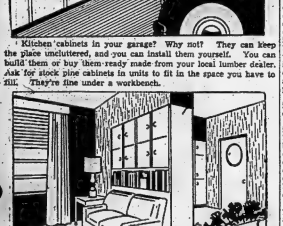


Three bedrooms and a bath form the right wing of the house, while living room and kitchen-dining area complete the floor plan.

Today's Kitchen Cabinets Fit in Almost Any Room

Built-in cabinets are no longer confined solely to the kitchen. But they can provide handy storage places in every room of a house and even in the garage.

Modern pine cabinets are attractive enough to fit easily in the living room, dining room, bathroom and bedrooms. The wood of quality cabinets, whether fully assembled or knocked-down, can be finished to blend with other furniture.



Standard Kitchen cabinets can provide storage in other rooms for clothing, linens, china, silverware, books, records, cleaning equipment, toys and games. They can be arranged in floor-to-ceiling combinations and as room dividers. If you plan to finish a basement or attic, you may find cabinets handy to form a storage wall.

Kitchen cabinets in your garage? Why not? They can keep the place uncluttered, and you can install them yourself. You can build them or buy them ready made from your local lumber dealer. Ask for stock pine cabinets in units to fit in the space you have to fill. They're fine under a workbench.

When a front doors opens directly into the living room, here's a way to put up a storage partition to create a foyer. Standard stock pine kitchen cabinets are stacked to form a wall. A soffit above them is easily fashioned with plywood. One shelf can be left open for books.

A built-in vanity in a bedroom provides a complete and efficient dressing table, relieves pressure on the bathroom and is much cheaper to build than an extra bathroom or powder room. Stock pine cabinets can be installed under and around a wash basin. The ladder-like towel rack shown in this sketch is easy to build on the job. The wardrobe cabinet is a stock unit that can be bought ready-made.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Stairs are perverse. When you're upstairs you're sure to recall you left the kitchen light on, or forgot to lower the light under the apparatus. Get down, and it's for sure you have to dash back up to get change for the dry cleaner or hang up your coat. No wonder so many women prefer the all-on-one floor ranch house!

TWO RANCH STYLES

On today's page, we present two versions of this popular style. One has a garage that adds to the long, low line. The other is shorter but, from a homemaking viewpoint, is equally efficient.

Design H-350-WK should satisfy the requirements of those who are seeking a modern three-bedroom ranch home. Well planned inside, it has an exterior that attractively combines brick veneer, wood siding and cedar shakes.

Built-in bookshelves provide storage in the spacious living area and act as a room divider, separating this room from the entry hall. Another wall is taken up by a huge fireplace, while a third lets in light and sunshine via a picture window.

KITCHEN-DINING ROOM

The dining area is part of the kitchen. Here, two windows look out on the back porch, which can be reached from a door in the kitchen work centre. There is also access from the kitchen to the basement stairway.

Sleeping quarters are on the right side of the home, set away from the living and working sections. Each of the three bedrooms is well equipped with large closets, and both side bedrooms have windows arranged for cross ventilation.

The bath, nearby, contains both a vanitory and linen closet, with a second linen closet located just outside in the hall.

AN EFFICIENT GARAGE

The garage, equipped with both storage space and a work bench, is set back from the front of the home, so that part of its acts as a side wall for the rear porch.

Design H-350-KF comprises 21,557 cubic feet.

Handymen Can Remodel Kitchen Into Colorful Multi-Purpose Room

The farm kitchen is being converted more and more to family living according to a recent report on rural family life. Today's kitchen, if it is a big, roomy one, is often made to serve many purposes—a place to cook and eat, of course, a place to get together and a place to relax or work as a hobby.

To give the kitchen protection from increased wear and tear as well as make it attractive and utilitarian for the sort of many persons who 'consider remodeling those days.

In most cases when a home owner sets out to make his kitchen over into a modern, roomy multi-purpose room the handiest thing he can do is give it a warm wood atmosphere with built-ins and panelling finished with plywood of fine showing. Doing the remodelling himself, the easiest material to work with for a professional-looking job is fir plywood.

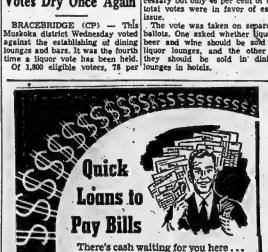
The advantage of fir plywood is, its real wood qualities, low cost and its many applications.

Kitchen cabinets can be built in or old ones remodelled. A built-in table or snack bar can be added. Old-fashioned doors can be turned into handsome panel doors with ¼-inch plywood overlay. Walls can be panelled and even a fir plywood sub-floor can be laid over the pitted and uneven board floor.

The sub-floor base of ⅜-inch plywood is often a must before a smooth surface can be obtained on which to lay the gay new linoleum, cork or asphalt tile that will do much to brighten the new kitchen.

And when all the additions are in the builder has a wide choice of colorful stains for finishing the room. Very popular is the natural wood look achieved by use of soft-colored wax stains or clear finishes such as shellac or varnish. These retain the beauty of the fir grain pattern. Painted paint, wiped-down with a burlap-type cloth before it dries will achieve the same effect. Over these finishes a coat of wax will give added protection and make cleaning as simple as wiping with a damp cloth.

On the other hand semi-gloss enamel can also be applied to the walls and built-ins using solid complimentary colors. In this case a good primer coat should be put on first. If the whole room is done over in one soft tone in this manner the bright colors in curtains and floor covering will be highlighted.



However the job is finished, family and friends will find the new kitchen an appealing place in which to live as well as dine.

Bracebridge District Votes Dry Once Again

BRACEBRIDGE (CP) — This Muskoka district Wednesday voted against the establishing of dining lounges and bars. It was the fourth time a liquor vote has been held. Of 1,800 eligible voters, 78 per cent cast ballots in the plebiscite. A 60-per-cent majority was necessary but only 46 per cent of the total votes were in favor of each issue.

The vote was taken on separate ballots. Some asked whether liquor, beer and wine should be sold in liquor lounges, and the other if they should be sold in dining lounges in hotels.

EMPHASIZES SAFETY CAMPAIGN

This sedan, with its front end split by a utility pole, is typical of the highway accidents which caused 2,588 deaths in Canada last year and 2,906 fatalities in 1953. The drop in the highway death toll last year was accompanied by aggressive safety campaigns in many provinces. This year's campaigns will be co-ordinated in a national campaign kicked off at Ottawa by the first Canadian Highway Safety Conference May 24-26. (CP Photo).

320 Fewer Traffic Deaths In Canada Last Year Than '53

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There were 320 fewer traffic deaths in Canada last year than in 1953.

A Canadian Press survey shows 2,586 persons were killed, compared with 2,906 in 1953, a record year.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics said 1,960 were killed in all Canada except Quebec. The Quebec Safety League reported 626 persons were killed in that province.

Highway deaths decreased in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Quebec, Prince Edward Island, Newfoundland, the Yukon and Northwest Territories. They were up in British Columbia, Manitoba, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

BIG DECREASE

The sharpest drop was in Quebec. Last year's 626 deaths compared with 901 in 1953.

The drop was accompanied by aggressive safety campaigns in many provinces. The campaigns will be co-ordinated into a national safety drive at a meeting in Ottawa May 24-26 of the first Canadian highway safety conference.

The meeting, called by the Canadian Good Roads Association, is expected to be attended by federal, provincial and municipal officials and representatives of business, labor and other interested groups.

It will attempt to marshal into a national safety movement the forces now at work. And it will plan a program of action across the country and consider the setting up of a permanent organization to push the program.

Spurred on by the record death toll in 1953 the provinces, their municipalities and civic organizations embarked on intensive safety campaigns.

Newspaper, radio and television campaigns were featured in almost every province. In Vancouver, radio station CKWX carried weekly on-the-spot recorded interviews of traffic offenders by traffic enforcement officers. British Columbia deaths were 211 compared with 208 in 1953.

In Quebec, judges co-operated with police who warned they really meant business. The police drive, coupled with a two-week safety campaign last June, was so effective that insurance premiums dropped $5,000,000 last year.

In Alberta, where 189 were killed compared with 220 in 1953, the department of highways now has a safety engineer who makes a complete analysis of each accident. The department plans to follow this up with an individual file on every licensed driver and to operate a clinic to help drivers.

PUBLICITY PAYS OFF

Saskatchewan traffic board stepped up its safety program last year and traffic fatalities dropped to 74 from 124. At the same time the legislature eased some of the stiff penalties brought in in 1953. Police chief Arthur Coleman of Regina said publicity and lots of it is the answer.

The Manitoba legislature amended its Traffic Act so that slow drivers now can be prosecuted. Almost 2,000 drivers lost their operator's licences in a police crack-down, as the death toll rose to 121, 39 more than in 1953.

In Ontario, where 1,004 persons were killed last year compared with 1,062 the year before, the provincial government's select committee on highway safety has introduced regulations effective May 31, aimed at cutting the number of accidents at night.

Lights will be required to be visible at greater distances and all vehicles must have signalling devices by July 1956. The government also has increased the penalties for driving offences.

In New Brunswick deaths increased to 123 from 97. The legislature has introduced regulations for a points system yet to be proclaimed, under which drivers will get points for traffic violations. If a driver exceeds 10 points in any three-year period his licence will be suspended for three months. Speeding rates from two to five points, and faulty equipment two. The points system already is in effect in greater Winnipeg and at least 12 American states.

Nova Scotia, which reported 157 deaths compared with 124 in 1953, also is considering the points system. Re-examination of all drivers is proposed at a later date.

The legislature has made the three-phased system of arm signalling compulsory.

Prince Edward Island, with 12 deaths against 12 in 1953 and Newfoundland with 23 against 29, have stepped up their safety campaigns.

In Newfoundland the names of all persons whose licences have been suspended are published in the daily newspapers. The government also has stepped up its road improvement program with emphasis on eliminating dangerous curves and, widening narrow roads.

A SAFETY PAINT

Non-skid paint, containing an abrasive such as pumice stone, can be used to prevent slips on steps and cellar stairs. It was developed to prevent crewmen from slipping inside military tanks and is now widely used in industrial plants.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

FINE TRIBUTE

One of the finest tributes to Don Cockell's gameness and "guts" plus ability to take terrific punishment comes from Dan (New York Mirror) Parker. Other columnists, recoverfing from the shock and red faces, had mostly alibis for their pre-fight predictions.

Says Uncle Daniel:

"The genuineness of this compliment is emphasized when it is realized that Don was badly beaten by a popular native son and that all his efforts up to the time he entered the ring with Rocky Marciano in San Francisco's Kezar Stadium Monday night seemed directed toward antagonizing the American press and public. After his glorious failure, Denny Ley has the unstinted adulation of this sport-loving nation that not even the ill-tempered remarks of his petty and pettish manager, John Simpson, could detract from. Cockell took his defeat, physically and mentally, like a true warrior. In victory there was scant prestige for Marciano, as his ever-increasing triumph was marred by such feal tactics as hitting below the belt, throwing a punch at Cockell while Don was on his knees, hitting after the bell and butting. Marciano didn't have to resort to infractions of the rules to insure victory and doubtlessly his transgressions were committed unintentionally in the heat of battle. But because of these, more honor was accorded to the vanquished than to the victor.

"All other things being equal a man with a pop gun can't fight a successful duel with a machine-gunner. Cockell is Marciano's equal in the matter of courage, physical strength, endurance and ability to absorb punishment. He is four years his junior and probably is a better boxer. But, in the most important department of all, Don was woefully handicapped. His punches had little or no effect on his opponent's opponent whereas one could see Rocky's blows taking their toll, spell by little, and the inevitable outcome approaching with each succeeding round. Manager Al Weill wrought better than he thought when he brought Cockell, unheralded, to this side about Don as the ideal opponent for his world's champion with the interrogation point proboscis was the small calibre of his guns. What was a surprise was the ease with which the Englishman was his savage gameness, the quality that converted a one-sided and otherwise unappealing match into a primeval brawl between two throwbacks to the caveman era. If Cockell had a punch, he could well have shattered Rocky's synthetic schnozzle, outlasted the champion in battle of endurance and come out with a magnificent victory instead of a glorious defeat.

"If the fight were held in England, Rocky probably would have lost his title on a foul. The controversial cut on Cockell's forehead near his hair line inflicted in the fourth round could have been from one of Rocky's right crosses or the product of a head-on collision. Don will recall that they knocked noggins in this heat and that he scored with a hard right. The champion also landed several low punches when he had Don pinned against the ropes once that surely would have disqualified him in England. Rocky was trying to sink his right up to the elbow in Don's blubbery mid-section and wasn't too particular in taking aim. When the rules are as liberal as they are in California, a boxer is likely to be a bit careless in such matters, without having any evil intent.. Although Rocky has never been an angel in battle, Don himself landed low at least once. In any event, the low punches didn't figure in the outcome."

FISH DERBY AT BANCROFT

City and district fishermen going north on Saturday for seven glorious days of angling can win some dandy prizes. The Bancroft Lions Club is having a Fish Derby which has been dubbed the "Finkin Fish Derby" since the well-known sportscaster of CFRC, Toronto, Ed. Finkin, will be on hand to present the prizes. There are some dandies, too. Trolling outfits, tackle, locker rentals, cash and other baubles for tops and second-best in lake trout, pickerel and speckle kinds. There is one condition, you must catch your fish within 20 miles of Bancroft on Saturday, May 21st. Report your catch to the Lions' Club in Theodore Tyzon's northern village.

TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT

Breaking up of the Kalminkoff Brothers, Ivan and Karol—considered in many quarters to be a jolly good idea—takes place after a fashion in tonight's wrestling program at the Memorial Arena. For the K boys won't be wrestling as a team on this occasion. In fact, each will have his own knavish hands plenty full, considering that Ivan, who so mean he's often been confused with Karol, will oppose Whipper Watson, in the main event. Karol, who's so snarly he's often mistaken for Ivan, will meet talented Ken Kenneth, of New Zealand, in another bout. That's quite a card in itself, but another highlight will be the marvellous midget matmen—four of them—in a tag team match. Popular Little Beaver has an English partner, Roger Littlebrook. They'll go against the combination of Sky Low Low and Fuzzy Cupid.

Jethroe's Hitting Responsible For High Position of Leafs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One of the reasons Toronto Maple Leafs are tied with Montreal Royals for first place in the International League is the fine hitting of centrefielder Sam Jethroe.

Jethroe hit his ninth home run of the season with two on Thursday night as Leafs defeated Rochester Red Wings 11-7 to tie Montreal. Royals fought off a late-inning Buffalo rally to defeat Bisons 10-8.

In other games, Richmond Virginians came from behind to nip Syracuse Chiefs 8-6 and Columbus Jets knocked off Havana Sugar Kings 8-2.

Toronto and Montreal have identical .591 percentages but on a won-lost basis Royals lead by a half game.

Rochester exploded for six runs in the third, including Jethroe's circuit-blast. They held a comfortable 10-3 lead going into the eighth but Red Wings scored once and then added three more in the ninth.

USED 17 MEN

Rochester manager Harry Walker, in trying to stop the Leafs' Toronto attack, used 17 men, including five pitchers. He himself pitched the eighth inning and played left field for two innings. Connie Johnson went the route for Leafs to gain his fifth victory.

Montreal starter Roger Craig went into the final frame against Buffalo with a comfortable 10-3 lead. He needed help from Glen Mickens after giving up four walks and a single in Bisons scored five times.

Royals' big inning came in the eighth when they scored five runs on Buffalo relief hurler Ken Nelson hit a bases-empty homer for Royals in the first. Charlie Kress hit a four-bagger for the losers.

Ken Wood's three-run homer featured a five-run eighth inning uprising by Virginians in their uphill battle against Syracuse.

Miller Kuns limited Havana to six hits in gaining his first victory of the season for Columbus. Russ Sullivan's two-run single in the sixth drove in what proved to be the winning runs.

Picks Up Sixth Victory By Beating Milwaukee 3-2; Giants Now in Second Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The first National League pitcher to win six games this season is a fellow named Jim Hearn, the right-hander nobody wanted.

He picked up No. 6 Thursday at Milwaukee as New York Giants beat the Braves 3-2 in the only major league game scheduled. The edged Giants into second place, three percentage points ahead of Chicago Cubs.

It was the fourth complete game for Hearn, who has lost two. Only Milwaukee's Gene Conley and Philadelphia's Robin Roberts have completed five.

Braves touched Hearn for 19 hits, but only two went for extra bases and he left eight stranded. Alex, getting his 3-2 lead, the six-foot-three 200-pounder gave just four hits over the last five innings. In all, he fanned six and walked only one.

Wildness contributed to Hearn's 1954 disappointment. He was put on the shelf as a starter with the world champs after Sept. 1 by manager Leo Durocher. And at season's end, he was on the block. But instead of peddling him off, Hearn, one of the stars in Giants' title victories of 1951, He won 17 that year, including the first game in the pennant playoff with Brooklyn.

Hardly anyone wanted Hearn in 1955, either, until St. Louis let him go to Giants for the waiver price. Yet Jim, who came up with the Cards in 1949, had won 39 and lost 39 with a 2.49 earned run average.

Hearn had one really shaky moment Thursday. Danny O'Connell came in left-to-right field with a leadoff double in the ninth. But Hearn fanned Roy Smalley for the third. Hank Aaron got the other long hit off Hearn, a solo homer in the seventh.

Willie Mays' single scored the first Giant run in the fifth and Hearn's sacrifice fly brought home the winning run in the fifth after Don Mueller's double had tied it and chased loser Ernie Johnson.

25 Positions Open in Starting Field for Race

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —Drivers will try to hit 140 miles an hour Saturday and Sunday in time trials on the Indianapolis motor speedway where Jimmy Snyder supposedly received a bullet in the ear at 125 m.p.h.

Twenty-five positions are open in the 33-car starting field for the 500th annual 500-mile race May 30. Only eight qualified in the gusty winds last weekend, the fastest a record 142.58 for Sam Hanks by Jack McGrath of Inglewood, Calif.

The slowest in the field is Andy Linden of Manhattan Beach, Calif., at 139.096. He'll be the first to be eliminated from the lineup if 26 cars exceed that speed over the weekend.

Managers' Guild Hooked Arcel For Plenty of Sugar

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—A standing-room crowd showed up at the local athletic commission's hearing for the details of one of the most amazing publishing ventures since the invention of papyrus.

Julius Helfand, the new prosecutor-type chairman of the state body, got the story from Ray Arcel, one of the more respected figures in the boxing game, who promoted a series of 34 highly successful Saturday night cards in 1953 in cities all over the country. Also, he got hit over the head from behind with a blunt instrument and spent six weeks in a Boston hospital.

In the course of his promotions, Arcel landed a bid of heavy television sugar, and that was where his found himself in the publishing business up to his neck. Encouraged by Helfand and his memory refreshed by photostats of cancelled cheque Arcel told of having spent $17,000 for advertising in one magazine alone.

NOW DEFUNCT

This lucky periodical was the now defunct International Boxing Magazine, which during its brief career claimed a circulation of "about 2,000." Its leading editorial lights were members of the powerful Managers' Guild which controls almost all fighters of note.

"How much did you pay for each page of advertising?" Helfand asked as he shuffled in the copy of the 18-page magazine.

"Fifteen hundred dollars," Arcel replied, sounding as though he thought it was a bargain.

Helfand asked how Arcel and the proprietors arrived at such a rate. Didn't he know that other advertisers had done considerably better than that, at least one of them paying only $100 per page?

"We just worked out the rate," Arcel said. "I don't know what the others paid."

BANNER ISSUES

Helfand then produced a number of banner issues in which Arcel had taken three full pages to advertise his attractions. Arcel readily conceded that the tab for each such issue came to $4,500. A little quick calculation disclosed that in such instances Arcel paid approximately $2.25 to reach each potential reader, which might easily have set an all-time high in the advertising industry.

Arcel conceded that the boys who supplied him with fighters thought their guild should cut in on the gravy, and that he had "promised" them $500 per fight. But when it came time to hand over the $17,000 representing the payoff on 34 bouts, he guild decided it didn't want the money.

In other words, Helfand prompted the witness, the woodchuck chewed the wire arrived at solely to enable Arcel to get rid of the $17,000 and make more room in his bank.

"That's putting it crudely," said Arcel, "but it's true."

Scottish Withdrawals Are Not Expected to Hurt British Hockey

By ARCH McKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Hockey is expected to bloom again in British ice next fall, brushed here and there, but unbowed.

All the signs point that way even though the year-old British League was shattered when the seven Scottish clubs withdrew to promote "amateur" hockey.

"There will be six or seven clubs in the south," I figure, including the four teams that were in the British League," said president Bunny Ahearne of the British Ice Hockey Association, a voluble Irishman whose unbiquitous spectimirm has endured the ups and downs of the Canadian sport's import in this country since the mid 1920s.

"I believe Scottish clubs will reconsider at a very early date their decision to withdraw from professional hockey," said secretary Fetus Moffat of the Scottish Ice Hockey Association.

"We got out of gear with abnormal costs last season, travelling expenses," he explained from his Falkirk office. "Expectations of higher gates to be stimulated by the supposed drawing power of the English teams, didn't materialize. Some of the clubs took a bad financial knocking."

The Scots clubs asked for a £12,000 subsidy or guarantee for next season. When it was rejected, Edinburgh withdrew, and others followed. Paisley and Ayr, which could handle the higher costs, were forced to follow suit.

The scope and player content of Scottish hockey next season are unknown.

"While Scottish clubs have more amateurs to draw on than the English clubs, it would be difficult to attract the fans," said Moffat.

"Promoters might elect to stick with the Canadian players limit of 10 per team — plus two home-grown players — or they might work a six-six basis."

FREE AGENTS

Down south, Ahearne looks to London's Harringay and Wembley to stick, as well as Nottingham and Brighton. New clubs might be drawn from Southampton or Durham, where a new rink will be ready next January.

Meanwhile, the status of Canadian players afloat in Scotland has been solved by declaring them free agents, open to any southern team if the player obtains a playing card from the BIHA, which keeps tight control on hiring. Players wanting to go to the continent next season can obtain a routine international transfer from the BIHA, and players electing to stay in Canada next season will get their transfers by having the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association apply to the BIHA.

All players have transport provided both ways. Most are of senior B calibre, with a good sprinkling of shade better than that. Average pay has been £30 a week.

Matchmaker Has Been Indentified As Advisor to Johnson's Manager

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Matchmaker Pete Moran, one of six charged by the Pennsylvania state athletic commission with actions detrimental to boxing, has been identified as an advisor to the manager of light heavyweight Harold Johnson.

Johnson's trainer, Clarence (Sikney) Davidson, testified Thursday that Moran always has been an advisor to Tommy Loughrey in the business affairs of the fighter.

Johnson, Loughrey, Moran; Davidson, another trainer and a second have been charged by the commission with participating in a "sham, fake or collusive boxing match."

JOHNSON COLLAPSED

The commission is investigating the Johnson-Julio Mederos match of May 6 in which Johnson collapsed after the second round. Mederos being awarded a TKO victory. Subsequent tests and investigation showed Johnson had been drugged with a barbiturate.

Gov. George M. Leader of Pennsylvania then suspended boxing in the state for 90 days and ordered a "searching investigation" of the sport.

Leader said in a press conference Thursday at Harrisburg that he would "have no hesitation in recommending that" the suspension be extended "if I don't feel the job of cleaning up boxing is properly and thoroughly done."

Johnson declared Thursday he did not throw the fight nor was he bribed to do so, and Davidson told about the telephone among Johnson, Moran and Loughrey.

The commission alleges that Moran was a financial interest in Johnson. State regulations forbid secret managers and forbid matchmakers doubling as managers.

The investigation is in recess until Monday.

Moon Homers Twice

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A pair of home runs by Wally Moon set the pace as St. Louis Cardinals downed Cleveland Indians 8-3 Thursday night in an exhibition game, the proceeds of which will go for a boys' baseball program in St. Louis.

Larry Doby homered for the Indians in the sixth.

S. Mr. Senior Golfer should not expect to blast out 250 yards of straight flight but Mr. Senior Golfer can make the shots boys with the power house swing look to their wives cards by playing his own game. Mr. Senior Golfer's game is to stick to the straight left arm in his shots, not attempt to make a full back swing, but compensate with superior accuracy. Let Mr. Senior Golfer take 80 as par for his course and shoot his rounds with that thought in view. The smart move for Mr. Senior Golfer, is a short game, straight down the middle. Placement, not distance. The days when Mr. Senior Golfer was limber and had rubbey in his spine and steel cords in his arms and hands are no more. But Mr. Senior Golfer can make up for this with accuracy.

Victoria Cougars May Be Suspended For One Season

EDMONTON (CP) — Western Hockey League directors Thursday gave Victoria Cougars until June 15 to negotiate an agreement for use of the Victoria Hockey Arena.

League president Al Leader said that if the agreement is not reached by that date, the league will consider the possible suspension of the Victoria franchise for a year.

He said that if Victoria does come in Seattle will be a probable entry and the league then will likely be split into two divisions.

The annual directors' meeting started April 18 in Calgary but was adjourned until Thursday to give Regina, Victoria and New Westminster time to complete arrangements with their local arenas for 1955-56 operations. The league also will have a Winnipeg entry for the first time.

The two-division proposal would set up the league on a prairie-west coast basis, with the divisions having interlocking schedules.

Town Aptly Named

GOLF, Ill. (AP)—The Western Golf Association today dedicates its new headquarters in this aptly-named town 16 miles from Chicago.

Legend has it that 50 years ago a railroad president leaving his Chicago office always would announce, "I'm going to golf," when he took off for a round on a course that required a special stop by his train.

So, the nearby area was incorporated into a village called Golf where some 300 golf addicts will attend ceremonies dedicating the WGA's new quarters.

Both were given citation scrolls at the society's annual meeting for "distinguished service for their work with crippled children at the Lake Shore Swimming Club."

St. Mikes Wins Ontario Catholic Track Meet

TORONTO (CP)—Faced by Leon Murray's three record - breaking performances, St. Michael's College of Toronto, established nine records at the Ontario Catholic Athletic conference annual track and field meet here Thursday and defeated St. Jerome's College of Kitchener, their only opposition.

In the 100-yard dash, Murray's mark of 10.6 seconds was one-tenth of a second better than the previous mark. His 24.3 seconds in the 220 beat the previous record by two-tenths of a second.

His run of 53.3 seconds in the 440-yard dash was eight-tenths of a second faster than the existing record.

Top scorer for the Kitchener squad was Charles Mann who won the high jump with a four-foot nine-inch leap; the hop-step and jump with a distance of 37 feet 9½ inches; and the shot put with a throw of 38 feet, nine inches.

Gerry Mast of St. Jerome's won the pole vault with a nine foot jump. In the intermediate class, Doug Freudenberg was best in the high jump with a mark of five feet one inch.

Carolan's Homer Gives Kitchener 6 to 5 Victory

KITCHENER (CP) — A 325-foot home run over the right field wall by outfielder Jim Carolan with one on in the 9th inning gave Kitchener Panthers a 6-5 victory over Brantford Red Sox in an Intercounty senior baseball game before about 400 fans Thursday night.

The hit was Carolan's first in five appearances at the plate. He walked twice and struck out twice previously.

Kitchener gave the Panthers a 2-1 record. Southpaw Bill Allen, third Kitchener pitcher in the ballgame, was credited with the win. Veteran Johnny Maldoven started for the Panthers but was lifted in the sixth inning for a pinch-hitter with the score tied 2-2.

TOOK LEAD

Relief hurler Ed Arthur lasted only 1 2-3 innings and gave way to Allen after Brantford took a 5-2 lead in the top of the eighth on four hits and three Kitchener errors.

Panthers rallied in their half of the eighth to tie the score and send righthander Harry Fisher to the showers. The tying run was scored on an error by shortstop Ron Campaigne.

Each team collected 11 hits. Infielder Bobby Schnarr hit a triple for the winners. Stan Lipka tripled for Brantford and Glen Nobes doubled. Catcher Harry Pautka led the Panthers at bat with three hits in four trips.

Marciano Denies Report About His Retirement

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rocky Marciano has denied a report that he might consider retiring after a September fight.

The rugged Rocky, who retained his world heavyweight title Monday night by walloping England's Don Cockell in San Francisco, was asked about the report here Wednesday after arriving from the north.

"There's nothing to it," he told a Los Angeles Times reporter. "I've never felt better than I did training for the Cockell fight. As long as I feel good and feel like fighting I intend to fight. Thus far I've never thought of quitting. I'll know when the time comes."

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

How often have you seen a young pitcher walk halfway to home plate after a pitch to take the return throw from the catcher, then turn and circle the mound, and finally walk back up the hill from the second-base side—like Teddy Roosevelt charging up San Juan Hill—before stepping at the rubber to look for the next signal he will receive from his catcher?

If you have seen much baseball, you have watched this type of operation all too often with the pitcher expending much energy in wasted motion instead of pitching the ball, getting set to field any ball hit in his direction and then retreating directly to the rubber, if the ball is hit, to be ready to make his next pitch.

Once he has his signal, he should know how to use a windup to help him and to confuse the batter. The purpose of the windup is to keep the arm and shoulder loose through a stretching motion, but clever pitchers like Harry Brecheen and Preacher Roe learned to vary their motions to the better of batsmen. They might pump once before the first pitch, three times before the second pitch, twice before the third pitch and continue to change the number of times they pump before pitching as the game progressed. Mario Fricano is one of the promising young pitchers who has mastered the windup and details, and any beginner would be wise to follow his example.

Taylor's Colt, Bright Flash, Current Favorite For Plate

TORONTO (CP)—Thomas Bird, 52, strode out of Woodbine race track and a group of horse fans who had been watching the morning workouts asked him to name the 1955 Queen's Plate winner.

Bird, who has been clocker at Woodbine the last 41 years, rubbed a gnarled hand across his snow-white hair and proclaimed:

"Boys, this is gonna be the wide-openest plate we've ever seen."

Nobody's denying it. Today, there are still 10 horses whose owners are convinced they have a chance to get in the nine-furlong race June 11. Payment of $100 each was made on that number of entries May 1, after $1 had paid $15 each last Dec. 15, and 188 $10 each when entries closed in 1953.

This gives the $20,000 - "added" Queen's Plate its richest purse, a total of more than $30,000 already assured. Final payment of $250 will be made the day before the race by owners who still figure their horses can do the job.

Current favorite, in the winner book is E.P. Taylor's Bright Flash, quoted at odds of 3 to 2 in the final list of prices. Loyalist, a brown gelding owned by William A. Moffat of Toronto and bred by M. James Speers of Winnipeg, is second choice at 4 to 1.

Jim Fair's Fairator has been getting a workout in Prowda Seagram's Fair Shore and Ace Marine, a chestnut colt owned by Larkin Mahoney of Toronto and his pal, so-silent partner, Com Smythe.

They give owners and fans a line on the horses, a first plate trial will be held at six furlongs on May 25 and, because of the large entry, the trial probably will be run in three to four divisions.

Close Race Features Spring Bowling League

Terrific scores which whittled the leading team to a single point margin featured the Spring Bowling League at the Bowl-O-Drome Wednesday night.

Next Wednesday will decide the championship and after last night's session it is anybody's trophy. The Good Starters had their lead held to 20 points in a second place are Seeley's Clippers with 2826, Cyril Wall's Rovers are next with 23 while the Alley Cats and CNR are tied with 27.

Bill Bateman's Alley Cats rolled the record score of the league —3252— to take five points from Leo Labelle's Good Starters (3732). The other results were Barrett's Jewellers (7) 3476 Casnadians (3) 3906; Clippers (6) 3826, Rovers (0) 3243 and Wally's Wonders (3) 3099; Hangovers (3) 3102.

Cec Hardwick had the top triple of 961. Other good scores were L. Labelle 815, W. McLaughlin 806, J. Legault 798, D. Batchelor 795, M. Whittaker 754, F. Bailey 728, J. McKenzie 720, D. Japanese Star Mitsuko Kimura Will Not Continue in Movies

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Here's one actress Hollywood will not be able to lure—Japanese star Mitsuko Kimura, who intends her current picture to be her last.

Latest of the foreign lovelies to be imported by Hollywood is Miss Kimura, who combines striking beauty with an almost painful shyness. This week she suffered through her first screen kiss.

The kissing took place with Aldo Ray in "The Gentle Sergeant," which was filmed largely in Japan.

Mitsi couldn't have been less happy.

"I have never kissed any man in public, even in Japanese films," she remarked. "It is not our custom in private life. We bow and embrace but we do not kiss."

HUSBAND FORMER SOLDIER

As a matter of fact, she confided that she has kissed only one man before this week: He is her husband, Men Fukunaga, a former soldier from Salt Lake City.

"And I went with her for four years before we were married," adds Ken.

Mitsi was forced into fame a few years ago when her father died. Being the eldest daughter, she had to go to work. Being a rare beauty, she soon found steady employment as a model.

One day she was at a press affair when she was viewed by an American photographer. He was looking for a beauty to grace the cover of the all-Asia issue of Life magazine. She got the job.

IN 19 JAPANESE FILMS

The publicity value of the magazine cover brought her to the attention of Japanese film producers. She did 19 films before she was picked to play the wife of Sgt. Hugh O'Reilly of the Gentle Wolfhound army outfit. He's the one-time "Japlacker" who ended up adopting an Osaka orphanage.

She was asked if "The Gentle Sergeant" will be her last picture.

"I hope so," she replied.

Her husband, who was a pharmacist in the army, added that they will return to Japan after he takes her to meet his parents in Salt Lake City.

Bill Goodwin Will Likely Make Broadcasting Career

By WAYNE OLIVER

NEW YORK (AP)—It begins to look as if broadcasting will turn out to be the career of Bill Goodwin.

The jovial, soft voiced performer has held a lot of different jobs in radio and television but this week notched a 25th anniversary in the business without missing a season.

Goodwin currently is star and master of ceremonies of the Wednesday night "Penny to a Million" giveaway show on ABC, and he handles it with the same warmth and enthusiasm that he has given the Burns and Allen and Bob Hope shows for years.

Although Goodwin has been in television four years and has appeared in 37 movies, he says many people still identify him quicker from his voice than his face.

Besides being with Burns and Allen for nearly two decades on radio, Goodwin won on their TV show when it began on a live basis. He also had a daytime TV show three years ago on NBC. He has performed on such programs as Public Defender, GE Theatre and the Eddie Cantor show.

CBS has given details of its plans for its own series of 90-minute color spectaculars next fall. There will be 10 of them on Saturday nights. At least two will star Bing Crosby. Noel Coward will produce three and co-star with Mary Martin in the first. Paul regory will produce three.

AT THE McCARTHY

The first motion picture ever made of Point Pelee's famous cedar chapel can be seen at the McCarthy Theatre in Columbia Pictures' spectacular John Ford production, "The Long Gray Line," starring Tyrone Power and Maureen O'Hara in Cinemascope and color by Technicolor. Also starred are Robert Francis, Donald Crisp, Ward Bond, Betty Palmer and Phil Carey. Because of the difficulty of lighting the building, the successful attempt had ever before been made to film the interior, and Pentagon photographers took advantage of Columbia's lighting arrangements to make the government's first films of the structure.

For this sequence, in which the Corps of Cadets first learns during Sunday chapel of Japan's sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, a record amount of equipment was transported by a dozen-truck caravan from Hollywood. It included dozens of high-powered lights, 18 tons of electrical cable, seven diesel generators and hundreds of minor appliances. The West Point chapel is the largest interior set ever filmed by a Hollywood studio away from its own sound stages.

"The Long Gray Line" is based on Sergeant Marty Maher's autobiography, "Bringing Up the Brass," and was produced by Robert Arthur.

Your Horoscope

FOR SATURDAY, MAY 21,

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Industrial and mechanical trades, skilled labor and science can make reasonable gains now, but care is urged in dangerous jobs and extra patience will be needed if trying to persuade or sell.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—This may be a difficult day unless you accent your innate dependability and perseverance. You can benefit through things you like or through your special skills.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Those in the jewelry, merchandising and banking business should be extremely accurate if they would retain now. Hardest matters to manage now will be purely mental work, journalism and kindred lines.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Your planet stresses a need for unusual energy and the best use of your talents if you would succeed now. Much can be done by clever thinking and calculation, however.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Influences that tend to obstruct may delay progress. Some set backs will be unnecessary, however, if you think sharply and do the right thing first. Be ready to take good advice. No worry or doubting though!

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Marriage, general dealings with the opposite sex will require conscientious treatment. No recklessness anywhere! Accent steadiness, practical thinking and good will.

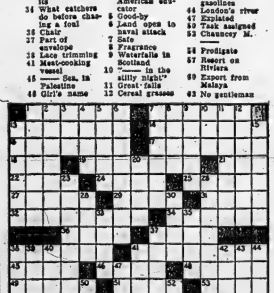
September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — This may not be as easy a day as you may assume. You can modify irritating influences with courage and cheerfulness. During the P.M. enlarge your social horizons. Be content, happy.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Do not try to fight trends now. This day may call for extra effort, extra thinking in order to counteract poor judgment, action. Remember that willingness is okay, willfulness taboo.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Go safely, slowly — especially in matters concerned with money and properties, others' affairs. Overlook incidental disturbances; make little of others' errors.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) —/This day may hold some irritation. Watch what you say, write, act. And that means you—not just the "other fellow." If you care about harmony and good results from efforts, co-operate now.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — A good day for reviving outmoded methods and gathering more knowledge in your own line. Improve associations, too. Be guarded in answers where others are touchy.



February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Becoming upset because of adverses, when others needle you or otherwise becoming annoyed can spell trouble. A spot now. Smile, be diplomatic.

YOU BORN TODAY are sturdy, dependable, loyal, devoted to loved ones, a fine companion when living up to your inborn best. You can be trusted in business, or any assignment.- Observe at times, you can be reasoned with, however. You are innately fair, just; not afraid to try things but may hesitate through pride to ask advice when you should. You are not given to pettiness or complaining; are at your best when busy, cheerful. 1955's remaining months could be very profitable if you are patient, cautious. Birthdate of: Alexander Pope, English poet.

BRITONS' COSTS RISE
LONDON (AP) — The British cost-of-living index reached a record high of 120 in April. The labor ministry said Thursday night. It was a one-point rise compared with the level in March. The index is based on prices of June, 1947, at 100.

RESCUED

Seven of the nine airmen who were rescued after being stranded 11 hours in the sub-arctic arrive back in Winnipeg. Their plane, a Winnipeg-based RCAF Dakota on a 500-mile flight from Coral Harbor on Southampton Island to Churchill, Man., was forced down 70 miles to bottom in left row: FO C. O. Thrasher, St. Cohawa, pilot; FO R. Tomchick, 26, Timmins, co-pilot; FO H. R. Cutt, 23, Goderich, radio navigator. On the right, top to bottom: Capt. S. V. Collins (fur cap) 35, of the United States Air Force; LAC J. Cole, 29, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., crewman; LAC J. MacKenzie, 23, Fort William, crewman; FO E. Rocheford, 25, Montreal, navigator. Two other airmen returned earlier to Winnipeg. (CP from National Defence).

CHURCHILL ENJOYS EVERY MINUTE ELECTIONEERING

Only Campaigner Who Draws Crowd

By ALVIN STEINKOPF

LONDON (AP)—Surely no one in Britain is having more fun than Sir Winston Churchill, out electioneering.

He has put on his favorite campaigning hat, a high cylinder of black felt. It manages to look like a fat bomb, and seems to be made of Churchill himself—big and chuckles, and ambles from meeting to meeting waving cigars and making "V" signs. His health appears good.

His speeches sparkle with wit. Occasionally he makes the hails and farewells mournful and a bit Churchillian manner. He is the only campaigner who draws a big crowd wherever he goes in this rather apathetic election battle.

NO POLITICAL WORRIES

In his 81st year the former prime minister seems to be more relaxed than he has been for years. At last, someone else is carrying the supreme responsibility.

Churchill has no personal political worries. He pretends to be alarmed at the possibility that his district—made up of the towns of Woodford and Wanstead — may turn him out in next Thursday's election. But that is all mock terror. In the 1951 election he gave him a majority of 18,500, and there are only 45,000 voters.

A campaigner at a meeting at Woodford asked whether it might not be better, after all, to rid of fleet and army, and to persuade the world by an "act of faith" that Britain was secure.

"It would not be an act of faith, it would be an act of folly," Churchill thundered. "Never let it be said that Britain does not stand up to a challenge. Let no impression go out that Britain is on the run."

EXPLAINS COMMONWEALTH

Churchill listened with close attention to a Negro who wanted to know whether Britain proposed to do anything about racial difficulties in South Africa.

"You must understand that we are a Commonwealth," Churchill said. "We in Britain can do nothing to intervene in the domestic affairs of any of them any more than we could, for example, in the local government of Canada. It may be that the things we see in the dominions and colonies may not be to our liking but there are areas in which the government in London can effectively intervene and give advice and exercise moral influence."

Lady Churchill goes with him on many of his election junkets. She tries to make it easy for Churchill to get through crowds, and he tries to make it easy for her. 139 Miners at Stellarton Fight Water Torrent to Safety

STELLARTON, N.S. (CP) — One hundred and thirty mines fought a swirling underground torrent and falling rock Friday during a 1,400-foot small-like ascent from the depths of the flooded McGregor mine.

All escaped unscathed from the innermost workings where they were caught when a bottled-up pond of surface water burst into the pit.

George A. MacLean, a surveyor, was out about 1,000 feet when he was temporarily trapped by debris. The main pit crew—130 by actual count of a mine officer at the surface—had worked their way almost to the surface when they ran into a door that was jammed by the pressure of splintered timbers and other debris.

Miner Dan Leighton said: "It seemed hours before we got near."

The men stood numbed to the bone, the water rising beyond their knees.

Then the door burst inward under the repeated blows of a rescue crew that had worked down the slope from the main entrance and rescued sloshed on up to the pithead where scores of wives, sweethearts and children, many faces strained, waited for word of their menfolk.

The Acadian Coal Company placed the time of the mishap at about 10:30 a.m. and said the last of the men had left the flooded pit by 2 p.m.

The colliery, whose galleries honeycomb the ground in this coal-rich region of northern Nova Scotia, probably will be idle for several days. The company said only that it hoped to resume operations "as soon as practicable."

The miners said they frequently had only a foot of breathing space between the surface of the savage stream and the roof of the gallery on the arduous trip to safety.

They often had to struggle atop coal cars to snatch a lungful of air before plunging beneath the surface to avoid a roofing timber or other obstruction.

Miner Willard Fleming said he heard the water roaring like a waterfall a few minutes before it bursted into view and "that seems like a long time when you're anxious."

Dixie Taylor said the torrent hurled him flying and he got tangled in a jumble of timbers. Rock was dropping into the shaft from all directions and the rescue team reported it had to contend with fall debris on the way down from the surface.

The company said the water that the 60 workmen originally was carried away by drains but heavy rains in the past few days had overtaxed the pipes and "there was a buildup of pressure which caused the outburst."

Further Slowdown Is Possible In Polio Inoculations in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A possible further slowdown in the mass anti-polio inoculation of school children loomed today as the government was reported contemplating further tightening of safety standards for the Salk vaccine.

Meanwhile, the government, on advice of a panel of scientists, decided to continue the dosage and vaccination procedure worked out in last year's field trials of the polio preventive.

Because of the vaccine scarcity, there had been discussion of possibly reducing the dosage, now one cubic centimetre per shot, and changing the method of injection to intradermal.

The government also decided against instituting any new rules raising the summer height of the polio season. Although the advisory group did say the time for vaccination is before the epidemic season, not after. A statement Friday night that administration of vaccine during a polio outbreak "can be of benefit in preventive medicine."

The possibility of a new delay in distributing the vaccine arose when vaccine manufacturers and their technical specialists had been called to a Monday conference here. The topic: tightening safety standards.

The manufacturers were reported told that new requirements may be applied from now on to all vaccine released by the government.

Some stiffer standards may require an extra three to five days of testing, informants said. The specialists were required to submit a vaccine already made, between 28 and 35 days before release. The hope was held out that a new system, said to be more reliable and substantially reduce the time required.

The health service's polio advisory committee met all day Friday considering what the conference here, whether to recommend injection of the vaccine under the skin rather than into the muscle, and the advisability of suspending the vaccination for a second year in polio season.

At the end of the conference U. S. Surgeon General Leonard Scheele announced the group had recommended continuing the three-shot series and the dosage proved out in the 1954 tests.

Reaffirmed, too, the procedures tested in 1954, the group said the two injected seven cubic centimetres consist of three doses of 1 c.c each and given "intra-muscularly." It recommended the second shot be given two to six weeks after the first and that shots be given as near as if possible, "although the second shot may be administered if given after a number of months." The scientists suggested the third dose be injected seven months after the first, preferably before the next polio season.

Today's Chuckle

EXTRA

A government worker sat at the table after breakfast one morning, engrossed in a magazine for over an hour. Finally he asked for another cup of coffee.

"Coffee!" exclaimed his wife. "But look at the clock. Aren't you going to the office today?"

"Office?" exclaimed the startled man. "Heavens! I thought I was at the office."

Ducharme Guilty Of Murder, Will Hang July 28

SUDBURY (CP)—A 23-year-old former railway worker was sentenced Friday to be hanged July 28 for the Dec. 4 slaying of school teacher Steve Bruce Lynch.

Mr. Justice D. P. Kelly of the Ontario Supreme Court pronounced the sentence on Gerard Bruce Ducharme of Hamilton after the all-male jury returned from its four-hour deliberation with a unanimous verdict of guilty.

Crown Attorney counsel, Carl Weisberg, said an appeal of the conviction was "practically certain."

The frozen, bullet-riddled body of the 31-year-old teacher was found hidden in the woodpile behind his school at Dundas, Ont., 35 miles north of here, last Dec. 5. An autopsy set the time of his death between 24 and 48 hours of the previous day.

Provincial pathologists, Dr. M. J. G. Lynch and Dr. A. Ward Smith, testified that at least 22-calibre bullets had penetrated Klapouchak's body.

BROADENS THE ALARM

Two men, Makato Tamura, chairman of the Dalton Mills Recreation Club, and Stanley Tony Koch that he had been to the school Sunday but Klapouchak's car wasn't there. Then he saw a bullet-hole in one window.

Tamura testified that he had seen Ducharme with Klapouchak "about Dec. 4."

SHIELD QUARTERS

Further evidence was that Ducharme, a railway gang worker, had stolen Klapouchak's living quarters until Dec. 1, when Klapouchak returned. Klapouchak's supplies in his suitcase and asked him to leave.

In his testimony, Ducharme said he had moved to a railway toolhouse to sleep a week and had spent each night there until Saturday when he walked to Bobcaygeon, 15 miles of Dalton Mills, and took a train for Chapleau.

Mr. Walsberg, in his summation, said there was no evidence of footprints leading the searcher's quarters and the shack where Ducharme was staying.

KICKED TOT

TORONTO (CP) — Edward McBride, 27, father of five children, Friday pleaded guilty to kicking his three-year-old son in the face. He was remanded to May 27 in custody for sentence, for what magistrate F. G. Gullen called "an inhuman act." His wife, Margaret, said McBride comes home drunk every night.

HOUSE OPPOSITION DIFFERS SHARPLY ON REMEDIES

Unemployment Again Creeps Into Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — Sharp differences among Commons opposition groups on remedies for unemployment have shown up in a general debate on unemployment.

CCF and Social Credit speakers Friday expressed fears that the growing trend to mechanization will cause economic distress.

William Hamilton (PC—Nipissing) Norman-Dame-de - Grace) formed them gloom-gatherers and "barn-acles on the backside of progress;" with no faith in the ability and ingenuity of Canadians to cope with the situation and maintain employment.

Social Credit Leader Low contered with the statement that Mr. Hamilton's speech showed "bankruptcy of intellect."

"FAMILY QUARREL"

Canso (L—Regina) said the dispute between Mr. Low and Mr. Hamilton was "a family quarrel like those in sections of the Conservative party."

He spoke of the depression during the hidden years, and the enormont of the late prime minister R. B. Bennett, and said that in the 1935 Regina riot, when the unemployed asked for work and wages, "the Tories read the riot bulets and tear gas."

Opposition members ignored the governing Liberals much of the time, arguing their political infighting among themselves.

The debate was a continuation of one began Thursday on the introduction of labor department estimates. It ended shortly before adjournment when the House approved the first few items of departmental spending.

COMMENTS ON SPEECHES

The disputes among opposition groups began when Mr. Hamilton, director of the federation of Canadian Advertising and Sales Clubs, commented on previous CCF and Social Credit speeches.

Colin Cameron (CCF—Nanaimo) had said there is enormous danger in the mass displacement of human labor by machines. The ultimate in mechanization would be that no one was left to have income to buy the goods produced.

He urged a thorough government study of the problem.

Mr. Hamilton said past experience has shown increased mechanization results in higher living standards. New industries are forgetting about the steam engine, but "the industrial development and even the discovery of the wheel

HAVE A STAKE

"These crepe-hanging prognosticators seem to think this country is going to hell in a hand-basket because of technological progress," he said. Business men had a stake in improving people employed and in maintaining purchasing power.

Mr. Low said Mr. Hamilton apparently misunderstood what was needed to solve problems. The Social Credit plan was explained to him with works. Mr. Hamilton's attitude was that anyone with an idea was just a crackpot.

The Conservative government of 1930-35 had done nothing to end existing the depression. If the Conservatives ever came to power again with the same economic views, Canada would see the most intensive and lengthening depression in its history.

Canadians Head for Cottages, Highways to Celebrate Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Victoria Day weekend, Queen's birthday will be celebrated in Canada Monday.

By proclamation-council, Queen Elizabeth's birthday—May 21—will be observed officially. Traditionally the celebrations, usually May 24, have been moved back one day in accordance with a Canadian statute that says the birthday of Queen Victoria will be observed on the Monday immediately preceding May 24 if that day is not a Monday.

Good weather with sunny skies and above-seasonal temperatures is forecast for the whole country. Canadians will take full advantage of it by attending various sports events, opening the family cottage or by just pleasure driving.

Fireworks, traditional means of celebration for Canada children, will light the skies at night. Special displays are scheduled for five districts in the metropolitan Toronto area. More than 30,000 persons are expected to be stirred to Ontario Bal Rifli, 111-year-old Jewish social service organization.

In the country's capital, a rarity ment will meet as in an ordinary working day—Parliament. The services in Ottawa are expected to swarm out of the city for the long weekend. The railways, bus and air lines are reported bookings for the holiday are heavy. Ottawa will also have its display of fireworks.

Quebec has not scheduled any special events and newspapers will be published Monday. Evening dances are reported heavy in Montreal and those who stay in the city will see an armed services parade.

British Columbia has been active in preparing special features for the holiday.

Five — day celebrations were opened Thursday at Kelowna, B.C. with a crowning of a May Queen.

Robbery Suspect Still Eluding Police Dragnet

Man Sought Freed Only Month Ago from Prison

TORONTO (CP)—A 26-year-old man, freed from prison only a month ago after serving a five-year term for armed robbery, today still eluded police seeking him in connection with a $2,300 bank holdup here in which a clerk was shot to death.

As police made raid after raid on Toronto rooming houses in search of Arthur Aronson, relatives made final preparations for burial of Allan Emsden, victim of the wild shooting episode during the robbery at a Toronto-Dominion Bank branch Thursday.

Aronson, a husky former Sudbury miner who was released from Marquette penitentiary in Michigan last month, disappeared after the holdup. Police said they consider him "extremely dangerous." He was convicted of holding up a bar in Sault Ste Marie, Mich., in 1950.

Aronson's brief, wild career in Canada began in 1953.

May Change Tariffs

OTTAWA (CP) — Finance Minister Harris said in the Commons Friday the government may ask parliament to make some additional tariff changes this session but he declined to say whether they would include canned mixed fruit.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) tried for the second successive day to get the minister to say whether Canada is negotiating at Geneva to boost the tariffs on fruit item. Mr. Harris declined to budge.

MILL BURNS, 40 DIE

BOMBAY, India (AP)—At least 40 persons perished Friday in a fire which broke down a cotton mill at Limbdi. The fire destroyed 70,000 bales of cotton before it was brought under control. Cause of the blaze was not determined.

Tightrope Artist Spends 48 Hours Above Stadium

TORONTO (CP)—Harry Daves, 27-year-old European high wire artist came down from his perch on a wire 60 feet above the ground at Maple Leaf baseball stadium Friday night after setting what he claimed was a North American endurance record.

The stunt-man came down after balancing on the wire for more than 48 hours.

Daves, who came to Canada last October, was a professional high-wire artist in many European countries. He claims to set a 60-hour world record at Klagenfurt, Austria, in 1953.

Daves' meals were provided by a Toronto restaurant operator. They were placed in a cardboard box, and taken up to the terminal point of the 70 - foot - long wire to be handed to Daves.

The tightrope artist would set up a chair, climb over it with a tablecloth, spread his food out, and eat.

British Voters' Tranquility Troubles Both Tories, Labor

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—Britain's 35,000,000 voters are expected on next Thursday's general election with a tranquility that appears to be causing concern among both Conservatives and Labor.

The Left-wing Sec. Statesman, agreeing that the present trend seems against Labor, warns of the "danger of a Tory victory." It says the danger is the Conservatives may win by so large a majority that its die-hard elements will become the chief influences on party policy.

But the predictions of a Conservative victory, based on public opinion polls, have prompted Conservatives to issue warnings of the dangers of over-optimism.

Lord Woolton, chairman of the party's political organization, said Friday night:

"My greatest anxiety now is that our supporters should conclude the election is in the bag."

There are many "marginal" areas which could be decided by a handful of votes and a small shift of public opinion could affect the outcome, he told a press conference.

The growth of the two-party system, with Conservatives and Labor having crushed the independents and greatly reduced the strength of the Liberals, is suggested by political commentators as one reason for the apparent lack of excitement on the part of voters.

A lack of issues, possibly the result of creation of mass parties responsible in some degree to particular interests, is mentioned as another.

R. T. McKenzie, a Canadian now lecturing at the London school of economics, has discussed these conditions in a book on British politics in which he declares that the agreement on fundamentals between the parties now is "very nearly as great" as it has ever been.

Others have noted that the British electorate is changed. One of the factors in Labor's victory in 1945 may have been the desire for change, a feeling among those who had served overseas that they did not want to go back to the old pre-war conditions. Now there is a sense of prosperity, an apparent contentment with things as they are that may not be conducive to Labor arguments that the boom is only temporary.

OBTAIN NOTED PLANNER

TORONTO (CP)—The University of Toronto's new campus and city planning department will have for its head a well-known figure — known Prof. Gordon Stephenson. Prof. Stephenson was born in Liverpool, England and since 1945 has been professor of civic design, University of Liverpool.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: Sunny warm weather still continues throughout most of the province today. Cooler air, however, will spread over northern regions late today and Sunday, but is unlikely to reach southern Ontario. A weak low pressure area threatens to bring showers into extreme southwestern Ontario late Sunday but elsewhere over the southern half of the province mainly sunny skies and high temperatures are expected to continue.

Conservatives Have Completed Nominations

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Progressive Conservatives have nominated a slate of 97 candidates to contest the 98 seats in the June 9 Ontario general election.

Border Life Not What It Used to Be So McCann Alters Act to Fit Fact

OTTAWA (CP) — Things along the border aren't what they used to be and haven't been for years. So the government plans to make Customs law conform to modern practice.

It was learned Friday, following Revenue Minister McCann's notice on the Commons order paper of a bill to amend the Customs Act that Parliament will be asked to make it a must for everyone crossing the border to report to a customs officer.

This is not at present, though in practice all border-crossing persons go through customs inspection, requires you to report to a customs officer even if you have something to declare and pay duty on.

It's a hangover from pioneer days. Then, a person might have to ride a couple hundred miles to find a federal customs man and quite saw no reason for a person to go to all that trouble unless he had something to declare.

Now, however, federal customs men must watch for narcotics and cigaret smuggling and check the health of animals transported across the border, as well as collect duty bills.

"This will only write into the law the practice that has been going on for some years," one authority said.

Other planned amendments:

1. The importer of goods allowed into Canada duty-free for a special low rate for special purposes would become jointly liable with the possessor of the goods should they be used for other than their declared purpose. At present the extra duty on these goods can be collected only from whoever is there when their false use is detected, the original importer going free.

2. Finance companies and others would be made responsible for duties by customs patrols in smuggling and other cases would have 60 hours in which to produce a tape to make their interests known. Finance companies are sometimes haven't known a vehicle was seized until the person who financed it through them failed to make his monthly payment.

3. Appeals of revenue department tariff decisions would be allowed only against the wording of the decision. Importers at present have almost unlimited time in which to make an appeal.

Park Dale Residents to Open Community Centre on Holiday

Victoria Day will be a big day for residents of the Park Dale district, that growing residential area northwest of the city.

The day will not only mark the official observance of the Queen's birthday, but will also see the official opening of the community's recreational facilities, the completion of which has been the No. 1 community project for many months.

Marking the event will be an evening "Tom Wes" softball game between the up-and-coming Park Dale nine and Deacon's Quance Robson will declare the park officially open and will draw the opening ticket on a television set to be given away. Later on in the evening there will be a big community fireworks display.

The public is cordially invited to attend all the events.

The Park Dale recreational park has all the facilities of a well-organized city playgrounds. It has the swings, slides, seesaws, monkey bars, climbing bars and sandboxes. It has a top-flight softball diamond, the backstop for which was donated by Corey's. The city recreational commission donated the boards for an outdoor rink which has been in use for the past two seasons.

Future plans for the park call for construction of a community centre and hall in the fall and it is expected will be underway within a month. The building will be used for community activities, including the boys' model aircraft club, Girl Guides and Brownies and Women's Institute meetings.

ENTHUSIASTIC SUPPORTERS

Park Dale residents are enthusiastic supporters of the "do it yourself" craze which is currently sweeping the country.

The "do it yourself" or rather "do it ourselves" program got underway with the formation of the Park Dale Ratepayers' Association three years ago.

The Association members plant 800 trees in the residential area, purchased and installed metal street signs, which were then turned over to the township and erected signs asking motorists to drive carefully.

From the Ratepayers' Association stemmed the Park Dale Community Centre Board, whose big project has been providing recreational facilities for children in the area.

Careless Driving Charge Is Laid After Collision

A Belleville woman, Mrs. Margaret Way, was injured early today when the car in which she was riding plowed into the rear of another car, which had stopped on the highway.

Police said the accident was a three-car collision, the other which occurred near the Dutch Mill inn east of Trenton, was driven by Lionel Souliere, Fort Henry, had stopped to make a left-hand turn, while Mrs. Way's car, driven by Edward Power of Oshawa, stopped behind Soulier's third car driven by James E. St. John, Belleville, failed to stop and plowed into the rear of the Power car. Mrs. Way was passenger in the third auto.

St. John has been charged with careless driving.

In another accident on No. 2 Highway early this morning a car driven by Walter Wiznuk, RCAF Trenton, left the highway, jumped the ditch and sideswiped a tree near the Green Acres Tourist Cabins on Trent Road.

Wiznuk told police he was blinded by the lights of an approaching car. He suffered lacerations to the face and his car was wrecked. Both accidents were investigated by O.P.P. Constable A. Bestenan.

Also early today a car driven by Cecil Sweete, Kerr Ave., Trenton, turned over on its side at the intersection of the Wallbridge Road and the six concession of Sidney township. No one was injured.

RUBENS FETCHES $42,500

LONDON (AP) — Little-known painter by Flemish artist Peter Rubens was sold Friday by Christie, Manson and Woodes for 15,500 guineas ($42,510). A Christies' spokesman said the picture was "remarked within a family." The work depicts "Democritus and Heraclitus," ancient Greek philosophers, in conversation. It has never been exhibited.

Police Blotter

The office of the Riggs Motors service station on Pinnacle street was entered during the night with approximately $4 in petty cash being taken, police reported this morning.

Two minor accidents were reported, while a number of LCA charges were laid against offenders. Both accidents were caused by slippery roads.

Canadian Legion And Tweed Hotel Granted Licences

Beverage room licences for the Canadian Legion at Belleville and the Tweed hotel, Tweed, both at Tweed, were granted by the County Liquor Control Board at a special sitting held Friday morning at the city hall council chambers here. No opposition was entered against either application.

The Canadian Legion at Belleville was granted a restricted licence for club purposes for their new premises on Pinnacle Street.

Mr. E. "Ted" Courneyea, operator of the Tweed hotel, Tweedmuir at Tweed, was granted a men's beverage room licence, a women's beverage room licence, and a dining room licence. Extensive alterations are now underway at the Tweedmuir hotel by Mr. Courneyea.

Members of the Ontario Liquor Control Board at the meeting of the Board here were Judge J. E. Hodgins, chairman, Orillia; W. H. Nugent, vice-chairman, of Lindsay.

Trading Is Brisk On Local Market, Prices Steady

Trading was brisk on the local market this morning as large numbers of buyers were on hand with a wide range of produce. Offerings moved quickly with prices mostly unchanged from last week.

A large selection of plants formed the bulk of the offerings and sold readily around a fixed price range of 30-45 cents. They included tomato plants, petunias, winkles, panales, petunias, asters, phlox and marigold. Vegetable plants also sold well including cabbages, tomatoes and onions. Carnation plants were sold by the box, with nursery plants and geraniums selling up to $1. Raspberry plants were also available and strawberry plants $1.50 per hundred.

Tulips were the chief offering on the flower stalls, the popular price being 50 cents a bunch. Some blue and white lilacs and lily-of-the-valley brought 25 cents a bunch.

Rhubarb was in larger supply at 10 cents a bunch, three for 25 cents. Asparagus continued at 20 cents a bunch, two for 35 cents. Turnips were 10 cents apiece. Potatoes were 75 cents a basket, 90 cents a peck and $4 a bag. Some fine radishes (Colliers) brought $5 a bag. Spring onions were 10 cents a bunch, three for 25 cents and lettuce 10 cents. White beans were 20 cents a pint, 40 cents quart.

Apples were the only fruit offered, with McIntosh at 75 cents a basket, Spies 65 cents, Spies 85 cents, Tallman Sweet 40 cents a half-peck.

On the trade market eggs were 30 cents for extra large; 45 cents for large; 43 cents for medium. Fowl brought 45 cents and spring chickens 50 cents a pound.

41 Inches of Snow

Ottawa Trip Enjoyed

(By CHRIS LEGGAT)

The profusion of tulips in Ottawa is a dazzling vision of colour at this time of the year. This was Ottawa's welcome to a group of members of Christ church Sunday school.

We left Belleville at 6.30 a.m. in a Rawson bus piloted by Percy Vanderburgh, and the first stops of Parliament Buildings at 11 a.m., where we were met by Mr. Frank Follwell, M.P. our host.

Scarlet-coated Mounties were the first target for cameras. The patience of these gentlemen, answering the boys' rapid-fire questions made us all feel that Ottawa was pleased to see us.

Our first call was Rideau Hall, where a naval attache was waiting to escort us through the Governor-General's house and grounds. He apologized for His Excellency's absence and then told us the history of the house and in a most interesting manner described the various rooms and furnishings, which are a rare ground of history.

After a pleasant ride through the city we arrived at the Experimental Farms. Mr. Follwell had made arrangements for us to lunch here at the cafeteria. A wonderful meal, roast chicken, pie, ice cream, to which all did justice.

Some of the boys must have been hollow. Everybody was in very holiday mood after this treat and we proceeded to the Mint where guides explained the process of making money. On the way out we got our silver dollar and booklet and were over the War Museum. The parliament buildings were our next call where we met the House of Commons in session. Mr. C. D. Howe was speaking. Then the Senate Chamber; the Peace Tower; received a lot of attention; the clock and bells—the largest weighs eleven tons. In the Memorial Chapel a sense of reverence and thankfulness is evident. The beautiful stained windows and the story of World War I on tablets, the Book containing the names of the fallen, all lit inspected respectfully.

We then visited the Art Gallery and Museum. The uniformed scouts went to the Dominion Scout Headquarters, where Col. G. E. Simmons, executive commissioner for administration, met us and gave us the latest news of the Jamboree.

Mr. Lewington thought we should see a little more of Ottawa before leaving for home and took us through some of the main streets.

At 7.30 p.m. we bade farewell to the Nation's Capital, arriving in Belleville at 11.30 p.m., a tired but still lively bus-load of boys who now have some idea of the pageant Canada is leading nation in the world.

We express our all say "Thank you" Mr. Follwell for a wonderful tour of Ottawa and the liberal hospitality.

Two Toronto Women Injured At Marysville

Two Toronto women were injured Friday night when their car was in collision with a highway transport at Marysville, 15 miles east of Belleville.

Police said that Mrs. Helen Pulman, 60, 887 Ave. Rd., and Mrs. Belleville General Hospital with fractured ribs and shock. Miss her daughter, Miss Mary Putman, 25, suffered a fractured skull and other undetermined injuries. Miss Putman was taken to Toronto General Hospital early today by ambulance.

Two passengers riding in the rear seat of the car, Miss Frances Putman and Allan Putman, daughter and son of Mrs. Putman, were uninjured.

The accident occurred opposite the service station at the entrance to the curve where the highway swings south toward Deseronto. J. W. Minis, R.R. 4, Belleville.

The eastbound car driven by Mrs. Putman collided with a westbound Smith Transport driven by George

Cost Accountants Elect Officers

A film about a simplified unit invoice accounting plan, presented by Ken Hodgkinson Read, featured the program of the May meeting of the Bay of Quinte Chapter of the Society of Industrial and Cost Accountants of Ontario held early in the week.

Election of directors and executive officers for two new members highlighted the business portion of the meeting.

New members for the coming year are: L. G. Lennox, R. A. Lennox, C. J. Casey, B. Mackie, W. A. Lockley, C. D. Ireland, J. Bennett, R. J. A. Taylor and V. Bigwood.

New members introduced to the club were Vic Bigwood and Dave Thomson, both of Central Bridge Company, Trenton.

IN MEMORIAM

WEESE. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Eda Weese, who passed away May 21st, 1952.
—Ever lovingly remembered by Mary and Jean.

BRADSHAW. — In loving memory of our dear father, Wesley Bradshaw, who passed away May 22, 1954.
Weep not for me, nor wish me back,
I am from sorrow free.
And in my Saviour's arms I rest,
That's where I long to be.
You watched me suffer day by day
And wept to see me pine,
And when you reach the golden gate,
I'll come and lead you through.
—Loved and remembered by sons and daughters-in-law and daughters and grandchildren.

BRADSHAW. — In loving memory of our dear father, Wesley Bradshaw, who passed away May 22nd, 1954.
In tears we saw you sinking
We watched you fade away
Our hearts were almost broken
When God called you home.
Age crept on you by degrees
So peacefully free from pain
We miss you more than words can tell
To suffer that again.
—Sadly missed and remembered by grandchildren.

BRADSHAW. — In loving memory of our dear husband, Wesley M. Bradshaw, who passed away May 22nd, 1954.
I have had my soul's companion,
A life linked with my own;
But God in His wisdom has seen more
Am I walk through life alone.
Yet I know that some day soon I
Will meet you in the sky
We shared our pains and happiness
And now I wonder why
And death shall never part us
Or keep us from our love
Our sad reunion in the skies
Will be worth waiting for.
—Dearly beloved and ever remembered by Mrs. Ethel Bradshaw.

ANDERSON. — In loving memory of my dear husband, Arthur Anderson, who passed away May 21st, 1953.
I have loved and lost another
A life linked with my own;
But God in His wisdom has seen more
Am I walk through life alone.
—Sadly missed by his loving wife Ada.

LONG. — In loving memory of a dear father, William Long, who passed away May 21st, 1954.
Calm lies the sea and peaceful sleep
Sweetest rest that follows pain;
He who fought the fight is free
But trust in God to meet again.
—Remembered by daughter and son Harold and family.

POSTE. — In loving memory of a dear husband, Alex J. Poste, who passed away May 21st, 1941.
Some day I hope to meet again,
Some day, I know not when.
To clasp his hand in the better land,
Forever to be with him.
—Sadly missed by wife Lenna.

POSTE. — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Alex J. Poste, who passed away on May 21st, 1941.
"As we knew him, so we miss him."
—Ever remembered by daughter Orma, Howard and grandson Frank.

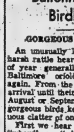
Work of Bible Society Will Be Featured in Special Services

The annual Bible Society services will be observed in the city this Sunday. The services will mark the climax of the local campaign for the support of this most worthy cause.

With the increase of literacy among the peoples of many races in the world, Communist governments are not hesitating to take advantage of the new yearning for knowledge, by flooding these countries with literature which is free. Often, the only alternative to such misdirected materialistic propaganda is the Bible. H. G. Wells once said: "The Bible has been the book that held together the fabric of Western civilization. This civilization could not have come into existence and could not have been held together without it."

It is because of the belief in its great worth that the British and Foreign Bible Society carries on its work. Its over 1,100 different languages the Bible is printed and distributed throughout the world at a cost which leaves a 65 per cent loss to the Society, a loss which is not made up by any subsidy except the generosity of those who feel that God's Word is the only Word by which man shall live in peace, freedom and happiness.

In addition to the translations department of the British and Foreign Bible Society is the only maker and distributor of the Braille Scriptures for the blind. Many of the 137,000 blind people in Canada alone have cause to bless the work which has restored to them a joy they lost with the physical sight, the joy of reading again the old familiar phrases of God's Book. The Braille Scriptures are exceedingly costly to produce and have, since the Bible Society is deeply thankful for the loyal support of its friends and members.



Other aspects of the work of the Society are the provision of Bibles and New Testaments to any new immigrant to Canada who desires them, the supplying of schools and churches where there is need, and the translation of the Scriptures to the members of Canada's armed forces' personnel, for which latter task the British and Foreign Bible Society has been officially recognized by the federal government.

It is to present this work to the people of Belleville that special speakers appointed by the Society will be guest preachers in various pulpits in Belleville this week-end. Rev. T. W. Hazlewood, executive secretary of the Upper Canada Bible Society, will occupy the pulpit of Bridge Street United at 11 a.m. and the Alliance Tabernacle at 7 p.m. Rev. W. H. Moore will speak at Victoria Avenue Baptist at 11 a.m. Rev. J. A. Turnbull at St. Thomas at 11 a.m. and in the evening at the Wesleyan Methodist Church at 7.30 p.m. The new district secretary for the Bible Society, W. Rudd, B.A., B.D., who succeeded the Rev. H. Egerton Shaw, will preach in the morning at Tabernacle United Church and at 7 p.m. St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. He will also broadcast a message over CJBQ at 8.15 p.m.

Mr. Rudd came to the Bible Society in March of this year, after leaving the pastorate of Centennial United Church, Toronto. He was born and received his early education in England, completing his studies for the ministry in McGill University and United Theological College, Montreal. Before going to Toronto he served in churches in Montreal and Cornwall, Ont.

The annual meeting of the Belleville Branch of the Society will be held at 8.30 Sunday evening in Victoria Avenue Baptist Church. An excellent color film depicting the work of the Bible Society in Austria, entitled, "The Living Word," will be shown.

All interested in this great work are invited to be present.

A Lift For Living

Turning Truant on Duties

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

In my boyhood community there was to me a rather terrifying figure known as the truant officer. He was a big man—about whom I heard my parents talk frequently.

According to the description graven on my youthful mind, the truant officer had an eye sharper than an eagle and a scent keener than a bloodhound. He always got his quarry, and his quarry were bad boys who played truant from school.

Suffice it to say, I never fell into the man's clutches. However, I am not sure that my record on truancy has remained clear since boyhood.

A truant is defined as "one who absents himself or runs off from the place of duty". When I look back, I fear that my truancy may have deserted or avoided my place of duty.

Why does a person play truant from life's school? Sometimes because of boredom. The boy studying to school thinks of the fishing stream or the baseball lot, and he never schoolroom to him takes on the prospect of a prison.

THE DARKNESS TRUANT

Maybe because of irritation. The business man, chafing under government regulations and fretted by competition, looks out the window and longs to get away.

Or it may be weariness. The young housewife, worn to the quick by the friction of petty demands, sees the glamorous existence depicted on the screen and begins to pity herself as a prisoner of routine. She is just tired of it all.

And sometimes the situation seems so hopeless that a person feels it futile to stand by any longer.

For instance, the world's problems seem so baffling that many people are inclined to stop working at them. They would have America live to herself and let the world go. And many do not bother to study even our own social problems or to go to the polls to vote on them.

HOW TO DO IT

Having seen why men play truant to their highest duties, let us consider how they do it. One way is to try to tone down the call of conscience. How plausibly we say, "Of course, we must do our duty but God meant us to use our common sense."

To be sure, we must be practical. We must use common sense. But when we tone down our ideals and dirgams to what we call common sense we may often make it so common that, as Jesus said, it is "like salt which has lost its savor and is henceforth good for nothing but to be cast out and trodden under foot of men."

The young woman common sense and there is a savorless common sense.

Saving common sense is the product we get after we have tried the idealistic and found it impossible. Savorless common sense is what we think is workable and practical before we have tried the seemingly impossible.

It is the mediocre mentality which ridicules the pioneers and stones the prophets.

NOT THE OTHER WAY

Or we can play truant to duty by not looking in its direction. Sometime ago a wise old Job said when he was trying to prove his moral innocence: "I made a covenant with mine eyes; how then should I think upon a maid?" Many a young man has begun to break his marriage vows by not keeping his eyes under control.

Many a person has begun to lose his religious faith by not keeping his mind under discipline.

We rightly condemn the "reds" who would undermine our republic. We are suspicious of the "pinks" who are fellow travelers with the communists. But our society is quite equally in danger from the "yellows" who have not the courage of their convictions and play truant to their duties.

But when we triumph over our truancy, we develop an inner core of self-respect and satisfaction. Moreover we release divine resources.

A young minister of my acquaintance had a parish which did not appreciate him. He was having a hard time. A call came to a wealthy church where his type of ministry was desired. He was tempted to go. But he stayed. And then things began to break. His church rallied to him. His ministry was blessed with results.

Or I think of a woman whose husband was considered a washout. He was not good to her and he was generally "no good". She was tempted to leave him. But she kept on with him, hoping to find the vein of gold in him. She stuck. And she stood by. And she won.

When we refuse to run away from duty, God runs to help us.

Bulletins from Birdland

GORGEOUS BUT NOISY

An unusually loud whistle or a harsh rattle heard about this time of year generally indicates that Baltimore orioles are with us again. From the moment of their arrival until their departure in late August or September, these really gorgeous birds keep up a continuous clatter of one kind or another.

First we hear their noisy call, "where! where! where!" as they shout to one another about their proposed nesting site, flying at top pace over a hair mile or so of territory. This continues for several days until they decide upon a suitable spot—the end of a long, drooping branch of some large tree, preferably an elm. The locality ranges from a city street to open country on the edge of a forest. A quiet road bordered by elms is very often favoured.

Mrs. Oriole is an inveterate worker. Unaided she weaves the hanging, pocketlike nest of fibres, plant down, hairs, and string. With her long bill and powerful bill she pokes fibres from the outside, then pulls them firmly through. The finished product is a bag six inches deep, mostly light grey, but frequently showing streaks of varied colors of wool dangling from it.

NEST WELL MADE

So well is it made that several years may go by while it weathers our wintry storms and spring gales.

The only assistance offered by the male is his encouraging, contralto voice. Once heard, the mellow notes of an oriole are unmistakable; yet each individual has his own distinct song, composed of very loud whistles, which vary both in tune and time.

The male oriole is a beautiful bird: fiery orange and black, the colors of Lord Baltimore, his wife, who resembles him in a dull way, has the orange parts replaced by faded yellow or olive, and the black parts flecked with olive brown. But like the males' voices, no two females are exactly the same.

Baltimore babbler, at the bottom of their cradle, are safe from all harm: no cat can get at them after they leave the nest, they keep up a constant plaintive cry for food, which sounds like "tee-deedee".

Enormous quantities of caterpillars, bugs, beetles, ants, and wasps are fed them, and soon they become quite similar in their manners, though considerably less colorful. In fact, the amount of orange on them is not enough for us to be able to identify them.

Women's Activities

KINGSTON ROAD W.A.

On Wednesday afternoon, there was a joint meeting of four W.A.'s. The Kingston Road W.A. entertained Centre Street; College Hill; and Front Road in the Kingston Road church.

Mrs. N. Gervin, president, opened the meeting by welcoming the guests and having prayer. Mrs. J. Parrott was the accompanist on the piano for the hymns.

Mr. Besley, (student) minister), gave the invocation.

Mrs. E. Farnsworth was in charge of the devotional with Mrs. K. Reid, Mrs. D. Brooks and Mrs. Parrott, reading Scriptures.

Mrs. J. Parrott favored with a piano solo.

Mr. Besley acted as master of ceremonies for the program.

Mrs. K. Smith, College Hill W.A. gave an interesting reading "A Meditation on Community Friendship." Mrs. West rendered a solo, accompanied by Mrs. Bailey on the piano.

Two ladies from Centre Street took part in the program, Mrs. Clegg poem and Mrs. Wilson a reading.

Miss J. Redner, Kingston Road, gave a humorous reading "Caleb's Courtship". Mrs. C. Reid and Mrs. McMullen, from the Front Road W.A. sang a duet.

KINGSTON PENITENTIARY

Mr. Besley gave an interesting talk on "The Kingston Penitentiary".

Mrs. Haig, Kingston Road W.A. the theme speaker, had "Unity as Applied to One Person", as her topic.

Mrs. H. Gerow brought the meeting to a close, after which refreshments were served by members of the Kingston Road W.A.

Mrs. Wilson, Centre Street, thanked Kingston Road members on behalf of Centre Street, College Hill and Front Road W.A.'s for hospitality.

BETTER THAN MOST

During 1954 91 new industries were established in Ontario. Belleville got only one—Hollywood-Maxwell of Canada Ltd.

But that record is better than for most Ontario cities, the "Ontario Industrial Review" published by the trade and industry branch of the Ontario Department of Planning and Development reveals.

Of the 91 new industries, 38 located in Metropolitan Toronto. That left only 53 to be distributed throughout the remainder of the province. Windsor got five. That left 48. Kitchener-Waterloo attracted four. There were 44 left. Ajax was selected by three industries. And so there were 41 left. Belleville got one of them. "Good fishing," considering.

What officials of the Department of Planning and Development and indeed citizens generally should be considering is whether we can hope to build a healthy economy in Ontario if Toronto continues to attract almost half the new industries, including a great many of the larger ones.

THE WAR'S LOST CHILDREN

The West German Government's information service reports that there are still 50,000 children in West Germany looking for their parents, from whom they were separated by postwar chaos.

This is a startling reminder that the suffering and sorrow which wars generate are not automatically remedied when peace comes. These 50,000 children, and their parents, have been searching for each other for a decade.

Nor are they the sum total of the lost. The Red Cross has maintained a search service during these ten years and has re-united more than 90,000 lost children with their parents or relatives.

The comparatively small ratio of reunions, with more than one-third of the number of lost children still not having found their families, suggests that the original number of some 140,000 children did not include many whose generations quickly ended. Many more reunions probably were effected without the aid of any organization, as the result of frantic searching by the lost and their parents.

We are not told whether all these 50,000 children still separated from their parents are Germans, or whether this total includes the children of slave laborers. Regardless of this fact, though, it appears certain that the number of lost children in West Germany, where the tide of war moved swiftly, must have been small when compared to the number separated from their families in Poland, in the Baltic countries, in Yugoslavia, and in Russia, which were battlegrounds for much longer periods.

MANUFACTURING PROFITS

Manufacturing establishments are among the most efficient departments of our economy.

Dr. Gordon S. Montrand, chairman of the education committee of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, reports that during 1954 manufacturing concerns in Canada averaged only 5.2 cents in profits on each dollar of sales.

Nor is this an exceptionally low figure. It is the same as the profit on the sales dollar in 1953 and two-tenths of a cent higher than the 1952 figure.

Mr. Currie has stated that public opinion surveys have shown that the public "has always believed manufacturing profits were far higher than they actually are. Our findings over a period of seven years have proven conclusively that profits are barely half of what the public thought a fair profit should be."

The public misconception of manufacturing profits almost certainly arose because of knowledge of the size of mark-ups in retail stores. The average merchant requires a mark-up of more than 50 cents on his sales dollar in order to operate. The public has confused this mark-up with a profit. It is not. Much of it is required to meet the costs of operating the store, paying taxes, wages, rent, and heat and light bills. All these costs, of course, are deducted before the Canadian Manufacturers' Association survey reveals the amount of profit on the sales dollar. It is only on the basis of comparable figures were available for profit on the sales dollar by Canada's retail establishments. Such figures would serve to show plainly the difference between a profit and the mark-up between wholesale and retail prices.

CHILD'S PLAY

What is the surest way not to get along with people?
That is a question asked in a psychology column in an Ontario newspaper.

"Try to improve them," is the answer given.

"Check up on everything they do or say, argue over little things, and tell them their mistakes for their own good." This will allenate friends and frighten people away."

Oh, the man is so right!
But then few of us do these things, or do we?
No, we don't—except to our children.

JUST FOLKS

(Copyright, 1955, Edgar A. Guest)

RAIMENT AND FLESH

Suit almost as worn as I,
Faded as I, too, the purple hue,
Necktie just a bit awry,
Shirt a little frayed.
Hat no longer fit to see,
Womenfolks declare.
Time has left some marks on me
That I cannot shave.

Like the suit, I once was new;
Strength to play had I.
Things which once I used to do
I se longer try.

There's much we can't escape
As the years go by.
That old hat has lost its shape;
Like it have I.

Suit and hat I could replace
Shopping any day.
But those wrinkles in my face
Can't be passed away.
Time has thinned and grayed my hair,
Youth could not remain.
Still the flesh is fit to wear
And I won't complain.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 21, 1935

Mr. Joseph Hitchon has arrived home from McMaster University, Hamilton, to spend the summer vacation.

Mr. H. T. Hurley of God's Lake Gold Mines Limited, God's Lake, Manitoba, is spending a vacation here with his mother, Mrs. Thomas J. Hurley, Queen Street.

Mr. Angus W. Robertson of Montreal is spending a few days here with his brother, Dr. J. J. Robertson.

Mr. A. Bernard Collins, K.C., Past State Deputy, and Mr. T. F. Scanlan, Grand Knight of Belleville Council, left this date of Columbus, attended the convention of Ontario Knights of Columbus in Toronto this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Marks were in the city today enroute to their home in Oshawa after spending a week at Charlotte Lake in the Rideau.

Miss Earle Parrott of the Telephone here. The following item is from our file copy of this time in 1885: Telephones have been placed in the following offices and residences: George H. Pope, residence; Bank of Montreal; J. F. Warrington office and dwelling warehouse; A. L. Geen, residence and drug store; Leavens and Moody office; Merchants Bank; Dr. Sprague's residence; W. R. Carmichael's drug store.

Mrs. Gerald Bristol and Barbara, and Miss Mae Totton, spent the week-end in Toronto.

Dr. and Mrs. Farnsworth of Whitby, spent the week-end here with friends.

30 YEARS AGO

May 21, 1925

The Central Ontario Baseball League season opened here yesterday and a good crowd of spectators was present. The opening game was between Oshawa and Belleville. Mayor W. C. Mikel heaved the first ball, Belleville batteries were Wild and N. P. North made a good catch. Belleville won the game by a score of 5 to 4 in favor of Oshawa. The following compose the Keon; Oshawa, — W. Fair, Dineen, Gibbs, Ryan, Tyson, Roddick, Morrison, Ward. R. Fair and Dainty. "Doc" Rutherford on third base was the only player with Belleville and Ward and Dineen were the players with the Oshawa. The umpires were; A. Kay and G. Sullivan.

Mrs. James Buchanan is visiting her son, Mr. A. A. Buchanan, in Belleville.

Mrs. E. Spencer of Foxboro is visiting friends in the city.

40 YEARS AGO

May 21, 1915

At a meeting of the Trent Valley Athletic Association in Madoc the following officers were elected: president, W. J. Hill, Madoc; first vice president, R. Coulter, Stirling; second vice president, H. Connor, Marmora; secretary-treasurer, D. H. S. Allen, Tweed.

Mr. W. E. Tummon, reeve of Huntingdon township, was in town today.

Mr. James Bertram Collip, M.A., a Belleville boy, will receive the degree of Doctor of Philosophy at the convocation at Toronto University.

Mr. J. S. McKeown, druggist, went to Toronto today on business.

Mr. Bert Alford is spending a few days with friends in Toronto.

Mr. Roger Porter is home from St. Andrew's College to spend the holiday, May 24.

Dr. Robert Tennent, who enlisted with the Army Medical Corps, has arrived in England.

Lieut. Ed. D. O'Flynn, who is now at the front overseas, has been promoted to the rank of captain.

50 YEARS AGO

May 21, 1905

Tenders will be received by the city clerk up to June 1 for the purchase of the Belleville electric street railway car track rails spikes, fish plates etc. We had horse drawn street cars here at one time — some years later the electric railway — now both are things of the past.

This has been a cool May so far.

At a meeting of the Young People's Society and of other members of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church, the president of the society, Dr. McCrory, presented the Rev. O. C. Elliott, the retiring pastor with a handsome leather suit case.

Mrs. George Irvine of this city is visiting relatives in Hamilton.

The steamer Varuna called at this port this morning on her first trip this season.

The steamer Picton called here this morning enroute from Toronto to Montreal.

Borrow a Target

Letter to the Editor

Says Station Street Just a Racer Track

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer
Here's hoping that we will have a speed trap where it is needed most, on Station Street. Our section of the street is nothing more than a race track. We have been very lucky that there has been no children struck. As far as keeping a spot goes, it is just impossible. Our boy lost his Thursday night.

Grandsons Get Tree Legacy

(Windsor Star)

An elderly Woodstock woman left three grandsons a legacy as yet unspecified, which may become more usual. She had $2,000 to leave to them which, when split, wouldn't have amounted to much. So she turned it in a 40-acre plot upon which she had planted 40,000 trees.

A rash legacy right soon have been frittered away. The trees, on the other hand, will continue to grow and increase in value. Also they may provide a living when the boys may emerge by the purchase of more land and the planting of more trees. As it is, in another 30 years they will have a fairly substantial estate from the $2,000 investment of their grandmother.

The grandmother evidently was a woman of considerable vision and wished to encourage reforestation. Here and there throughout Ontario are many private woodlots which, with proper conservation methods, can pass along from generation to generation, enriching each and the entire province.

It is a good way, and cheap, for a man to create an estate for his heirs.

New Problem for Burglars

(Sudbury Star)

Pity the burglar with a weak heart! Electronics will be the death of him. Take note of what happened at an electronics plant in Chicago!

When burglars broke into the premises they were greeted by a pleasant male voice which said: "Good evening gentlemen. May we remind you that this place is electronically guarded. We suggest that you leave immediately or else!"

There was a brief pause— then the voice in a tone of command ing: "Help, police, police! Thieves, burglars! Help, police!" It was the same voice which proceeded to shriek: "Call the police, help, help! Call the police!"

By the time the next phase started, which was a series of ear ringing alarm bells, nearby residents had notified police. And the would-be thieves had gone.

What could be more alarming in the deathly hush of the night than a male voice suddenly disturbing the deep silence?

On the other hand we can see great possibilities for the electronically controlled voice, instead of an alarm clock, a cheery voice singing: "Rise-um a-shining to welcome the day, heigho, it's time to get up." Or something.

He Was Late But Got Job

(Saint John Telegraph-Journal)

He was only 20 years late when he answered the "help wanted" advertisement, but he got the job just the same, despite the fact that someone else had been holding the position for the intervening period of years!

It happened this way: A clerk in West Germany found a torn piece of newspaper page containing the advertisement. He saved the scrap of paper was from a very old issue, he applied for the job.

That's when he discovered that he was a bit behind the times. However, the man who got the job in 1935 soon was to take over a branch in Canada. So the company hired the present-day applicant for the original job, or soon to become vacant again.

It just goes to show that it pays to read the classified ads.

Slanguage Revamped

(Lawrence College Alumnus)

Slang has always been with us. It appears on a sliding scale of popularity which denotes immediately whether or not the speaker is "on the ball" or "out of it."

Such slang is concentrated among juveniles (high school groups), cats (jazz music worshippers) and those people who have brought back permanent additions to the language. Being a blend of all these, college student presents the most concentrated form of slang to be found throughout the skull factories (colleges) of the country.

Although the words stay around for a long time, such as words (definitely out), solid (sold up), roger (okay) and over (now it's your turn) from army or air force usage, change frequently—or the meaning of words changes with them. Even what was "out of this world" year before last was "far out" last year and is now "the greatest" or "the most." What was originally "hip" (wise) is currently "hep" (meaning in the know.) A hipster never goofs (makes a mistake) and always flips (gets excited) at the proper things. He is also the first to put down (criticize) anyone who is mamoo (that is, one who misunderstands used to fill in space when the dialect fails to communicate). His scorn can be indicated by saying "That doesn't quite make it, Jr." or "Get with it, Jr." Anyone who hase made a suggestion too much for an hour to do it.

"Crazy," meaning wonderful stayed around for a long time but has lost its generality by becoming a casual remark in response to a relief from pressure. "Nutty" has taken its place to mean good, and "cool" which for a long was the essence of all that was just right as an adjective, has taken on the meaning of one "cools" a thing by doing it slowly. "Cool" can also still mean just the opposite, depending upon the inflection used. Talking is sometimes cool and in the tone of voice, which reading is not, depending on inflection.

Adults have been "snowed under" by work, but so have students—in different ways. They are "snowed" when they are completely confused about something and say "smash" an exam when they make a good grade. They "tote" a cold otherwise. They can even be snowed (convinced) by something under false pretenses, in which case they were gassed (favorably impressed) first and got high later. They can goof (make a mistake) either by accident or design. They can flip, of course, embarrassing—but to "goof off" is usually deliberate. Sometimes it takes time, or to fail in any project on purpose. This seldom needs the approval of the troops (any group, particularly one's own crowd.)

Perhaps the most colorful term is "clutch." It is a verb, as are "tense" and "panic," meaning to be nervous or upset before, during or after any occasion of importance.

In conclusion, even an egg-head (intellectual) can get high if he's geared to the gaff and adequately snowed by its importance. There's no reason to be out in the mesh with the rest of the crates, clutching about trivia, when it's really easy to dig it.

Conservation Briefs

A series of little known facts about conservation, under the heading "Conservation Briefs" will occupy this space weekly. These briefs are being written by the Moira Conservation Authority to let you, the people, know what your Conservation Authority stands for.

Did you know that—The quick run-off in the spring may be a contributing cause to a lowering of the ground-water level. This will result in acute shortages of water from the wells upon which our farmers depend, as do many of our cities and towns.

Our crops are largely dependent upon an adequate supply of ground water. No vegetation can exist without water. Water dissolves mineral elements in the soil and, in this way, makes these necessary nutrients available to plants.

You may be surprised at the amount of water that plants require:

(a) One ton of corn requires about 300 tons of water for its production.

(b) One apple tee, on a single summer day, lifts about 800 lbs. of water out of the ground.

(c) An acre of lush grass will lift about 6 tons of water on a June day.

(d) One pound of beef requires, directly or indirectly, for its production, about 20 tons of water.

(e) It requires 65,000 gallons of water to make one ton of steel.

(f) In urban centres, 700 gallons a day are needed to supply the demands of each person for food and other necessities and amenities.

Newton Foster To Be Honored At Ceremony

The Grand Decoration of Chivalry will be conferred on Newton A. Foster, grand master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario Independent Order of Odd Fellows, on this Saturday evening in the Community Memorial Centre, at Kingston.

This event will be open to the general public, and there will be no admission fee.

Odd Fellows' lodges of all branches, also Rebekah lodges, from the Province of Ontario and neighboring States across the border will be in attendance for this impressive ceremony, the highest honor which can be bestowed on a member of the IOOF.

Elmer J. Rose, department commander of Windsor, with a staff of approximately 125, will conduct the ceremony.

The committee of arrangements, headed by Kenneth Down, of the Kingston Lodge, has completed final arrangements and everything is in readiness to make this event a memorable one in the history of Odd Fellowship.

Still Uncertain About Resumption Of Polio Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Current uncertainty over when the program of mass inoculations in the United States against polio can get into full swing seemed likely today to continue at least until next week.

The U.S. public health service provided no elaboration on its bare announcement of Wednesday that re-clearance of embargoes batches of Salk vaccine would be delayed pending further study.

A spokesman said Thursday: "The best you can assume is that it will be next week before there are any further releases."

The national conference of state epidemiologists, meeting in Atlantic City, has asked the health service for an opinion on whether it might be possible to reduce the late current dose of one cubic centimeter to two cc. This would stretch the dwindling supplies of cleared vaccine.

Children who took part in last year's trials were given three injections each. The current dosage is two shots spaced a few weeks apart, with a third booster injection about seven months later.

The health service is currently engaged in a step-by-step study of the manufacturing and testing processes of five laboratories.

"EFFECTIVE" NOTED

Evidence mounted that some segments of the U.S. public were confused and perhaps disturbed by the uncertainty.

Dr. Hess, president-elect of the American Medical Association, told reporters at Atlantic City, N.J., there is no need for "so much hysteria" over the program. He said he regarded it as probable that every one of the 71 confirmed post-inoculation cases of polio was already in the incubation stage when the shots were given.

The 77 cases, five of which have been fatal, have affected only the tiniest fraction of one per cent of the nearly 6,000,000 children who have been inoculated. Government officials have said there is no factual evidence to link the cases with the vaccine.

Hillier

HILLIER — The Mother's Day service was held in Rose Hall on Sunday morning with a good attendance. Mrs. R. Dafoe was in charge and Rev. Mr. Robbins of Wellington, gave a splendid and timely address. The Hillier Sunday-School Day's service was held at 3 p.m. with Rev. T. Cook in charge.

Mrs. Terwilliger at present is with her daughter, Mrs. Marvin, Wellington.

The Hillier W.I. May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Eggleton on Friday evening. Miss Kincaid will be the guest speaker.

Many from this vicinity attended the convention at Bowman's last Wednesday evening.

Tomato planting, which has been the order of the day, is now completed in this locality.

Mrs. J. Jackson is spending a vacation with relatives near Buffalo and will visit New York before returning home.

Mrs. A. Wanamaker, accompanied by Mrs. Millson, Orono, is visiting Mr. L. Webb and family, in Ottawa, also Mrs. J. Ham in that city.

Moira

MOIRA — Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wallace, Mrs. Olive Williamson, Gary and Bobby, of Frankford, were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Blake Ketcheson.

Moira Victory Class met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Vandewater on Thursday evening with a large attendance. Mr. and Mrs. Joe Price of Belleville were present, Mr. Price being the guest speaker and gave an inspiring address.

Mrs. Wallace McInroy accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McMullen and baby, Belleville, to Toronto and Cookeville on Friday and returned Sunday evening.

Mr. Dan Hagerman accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Ross Ketcheson, Linda and Gwen to Havelock on Sunday and spent the dinner hour with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Lake and family.

Mrs. Don McInroy and Diane, Mr. Donald Kinsella were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Maines, and family.

Mr. Gordon McInroy and Miss Evelyn Emerson attended Y.P.U. Sunday and spent the dinner hour evening at the home of Mr. Ralph Swan, Corbyville.

Travelling TB Clinic at Arena For Residents of City, District

TB or not TB? That is the question.

A chance to answer that vital personal question at no cost will be provided Hastings County residents from May 16 to June 10, when the Ontario Department of Health's travelling TB clinic will operate in the county.

The clinic will be open in the Belleville arena each day (except Saturday and Sunday) from 10 to 12 a.m., and from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 10 p.m. from Monday, May 30th to Friday, June 10th.

The Hastings County X-ray Survey Council, which is sponsoring the county-wide chest survey, emphasizes that tuberculosis can be cured if detected in time and properly treated.

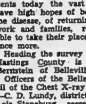
Early diagnosis of the disease, made possible on a wide scale by mass chest X-ray surveys, has cut the death rate dramatically. Sanatorium facilities have made it possible to isolate cases and thus prevent spread of the disease. New drugs and new surgical techniques have made treatment easier and shorter and have promoted speedier and more complete convalescence.

In the past 50 years the death rate in Canada from tuberculosis has fallen from 200 per 100,000 population per year to 13 per 100,000. Canada's annual death rate from TB is among the lowest in the world.

In 1953, 2,457 Canadians died from TB. In 1954, there were 1,810 deaths. This 25 per cent decline in two years reflects the steadily increasing ability of modern medicine to meet the challenge of what was once one of the world's great scourges.

STILL BIG KILLER

Despite much progress TB is still a big killer. In Hastings County TB has killed 37 people in the last five years. Other members were from Belleville, five from Trenton and 18 from the rest of the county.



From 1950 through 1954, 79 new active cases of TB were reported in Hastings County, and there were 164 sanatorium admissions from the county. Old cases which required re-admission accounted for the greater number of admissions.

Of the 20,000 Canadian TB patients today the vast majority have high hopes of beating off the disease, of returning to their work and families, ready and able to take their place in society again.

Heading the survey council for Hastings County is Mr. H. P. Bernstein of Belleville.

Officers of the Belleville council of the Chest X-ray survey are —C. D. Lundy, district chairman; Lou Jackson, secretary; Tom Hockings, speakers' committee; Mrs. Thomas Gilmore, Murray Hunter, supplies' chairman; H. Rivest, industrial canvass; Harry Hamilton, canvass chairman; Earl Kuntze, publicity.

Your Car

Hard Ride Means Bad Shocks

By EUGENE MILMOE

If your car is giving you a rough and noisy ride, perhaps you should ask yourself how long it's been since the shock absorbers were checked.

Like all moving parts they should be given regular service attention. Otherwise they can lose their ability to control the compression and rebound action of the springs, and the pleasure of a comfortable ride is soon just a memory.

Don't overlook the fact that your steering system will also suffer when shock absorbers fail.

Keep a watch on shock absorbers fluid and replenish when it's low. If any is being lost through leakage your shock absorbers may become empty before you know it. Make a periodic check for cracks, defective gaskets, end caps and oil seals.

SPARK PLUGS FOUL

From J.M.: My car uses no oil, compression is excellent and the ignition system has had a complete "tune-up. In spite of this, I can't seem to get 1000 miles out of my spark plugs before they become fouled. When I remove them, they appear loaded with gasoline.

(A) Either a rich fuel mixture or plugs that are too cold for your type of driving is probably at fault.

C.H. writes: When first starting up, my oil pressure is normal, but after the engine gets warm, it drops very low—especially in hot weather. The car is in very good condition and I use only the best oil and gas.

(A) The grade of oil you are using is probably too light. When your engine is hot, the oil becomes too thin and, of course the pressure drops.

L.B. asks: Recently, I've been having serious trouble with my brakes. They work while driving a few days ago, they locked, and I was unable to move the car until I bled a little fluid from a wheel cylinder. What is the cause and how should I repair it?

(A) Dirt in the brake fluid seems to be your trouble. To remedy this condition, drain and flush the system, then refill with approved fluid. Be sure to bleed each wheel cylinder after refilling.

RUST INHIBITOR

From M.S.: What is meant by "add a suitable rust inhibitor" to the water in the radiator? If distilled water is used, will the rust inhibitor be necessary?

(A) To prevent rust formation in the cooling system, it is recommended that an additive; known as a rust inhibitor or rust resister be included when the cooling system is filled with water. The use of distilled water will not eliminate the need for a rust inhibitor. You have your choice of several good brands at most service stations, auto accessory shops, etc.

P.F. writes: Someone has given me to understand that it is detrimental to a car to have a "carbon and valve job" done. Do you agree?

(A) On the contrary,—if faulty, carbon-crusted valves are causing poor performance, grinding and carbon removal job should put it back in top running condition.

BANCROFT

C. Marston Heads Club

BANCROFT — A new slate of officers was elected at Monday night's meeting of the Bancroft Lions' Club held at Hotel Bancroft. President for 1955-56 will be Clarence Marston. Other officers are first vice-president, Reg Wiggins; second vice-president, M. J. McMahon; third vice-president, Jack Hastin; two-year directors, Ray Tompkins and Gordon Cooper; secretary-treasurer, Dr. Roland Harvett, and Bernie Shaffer; secretary, Reg Wallis; treasurer, Gordon Fresque; tail twister, Bob Ramsbottom; lion tamer, Jim Bryers; bulletin editor, William Morrison.

It was announced that club member, Whitney L. Martin would be returned unopposed as District Governor at the District "A" convention to be held in Quebec late this month.

Terry Reid, of Peterborough, engaged as instructor for the season at the Lions' sponsored swimming pool was introduced by Gordon Cooper and welcomed by the club.

SWIMMING RULES

Guest speaker, Warren F. Clayson, M.A., Red Cross director of water safety, and water expert, presented in a highly interesting manner the common sense rules which should be observed when holidaying or on/in water. Mr. Clayson said that Red Cross had been seriously concerned for some years with the number of drowning fatalities in Canada and mentioned that 431 people drowned in Ontario last year. Whilst it was difficult to assess the success of the water safety campaign in Canada, Mr. Clayson was gratifying to note that there had been a big decrease in drowning lags in the 13-19 year old age groups in recent years, more especially, more people over the age of 30 were being drowned. Quoting many examples of tragedy caused by the disregard of elementary rules, the speaker said that only one person in ten was able to swim well enough to save his own life. Lack of parental supervision was one of the biggest faults in families among young children and non-swimming youngsters who would drown whenever they were allowed to play around water fronts without proper supervision and without the projection of life saving jackets.

The speaker was thanked by John Hawkins.

QUEEN SENDS GREETINGS

OTTAWA (CP) — The Queen has sent her warm congratulations and good wishes to all ranks of the Royal Canadian Artillery on its 100th anniversary. The message was sent to Maj.-Gen. H. D. G. Brownfield, Brockville, honorary colonel commandant of the Royal Regiment of Canadian Artillery. Canadian artillerymen will celebrate the year 100th anniversary next Thursday.

The First United Nations

By Leonard L. Knott
Illustrated by David Ranson

Many, many years ago, long before the big countries of Europe, America and Asia formed the United Nations, the Iroquois Indians who hunted and fished in Canada formed a confederacy to prevent war and keep the peace.

This was the Confederacy of the Six Nations, the Mohawks, the Oneidas, the Onondogas, the Cayugas, the Setecas and the Tuscororas. They called themselves the "people of the Long House", because they lived in long timber and bark buildings, sometimes 100 feet in length with bunks along the side walls and fireplaces down the middle.

Each of the Six Nations in the Confederacy was independent and ruled itself but they all united because they knew that if they continued to wage war among themselves they would be perish. So, more than 500 years before the coming of the white man, the warring tribes listened to the warnings of one of their leaders who brought five of the tribes together and there-five later brought in the sixth.

FABULOUS FOUNDER

The Indians today tell a long and fabulous story about the founder of the Confederacy. Hiawatha was the first father to see for generations. the tale was first translated into English and put into writing by Seth Newhouse on the six Nations Reserve in Canada in 1885.

According to the Indian story, the Great Spirit sent to earth a prophet called Deganawidah to show how to live at peace. He was born among the Huron Indians on the north shore of Lake Ontario. But what is now the province of Ontario. As a boy, he heard much about the tribal wars and saw the sufferings among his people and when he was a young man he crossed the lake to the country of the Onondogas who had a tyrant called Atotarho as a chief. Atotarho's head was covered with snakes instead of hair.

Nearby in a lonely cabin an Indian who had become a cannibal, Degaswidah went to the cabin, climbed on the roof and looked down through the smoke hole. He heath him was a great open kettle into which the Indian was cooking the body of a man's to boil. As the prophet watched, the cannibal looked into the kettle and saw the face of a man looking up at him. It was Deganawidah's reflection.

The frightened cannibal thought it was a spirit; he emptied the kettle together with the bones and became a man of peace. Deganawidah climbed down from the roof to the Indian cannibal, took him as a disciple and called him Hiawatha.

Deganawidah and Hiawatha talked for many moons and then were warned by mysterious signs persuaded them that they should get together to prevent bloodshed and war. The result of their persuasion was the formation of the Five Nations, the first United Nations in the world.

ARSENIC STOLEN

HAMILTON (CP)—Three bottles of deadly arsenic tree spray were stolen Friday from in front of a service station. James Lewis said he left the bottles beside a portable spray machine and returned to the arsenic could blind or kill a person.

There's one sure way to find out, send for this HEARING AID EVALUATOR

No gadget or gimmick can ever take the place of thorough hearing aid tests, but an important feature of the hearing aid evaluator developed by the Maico Company is that it can be very helpful to the hard of hearing as a means of making a more appraisal of the type and degree of their impairment.

Characteristics of any hearing type can be determined on one side of the Rider rule, while actual courses of action for that type are given on the reverse side. Then matches up the suggested action with the user's hearing condition.

Quick and easy to use, this new calculator is something every hard of hearing person should have.

For a limited time only, the introductory price of this handy reference is yours at charge to hard of hearing persons. Fill out coupon and mail to us in an envelope. The offer is limited so act now!

Quinte Secondary School News

Diocesan Omnibus Crossbows

FIELD DAY

The annual field day was held on Saturday at Albert College. At this event, Quinte Secondary School did very well, especially the boys. They took the Junior championship and placed/ second in the Intermediate division. Worthy of special mention are Gord Aquino, Dick Pearce and the boys' relay team, Jim Green, the winner of our own harrier and second in the 5 mile run, again showed us what he is capable of doing by winning the 1 mile run.

This year Quinte Secondary School was under the handicap of not having the proper facilities for training. Next year we hope, with a new race track and other equipment that we will do even better.

COUNCIL ELECTIONS

The Students' Council held their annual elections on Friday. Nominations took place in the last week and the nominees have been busy putting posters up all around the school. Election speeches were made on Friday morning at a special assembly. Due to the fact that the voting did not take place until Monday on Friday the results will not be available till next week's issue.

KEYETTE CLUB

The Keyettes have certainly been busy this week. On Saturday they served all 6 banquet in the school cafeteria. On Wednesday they held a candy sale in the main corridor. The proceeds from this sale were given to the Students' Council. Wednesday evening the Keyettes again served at a banquet in the school cafeteria. The guests of honor were Dr. J. V. S. and Quinte Secondary School including the Keyette Club plan to hold their annual picnic at the end of June.

Quinte Secondary School held its first variety night last Friday in the school auditorium. The program for the night featured "The Masque of Aesop," a one act play presented by the Drama Club. Also on the program was a tumbling act by the girls' tumbling group under the direction of Miss Hoaun. Gary Walker, Eric Beeby and Ted Stronse formed a trio performing on the parallel bars. Ted Walker also was a soloist on the program, accompanied on the piano by Ester Juby. Last, but certainly not least was an orchestra consisting of boys from Quinte Secondary School, B.C.I.V.S. and St. Michael's. The band was their debut and they played numerous popular pieces. They played excellently and we hope to hear a great deal from them in the future. The program was a great success and everyone had a wonderful time.

Wellington on the Lake

A MAY MORNING

Oh! the sun it is so gladsome,
And the air it is so clear,
And the lure of other Springs is in its air,
Down the lane the maple blushes,
In the meadow bright with dew
Sparkle wondrous gems and jewels rare.

'Mid the dark-browed firs and cedars
There's a tint of lighter green,
Where winter trees have changed from air,
And in all the new enchantment
That is heard and felt and seen,
Is the glamour of the Springs of yesterday.

— Helen B. Anderson

WELLINGTON — This is Maytime and blossom time, with the apple-trees like big bouquets in their bloom of pink and white, and the pear tree beautiful in its bridal gown. And the tulips! What an array of color they show in scarlet, pink and gold. Truly in all the beauty of spring we can see the hand of God.

Many took advantage of the opening of the fishing season and came to Wellington to enjoy the fishing. Many boats were seen on West Lake and good catches were reported.

Mrs. C. H. Green left last week for British Columbia, where she will visit friends for some weeks.

Miss Marjorie Blakely and Mrs. H. Carley spent Monday in Bloomfield and Picton.

Miss Mary Lumb and Miss Gladys will spend a week's holiday with friends in Bowmanville and near London, Ontario.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Morton and Mrs. Alberta Smith spent a recent day in Picton.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Vandewater with Mrs. Clayton Tice motored to Desoronto on Sunday and spent the day with friends.

The sudden passing of Mrs. Charles Carter came as a shock to her many friends. Her death occurred on Sunday after removal to Trenton hospital. The funeral service was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Ainsworth Funeral Home with interment in Wellington cemetery. Sympathy is extended to the bereaved.

Mr. Billie Vandewater of the RCAF, Clinton, Ont., spent the week-end at his home here.

Mr. Ellis Durant is convalescent at his home, East Main St., after being a patient for a few days in Kingston hospital.

Mr. Stephen Vancott, Amelinburg, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Parliament, Consession St. Mr. and Mrs. Parliament and their guest called on Mrs. H. B. Anderson on Sunday afternoon.

The work of transplanting tomatoes is now finished and the women so employed are now enjoying a holiday.

OBSERVE CENTENNIAL

Plans are under way for the celebration of the centennial of the Rosemont church, which will take place on Sunday, June 12, with public service held at 2.30 p.m. with Rev. F. G. MacTavish of Bradford, in charge. On the evening following, a social will be held to complete the celebration. All are hoping for fine weather, and anticipating an inspiring service. Rev. A. Poulter is very busy with others in the preparation.

WELLINGTON W.I.

The May meeting of Wellington Women's Institute was held on Tuesday evening in the town hall. There was a fine attendance, each member having been requested to bring a guest. The president, Mrs. Ellis, was in charge. A report on her visit to Ottawa by Miss Marvin was much enjoyed. Also a report of local scenes shown by Miss Martineau were outstanding in their beauty and presentation. A social time with refreshments closed the meeting.

Rev. A. J. Edgeley, pastor of Wellington Pentecostal church, called on several residents on Thursday afternoon, delivering his program of services.

Holloway Street F.C. Enjoys Pot-Luck Supper

The Holloway Street United Church Fellowship club held its May meeting in the church parlors, with the president, Mrs. Earl White, in the chair.

The business period was ably conducted, and the ladies decided to hold the June meeting in the form of a pot-luck supper; the talent money to be turned in and a small white elephant auction to be held.

Miss M. Moorcroft, and her group, were in charge of the program and it was one of the loveliest of the year. Miss Ruth Watson gave the talk on "Formosa" that won her second place in the Lions club competition for all of Ontario and Quebec. Her winsome, youthful personality carried her listeners right along on an imaginary trip to that far-off land.

Miss Caroline Horwood delighted the audience with a piano solo, which was followed by a vocal duet by Miss Donelda Day and Mrs. Earl White.

A most delightful evening was climaxed by refreshments.

Going Places With Credit Cash Is Obsolete

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

Traveling has become somewhat like shopping in a department store; between credit cards and gouge-your-eyes plans, if you can't afford to spend for it, you can charge it.

It is almost literally possible to travel today without ready money for anything except tips and taxicabs, and in hotels you can even charge your tips. (In your home town, chances are you can even charge the taxis.)

Credit cards have come close to revolutionizing the professional traveling man's operations and have made a big dent in the vacationist's techniques. How much of the big boom in pleasure travel is owed to the expansion of credit is hard to say, but with it a travel industry pushing it hard, it must be considerable.

Whether you travel on business or pleasure, here are some of the things you can do with a wallet bulging with credit references instead of cash.

Virtually all airlines and railroads subscribe to a universal charge plan which allows you to run up a payable-monthly bill for all your transportation. If you travel on business the invoice is sent to your office and paid there; otherwise you get it at home.

Your identification is a kind of charge plate which permits your name, address, and account number to be stamped directly on your ticket.

AUTO RENTALS

The use of this type of account has been expanded recently to allow auto rentals in most cities to be charged to the same account.

Like charge accounts, there is most definitely charge account holders are treated with considerable deference by the companies.

A variation of the charge account is this field is the go-now-pay-later plan which permits you to buy a ticket for anyplace for 10 to 15 per cent down, the rest in monthly payments.

All-expense tours may also be arranged on this plan, a boon for the guy who makes his money one part of the year and takes his vacation another time.

After the business collapse of 1929, when credit was still good but checks weren't traveling — as they were known to hole up in hotels for weeks at a time until their firms laid hands on cold green cash to bail them out. The habit of charging things on the hotel bill has hung on and grown.

With or without a credit card, you can charge your room, meals, drinks, tips and almost anything else you can buy in a hotel building to your bill and either pay when you check out or have the bill sent to you if you can establish your solvency. There is considerable evidence of truth in the legend that a wealthy Texan once charged a Cadillac at the Waldorf-Astoria.

Both individual and chain hotels have credit cards which make all this easier for you and, in addition, make it possible for you to cash checks.

CHEQUE CASHING

The problem of cashing cheques in hotels, incidentally, has been somewhat overrated. Any reputable-looking guest—credit card or no—can usually get a cheque cashed, though the hotels like to deny it's something of an issue out of accommodating you before they get around to it.

To avoid embarrassment, however, it's best to have a credit card, easily obtainable on application to all hotels either for the hotel itself or the chain to which it belongs.

There is a club composed of good restaurants around the country where you may charge meals and have the bill sent to you if you get tired of eating and charging your meals in the hotel.

The two largest national car rental system have credit plans of their own.

Their agents are at most airports and railroad terminals, and in arrangements for a car at your destination can be made through local offices. Your credit card is adequate identification "but don't forget your driver's license."

It's not generally known, but the telephone companies have a universal tel call credit plan which permits you to charge long distance calls anywhere in the United States or Canada by giving the operator your account number and charge-to number. The telegraph companies in both the United States and Canada have charge plans too.

GENERAL CREDIT

There's even a credit plan for general credit. A couple of organizations, for the payment of an annual fee, give you an identification recognized by hotels and most other enterprises that come in contact with travelers, which permits you to cash cheques and otherwise establish credit with a very minimum of bother.

As a matter of fact, all credit cards are generally accepted for identification and credit establishment by any merchant-minded business.

Both commercial travelers and their employers have welcomed the expanding opportunities for charging things for bookkeeping and tax purposes as well as for the prospect of eliminating sweaty sheet cheating. A traveling man's receipts from hotels, carriers, and the others are also neatly detailed for what he spent when income tax time comes. In paying cash for meals, telephone, telegraph, and entertainment he has no receipts for collection.

(Q) "If an airline cancels one leg of a trip for which you hold several connecting and returning tickets, how do they figure your refund?

(A) You get the full one-way fare as a refund, even though that is more than you paid for that leg on the round trip fare.

Women's Activities

UNITED CHURCH WMS

The May meeting of the WMS of Foxboro United church was held at the home of Mrs. Murney Reynolds, with 15 members and 2 guests present.

Mrs. J. Daniels, program convener, opened the meeting with the worship service as found in the Missionary Monthly, using the theme for the year and the motto for the day was "Prayer". Mrs. Kilpatrick read the Scripture lesson, 2 Corinthians 18.

Mrs. Robert Darke gave a lovely solo entitled "Last Night with Mrs. H. Stewart singing "Cedar Lover of My Soul", between each verse.

Mrs. V. Simmons sang a solo "When Jesus Came Into My Heart" with Mrs. Shetler accompanying her on the piano.

Mrs. C. Bamber outlined the chapter of the study book "Work in Africa". It was interesting, and told of the life and population in Africa.

Mrs. H. Shetler gave a reading on Mother entitled "Only Mother". Mrs. Kilpatrick followed with a reading "The Duty of Mother".

Mrs. Daniels continued the readings with a piece entitled "Mother From Heaven's Gate".

The president, Mrs. C. Wilson, took charge and thanks to Mrs. Daniels for her fine program and a welcome to the visitors and new members.

Mrs. Tummon gave a fine report from the convention held at Picton. Her challenge was "Study more; give more and pray more."

Mrs. Simmons read a letter from Mrs. Cora Eggleton of Silverdale. The responsibility of the press secretary was to the WMS. It was decided that the WMS would be linked with the Week reading.

Mrs. James Reynolds gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. Kilpatrick read a paper on supply work and the responsibilities same, followed on the senior boys' Christmas Box and overseas relief, work in which the WMS is responsible.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Mrs. Reynolds for the use of her home for the meeting and her hospitality.

Mrs. Wilson closed the meeting.

Mrs. Reynolds and her assistant hostess served refreshments, a social half hour was enjoyed.

Avondale N.A. Has Full Agenda

A pot-luck supper, an evening at the County Home and the regular monthly meeting comprised the agenda of the Avondale Neighbors' Aid this week, under the direction of the president, Mrs. D. P. Carscallen.

The pot-luck supper, held at Avondale school on Monday evening, was a great success when former members and neighbors were entertained. Each member contributed to a miscellaneous program, which brought to light many hidden talents.

On Wednesday evening the Aid met at the County Home, through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. K. Yorke. A musical concert, assisted by Christ church talent, was presented for the enjoyment of the inmates. A treat of ice cream and homemade cookies brought to a close a happy evening.

Mrs. Garnet May was hostess for the afternoon meeting on Thursday. Devotional and social program were under the direction of Mesdames Fred Reid and Wetlaufer. Plans were made for the June meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Mervin Daniels. Mrs. Daniels contributed a solo "There's an Old-Fashioned Home".

Favors were won by Mesdames Fennil, Frederick, Simmons and Heath.

Refreshments served by Mesdames Frederick, Heath, Elvidge and Holmes, assisted by the hostess, concluded the meeting.

Bay of Quinte G.C.C. Has Opening Day.

Sunny skies and inviting fairways contributed in making the opening day of the season for the women's division of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club an enjoyable occasion on Thursday.

Thirty enthusiastic players were entered in the nine-hole, two-ball foursome arranged by Barbara Graham, games captain, and Monica MacDonald, her assistant.

Following golf, a delicious supper was served in the club house. Mrs. F. Carscallen, president, welcomed new and former members to a successful season together.

Barbara Graham outlined an excellent playing schedule for the members for 1955.

Barbara Graham named the winners of the two-ball foursome in the afternoon's play, 1st low gross, Dorothy Wilson and Jean Langille; 2nd low gross, Nancy Fozard and Doris Trill; putting prize, Mary Mott and Monica MacDonald.

Winners of the spoon for 1954, silver dinghy, Marie Goodwin; bronze division, Helen Garbutt.

A T HOME or at the beach there should be plenty of use for a trim Lingerie boudoir robe in white terry, cloth made with frog collar closings. It is mid-calf length, has side slits, is cut slim and has a dropped shoulder and wide-cuffed, turn-back sleeves.

Fast, Private Service

HYDRO and the Weather

The man on the pole is typical of the many Hydro employees who stand ready, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, to respond to emergency calls.

If trouble is of a minor nature service is restored promptly. Sometimes however, due to severe storms, sleet or hurricanes, trouble reaches major proportions. When this happens, crews work hard and fast, to repair wires, replace poles and burnt-out distributing equipment. This work is carried out at any hour of the day or night until service is restored, for these men appreciate that wherever wires run people depend upon electricity for most of the conveniences and comforts of modern living.

The great scope and flexibility of Ontario Hydro's province-wide operation, its resources of manpower and equipment, make it possible to cope with emergencies when they occur.

Bed-Wetting Is Big Problem

By NANCY CLEAVES

"I don't know what to do with Donnie! His crib still wets his bed at night and he is almost four!" Mrs. Johns confided in her mother.

"Have you talked it over with your doctor?"

"Yes, and he tells me not to fuss. He is sure Donnie will gradually gain bladder control. But it is such a nuisance washing extra sheets. I do wish he could keep dry all night!"

Many of the problems of children's behavior are a reflection of the competitive age in which we live. The very eagerness of a young mother for her child to be "other mothers" at an early age may have the opposite effect from that which she desires. She makes a mistake if she starts too early, before the baby is ready to respond to his schedule. The parent defeats her own purpose if she leads an unwilling youngster too often to the bathroom, or keeps him sitting on the toilet too long.

EXPECT TOO MUCH

Sometimes too much in bladder control is expected of a little child. It may be comforting to know that bed-wetting, or the problem of "enuresis" as the whole puzzles many parents. If they are worried about a child of three or older, they should consult the child's doctor.

What is the usual pattern in this field? At two years of age twenty to thirty per cent of children are not yet able to keep dry at night. At three years, seventy-five percent of little tots still have wet beds and daytime accidents, too.

Some mothers are determined that their child shall be "toilet trained" by the end of his first birthday. Often it is a surprise for them to discover that by ten months of age a year old have good bladder control.

Tight, unyielding clothing can make a child urinate at the wrong time. Many mothers have also found that pants and sleepers are comfortable and roomy.

PHYSICAL REASON

Sometimes bed-wetting is a physical reason why a child has trouble controlling his bladder. A doctor may discover that the child's fore skin is too tight. The child's urine may be causing irritation because it is too ammoniacal or acid. Pin worms or a slight physical defect may be at the root of the difficulty. To much liquid late in the day and food too often or at the wrong time should be avoided.

Has a sudden bed wetting of a child approaching school age, or of an older child has a psychological origin in his case he may not wet his bed when he is feeling neglected in order to get more attention. He may take this method of getting even with his parents for a fancied injustice.

NEEDS REASSURANCE

Usually a child is eager to cooperate. It is most unwise to punish, threaten, shame or bribe him to "keep dry." If he is tense and nervous, and discouraged, it is hard for him to make progress. He needs reassurance from him that she is confident that he will gradually gain control of his bladder.

Some parents waken a child in the evening at the same time each night and take him to the toilet. They praise him when he co-operates willingly and keeps his bed dry.

A number of mothers have stimulated their children's pride in dry bed by using a chart on their walls. Each morning when a child wakens after a "successful" night, he is given a red star to stick on the chart.

What if the child's difficulty in keeping dry has a psychological origin. It is of vital importance that he be given help not only with bladder control, but also with the fears or anxieties which are troubling him. The old Greek idea, "A sound mind in a sound body" is one which we need to remember. A deeper understanding of emotional and mental health is one of this generation's greatest needs. Bed-wetting which persists is often a symptom of an upset child.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

There have been many attempts to put the Twenty-third Psalm into verse, but none of the resulting poems has turned out quite as perfectly as this one by Sir. Henry Williams Baker, distinguished English clergyman.

He wrote it for an appendix to the popular collection of religious

THE KING OF LOVE MY SHEPHERD IS

The King of love my Shepherd is,
Whose goodness faileth never;
I nothing lack if I am His,
And He is mine forever.

Where streams of living water flow,
My ransomed soul He leadeth,
And, where the verdant pastures grow,
With food celestial feedeth.

Perverse and foolish oft I strayed;
But yet in love He sought me,
And on His shoulder gently laid,
And home, rejoicing, brought me.

In death's dark vale I fear no ill
With Thee, dear Lord, beside me;
Thy rod and staff my comfort still,
Thy cross before to guide me.

And so through all the length of days,
Thy goodness faileth never;
Good Shepherd, may I sing Thy praise
Within Thy house forever.

Mason

songs, "Hymns Ancient And Modern", in 1868. Eight years earlier, he had added the original collection.

Sir Henry, who was born in London in 1821 and graduated from Trinity College, Cambridge, in 1844, took holy orders and became vicar of Monkland, Herefordshire, in 1851. He died on Lincoln's birthday, in 1877, and the last words which his friends heard him whisper, just before he slipped away to meet his loving Shepherd were those of the third stanza of his hymn:

"Perverse and foolish, oft I strayed,
And yet in love He sought me,
And on His shoulder gently laid,
And home rejoicing brought me."

". . . my husband believes in pie for dessert. . . I have made custard and cream pies but I'm running out of ideas. . . My 2 year-old son won't eat eggs, so I like to have milk and egg desserts . . . Johnny would get the pie filling . . . my next problem is date pie. My mother-in-law likes them with the filling cooked in a saucepan, served in baked shell with heaps of whipped cream . . . have you recipe for one made in the shell with milk . . . I have trouble with matrimonial squares . . . they are always too dry and crust part too thick . . . I hope you don't mind Marianne too much.—Audrey S.

ANSWER:

I'm glad I'm so busy so that I do not have time to feel too lonesome for Marianne—I hear from her every other day. Thanks for thinking about us.

The folk ing pie filling answers all of your requirements and I think our other readers will enjoy it too.

PENNSYLVANIA CHIFFON PIE

One 8-inch baked pastry shell, 1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin, 1-2 cup cold water, 1 cup unsweetened pineapple juice, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 3-4 cup sugar, 2 egg yolks, beaten, 3 egg whites, 1-3 cup heavy cream whipped. Soak gelatin in cold water. Mix together in top of double boiler the pineapple juice and lemon juice, salt and sugar. When sugar is dissolved stir in soaked gelatin. Remove from heat and stir in beaten yolks well. Chill until partially set. Beat egg whites and fold into chilled mixture. Whip cream stiff and fold in. Pour into baked shell. Chill until ready to serve.

The date pie recipe you are referring to is

DATE CUSTARD PIE

Make a 9-inch unbaked pastry shell in deep pie plate with high fluted edge. Heat 2 cups milk with 1-4 to 1-2 cup chopped dates in top of double boiler. Beat slightly 2 large eggs with 2-4 or 1-3 cup sugar and 1-3 teaspoon salt. Pour milk and dates through sieve and force dates through. Add them to egg mix with 1 teaspoon vanilla. Pour into unbaked shell. Bake at 450 deg. Fahr. until custard is set.

MATRIMONIAL SQUARES

DATE FILLING

Mix together in saucepan 3 cups cut-up stoned dates, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 1-3 cups water and cook over low heat, stirring, until thickened. Cool.

CRUST:

Cream together 3-4 cup mixed soft shortening and butter, 1 cup brown sugar. Sift together 1 2-4 cups sifted flour, 1-2 teaspoon of soda, 1 teaspoon of salt. Stir those into creamed mixture thoroughly with 1 1-2 cups rolled oats. Press flatten one-half of this mixture into greased and floured 12x9 inch pan. Spread with cooled filling. Cover with remaining crumb mixture patting lightly. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. 25 to 30 minutes. Cut into bars while warm, then let cool.

INVITATIONS TO A SHOWER

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

I am giving a shower soon for a bride-to-be, and would appreciate so much your help on two questions.

1. Should the invitations be worded: "To meet Miss Mary Smith," or "in honor of Miss Mary Smith," or should I just write "For Miss Mary Smith?"

2. When I send out the invitations, is it correct to send one to the honoree and her mother both of whom naturally know all about the party and will be present? — J.

1. If, as I judge, you are going to write your invitations on your correct, visiting cards or informals, I suggest you write, for example, "Linen Shower for Mary Smith," then the day, date, and hour in convenient places on the card. To write "To meet Miss Mary Smith" would not be appropriate, since the guests naturally would have met her . . . and such an intimate party it would not be fitting to use the title before a name.

2. You need not send invitations to the guest of honor and her mother. But if you wish, you might send them invitations that include all the details except the fact that it is a shower. In other words, it would "make sure" for them the day, date, hour, and so forth.

THE GIVING OF THE BRIDE'S SILVER

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Our son's engagement is to be announced soon, at a dinner to be given by his fiance's parents for the members of the immediate families. My husband and I understood to give a chest of silverware. Is this proper? And would this be given to them, or should it be given to the fiancee personally? — Reader.

You do not tell me if you and your husband have already bought the chest of silverware as an engagement present. This generous and so-important present is customarily given as a wedding present, and very often the fiancee's parents are the ones who plan to give this wedding present. Therefore, I am concerned about how about your plans: In other words, are you sure that you and the fiancee's parents are not planning to give this present . . . and you must consult with your son and his fiancee as to the silver pattern they have chosen or are considering.

SHOULD SHE THROW THE SMALL BOUQUET?

Dear Mrs. Beechman

At my wedding I am not carrying a bridal bouquet. Instead I am carrying a prayer book with a small bouquet on it. Do I keep this small bouquet to wear with my going-away costume, or do I throw it to the girls as I leave my reception? — M.

Do just as you wish about this. You need not, of course, throw any bouquet . . . but if you'd like to, and your bridegroom would like to give you a going-away corsage as well as the small bouquet to be carried with your prayer book, then you can have the happiness of following the tradition of throwing the small bouquet.

SHOWER FOR MOTHER-TO-BE IN GERMANY

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

My sister is in Germany, where her husband is stationed. They are expecting their first child soon. I would like to know if it would be proper to have a baby shower for her. — Sister

It wouldn't be proper for you to give the shower for her, since it isn't considered proper, good taste, for a member of the family to give a shower. If a group of your sister's intimate friends would like to give a shower for their friend, the absentee mother-to-be, this would be a proper and thoughtful gesture.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

ANSWERS TO MAKE-UP RIDDLES

There was a time, back in the days when make-up was first becoming respectable, when women used only white powder and carmine rouge—and thought they had achieved beauty miracles. Oldimers, who now display beautiful complexions with the aid of modern cosmetics, say that make-up was a simpler matter then, but most women looked terrible.

Now we have subtle gradiation in shades of powder, rouge, lipstick and eye shadow. But there are so many of them that the shopper is confused and bewildered. How can she be sure that her selections are the best for her?

The wise step is to patronize a make-up bar and get professional help.

If you still have youthful coloring, the expert will select a powder from a fluffy or sheer base for you. If you have a Dresden-china skin she will suggest a light, deep rose powder and a harmonizing tone of rouge.

Many blondes have skin with a golden cast, so the flesh-tint is not their best beauty bet. A blend of pink and peach is better. Rouge and lipstick should be orange-red to give that will give the flesh a greenish cast which is worse than a sallow skin. Even a brunette will not respond to bleaches. It calls for dietary changes — more fruit, fresh juices, vegetables, green salad before breakfast is also recommended.

When making yourself a new face, be stingy with the materials but generous that they are exquisitely blended.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

SHUT-IN, AND EARNS HER LIVING FROM A WHEELCHAIR

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I would like to say something about that woman who wrote to you and was feeling so sorry for herself because she said she was "too old at 20" to find a job. I felt about her just like the other woman who wrote to you about the same woman, and who said she herself had had to get work at 30 and is a success at it.

Recently I got a letter from a friend who is now a widow and hasn't even one living relative. She injured her leg, neglected it and finally had to have five operations on it, each time losing a little more of the leg.

Now, although she is in a wheelchair, and is 61 years old, she gets room, board and wages for looking after the care of six rooms and two baths, doing the washing and ironing, the cooking and general housework, all from the wheelchair. She is glad to have the job to do, and wants no charity or relief.

She and I belong to about 10 clubs, and have been corresponding since 1940, in addition to her own handicap, she has also had to learn to care for up to two years ago.

I hope you will print this for that 50-year-old woman to read so she can hear about a woman who, at 61, doesn't think she is too old. That is real courage. — A.H.

Dear A.H.:

Thank you so much for writing me this story, which I am very happy indeed to pass along to that 50-year-old woman, but to all my readers. For everyone of us can be inspired to live our own lives with greater courage when we hear about those like this.

It was good of you to be so thoughtful as to write me, and I appreciate it.

SHALL SHE OBEY HER MOTHER—OR "SNEAK AWAY"?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 18, and my mother feels I am to young to smoke and should wait until I am 21.

Most of my friends at school smoke, and many of them are much younger than I am. In makeup we feel out of place when I attend parties because all the other girls smoke.

Do you think I should take my mother's advice, or should I smoke it? — Tonna

Dear Tonna:

Well, now, really! Do you imagine for one minute that I would advise you to "sneak" anything behind your mother's back, so please don't even think, though I might believe that a parent was not quite reasonable in refusing to allow a son or daughter to do some good judgment, specific thing. I would never feel that to go ahead and do it anyhow was the proper solution of the problem. You should know better than to ask such a question.

And I just happen that I think your mother is entirely right. In fact, I think she takes a very liberal point of view being willing to have you smoke at 18. Personally, I feel very strongly indeed when I see teen-age girls trying to look adult and sophisticated by puffing away.

If all the friends of your own age smoke, then I think it is most unfortunate, and that it would be well if you could have enough common sense to be independent. For a girl your age to smoke is neither beautiful or appropriate, and if you do as your mother wishes, you would show that you are a girl of good judgment.

13 Public Schools Participate In Rawdon Music Festival

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

RAWDON — Stirling Theatre was filled to capacity Tuesday evening when 13 public schools in Rawdon township participated in the music festival.

Beautiful baskets of mauve lilacs and red tulips were placed on the stage and piano.

Miss Ruth Mumby made her first appearance as a music supervisor at the festival, with eight schools, Miss Grace Pitman had four schools and Mrs. Lorne Watson one school.

The inspector, Mr. G. W. Nelson, was chairman and spoke briefly about music in general.

The program, which opened at 8.30 p.m. lasted over two hours.

The first school was the junior room of S.S. No. 20, Springbrook, with Mrs. Joe Thompson teacher and Miss Grace Pitman, music supervisor. The group sang two numbers in unison "Prayer" and "The Clock." The girls gave "The Robin's Song" and the boys "Dapple Gray." There were two motion songs, "Three Kittens" and "When I Am Big," also a singing game, "Looby Loo."

MINTO SCHOOL

The second group was Minto School, No. 19, with Miss Joyce Sterring as teacher, and Miss Ruth Mumby music supervisor. They sang in unison "Two Little Roses," and the juniors gave "The Dreamland," and gave a two-part song, "Long Long Ago."

Harold Saries contributed a piano solo, while Joe Hagerman, Glenn Hagerman and Grant Hagerman sang a trio, "The Lord is Counting on You."

The third group was Harold S.S. No. 13, with Mr. Edgar Graham as teacher and Miss Ruth Mumby, music supervisor. They sang in unison "The Doctor," and the juniors rendered "When I Am Me" and a two-part song, "Valice." Miss Donalda Heath sang "My Secret."

SINE SCHOOL

The fourth group was Sine School, No. 6, Mrs. Clayton Tutmon teacher and Miss Grace Pitman music supervisor. The juniors sang "Children Go To and Fro," and "Big Bunny Rabbit"; the girls in unison, "Gay Little Festival Girls" and the boys in unison, "Young Musician"; girls' two-part, "Welcome to Spring" and seniors, three-part, "Sleepy Time."

The fifth group was Wellman's, S.S. No. 8, with Mrs. Steve Armstrong teacher and Mrs. Lorne Watson music supervisor. Grades 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 sang a couple of two-part songs, "The Lord is My Shepherd" and "Shades of Evening" and a three-part song "Now the Day is Over."

The sixth group was a combination of two small sections, the Brown School, S.S. No. 11, with Mrs. John Wallace as teacher and the Red school, S.S. No. 6, Huntingdon, with Mr. Douglas Radnor teacher and Miss Ruth Mumby music supervisor at both schools.

The group sang two choruses in unison, "Elijah" and "Open Up Your Heart," with another chorus, "Snow." The girls sang "Six Little Mermaids"; John Haggerty sang "The Red School" and "In the Little Red School House." Solo parts were rendered by Elliott Morgan and Haggerty children of the Red School section.

Shirley Carter and Wayne Carter, of Thomasburg, contributed solos.

RAWDON S.S. 13

The seventh group, S.S. No. 13, Rawdon, Mrs. Murray Meiklejohn teacher and Miss Ruth Mumby music supervisor. They gave a unison chorus, "Dreams"; a three-part song, "Marines' Hymn"; four girls, Donna Morton, Dorothy Morton, Anne Reid and Norma Petherick, sang as a quartet "Whispering Hope."

The eighth group, S.S. No. 17, Smart School, Miss Enid Coombes teacher and Miss Ruth Mumby, music supervisor. They gave a couple of two-part songs, "O Worship the King" and "Island of Dreams," and sang in unison, "The Young Musician." The juniors gave "Three Blanda a Little Man."

The ninth group, Bonarlaw School, Mrs. George Williams teacher and Miss Grace Pitman music supervisor. Grades 1, 2 and 3 gave "Bunny Rabbit," and "Playing Ball"; Grades 4 and 5, "Barnyard Song"; girls in unison "The Circus" and boys in unison "Rosemary"; girls' three-part, "All Through the Night" and the seniors' three-part, "Now the Day is Over."

The tenth group, Fourth Line School, S.S. No. 7, Mrs. Gladys Sine teacher and Miss Ruth Mumby music supervisor. They sang in unison, "Calsons Go Rolling By"; girls in unison "Campstown Races"; boys in unison "I've Been Working on the Railroad," and the rhythm band, all in costume, a colorful presentation, gave "Our Director."

The eleventh group, S.S. No. 14, Rawdon, Mrs. W. McInroy teacher, and Miss Ruth Mumby, music supervisor, gave a mixed chorus, "Old Folks at Home," and a two-part song, "In the Evening by the Moonlight." The girls sang a two-part selection, "The Lorelei."

SPRINGBROOK

The twelfth group, S.S. No. 20, Springbrook senior room, A. Wagg teacher and Miss Grace Pitman, music supervisor — a two-part song, "O Worship the King," and a three-part selection, "A Spring Song." Girls' quartet, "Do You Know," and boys' two-part "Winter Goodbye."

The thirteenth group was S.S. No. 1, Ridge Road, Mrs. Albert Wells teacher and Miss Ruth Mumby music supervisor. They sang in unison "Psalms" and a two-part song, "Forty-Second Psalm."

Following this, S.S. No. 17, Smart School joined Ridge Road S.S. No. 1, and they sang a three-part song "Now the Day is Over."

At the intermission period it was decided that the balance of money left over from paying expenses would be given on behalf of the Rawdon schools to the Stirling Rotary Club for their Charles Hamilton Fund.

PRESENTATIONS MADE

At the close of the festival, three small girls presented the three music supervisors, Miss Pitman, Miss Mumby and Mrs. Watson each with a rose corsage. Each recipient spoke briefly and voiced thanks to teachers and parents.

Two Rawdon schools, Williams S.S. No. 4 and Allan S.S. No. 3, in the Mount Pleasant community, did not take part in the festival.

Student Upheld In Rejecting $400,000 Fortune

NEW YORK (AP) — A court Thursday upheld the right of Eugene F. Suter Jr., 22, a Yale University student, to reject a $400,000 fortune left to him by his father.

He has said acceptance of the bequest would violate his moral and political principles.

Surrogate William T. Collins ruled that Suter's "insistence that as a member of a free society with a freedom of choice, he cannot be yoked by this inheritance against his will, is supported by law."

Two lawyers named as trustees of the estate had petitioned Surrogates Court to compel the youth to accept. They said, if he did not, it would destroy the trust.

The surrogate noted that institutions have been known to spurn gifts they deemed hostile to their purposes, and said an individual had the same right. Collins said the court was not concerned with the wisdom, ethics or motivation of Suter's renunciation but with its legality.

Fishing Experts To Study Results Of Experiments

SUDBURY (CP)—Fifteen fishing experts are meeting this week on Manitoulin island to study the results of experiments being carried out at South Bay Mouth.

This experimental project was launched eight years ago by the Ontario department of lands and forests. It is hoped that results obtained will eventually lead to a new procedure in fish management.

Those attending the discussions, from as far away as the Northwest Territories and Newfoundland, are being instructed by officials of the department of fisheries, the department of national health and welfare and the fisheries research board of Canada.

Headquarters for the main study is the South Bay laboratory of the Ontario department of lands and forests, fishery research centre for the world's largest freshwater island.

Tone Down Colors

DETROIT (CP)—Top automotive experts forecast today that two and three-tone color schemes will continue in vogue on next year's automobiles, but the garish reds, yellows and purples will be toned down.

Women object to some of the bright exteriors because they have too much trouble matching their clothes to the car, they said.

Rawdon

RAWDON — Mr. and Mrs. C. Potts entertained on Mother's Day Mr. and Mrs. Will-Potts, Mr. and Mrs. Irvine Potts, Pinny Street, Mount Pleasant; Mrs. Sam Craig, Ottawa; Mr. and Mrs. Mac Remington and Ted, Oshawa. Growers Expect to Plant Same Acreage as Last Year

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

A wet cold spring has delayed seeding almost everywhere in Canada except in New Brunswick, Ontario and Alberta.

However, a Canadian Press survey this week showed that, despite setbacks from the weather, growers expect to plant about the same acreage this year as last—and hope for a good harvest.

Even recent floods in Saskatchewan did little to dampen farmers' hopes about grain prospects, although they left much land under water and helped delay seeding in other sections two to three weeks. Agricultural experts said there still are reasonable hopes for a good crop this year if warm dry weather holds.

By mid-May it was estimated that about 30 per cent of Saskatchewan's wheat acreage and five per cent of the oats and barley had been seeded. It was expected the wheat acreage planted would be about 80 per cent of last year's 13,540,000. The 1954 Saskatchewan wheat crop, smallest in 11 years, was 163,000,000 bushels, compared with 375,000,000 bushels in 1953.

The Saskatchewan government estimated 1,460,000 acres flooded in 37 areas this spring. About 1,180 acres of crop-producing land affected by floods in 1954 escaped. Provincial officials estimated it will cost $4,643,270 to drain the land still under water and they asked the federal government to pay 75 per cent of the cost.

Elsewhere on the prairies the picture is brighter.

The Alberta agriculture department had no figures for acreage seeded up to May 15 but said seeding generally was ahead of this time last year. Farmers there were expected to plant more than 6,000,000 acres of wheat this year, two per cent more than in 1954.

In Manitoba, where excessive moisture delayed seeding, the growers plan to sow 2,015,000 acres of wheat this spring, about 30,000 less than last year, but to increase their acreage of oats, barley and flax.

Seeding in British Columbia is two weeks late but crop prospects are good given favorable weather conditions. Total grain acreage in the province is about 250,000, down from last in hay and clover. Spring wheat acreage is increased this spring to 85,800 from last year's 81,400.

Prairie came through the winter "extremely well" in Ontario with only a small amount of winter killing and a good yield is expected. Winter wheat acreage dropped to 640,000 this year from 710,000 in 1954, flue-cured tobacco to 90,000 from 118,000, and barley looked on to 4,500 from 4,800. Fruit blossoms are about two weeks ahead of schedule and yields are expected to be heavy.

Weather and fields held up grain seeding in most of Quebec, as was the case last year. Acreage was not as good as last year because heavy fall rains prevented fall plowing. Hay crop acreage sown in 1954 was 21,300,000.

Little information is available from New Brunswick but the main crop of potatoes is expected to be about the same as last year. Seeding is a little ahead of schedule. Cool, wet weather has experienced a cold spring and seeding was delayed some for a few acres of potatoes, turnips, small fruits and vegetables.

Nova Scotians expect no change in acreages this year although there may be a "slight downward swing" in potatoes as a result of strengthened prices. Apple growers are grooming their orchards ravaged by hurricane Edna last September, and are hoping for a 3,000,000-bushel crop.

Farmers in Newfoundland have not started seeding yet and do not expect to do so for several weeks. The ground is soaked and snow remains in some places.

OPP Inspector Passes 30-Year Mark in Service

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — Inspector J. W. (Jack) Reavley retired today after 30-years' service as a member of the Ontario Provincial Police.

He is one of 10 men to share this distinction and even has two more years in service than Commissioner E. V. McNeill.

Inspector Reavley directs the operation of district 11 with headquarters in Cornwall. The area covers the counties of Stormont, Glengarry, Dundas, Carleton, Prescott and Russell.

He entered the force in 1925, 18 years after its formation in 1909, when it numbered fewer than 100 men. There are now more than 1,300.

His first posting was to Cobalt. During the next 20 years he covered most of northern and northwestern Ontario. The force used flimsy flat-bottom boats travelling in the North in those days.

He was then moved to southern Ontario and was stationed at Toronto, Toronto, Arnprior and Perth. His wife was district nurse at Perth. When promoted to inspector he was transferred to command this district.

Inspector Reavley was born in Eglington, Ont., and served in the First World War with the Royal Garrison Artillery. He is married and has a son.

International Commerce Body Wants Tariff Pact Ratified

By FORBES REUDE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Canadian Press Business Editor

TOKYO (CP)—The International Chamber of Commerce today urged speedy ratification by the 34 countries concerned of a General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade drawn up at Geneva this year.

The Canadian resolution was presented in a general meeting on free trade for world prosperity at which R. C. Berkinshaw, president of the Canadian delegation, was chairman.

Rolf von Heidenstam of Sweden, former president of the ICC, seconded the resolution which was further supported by speakers from Britain, the United States, India, Japan and Indonesia. Adoption was the unanimous decision.

The resolution said the chamber welcomes the revision of GATT and the proposed creation of a new organization for trade co-operation. It called upon the governments of all contracting parties to; give effect to the new agreement with the least possible delay; ratify the agreement for establishing an organization for trade co-operation generally to make every effort to ensure effective application of the

A statement from the Canadian delegation outlined the Canadian view in greater detail. It expressed regret that the contracting parties should have limited the general application of multilateral trade rules by according special exemption for protecting agricultural products.

The statement said the Canadian council favors all positive revisions which tend to strengthen GATT and broaden its effectiveness and was encouraged by the fact that many of the new provisions were in line with views advocated by the ICC.

The Canadian council urged all national committees of the ICC to impress upon their governments the urgency of ratifying and adhering to the provisions of GATT and of an agreement establishing an organization of trade co-operation. It asked the national committees to maintain a close watch on the carrying out of the agreement.

Friday, highlighted by the presentation and acceptance of the Canadian resolution, was Canada's biggest day of the congress in which other delegates had taken more prominent part than in any previous congress.

At the same time Berkinshaw was presiding over the trade meeting, G. C. Bourne, chief of steel was acting as chairman of a meeting on fair competition as a factor in industrial and commercial progress.

Bourne longer feared McCarthy.

Comic say the turning point came with the long-drawn army hearings of a year ago. They suggest that this investigation, played on television, exposed to public view McCarthy's rough-house tactics in examining witnesses and offended the public sense of fair play. The Senate censure, these sources say, was a reflection of this turn in public feeling.

Another theory is that people finally became fed-up with McCarthy and his activities.

Recently, McCarthy lambasted President Eisenhower on a domestic issue. The story, good headline material a year ago, wound up in the back columns of most newspapers.

Time, Shift in Political Winds Pushes McCarthy Into Twilight

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (CP)—Time, and a shift in the political winds, have pushed Senator Joseph McCarthy into the background as a crusader for Communists into the political twilight.

Just a year ago, the finger-pointing figure of the burly Wisconsin Red-hunter dominated the U.S. political scene. You rarely picked up a newspaper—Canadian or American—without finding the McCarthy charge spattered across the front page. On TV, the spectacle of his investigations seemed to grind on endlessly.

Today, McCarthyism is a dead issue. If McCarthy makes a speech, there is not you'll find it back among the want ads. Television, too, has managed to thrive without the drawing power of the McCarthy showpieces.

Other Republican and other issues have risen to shove McCarthy from the political stage.

DECISIVE FACTORS

Opinions here differ as to the factors that have brought the decline of McCarthy and his "item" but two seem to stand out as decisive—the Democratic sentimental action and a censure of McCarthy by his fellow-members of the United States Senate.

The election result, which the Democrats regained control of Congress from the Republicans, deposed Senator McCarthy, a Republican, of the chairmanship of the investigations sub-committee which he used as a vehicle for his search for reds in government, the army and industry.

By American political tradition, the chairmanship went to Senator John L. McClellan; the senior Democrat on the committee, and McCarthy lost his power to select the committee staff, call witnesses and generally determine the direction of the committee's activities.

The Senate censure was equally potent. It was a formal rebuke of a contemptuous attitude toward the Senate and its committees, of using abusive language about fellow-senators and "inexcusable" treatment of a brigadier-general called before him as a witness.

DEEP RESPECT

The American people, however they may de-babor politicians, have a deep-seated respect for Congress and its works. The device of Senatorial courtesy, though it amounts simply to a public rebuke and removes none of the senatorial privileges, is a greatly influence public opinion. Perhaps more important, says some Washington observers, was the effect of the censure on other congressmen. They no longer feared McCarthy.

Performing Rights Society Makes Charges of Insincerity

OTTAWA (CP)—A Canadian performing rights society Thursday termed as not "sincere" the allegations by private Canadian radio stations that all the musical compositions on which it claims performing-rights fees are not registered.

W.S. Low of Toronto, general manager of the Composers, Authors and Publishers' Association of Canada, was arguing the copyright-holders' case before the royal commission on patents, copyrights, trade marks and industrial designs.

The Canadian Association of Radio and Television Broadcasters, in a 12,000-word brief, had said radio stations never knew who to would be claiming fees for performances because there was no handy way of finding out who held the rights. CARTB claimed stations could use "pirated" property for copyright expenses.

Mr. Low said: "There is not, in the whole history of CAPAC, a single case of a claim upon, or a remonstrance to, a single user in respect of a single musical work the copyright of which was not registered in Ottawa."

The copyright office, he said, has 300,000 CAPAC registrations.

He said the CARTB's contention, made Wednesday by Fred T. Allard, executive vice-president, that if its members did not have to pay so much in performing-rights fees they would have so much more money to spend on developing Canadian talent, constituted "lip-service" to that idea.

He said CARTB is a principal supporter of the Musical Protective Society of Canada.

"The society," he said, "has been known to refuse to promote or encourage the development of Canadian music, nor to participate in the promotion of any music, Canadian or otherwise."

Tariff on Canned Mixed Fruit May Be Doubled by Board

OTTAWA (CP) — The tariff on canned mixed fruit may be doubled to two cents a pound in a government move to protect Canada's fruit industry against low-priced imports from the United States.

It was learned here Thursday that Canadian tariff negotiators are discussing a higher tariff on the U.S. products with their American counterparts at Geneva. The U.S. must agree to an increase in the trade since the existing rate is provided under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The government, it is understood, believes the rate should be two cents because the mixed fruit is mostly peaches. The tariff on peaches is two cents a pound.

BOOSTED RATE

Following representations by the Canadian Horticultural Council and the Canadian Food Processors Association, the revenue department boosted the rate to 2½ cents a pound by classifying mixed fruit as peaches. The rate was in effect for about two years and was reduced to one cent by the tariff board a year ago.

The Horticultural Council and the association took the board's decision to the Exchequer Court but the case was thrown out. They also failed in an attempt to have the case reopened by the Supreme Court of Canada.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre) tried in the Commons Thursday to obtain a government statement on the Geneva talks. However, he was told that tariff negotiations are not. Finance Minister Harris declined to say whether the fruit item is being discussed. Revenue Minister McCann said $50,000 had been refunded to importers who had paid the higher-rate during the last two years.

ONE WOUNDED, ONE DEAD, SUSPECT HUNTED AFTER TORONTO BANK HOLD-UP

Opposition Attacks Road Program of Frost Government; Premier Frost Answers Critics

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ontario's CCF leader looks on the Progressive Conservative government's highway reserve fund as a "regular spot to get rid of new barrassing surpluses."

It also has "become a multi-million dollar pork barrel for vote-catching road construction," Donald C. MacDonald said Friday night in a campaign speech for the June 9 Ontario general election.

Mr. MacDonald, making his first bid for a seat in the legislature, returned to his home riding of York South to attack what he called the government's "double budgeting."

He said it is an open invitation to the abuse of public revenues.

Meanwhile, Premier Frost and Liberal Leader Farquhar Oliver, mired at each other in their campaign speeches.

CLAIMS WORST

Mr. Oliver said at Barrie that the last Progressive Conservative government was the worst administration the province ever had.

The 59-year-old premier took Mr. Oliver to task, for remarks that Mr. Frost was buying votes with promises of new roads. Mr. Frost said he merely told the people what projects were "on the drafting boards" and already in "stages of progress."

Only 31 persons were on hand at Toronto to hear Mr. MacDonald accuse the government of setting up a highway reserve fund into which "tens of millions of dollars" are put aside each year. He said:

"After trying to dispose of embarrassingly large surpluses for years, the government fell upon a new technique. Sometimes the money is spent on capital expenditure; sometimes on maintenance. But this double budgeting arrangement is an open defiance of all accountancy rules.

PREMIER'S TOUR

"This is the kind of fund Premier Frost can fall back on in his current tour across the province where, in every riding, he assures the people to begin with that he is making no promises . . . yet he rarely leaves a riding without promising them some project or other soon not to say when."

The CCF head said more than $90,000,000 was voted in supplementary estimates this year.

Officials blamed the low attendance figure on the holiday weekend. The South seat election was represented in the last legislature by William Beech, a Progressive Conservative.

Mr. Oliver spoke to 50 persons at a lunch meeting at Simcoe Centre and Simcoe East ridings. Part of his speech was broadcast by Barrie radio station CKBB. The Liberal leader criticized Mr. Frost's claim that his government was the best in the province's history.

ATTACKS WASTE

There has been "inefficiency and waste all along the line in the present administration," Mr. Oliver added. He cited particularly at the highways department, which he said has spent $90,000,000 to $100,000 in one decision alone.

The Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission was spending more than $500,000,000 on construction in northern Ontario for a 60-cycle power. The original estimate for the conversion had been $121,000,000.

He said that in every consecutive year the government has disregarded the best ethics of good administration. In municipal affairs the province had never had a government that so disregarded the financial needs of the municipalities.

He wondered at what he called the audacity of the Progressive Conservatives in asking for another government than G. W. Ross, premier from 1899 to 1905, Ernest Charles Drury, premier from 1919 to 1923 and Mitchell Hepburn, premier from 1934 to 1942.

WINDS UP CAMPAIGN

Mr. Oliver wound up a 2,000-mile campaign tour of northern Ontario in attending a tea at Orillia.

At Shelburne, a community 50 miles southwest of Toronto, Mr. Frost said changes in federal legislation which would strengthen the province's position in farm marketing legislation are being considered. Provincial representation he added, is the best in Canada.

"Difficulties have been largely brought about by the uncertainty of federal and provincial powers," he clarify this we placed the matter on the program of the federal-provincial conference."

It was at Kincardine, 50 miles west of Shelburne, that Mr. Frost attacked a statement by Mr. Oliver, who was quoted as saying the province "belongs to Sudbury and Algoma-Manitoulin and sought to buy votes with promises."

The premier commented:

"What I have told the people in the communities I have visited is of work actually on the drafting boards of the province and already in stages of progress."

Manufacturers To Hear Talks On Economics

TORONTO — An internationally-known authority on industrial relations and economics will present Canada's industrial leaders with some aspects of maintaining a high level of employment.

Professor Leo Wolman, Ph.D., Columbia University economist and a member of the research staff of the U.S. National Bureau of Economic Research, will address the annual meeting of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association at Montreal, May 27, closing day of the three-day convention.

Other top speakers scheduled to address the more than 1,500 members of "Canada's Partnership of Industry" include Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Trade and Commerce and Minister of Defence Production; M. S. Fotheringham, president and general manager of Steep Rock Iron Mines Limited, Atikokan, Ontario; Lord Brand, G.M., P.C., K.B.E., F.R.C.P., Master of Trinity College, Cambridge, and A. A. Calder, vice-president and treasurer, Imperial Tobacco Co., of Canada, C.M.A., president, who will deliver his presidential address at dinner, May 24.

Theme of this year's annual general meeting is "Industry and Economic Canada's Economy."

A slate of almost 40 speakers will participate in six conferences dealing with employer-employee relations, transportation, public relations, sales, trade and economic progress, management development and scientific research and industrial design.

Key Witness In Hearing Has Disappeared

KITCHENER (CP) — A disappearing witness threw a stir at labor relations board hearing here Friday.

The board met to consider the application for certification of Kitchener-Waterloo Hospital (Ind.) as bargaining agent for employees of Standard Television Products Ltd.

Ross Russell, union organizer, said after the noon recess in the hearing had left home Friday morning for the hearing and hadn't been seen since. He suggested the witness, Clifford Miller, might have been taken by a group of town.

Walter Lucas, Kitchener representative of the union, said he had subpoenaed Miller with a subpoena after several visits to his home.

The board heard five union witnesses during the morning session.

The employees said they had been laid off by the company and had not been called back despite seniority rights, and employees with less seniority have been filling their jobs.

The hearing is continuing.

Dismissal Approved

HAMILTON (CP)—Dismissal of Anthony Hamilton police constables Friday was approved by the city's police commission.

The commission said Gene Lisabeth and Jack Turner were fired for discreditable conduct, neglect of duty and failing to report an incident. The constables appealed the commission's findings.

KICKED IN HEAD

HAMILTON (CP)—Two youths Friday were sentenced to a month in jail each for kicking a man in the head in a brawl over a girl. They were Robert Pritchard and Lucien Kowalewski. The victim testified he was kicked at least 20 times in the head by his two companions.

cludes "health and hospital insurance, which would certainly cost $200,000,000 annually, with other promises would add up to at least $275,000,000."

He said Mr. Oliver was proposing to add $275,000,000 to the provincial budget but refused to tax.

"What else can this be than advancing preposterous and impossible promises for the purpose of gaining votes?"

Mr. MacDonald is idle tonight but the premier and Mr. Oliver are on campaigning engagement. Mr. Frost will be at Gravenhurst and Mr. Oliver will visit Arthur and Mount Forest in western Ontario.

Wounded by a bullet that passed through his body, Lloyd Simpson, above, is in Toronto hospital, a suspect in the city's bank robbery that brought death to Allan Hannan, a bank liabilities officer. Simpson was found in a flat occupied by him and his sister-in-law, who is being held for questioning. He was traced through the aid of a passerby at the bank holdup who saw the get-away car damage a fence and who then took the car licence number. (Central Press Canadian).

These are the two guns which were fired in the holdup. Bank Manager Davidson fired the revolver, one of the bandits fired the shotgun in a west-end apartment and said they identified two pieces of gun barrel which had been removed. (Central Press Canadian).

Knowles Says Move Is Not Aimed Against Dr. McCann

OTTAWA (CP)—A CCF member who believes cabinet ministers who have a full-time job says he isn't necessarily hitting at Revenue Minister McCann in proposing that federal ministers be prohibited from being directors of companies.

Stanley Knowles, Winnipeg North Centre, told the Commons Friday, however, that he does not deny that the Dempsey political case in Ontario helped him decide to introduce a bill this session which would make his belief law.

Mr. Knowles introduced the legislation after James Dempsey, Progressive Conservative member of the Ontario legislature for Renfrew South, lost the endorsation of Premier Frost after reporting contributions of $6,800 to his 1951 election campaign.

Dr. McCann is reported to have told Mr. Frost about the reported funds during the federal-provincial fiscal conference here.

Dr. McCann, Liberal member for Renfrew South, is a director of Guaranty Trust Co., which handled the estate of the late John Drohan, a wealthy lumberman who gave Mr. Dempsey the unreported funds.

Mr. Knowles did not mention Dr. McCann by name, but said:

"It would be useless for me to deny, even if I wanted to, that recent events have played some part in my bringing this legislation before the House of Commons at the present time. Nevertheless, my interest is not in any particular personality that might be involved but rather in a principle which has concerned this Parliament and other Parliaments for a great many years."

He said his interest is one of long standing and dates back to 1942 when he entered this House and learned that ministers could be directors of companies. Since then he had made several attempts to suggest indirectly that the practice should be stopped.

Mr. Knowles said the question had been discussed in the Commons in 1921 and 1927. A bill was introduced in 1921 by a Liberal, A. R. McMaster, to ban the practice and he followed this up with a resolution in 1922.

The 1922 bill, he said, was introduced when Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen was prime minister of Canada and the late Rt. Hon W. L. Mackenzie King was leader of the opposition.

Mr. King supported Mr. McMaster's bill but it was voted down by the Conservatives, Mr. Knowles said. The late Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, former justice minister and father of Veterans Affairs Minister Lapointe, had voted with Mr. King.

But when Mr. McMaster introduced his resolution in 1922 the Liberals had been elected and Mr. King was prime minister. The Liberals, including Mr. King and Mr. Lapointe, voted against the resolution.

"Mr. King had quite a time, as one would imagine, trying to explain why he took a different position in 1922 from that which he had taken in 1921," Mr. Knowles said.

The gist of his argument was that he now was prime minister, that he now had about him some men who had had great confidence, and he just felt differently about the matter."

Hopes Swing Is Indication Of National Trend

SMITHVILLE, Ont. (CP) — The swing away from the Liberal party in this district, since the late Rt. Hon. Drew Eyidgr night, is what he hopes is an indication of a national trend.

He said he remembers very well when about 1941 when only 17 of the 90 members in the Ontario legislature were Conservatives. When the legislature prorogued for the June 9 provincial election this year the Progressive Conservatives held 79 of the 90 seats, Liberals 16, CCF 2, Liberal-Labor 1, Labor-Progressive (Communist) 1 and 2 were vacant.

Mr. Drew, who was premier of Ontario before he took over the federal leadership of the party, spoke to a nomination meeting that selected W. E. Johnston as Progressive Conservative candidate for Carleton constituency.

Manager of the bank, William Davidson, ran for a gun when two holdup men demanded money. He fired several shots, one of which may have been responsible for the death of Hannan. In the men's get away, Davidson, having fired five shots, hurled the empty revolver at the car.

Two women are being held for questioning in the holdup case. Police say a car was rented for the escape after the holdup. They were arrested in the car and taken to police headquarters for questioning. A second man is being sought by police, Arthur Aronson, 23, who police believe was Simpson's accomplice. (Central Press Canadian).

Took Drugs for Forty Years, Habit Made Him 'Untouchable'

OTTAWA (CP)-A former addict who took drugs for 40 of his 44 years told the Senate committee on narcotics Friday that the habit made him "an untouchable . . . like a king with tusks that drags kids into caves."

The man said that because he was given help, he managed to break away from the habit three years ago.

"I mop floors and I go to church and I enjoy things that I missed for years and I'm reasonably happy," he said. "The same can be true for hundreds like me if they get help."

The committee also heard prison officials, police officers and church representatives. Addicts were unanimous in saying that jail isn't the answer to the addiction problem but police witnesses disagreed.

Assistant commissioner G. B. McCraken of the RCMP said indefinite sentences for jail addicts would wipe out the addiction problem in Canada. He said 90 per cent of the addiction in Ontario is centered in Toronto, where there are about 600 addicts.

Police chief constable John Chisholm said he could not agree with commissioner McClellan about long-term imprisonment.

He said, however, that imprisonment provided safety for society. It was a deterrent to potential addicts and provided an opportunity for effected cures.

Chief Chisholm favored some form of follow-up treatment for addicts who have spent some time in a correctional institution.

Representatives of the Elizabeth Fry Society, the John Howard Society and the Salvation Army sided with the addicts in pleading for sympathy, understanding and scientific treatment.

Lt.-Col. E. T. Waterson, social service secretary for the Salvation Army in Canada, said the problem is essentially a moral one and can only be solved through moral reformation.

On the question of the need for research there was complete agreement. Witnesses maintained that federal and provincial governments should implement a large-scale program of research into the nature and cure of drug addiction.

Doctors who use their preferred status to profit from the misfortunes of addicts were criticized.

One former addict said he had purchased heroin from a general practitioner and handled the payments "just like grocery bills."

Norman Mathews, a former special commissioner for the health department, said laws permitting doctors convicted of peddling to carry on with $200 fines should be tightened.

One former addict described drug pushers as the "scum of the earth" and urged that sentences for known and convicted pedlars be stiffened.

The Ontario committee headed by Senator Thomas Reid, of British Columbia, has conducted hearings in three cities—Ottawa, Vancouver, and Toronto. Next week it will go to Montreal. The committee, which began in March, will not likely be finished until late this year.

Foreign Policy Not Major Issue in British Election; Domestic Issues Swing Votes

BY FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON (Reuters) — Britons vote Thursday in the general election called shortly after Sir Winston Churchill stepped down as prime minister. Based on past showing, more than 28,000,000 of 35,000,000 eligible voters will choose the 630 men and women who will make up the new House of Commons.

In most constituencies, they face a simple choice between Conservative and Labor candidates. But just over 100 constituencies, Liberal party candidates complicate the choice. There also are 17 Communist candidates and a sprinkling of regional party and independent nominees.

The Conservatives are fighting under the leadership of Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden, whose background and enthusiasm pivot on foreign policy. But foreign policy has not become a major issue in the election. For one thing, the major parties are presenting almost identical platforms in this field. And party managers are convinced by experience that it is domestic issues which swing votes at election time.

DISTINCTIVE NOTE

In only one blank of their platform does Labor strike a distinctive note on world affairs. That is a pledge agreement to halt tests of hydrogen bombs. The Conservatives' line is that there is some prospect of world disarmament, and that a deal between Americans and Russians to cease H-bomb tests.

On Formosa, the rival programs show a difference—though it may be more apparent than real. Labor outlines a policy which goes beyond the proposal for the Chinese Nationalists to quit the offshore islands—a proposal which is common ground with the Conservatives.

The Labor addition is: Immediate admission of the Chinese Communist government to the United Nations and neutralization of Formosa under the United Nations to allow the inhabitants to decide their own future.

It is thought the Conservatives would not go quite this far in Asia and may themselves advocate such policy as events unfold in the Far East.

A quick glance at the rival platforms might suggest that on domestic affairs, too, most of the differences are matters of degree. The "welfare state" is no longer in dispute But in economic policy there is room for dialogue.

TRUST ECONOMY

The Conservatives put their trust in an expanding economy. They believe in fewer government controls, and point to the tax concessions in the recent budgets as an indication of the way they will shape economic affairs.

Labor pins its faith to enlarging the public-owned sector of the economy. It would restore to public ownership the steel and road transport industries denationalized. Conservatives have returned to private hands, but Labor would retain also the chemical and machine tool industries into public ownership.

U.S. Money Will Build Radar Line at Cost of $250,000,000

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada will have to spend very much if it will have to do with manning the DEW (distant early warning) radar line in the Canadian Arctic.

Minister of External Affairs Minister Pearson has let the Commons know the United States will build and operate the line, an integral part of the North American defence system.

Mr. Pearson Friday tabled the text of an agreement between Canada and the U.S. for construction and operation of the line, estimated to cost $250,000,000. Work on it began this spring and likely will last two years.

The agreement says the extent of Canadian participation in initial operation and manning of the DEW system will be decided by Canada and the U.S. after full consultation with the U.S.

It authorizes the U.S. to station personnel at DEW sites and to operate the line according to arrangements made between the two countries from time to time.

There now are an estimated 3,000 American service personnel in Canada, apart from those on U.S. bases. Under the agreement, some U.S. operation of DEW would mean hundreds more sent to the Canadian North.

The agreement reserves Canada the right, on reasonable notice, to take over DEW. The over-all manning policy and numbers employed of military and civilian personnel is to be agreed upon by the two governments.

"Unless otherwise provided by ton.

Canada, the costs of construction and operation of the DEW system shall be the responsibility of the United States with the exception of Canadian military personnel costs if Canada should man any of the stations."

To start with, at least, the agreement says, Canada will not be required to bear any costs during the time during which the line will be maintained. But it will be required by law to pay costs in the light of their mutual defence interests."

Ownership of all removable property brought into or bought in Canada for DEW, including "readily demountable structures," is to remain in the U.S.

The agreement also details construction conditions laid down by operation and manning of the DEW system will be decided by Canada and the U.S. after full consultation with the U.S.

Morning Sittings May Begin In Couple of Weeks

OTTAWA (CP) —Finance Minister Harris suggested Friday night that the Commons cut down lengthy debates and hinted that morning sittings may begin the week after next.

Mr. Harris, who oversees handling of government business in the chamber, made his comments before the House adjourned.

Members had just ended a general debate on labor matters lasting more than eight hours. It began Thursday on introduction of labor department estimates.

Mr. Harris suggested that debate be kept to a minimum so that necessary business would not have to be squeezed in at the end of the session.

He gave no indication Friday night of when he hopes the session will adjourn but he has said previously he hopes it will be before July 1.

He said it is hoped that six or seven House committees can finish their business next week "so that shortly afterwards it will be possible to meet in the morning." Committees usually meet in the mornings.]

Russian Planes Will Take Part In Air Show

TORONTO (CP)—Russian planes will take part in the Canadian International Air Show next year, it was announced Friday.

The Soviet ambassador to Canada, Dmitri Stepanovich Chuvakin, made the announcement and said an invitation by the air show executive came too late for Russian aircraft to enter this year's exhibition. The show is scheduled for July 16.

There has been no word on the number or types of aircraft to be sent from Canada, Mr. Chuvakin's only hint was that they would be counterparts of your own modern equipment."

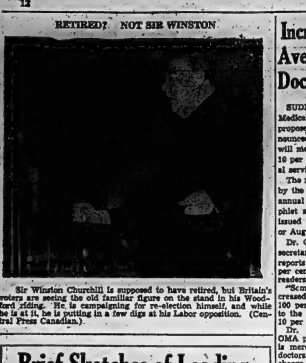
The invitation had the approval of the external affairs department. Arrangements have been made for the aircraft to fly here from Moscow in the next few weeks to see both the Canadian International Air Show and the 1954 air show. The air show is sponsored by the trade fair.

checking the rise in the cost of living is "by reimposing price controls on those products where necessary." Foreseeing possible opposition, he has been promptly branded as "a deliberate Conservative lie" a charge that the Labor leader denies or rationalizing.

With the major parties so finely balanced in public opinion, each are making special efforts to win over the Liberal vote in all the constituencies. Liberals in each candidate is running.

In a change of 1,000,000 votes, it would spread over the country, would unseat many Conservative governments. In fact, the Conservatives replaced Labor in 1951 with a majority of only 26 on 320,000 votes.

Though constituencies are roughly of equal size, Labor needs substantially more votes than its opponents to win a majority of seats. This is because so many Labor votes are "locked up" in strongholds—mining and industrial areas.



Conservative strength is more evenly spread over the country and the system of simple majority in single-member constituencies therefore, means that more Labor votes than Conservative votes are "wasted."

Public opinion polls gave the Conservatives a substantial lead at the outset of the campaign. But the party's prospects rose sharply and a month before voting began the pollsters reported the major parties running neck and neck.

A week later the Conservatives had forged ahead but, undismayed by the setback, Labor observers forecast a late swing toward Labor which, they say, has been a feature of other post-war elections.

MADE LEGION HEAD

ST. AGATHE, Que. (CP)—Brigadier G. A. H. Trudeau of Quebec City Friday night was elected president of the Quebec command of the Canadian Legion. The 63-year-old soldier once held a staff position in Belleville.

Sir Winston Churchill is supposed to have retired, but British voters are seeing the odd familiar figure on the stand in his Woodford riding. He is campaigning for re-election himself, and while he is at it, he is putting in a few digs at his Labor opposition. (Central Press Canadian.)

Brief Sketches of Leading Personalities in Election

LONDON (Reuters)—Here are brief sketches of the leading personalities in the British election campaign:

Sir Anthony Eden at 57 brought to the post of Prime Minister an unrivalled knowledge of international affairs. In politics 32 years, he became the British Empire's youngest foreign secretary in nearly a century when he resigned in 1938 as a protest against Neville Chamberlain's appeasement policy but bounded back to power in 1940 when Winston Churchill took over the war leadership. Eden is the first prime minister to have been through the dreary wastes of the present wife is a niece of Churchill, whom he succeeded as prime minister April 6.

Clement Attlee, Labor prime minister from 1945 to 1951, led a social revolution in Britain without once raising his voice. His gift is a ability to concentrate fully on one thing at a time: He can go straight from a battle in Parliament to jigsaw puzzles with his family. Party leader since 1935, this must be Attlee's last bid to return to power. He is 72. Attlee's inconspicuous exterior hides a tough will, moral courage and a genius for getting his way by what looks like compromise until it is closely examined.

Clement Davies, Liberal leader, played an important past in bringing about the downfall of the Chamberlain government in 1940. Succeeding Sir Archibald Sinclair, as party leader he has held on to a middle course, avoiding alliance with either the Socialists or the Conservatives. Welshman of modest origin, Davies made a brilliant legal career. Now 71, he has represented Montgomeryshire, Wales, since 1929.

Sir Winston Churchill has retired from office at 80 but still is a sturdy fighter in the election campaign. He is contesting Woodford, Essex, a pleasant, middle-class outer London suburb. In the new Commons he will be at once the oldest member and the greatest orator. Sir Winston resigned: "We all know that he will still be the dominating force and voice."

Herbert Morrison, 67, deputy Labor leader, is the chief strategist and one of the most forceful figures in the party. Combining a short and stocky Londoner, a policeman's build and manner, with a pugnacious quiff of grey hair and surveys the world with assurance through rimless glasses, he has his loss of one eye. He has been in the House since 1923 and was home secretary in the war cabinet and foreign secretary in the post-war Labor government.

Richard Austen Butler, 53, now is second to Sir Anthony Eden in the Conservative hierarchy. As chancellor of the exchequer, he was responsible for the last major piece of government legislation in the outgoing parliament, the budget of April 19 which cut income tax to its lowest figure in 15 years. "Rab" Butler is the uncrowned leader of the younger and more liberal school of Conservatives. Many believe he will be prime minister some day.

Aneurin Bevan, son of a Welsh coal miner, is the trenchant, rebellious leader of the Labor party's left wing. He is at his best when facing a big audience. He can work himself up to a spate of fluent, emotional oratory which almost hypnotizes the crowd. Without an audience he is lost. Behind outward boldness and strength, he is shy and sensitive. Friends have known him often close to tears when things have gone wrong.

Harold Macmillan, 61, six feet tall with the walrus moustache of a Guards officer, has been called "the most handsome man in the House of Commons." Behind his urbane appearance he is a hard bargainer and a shrewd politician. Director of the Macmillan publishing firm since 1920, he sold the American end of the business four years ago for £1,000,000. He became foreign secretary when Sir Anthony Eden succeeded to the premiership.

Hugh Gaitskell, 49, within 10 years may well be Labor leader and even prime minister,—the immediate chiefs, Attlee and Morrison, are building him up as their successor. He has been the leadership out of Bevan's hands, establishing a brilliant economical and clever politician, he is a moderate. Bevan branded him "a dedicated calculating machine." In the last Labor government, Gaitskell was chancellor of the exchequer.

Sir David Eccles, Conservative minister of education, is the son of a Presbyterian surgeon and is married to a daughter of the late Lord Derwent, a Peer. In politics only since 1943, he caught the eye of Sir Winston Churchill and as minister of works staged Queen Elizabeth's Coronation. Sir David was once voted Britain's best-dressed politician by Tailor and Cutter magazine. He is 50.

Hugh Dalton, 67, wields considerable influence in the Labor movement. But he often expresses himself indiscreetly and has criticized his party's support of German rearmament. His career suffered a setback in 1947 when, within hours of announcing an austerity budget, he resigned as chancellor of the exchequer after confessing to the House he had inadvertently told a newspaper reporter some of his budget secrets.

Brig. Antony Head, secretary for war, gained stature last summer by quickly winding up protracted negotiations on the Anglo-Egyptian Suez canal agreement. Tall, slim and good-looking, Head at 49 is a comparatively young minister and the Conservative party's upper ranks. He may well be given a higher post if the government wins the election.

Sir Hartley Shawcross, attorney-general in the last Labor government, was British prosecutor at the Nuremberg war crimes trials. He has a good voice and presence as well as a remarkable capacity for clear, logical arguments. Now 53, he has been a member of the Labor party since he was 16.

Selwyn Lloyd, a protege of Eden, became minister of defence when Sir Anthony moved to prime minister. As British delegate at the United Nations, he engaged in frequent verbal exchanges with the late Andrei Vishinsky, Soviet representative. His ability as an administrator and debater at international conferences are highly regarded.

UNITED CHURCH W.M.S.

WEST HUNTINGDON — The May meeting of the W.M.S. of the United Church was held on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank Hammond. Mrs. Arthur Packman was the guest speaker and she brought a most impressive message. Others assisting on the program were: Miss Sarah Wilson offering prayer and Mrs. Dan Cooke, reading the Scripture lesson. Mrs. Russell Stapley, of Stirling, was present and contributed a solo. Mrs. Andy McCurdy was appointed secretary. Mrs. Frank Hammond had charge of the study book and was assisted by Mrs. Elmer Post, Mrs. Mac Series and Mrs. George Ashley. Mrs. A.W. McCrae conducted the Beatitude on "Meekness."

Mr. and Mrs. Murney Reynolds of Foxboro, were Sunday evening guests of Sarah and Arthur Wilson.

Mr. Harry Campion and daughter, Mrs. L. Lawrence, of Marmora, were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Goldie McIlroy.

Mrs. W. Seeley of Ivanhoe, was a week-end guest of Miss Sarah Wilson.

Mrs. Clifford Green and Shirley of Westwood, spent Tuesday evening with Mrs. Melville Donnan.

Increase in Fees Averages 10 PC Doctors Claim

SUDBURY. (CP)—The Ontario Medical Association said today proposed increases in fees announced Wednesday probably will mean an average increase of 10 per cent in the cost of medical services to the public.

The new schedule was approved by the council of the OMA at its annual meeting here and a pamphlet setting them out will be issued to the profession in July or August.

Dr. Glen Sawyer, association secretary, said today some press reports of increases of up to 50 per cent might be misleading readers.

"Some of the rates were increased 50 per cent, a few even 100 per cent, but the overall cost will be about 10 per cent," he said.

Dr. R. M. Mitchell, retiring OMA president, said the schedule is merely a recommendation to doctors. Individual doctors may charge more or less. The OMA fees are simply for their guidance.

"The new rates, with old rates in brackets, are:

Office calls, Complete medical examination, $7.50 ($5); incomplete examination, $3 ($5); subsequent visits, $2 ($3 or $5).

House calls: Day $5 ($4); between 8 p.m. and 11 p.m., $6 ($5 per hour up); between 11 p.m. and 8 a.m., $7 ($6 and up); emergency house calls, $10 ($8).

Hospital calls, initial, $5 ($3 and up), unless the patient had been seen in the surgeon's office, in which case $4 (new); subsequent visits, $3 ($3); after 30 days, $3 (new).

(The Canadian Press reported earlier that doctors in Ontario's two office visits were increased to $5 and $3 and that the consultation call was to be reduced to $2 from $3).

Separate fees for surgical assistants are included in the new rates, it said. Major surgical fees are up to $50; $20 when $51 to $100; $25 when $101 to $150; $30 when $151 to $200, and $35 when more than $200.

Fees for pediatric care in hospital are specified for the first time. For routine care up to 10 days after birth including a complete physical examination and subsequent visits there, a fee may be charged in addition to the recommended maternity fee of $50 when care of the baby is turned over to a pediatrician after birth.

General surgical fees, including the small surgical items are not increased, except for tonsillectomy. The cost of removing a child's tonsils and adenoids has been raised to $30 from $25 and for adults $45 from $30.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma stuck her head in the living room to warn me and pop to be ready when Jonny got here. Everything will be on the table promply in exactly 20 minutes, and if anything but the slightest excuse for not being Jonny on the spot the comperatively young man that ever heard of in story silence as far as I am concerned.

And pop went back to the kitchin, and I said, Oh boy, pop, she sure means it! If I ever get around the corner somewheres just when she is calling and you were taking a sudin shower then—

She would be more than mad, pop said, and I said, What would she be?

I dont believe any dictionery has a strong enough binding to hold the werd, pop said, and I said, Then G, pop, it's just give her a pild pleasant surprize. When she calls us, you call back that you've gota couple of letters to write, and I'll call back that I have to shine my shoes and fix up my stamp album. Oh boy, imagine her relief when she finds out it was only a joke, I said.

There is a strong likelihood, I might even say a danger, that the relief would not equal the violence of the shock, pop said, and I said, Gosh, do you meen she might get even more nervus?

Exactly, pop said, and I said, Jimminies, I think I'll change the idea. Let's surprize her by sneeking into the dining room and sitting down even before she calls us, I said.

Which we did, and ma came out of the kitchin and saw us, saying, Well, the age of miracles is back, and that there is a little conversation and thoughtfulness in this family.

Being the happy end, and me and pop shook hands across the table to congradulate each other.

A defending bidder is an opponent of the side that has opened the bidding. An overcall is a defending bid. So, when we speak of an overcall it means a bid by a defender.

There are simple overcallers and jump overcallers. Simple does not refer to the kind of player he is, you understand. It means only that he has made a defending bid without a jump.

Suppose south opens the bidding with one diamond and west bids one heart. No one spads or one no-trump or two clubs. West is a simple overcaller. He has made a defending bid without a jump.

Some players have been known to simple overcall a skiffill any old for which you contract. Reasins also that this is so whether they had a trustworthy partner the window is the wall.

The number of your first considerations is to see if your hand can take tricks enough for such a bid. Then, to trick enough with the help you have a right to expect from your partner.

South opens with a spade when you have this west hand:

♠K 8 4 2
♥ 8 5 4
♦ 8 5 4
♣A Q J 2

Would you simple overcall with two clubs? If you don't know you are not alone. It will tell you if you do know, there are other things you could learn about it. Even from me.

Drapeau Suggests Montreal Be Made Free Port

MONTREAL (CP)—Mayor Jean Drapeau Friday suggested that Montreal be made a free port to offset a possible loss of its shipping will by-pass the city following the completion of the St. Lawrence seaway.

"A free port would mean we could be one of the great ports on the waterfront," said the mayor in an interview. Cargo would be unloaded, left in bond and later reloaded, ensuring a large measure of employment, which the city might well lose if shipping were to by-pass and proceed to Toronto or even further."

Mayor Drapeau said the idea of Montreal as a free port had met with approval of all parties in the past, when the seaway was only a dream.

Statistics On Unemployment Released Tuesday

OTTAWA (CP)—The government was accused Friday of delaying publication of April figures on unemployment because they are undoubtedly an embarrassment.

George Hees (PC — Toronto Broadview) made the statement in the Commons and then suggested what the April total may be: Something around 325,000."

Mr. Hees, speaking in the second day of discussion on the department estimates said unemployment statistics normally are issued the 19th or 20th of each month. The government undoubtedly had the information for April, not yet released.

A similar statement was made Thursday by Mrs. Ellen Fairclough (PC—Hamilton West). Labor Minister Gregg said then that the pending release of unemployment figures had nothing to do with the timing of his estimates.

(A labor department official said April statistics are due to be released next Tuesday.)

Life of Vagabond Lover May Soon Be Put on Celluloid

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Rudy Vallee may be the next show biz great to be immortalized in celluloid.

But the longtime vagabond lover won't be playing himself, and for a very good reason—money.

Vallee is back in his Hollywood haunts briefly and he was greeting old pals at the Brown Derby. Between bites of a healthful salad, he told about his film biography.

"Yes, we have been having discussions about it," he said, "MGM and 20th Century-Fox are interested and that pleases me, because both would go all-out for it.

"Of course, my wife wants me to play the role. That isn't as ridiculous as it seems. I recently made 'Gentlemen Marry Brunettes' in Europe and I played myself as I am now and also at 25 years of age. Quite convincing, too."

"But I would prefer an actor who was a big name at the box office, says a Tony Curtis. Since I would be sharing in the profits, I would rather have a star who would bring more millions in."

Vallee is here for his Sunday night CBS radio show, but he's soon hustling back to New York. He explained that the advertising agency prefers to have it originate from there.

"Aind, we find that there are so many more celebrities to interview back there," he added. "When they go to New York, they expect to be available for such things; here they're hard to get."

He hasn't been happy with his TV appearances, however.

"Whenever I go on a show like Ed Sullivan's or Milton Berle's, they say, 'Let's put a striped jacket on him, give him a megaphone and have him sing 'Boola Boola' and 'Vagabond Lover,'" he complained. "Each time they think in terms of a stereotype.

"I would like to exploit other sides of my character. One of the biggest thrills I get is playing 'Jenny Kissed Me' in summer theatres. I portray a cantankerous old Irish priest, brogue and all. Audiences are amazed."

But then, Vallee is a pretty amazing fellow. Nearing 54, he manages to look almost as youthful as when he was thrilling girls of the '20s with his nasal baritone. His curly locks are greying, but he still has a smooth skin and trim figure.

'The ROYAL AFRICAN RIFLES'

A shipment of machine guns intended for a British regiment holding British East Africa is stolen in August 1914, and Louis Hayward, an English lieutenant, is ordered to effect its return. Posing as a hunter, Hayward learns the weapons had been taken by Michael Pate, a renegade trader, whose daughter, Veronica Hurst, does not know that her father has made a deal to sell the guns to the Germans. Several suspects are eventually cleared of suspicion, and Roy Glenn, a corporal in the Royal African Rifles, kills Barry Bernard, a traitorous Englishman who is an associate of Pate's. Veronica warns Hayward and his regiment that Pate, with a large safari, is attempting to get the machine guns into a native village. The village is attacked, Pate killed and the rifles recovered.

"MAN WITH A MILLION"

Two wealthy London brothers draw a note for a million pounds from their bank. It is to be used for settling a bet. One says it would be useless to any poor but honest man, the other that by merely possessing it and never cashing it a man could live like a lord. For their experiment they choose Henry Adams, a young American penniless in London. He outfits himself with new clothing, offers the note in payment, and credit is forced on him. The same thing happens in expensive restaurants and hotels. Newspapers report there is an American millionaire in town, and Henry enters society. He falls in love, but worries about being an imposter. Then the note is mislaid and creditors call him. It is found and all ends well.

Giants Eat Into Dodgers' Lead By Beating Bucs As Robin Whips Bums

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

THOSE JUNIORS!

Keeping Al Kelleher away from baseball is something akin to separating the salt from the pepper. It is even easier.

The big, likable "lug", who eats, drinks, dreams, talks and thinks baseball twelve months of the year has been appointed coach of the Paul Haggis junior baseball club. And we don't know a guy in this village more capable of handling the job.

Al has been the butt of many baseball jokes, some of them not too kind. But summing up the situation, you tell us who takes the game more seriously. He, despite the fact he may come up with some "grandstand stuff" as some ignorant critics have stated in the past, was one of the stars of Jack Carson's Belleville Batas, OBA senior co-champions in 1954.

Al is the idol of the baseball kids in this neck-of-the-woods. The son and heir of this column's family is but one of the many moppets who have benefited by Al's knowledge. He loves kids. He loves baseball. And he welds the two into a pastime that is close to his heart.

The early morning salutation that greeted us last summer following a senior game here was "Hey, Dad, who won? Did Al hit a home-run?"

Al may not be a Lou Durocher or a Walter Alston. But he puts his whole heart and soul into the business of baseball. He can be tough, too, because he knows what he wants, and if it is there he will get it. Paul Haggis made a wise choice in naming Kelleher as his coach. And if the potential is there, Kelleher will bring it out. We wish him the best of luck.

The departmental baseball "private eye", our faithful Garry Alexander, has scouted the Haggis-Kelleher crew and here is what he says:

The local juniors are entered in the Belleville and District baseball league and, contrary to one "wise-cracker", who claimed that all Big Al's coaching is "augmented effort, because "you only need a kick team to play in that kick league," this year's league will give the local fans an evenly matched, hard-fought schedule right down to the last game.

Four teams are entered, the Belleville Juniors, Marmora, Wellington and Picton, and all are expected to bolster their clubs with several of last year's Belleville Bataa. This will definitely bring a much better brand of ball all around the circuit

Getting back to the city club, coach Kelleher makes it clear that all the positions are wide open and that any player of junior age is welcome to earn himself a spot. Paul Haggis has left the running of the team completely in Al's hands and states that he will not interfere in any way with the coach's decisions on who makes the club. "But," adds Haggis, "there will be no imports or paid players, strictly local kids who want to play baseball for the fun of playing."

The club has been practicing since early this week, with Kelleher handling the boys along in his own style. His easy-going, ever-watchful. He corrects the mistakes as soon as they are made, showing them how it should be done as only an experienced ball player can do. He employs a batting . . . and anyone with an upward swing spends, time "leveling-off." Plenty of running, cut-off plays, corrections in batting stances and numerous other baseball lore are quickly becoming a nightly ritual as some 15 or 20 hopefuls.

As one lad put it on Thursday night, "Al has taught me how to field grounders properly and made me keep my foot out of the bucket, giving me plenty of power for the long ball and letting me reach outside pitches."

At present no one has assured himself of a starting position as at least two players have been working out at each spot. Several boys have been out only once, but new faces appear at every practice and the Haggis Juniors should have a well advanced team before their first league game in Picton on Wednesday, May 1st. They will practice tomorrow and Monday at 1.30 p.m. and every night next week. Their first home game will follow closely behind the Picton battle with Wellington providing the opposition.

As is the case on most ball clubs (unless you have a Turley or Score hidden in the locker), the juniors could use another pitcher or two. Leo "Wiener" Si. Denis, who showed plenty while hurling in the bantam and midget leagues, including a couple of no-hitters, could be the club's right-hand ace. Leo throws a mean fast ball and has control to go with it, so should go well after a little experience, against other leagues. A southpaw from Melrose, Stan Reid, has been out a couple of times and according to the coach, has good possibilities. Harvey Stoliker, who threw for the Reid's Regents last year, will pitch and play the outfield, while Norm Stoliker, Harv's brother, will also be out. Both these boys have plenty on the ball and might well form a good brother pitching combination.

This department asked Kelleher whether or not he would play against the league schedule and he quickly replied: "No unless I have to," and went on to explain that he wants to build his team into a close-working unit that will only have to be pepped on their playing ability to win in the OBA league playdowns this fall. "I want to give all the boys a chance to play as much as possible, but if we're shorthanded anytime I'll cover

John "Shaker" Baker has handled the catching so far and looks good, along with Charlie "Stretch" Kingston at the initial sack. Charlie is an excellent glove man and hits the hard line drive, and along with Baker has plenty of baseball "knowhow." Jim MacDonaldand' Bob Brooks are battling for the second base slot with Brooks also working out in the outfield. Good St. Louis uses a rifle-arm from shortstop, while heavy-hitting Wayne Fox is covering the hot corner. Harv Stoliker is also giving third base a try and Doug Murray is working at first base.

A number of outfielders have been out, including Ted Batchelor, John Casey, Dave Kelly, Bernie Mascaro and Cam McKenna along with Brooks and Stoliker.

Give them another week and a few more boys out and the rest of the clubs will know they have been in a ball game.

Pinch Homer Does the Trick Grand Slammer Wrecks Cards; Tigers Slash Indians' Lead

By The Associated Press

It's been more than a decade since any manager of the Chicago Cubs could put a call to the bullpen with confidence. But Hal Jeffcoat, headed for the minors as a washed-up outfielder a year ago, almost has skipper Stan Hack relasing in a rocking chair these days.

Not since Charley Root was handy have the Cubs had them-selves a fireman who plays the part as well as Jeffcoat. And Root left in 1941.

The 30-year-old Jeffcoat got his chance when Hack took over last year. Until then, Hal had been just a good-field, no-hit fly chaser with the Cubs for six years. He used his strong right arm as a pitcher only in batting practice.

It's barely a year now since Jeffcoat won his first major league decision but Hack has waved him in 11 times so far this season and in 22 1-3 innings Hal has hung up a 5-0 record.

BEAT THE BRAVES

He claimed No. 5 Friday night at Milwaukee as the surprising Cubs beat Braves 4-2 on Bob Speake's first inning home run that kept Bruins in the National League pennant battle, 3½ points and 6½ games behind Brooklyn.

The Giants ate into Dodgers' lead by beating Pittsburgh 6-3 on Bill Taylor's pinch homer while Philadelphia had Robin Roberts tagged the Brooks with a fourth straight defeat 5-3. Cincinnati snapped a five-game St. Louis winning streak 10-7, with Smokey Burgess' grand slammer helping the Redlegs.

In the American, Detroit peppered Cleveland 11-4 as New York Yankees cut Indians' lead to a half game by defeating Baltimore 7-4. Kansas City's Art Ditmar stymied White Sox 1-0 with a two-hitter. Washington defeated Boston 3-1.

At Milwaukee, Jeffcoat relieved Bob Rush in the seventh and held the Braves with one hit through the last 3 1-3 innings. It was Jeffcoat's second relief success in three days.

ONE DODGER HOMER

Brooklyn outhit the Phillies, who had lost 5 of 6 games, previous 16 starts, but couldn't do much else against Roberts, who owns five-of Philadelphia's 10 victories. Roy Campanella's bases-empty homer in the second was the only big blow off the righthander while the Phils made the most of Dodger errors and wildness to beat Billy Loes.

The Giants tied the Pirates at 3-3 in the seventh and then Taylor delivered the crusher with two out after Max Surkont had walked two in the ninth. It was the fourth pinch-homer of the season for the Giants.

Cincinnati routed the Cards with six runs in the eighth, building on Burgess' second home run of the game. St. Louis had come from behind for a 5-4 lead as Rip Repulski snapped a 0-for-21 slump with a single and a two-run homer.

At Detroit, the Tigers sent Bob Lemon to his third defeat before the third inning was over and split open a tight game with a five-run seventh inning with 30,004 fans sitting in. Fred Hatfield drove in three Tiger runs as Al Aber won it in relief.

TURLEY WALKS NINE

Yanks beat the Orioles despite Bob Turley's wildness. The strikeout outfly fanned only three while walking nine in five innings. Jim Konstanty and Tom Morgan protected the lead the rest of the way as Turley became the first to win seven this season.

Ditmar, only 1-4 in his first major league start last season, had the White Sox in check all the way at Chicago. And it was only a first inning run on singles by Enos Slaughter and Vic Power and a sacrifice fly that let Kansas City tag Sandy Consuegra with his first defeat.

Bob Porterfield and Johnny Schmitz held Boston to six hits for Washington's first win of the season. The Washington righthander, always a hard luck guy, left with a stiff arm after five innings after being struck by a line drive in the second.

Royals Whip Toronto Leafs; Increase Lead

By The Associated Press

The Montreal Royals, who have been playing an Alphonse and Gaston act with the Toronto Maple Leafs for the International League lead, apparently have decided it's time to end the show.

Making their first appearance of the season in Toronto Friday night, the Royals whipped the Leafs 6-2 to increase their lead to 1½ games. They also picked up ground on third-place Rochester as the Red Wings dropped a 6-3 decision to the Buffalo Bisons.

Southpaw Ken Lehman, in posting his fifth victory in seven games ,held the Leafs to seven hits and two walks, while striking out four men.

DAMAGING TRIPLE

The only damaging blow given up by him was a fifth-inning triple by Hector Rodriguez which followed a one-out single. Rodriguez scored from third on an error for Toronto's Jim Pisoni.

Centrefielder Gino Simoli was the big gun for Royals with an inside-the-park homer which was good for two runs in the third inning and a double.

Rookie catcher Walt Streuli of Buffalo singled home the insurance run off reliefer Mel Wright in the eighth. The Bisons crashed 13 hits, including four by Jim Pisoni, off ex-Royal rookie Frank Demetter.

Loser was Jack Kubota, who was charged for 11 of the Herd hits. The win evened Schultz's record at 2-2. It also was Rochester's third in a row.

The other teams had an open date.

'Blimey Mates, 'E's a Monkey' A Jungle Man, Say British

PRESTWICK, Scotland (AP)—A top British boxing official said Friday Rocky Marciano's ring tactics against Don Cockell were a "throwback to the jungle," and added:

"Marciano would be a very ordinary champion if he had to fight strictly in accordance with the rules."

Teddy Waltham, secretary of the British boxing board of control, made the statement after returning from San Francisco where he saw Marciano stop the British heavyweight in the ninth round.

Waltham also said Jack Solomons, who was referee of the fight, was a green and inadequate official.

2. British boxing officials plan a strong protest against the handling of the fight.

3. A meeting of U. S. and British boxing officials may be held in Europe later this year to discuss a standard international code.

BOX-OFFICE APPEAL

"I am not prepared to say that this is an indication of boxing throughout America," Waltham said. "But if what we saw during this fight is the case then you might as well throw the rule book out the window."

"There is no need for a referee at all. It was a throwback to the jungle. Unfortunately, it seems that this style of boxing means box-office appeal."

Waltham said he might establish a case for the commissioners of boxing throughout the world to get together and set up international rules. He said Julius Helfand, chairman of the New oYrk athletic commission, and J. Onslow Fane, president of the British boxing board, may hold a meeting this year.

Whipper Wins, Russky Tied Loses When Disqualified

By GEO. E. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

The Whipper "winned" it. The dashing debonair son of East York met only once Ivansky Kalmikoff say "uncle" but forced his big "brudder" to utter the same prayer.

Yup, it was a "dangover" as pal Perkove is wont to write. The "Whip" with utter disregard for the Kalmikoff Kid's "parentage" tossed not only one of the sons of the steppes downstairs but used his "brudder" as a chaser.

But they had to be good. For the mighty pair, those midgets almost stole the thunder and glory from the well-tailored locks of the Whipper et al.

But the British Empah champion came up with the goods that has earned him his laurels. The crowd had topped 3,000 was solidly behind their favorite and when the Whip tied Karol's arms neatly in a pretzel knot at the second fall, the guys and gals were almost hysterics.

BIT OF ALLRIGHT!

That was a bit of allright as Arry of "Ampstead Heath" would say, but when the stalwart of East York had to crush the boverichies of the frozen steppes two at a time, it was a bit of all right.

For that is what actually happened. The Whip had tied Karol, or was it Ivan, who cares, into a tight little knot after leaving him with a half Nelson pretzled a little good in the second fall, when Karol (or Ivan) brought his head into the ring with blood in his eye. A second later he had it in his mauler.

The Whip, we have to be fair about the thing, had been disabbetted by one "Bunny" Dunlop, one of the graduates of Frank Tunney's Safety School of Referees (a rose by any other name would smell as sweet).

For the Dunlopian ire was aroused when Karol (or Ivan, who cares), whipped a Russian right to the Dunlop puss which was not long in the ring before it which it was supposed to be delivered.

As a matter of fact "Bunny's" puss kissed the canvas — and war was declared on the run.

Whatever chance the Ruskies had was obliterated by the fire disabetted by one "Bunny" after all, is not supposed to be punched in the puss by the second wrestler. He is paid by Mr. Tunney and has some sort of dignity to maintain.

He that as it may. What daught the crowd was the way the Whip Job done by Midget "Little Beaver." He wears a shaven poll and is the reincarnation facsimile of a full-grown "rassler" and caught the fancy of eyes with an outstanding demonstration. Gad, men, he had "Ole Fizzy Cupid" looking for Garden of Eden and with his British counterpart Lord Littlebrook, wrapped in a neat plait-sized job.

It was a barrel of fun. Take it or leave it, midget-size wrestlers can stage a show. They perch on the turn ropes like pigeons on a telephone wire and from there in, it is plain fast and furious action at its best and best. They can bring 'em back anytime for our money.

Then to turn matters, the Ruskies ganged up on the Whip, which as was said before, resulted in disqualification for the Whipper (Karol or Ivan, who cares.) Both are the Whipper's works. As matter of fact there were no while men around to help the Whip out of a jam. He didn't need it.

It was a good show all round.

And Mr. Tunney, let's have those midgets back, eh!

Boxing Brass Bans Managers

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Daly and Tex Pelle, former co-managers of a New Jersey boxer who charges he has been boycotted, were suspended Friday by the New York state athletic commission.

Julius Helfand, chairman of the commission, made the announcement at another day's hearing opened into charges by welterweight Harry Matthews of Passaic, N. J., that he hasn't been able to get a fight since he and Daly, Pelle is an associate of Daly, Helfand said the two managers had their licences suspended "for acts detrimental to boxing." He said the suspension would remain in effect until the commission has a chance to study a completed study of the case.

Daly is from Englewood, N. J., and is treasurer of the International Boxing Guild, an organization of managers. Pelle is from Paterson, N. J., and manages, among others, Carmen Basilio, Canadian heavyweight contender.

WAS ELMIRA MAYOR

KITCHENER (CP)—Dr. C. E. Gibson, 59, a dentist and mayor of Elmira for two terms, died in hospital here Friday night. He was a commissioned officer in the First World War.

Kuenn, Power Darlings Of League's Hitters

CHICAGO (AP)—How do some leadoff hitters such as Vic Power of the Kansas City Athletics or Harvey Kuenn of the Detroit Tigers manage to come up with such staggering batting averages?

Because pitchers "seem to think it is beneath their dignity to throw a breaking pitch to the first batter," said veteran Burleigh Grimes.

Power, currently hitting in the .500 area, got through sheer necessity—the As haven't got a man with enough bat strength to put in that job — is leading the American League with a fat .398 average. Kuenn, who was batting leadoff earlier this year he once soared to an astounding .455.

Kuenn, the Detroit darling, is clouting a merry .391.

Grimes, a 300 - game - flight major league hurler throughout his playing career and now pitching coach for the Tigers, remarked that Kuenn had never hit well out of the leadoff position.

"They tried him at two or three other places in the batting order and he didn't do well at all," Grimes said. "It looks like he's a leadoff hitter and nothing else."

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP) — Those oldtime baseball rivals, the Yankees and Dodgers, are feuding to the extent that they will not meet next month, as they have for years past, in the annual Mayor's Trophy game for charity.

The Giants, instead, will represent the National League.

Relations between the two clubs, which have grown increasingly strained since the Brooklyns apparently snapped this spring when the Brooklyns refused to accept they would televise 25 of their road games from a television, thus offering direct competition to Yankee home games.

The Yanks have grown steadily less fond of the Flatbush crowd because of Jackie Robinson's frequently acid comments upon the fact that, until this season, there were no Negro player on the Yankee roster. It was the feeling of the American Leaguers that the Dodgers could, if they wished, have curbed Jackie's tongue.

The Dodgers ought to have the Giants substituted for the Yankees as their opponents in the charity game, but bumped into a little known rule which forbids clubs in the same league to meet in exhibitions after the season opens. So now the Brooks are out.

SEE COCKELL LOSS

The International Boxing Club will avert a heavy financial loss on the Marciano-Cockell brawl at San Francisco only if there is a big crowd a bowling success. There is some hope that Rocky will go for the fifty flicks in a big way, to see for themselves the horrid things Marciano has been saying about the boxer to their clean-cut young champion.

One expert estimated the promoter's loss at $75,000, but officials say that is strictly a guess until the gate receipts are in.

The British fans, by the way, will be greatly disappointed if they pay their way in expecting to see Marciano armed with a hatchet. The promoter show clearly that Rocky only fought his usual rough, relentless fight, and not as a man might fight who is doing his best to protect something worth maybe $1,000,000.

Where still pictures apparently showed the champion striking a haymaker on Cockell's jaw after the Britton was down, the slow motion gives quite a different version. Cockell still was going down in the motion and took Rocky to clout him again. His knee just happened to reach the canvas as the blow was struck.

Horvath Enters Golf Tourney

HAMILTON (CP) — Rudy Horvath, a top professional Canadian golfer, will enter the Ontario professional amateur tournament here May 27.

Horvath, a Windsor insurance salesman, has toured the United States tournament circuit for the last four years. He will be teaming with Bill Hodgson of Hamilton Checkoe in the match.

6. Here's the way a Class A golfer looks on the tee. In his correct address position his legs are straight but not locked; his arms extend straight down instead of being bent and his head is slightly turned to the right so he can keep his head level and immovable through the back and downswings and still see his ball. Do not fall to turn your head slightly to the right in the address position. It is difficult to avoid moving your head as your hands are reaching the top. And if you move the head during the backswing, you are very apt to sway to the right in the downswing and to hit left in the downswing. Keep your head immovable because it is the top anchor of the axis of your swing. Your knees are never locked during any part of the swing. That produces rigidity and resulting lack of smoothness and accuracy. At impact, a good swing has returned to approximately, but not exactly, the address position. We'll talk about why another day.

Terriers Lose Three in Row

GALT (CP)—Galt Terriers lost their third straight game Friday night when St. Thomas Elgins, 1954 intermediate champions, downed the Galts 6-5 before a small crowd of 500.

Two errors early in the game helped the Elgins to a quick lead. A five-run rally by Elgins in the sixth on three hits and a pair of errors gave the Elgins a commanding lead over the visitors.

Veteran southpaw Al Gavey did a fine relief job yielding but two hits. George Uhaze went the route for Elgins.

While hits were even, the locals ran their extra base blows for more runs. Roger Breard, former Elgin, and Wray Upper were off the night's honors, each having one run homers over the right field fence. Breard got two and a single. For the Elgins Ollie Wall and Ray Urban were the only ones to get a brace, singles.

GIVEN 2 YEARS

TORONTO (CP)—Petro Balycki, 47, Friday was sentenced to three years in penitentiary on a charge of aggravated assault on his wife. The charge said Balycki attacked his wife. The charge had been reduced from one of attempted murder. Police said Balycki attacked his wife Feb. 15 with a wrench. Balycki said he took the action after she refused to wash his shirt.

INSIDE BASEBALL for Little Leaguers

By MICKEY McCONNELL
Major League Scout and Instructor

Young players are often confused about what constitutes a legal tag in putting out a base runner.

The official baseball rules state that a base runner may be tagged by any fielder if the ball is actually in the hand or glove of the fielder. However, the ball must be securely held by the fielder before and after the tag. Therefore, intelligent infielders like Alvin Dark try to have both hands on the ball, with the back of the glove facing the runner, in order to keep the ball from being knocked out of their hands by the impact of runners sliding into the base.

On close plays the tagger should place his hands between the runner and the oncoming runner, near enough so the runner can't slide under the tag, and let the runner tag himself out. The moment the ball touches the runner, it should be pulled away.

Simpson Says Cockell KO Was 'Rigged'

CHICAGO (AP)—British heavyweight Don Cockell's manager, John Simpson asserted Friday that champion Rocky Marciano's technical knockout over Cockell Monday night was "rigged."

At the same time he said Cockell would return to the United States for a Seattle bout in late July.

Cockell and his party stopped here en route from Los Angeles to New York from where he will sail for England Tuesday.

Before launching into a tirade against Marciano's "foul" style, Simpson said Cockell would fight at Seattle in collaboration with Jack Hurley, west coast veteran fight manager, against a foe to be determined.

Among three or four opponents under consideration, Simpson said, are former heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles and young Pat Mc-Murtry of Tacoma. Cockell will return to the United States in July.

THREE TIMES

Hurley's top fighter, Harry Matthews, fought Cockell three times. Both Hurley and Matthews are held in high regard by Cockell and Simpson.

"It was rigged, from the referee (Frankie Brown) right on up," snapped Simpson. "Even the attorney general of New York asked a direct question at a pre-fight meeting couldn't give us an answer."

Asked whom he believed did the "rigging" Simpson said:

"You know the bloody crowd as well as I do—Norris (Jim Norris, International Boxing Club president) and Wels (correct—reference to Al Weil, Marciano's manager.)"

Solmar Notes

Little Privacy for Wildlife

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solmar Tables)

The automobile and, more recently, the airplane have been instrumental in decided change in the outdoor picture since their introduction. And another invention, the outboard motor, had had its influence, too. This little gadget takes up where the other two leave off.

The combination allows all too little privacy for wildlife. Each country side is getting more difficult or, in some cases, impossible to reach some years ago, now are the last strongholds of wildlife. It is fairly safe to say that such things as virgin territory or unfished waters are things of the past.

For this very reason, The Everglades National Park project in Florida is, and has been for some time, of increasing interest to the naturalist and to the conservationists of our nation. This is one of the last strongholds of wildlife in its natural, undisturbed state.

The name, "Everglades," is actually a misnomer. Instead of being a place of perpetual shadows and gloomy swamps, the area is one huge, sunlit marsh, with here and there some small areas which do lie above high-water mark.

MOSTLY FLOODED

During the rainy season which lasts, as a rule, from late May to October, most of the Everglades is flooded. Not too much of the territory is general opinion, territory which is flooded by fresh water should not properly be considered as true Everglades country.

As you might imagine, the whole of the Everglades is literally crawling with wildlife of all varieties. The terrain, for the most part, is as flat as a billiard table. And as it floods itself during the rainy season and then dries out during the remaining six months of the year.

The variation in water content brings with it an accompanying variation in the kinds of the pool of its natural inhabitants. During the wet season the fish and aquatic reptiles set about to roam at will while the mammals are confined most of the time to restricted areas of concentration. During the dry season the exact reverse is true.

The Everglades National Park takes in 1,439,500 acres of land and water, in a long, irregular belt, roughly, the Tamiami Trail, thence extending south and west to take in the western coastal section of south Florida, wherein lie the famed 10,000 Islands, a lot of most of Florida Bay.

BIOLOGICAL INTEREST

Everglades National Park holds interest of a biological rather than a geological nature. One of my friends put it, "you can look farther and see more in the way of observation towers than any place he had ever been. However, if you like to observe wildlife in undisturbed natural surroundings, that is the place to go.

The ranger who guards the entrance gate tells you that there are three miles of paved road and 33 miles of gravel road ahead of you. Many of the roads in the park are the gravel road is in frightful condition, full of pot holes, slippery to the extreme when wet, and horribly dusty when dry. Points of interest are few and far between and the whole business is not a good place for the average tourist.

However, there are plans afoot for improvement. At the old township of Paradise, on Whitewater Bay, and the Everglades National Park Headquarters will be established. Here will be a new road, to be known as the Wilderness Road, which will run from Paradise to Flamingo, on Florida Bay. Also, a new road will be built from Paradise to Flamingo, on Florida Bay. Also, a new road will be built from Paradise to Flamingo, on Florida Bay. Also, a new road will be built from Paradise to Flamingo, on Florida Bay.

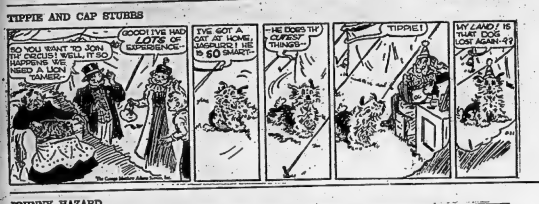
It is my sincere wish that this summer-resort plan will not be put into effect. It is the finest way imaginable to defeat the primary purpose of the park.

As matters now stand, we of this nation can see and enjoy all too few of our last frontiers. Gradually they are being opened up and commercialized. It is our hope that one will not be spoiled. A natural, prolific wildlife refuge is not to be found in the world. It rests to enjoy the pleasant facilities of a swimming pool and an adjoining cocktail bar.

Walls Signs For Title Match

TORONTO (CP) — Earl Walls, Canadian heavyweight boxing champion, signed a contract Friday night for a title match here sometime in June with an unnamed opponent.

Walls, whose last title defence was against Tommy J. Parker, has opened training camp in Niagara Falls, Ont.



Matchmaker Deacon Allen has four possible contenders in mind—Parker, Charlie Norkus, Johnny Arthur or Paul Andrews. June 14 has been named as a possible date for the match.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for

MONDAY, MAY 23, 1955

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Top influences for those of you who are businesslike, practical, not supersensitive or touchy. Trades, research, scientific improvements favored; also good aspects for assisting others in less favorable positions.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Get out your pencil and cut, cut, cut . . . everything that is a waste of time, energy or intelligence. But don't cut out these important "little things" . . . kindness to family and loved ones.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — You can have a goodly share of fresh advantages, perhaps unusual gains, if you will be concise (without being abrupt), heed fair-play, and maintain harmony.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Enjoy relaxing pastimes in free hours and you will be better fit for your work ahead. If you strain for too long a time at any one thing it causes "nerves" disputes, uneveness. But attend to duties at the proper time!

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — The grass is not necessarily "greener on the other side of the fence." Dig deeper to find your own opportunities.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Hurry less, worry less, smile more (Virgo's smile is warm and always appreciated) and be willing to let little discrepancies go by unnoticed; all will be easier.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — You may tend to work too hard and to play too hard during this planetary period. Be your sensible self and strive for a happy medium.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — The quality of your efforts and the soundness of your action are the factors which help you today. Planetary aspects are generally good.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — You can make fine headway now in worthwhile endeavors. Be analytical if you would avoid unnecessary mistakes.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Sift through problems to find those which should be handled first. Occasional quiet thinking can often unearth hidden points of vantage.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Hard work, shrewd action will pay dividends. Play the game straight, upright and fear no one.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Give special attention to matters close to your special sphere of activity. True friends will help to put you on the right course, bring you home a winner . . . plus, Heart, home interests especially favored.

You Born Today usually the most of benefic days, when people and situations are most favorable, but you may be too active at times. Be sensible about health and avoid rushing, overindulgence. You have many talents, but choose your occupation and associations wisely. These are great days for specialists and you can be an efficient one. Curb wasteful haste. Study best methods, then move discreetly. Keep your aims lofty. Bold to your religion; you can reach the heights.

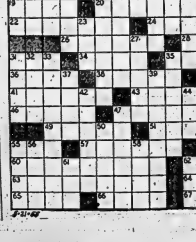
Charged With Rape



LONDON, Ont. (CP)—A door-to-door silverware salesman from Brantford was charged Thursday with rape after a young London woman told police she was brutally beaten and attacked in a car on a district sideroad.

John M. Smerciak, 28, was remanded in custody until May 27. The woman, 23, said she met Smerciak Tuesday when he made a sales call at her home. They made a date for that evening.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars, for

TUESDAY

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — To achieve now you must maintain an even disposition, regardless of what goes on around you. Emphasize humor and good will and be firm and you will be the big gainer.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus) — Maritime interests, travel, you who work with the public and children's groups should advance appreciably. Place more personal desires after, rather than before, more urgent matters.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini) — Do not expect or try to extract more profit or credits than honorably deserved. Push forward in a gracious manner, be calm when others are irritable. Pray for God's guidance, always.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Your Moon's fairly favorable position encounters worthy tries, but; warns against smugness, overconfidence. Go along with a co-operative attitude (where reasonable). Enjoy the really good things.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Make every hour a steady and, where possible, a well planned one. Business, professional and other activities that have real meaning behind them are favored. Home, loved ones' interests need care.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — A benefic outlook for the keen student of human nature and for those of you who have faith. Take advantage of new openings. And, remember, gratefulness brings pleasure to others as well to one's self.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — The planet Venus radiates top vibrations most of your day. A stimulating outlook for a pleasant, constructive period.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Aiding charitable interests will bring new incentive, a blessing to your future activities. Avoid needless contention; steer clear of those who would make too many demands on you.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Confidential matters, things pertinent to business and finances will need exactitude in handling now. You sense right from wrong, have keen intuition; let these traits help you to the right road.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Not much planning or help in some activities now but you can advance, nevertheless. Seek facts, trust knowledge; reach only for worthwhile goals.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Prospects of good results through energetic, sound management. Some matters may require considerable study, a revised tempo perhaps. Look around before starting.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Though tricky, perhaps irritating in spots, the day is nevertheless stimulating and could be profitable to the wide-awake. You may have to make better use of intuition, sound analysis, judgment.

You Born Today are the stable type, though at times too persistent. You can be very interesting, genial; are self-reliant. You have firmness yet can be misled if not careful of associations. Be moderate in all indulgences, and use your mental talents, which you have in abundance, to the best ends always. You can go far in your chosen field, and enjoy an avocation, too. You may like athletics, building, business planning; are kind to youngsters and animals. Don't wrap up your work without reviewing for errors. Future months can be productive, pleasant. Have Faith. Birthdate: Claude Joseph Rouget de l'Isle, author of "La Marseillaise"; Jas. (Viscount) Bryce, British statesman, historian.

PICTON

County Horticultural Society Formed, Phil Dodds Is President

PICTON — Prince Edward County Horticultural Society got off to a strong start, Thursday night, when seventy-two members in the new organization were received at a meeting held in Shire Hall. With many delicious of joining in the effort to improve conditions throughout the county, the membership is expected to double.

Each municipality will be represented on the directorate and will take the lead in heading up drives for local improvements. Help of Women's Institutes, Churches, schools, Guides and Scouts, town and county councils and other groups will be sought in an effort to make Prince Edward really worthy of its title, "The Garden County."

The society is a branch of Prince Edward Chamber, organized under the direction of Gordon Campbell, chairman of the Civic Improvement Committee, but will be self-operative.

Phil Dodds was elected president of the new society; Rev. E. Wrighton, Milford, first vice-president; Jack Cuicliffe, Picton, second vice-president. D. A. Taylor is acting secretary-treasurer.

Directors are: J. Cuicliffe, Leighton Lockyer, Picton; P. Dodds, Athol; H. D. Williams, Jack Stenning, Bloomfield; Harry Gerstine, Consecon; Rev. E. Wrighton, Mrs. J. Minblnick, South Marysburgh; Mrs. Ross Parliament, Mrs. Lloyd Reddick, Hallowell.

Associate directors are: G. Campbell, Picton; Hugh East, Wellington; Mrs. M. Jackson, Bloomfield; W. J. Ivey, North Marysburgh.

SOME PROJECTS PLANNED

While planning greater activity in the fall, the society plans to undertake some projects immediately. Suggested were steps to beautify the landing at Glenora ferry and removal of trees to permit a better view from the look-out at Lake-on-the-Mountain.

Enthusiastic members came forward with a great variety of ideas which can be carried out in all parts of the county.

Horticulture is the ornamental side of the basic industry, agriculture, said John Clarke, secretary of Ontario Horticultural Societies, who was present. He showed beautiful colored films to show how rural homes could be improved and beautified at small expense.

Such a society would not only carry out its own projects but would promote and encourage efforts by others, he said. The Prince Edward Society is the only one in Ontario organized on a county basis.

Mr. Clarke advocated a clean-up, paint-up campaign; a program of education for both adults and children. He suggested that flower shows might be held and the society should be in with the Agricultural Society in its flower exhibit.

A bird house competition for schools was suggested as a phase of conservation teaching.
